DEFEAT 'ENEMY!' SAYS F. D. R.

BRITISH SPEED 300,000 TROOPS TO AID GREEKS

100,000 There Now, Belgrade Says.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 15 (AP).—Great Britain, rapidly preparing to take the offensive against Germany's army in southeast Europe, is rushing 300,000 men to Greece and already has disembarked almost 100,000, it was learned tonight on excellent authority.

The British plan, a high military source said, is to prepare her forces as quickly as possible and then attack the Nazi Balkan army on Bulgarian soil if it remains behind that German occupied country's frontiers with Greece and Turkey. Reports from Sofia said the Germans, as tho preparing to strike a great blow themselves, were massing hundreds of bomber, fighter, and transport planes on Bulgarian airdromes.

The British troops already landed in Greece, the military source said, are part of a steadily growing force equipped with hundreds of tanks and flame throwers pouring into five ports on the Greek mainland.

Eyewitnesses described the British troops moving northward thru Greece as Canadians, New Zealanders, Australians, and Englishmen—many of them fresh from their homelands and some who are veterans of Britain's western front and North African campaigns.

Sail from Two Harbors.

Observers who said they saw the landings reported that most of the vast convoy of ships now plying back and forth in the Mediterranean bringing up additional thousands of reserves, sailed from the harbors of Haifa, Palestine, and Alexandria, Egypt. The landing of troops was said by a reliable diplomatic source not to have begun until most of the equipment—shiploads of tanks, trucks, antiair and antitank guns, and other artillery and mechanized equipment—had reached Greece. High axis sources said the first landings of combatant troops were made 48 hours ago.

The first story of the landing came from a neutral diplomat—upon his arrival here from Athens. There could be no question of error, he said, adding that he himself had seen British soldiers march down the gangplank of their troopship and go off singing to their billets.

Hotels Are Requisitioned.

Every hotel in southern Greece, he added, has been requisitioned for British officers, and British troops already have moved north into the Greek mainland as far as a line extending from Volos, on the Aegean, across to the island of Corfu—or a penetration roughly two-thirds up the Grecian peninsula from its southernmost tip.

German sources here said that affairs in the Balkans were "reaching a critical stage."

Military observers arriving in Belgrade from Sofia reported that in that city alone 100 to 200 German warplanes—some of them the biggest type of bombers—were tuned up and ready to go. At 24 other Nazi held airports in southern Bulgaria there were like preparations.

Jugo-Slav Attitude Stiffens.

Jugo-Slavia, whose territory would afford the best possible avenue for a German attack on Greece, still held out against the Nazi insistence that she become an outright partner of the axis—and thus a passive participant, at least, against Greece.

News of the British landing was followed by a perceptible stiffening of the Jugo-Slavian attitude. A government spokesman indicated that an effort would be made to stall off any final decision on the German demands "until the situation in Greece is clarified."

The Sunday edition of Vreme, the government's mouthpiece newspaper, emphasized that Jugo-Slavia stands firmly "on an unalterable basis of territorial integrity, independence and freedom."

The newspaper added that neutral Jugo-Slavia would not consider any relationship with any great power on any other basis. One influential faction of Serb official opinion was reported to be urging that Jugo-Slavia fight rather than allow the passage of Nazi troops. Trucks loaded with fully equipped troops roared thru the streets of Belgrade toward destinations not publicly known, and the railroad stations were full of conscripts going to active service.

75 WOMEN TELL OF BEATINGS BY 3 PURSE THIEVES

Identify Hoodlums at Special Showup.

Stories of brutality at the hands of three confessed purse snatchers were told by more than 75 women who identified the men at a showup in the Austin police station last night.

One woman, a great-grandmother, 72 years old, told how her arm was broken in three places when she resisted the bandits. Another woman, 65 years old and a grandmother, peered thru eyes almost swollen shut from blows on her face and identified one of the men as her assailant.

300 Women View Prisoners.

For nearly two hours 300 women, many of them accompanied by their husbands or sons and nearly all past middle age, crowded into the squad room of the station while six detectives circulated thru the crowd taking names and addresses of victims who recognized the robbers.

Forty of the victims signed complaints; others said they would do so if it were necessary to convict the hoodlums.

Thruout the period the three prisoners slouched on a bench, their sullen expressions changing occasionally into impudent grins as they admitted or denied some of the accusations. They already have confessed 150 purse snatchings and at least 15 burglaries.

Detective Bureau Showup Today.

The three are Russell Holbrook, 24 years old, 652 South State street, an ex-convict; Chester Bujnowski, 22, of 1706 North La Salle street, who confessed he escaped last November from the Bridewell where he was serving a term for stealing an automobile, and John Zinsmeister, 22, also of 1706 North La Salle street. Today they will be taken to the detective bureau to be placed in the showup there at 2 p. m.

The woman whose arm was broken three times 1 sMrs. Anna Nickrent of 3031 North Avers avenue. Unhesitatingly she pointed out Zinsmeister as the man who snatched her purse seven weeks ago yesterday and escaped in a car with two companions.

"I was walking home after visiting my daughter at 3852 Addison street," she said. "That man ran up behind me and knocked me down. My right arm was broken by the fall, but I clung to my purse. He dragged me 50 feet along the sidewalk before I let go."

Bears Marks of Beating.

Mrs. Anna Ayer, 65, of 630 North Lorel avenue, still bore the marks of the beating she said Zinsmeister gave her last Tuesday night when she resisted him. Both her eyes were blackened and swollen and her cheek bore long lacerations resulting from her fall to the pavement.

Holbrook and Bujnowski also were identified by scores of women. A fourth man, Joseph Stelmach, 28, of 811 South State street, an ex-felon, is being held for investigation on the basis of information supplied by Holbrook.

Hollywood, Cal., March 15 [Special].—The tantalizing maneuvers of a toy sailboat were blamed for the drowning today of Christopher Quinn, 2½ year old grandson of Cecil B. De Mille, screen and radio producer.

The child, son of Anthony Quinn and Katharine De Mille Quinn, screen actors, toppled into the waters of a lily pond on the estate of W. C. Fields, film comedian.

The boy often had exhibited a fondness for sailboats. Unnoticed by his nurse, he wandered from the De Mille home and down a small hill to the nearby Fields estate, where a toy boat bobbed on the pond waters.

Reconstructing the tragedy, attendants at the estate pictured the child spying the sailboat and hurrying to the pond's edge. In playing with the boat, it is believed, the boy pushed the boat away from the bank. Intent upon recovering the toy, the child was supposed to have fallen into the pool. The boat was found near the middle of the pond.

A fire department rescue squad worked over the boy's body for two hours before he was given up for dead.

Mother Bares Plot to Save 3 in Bomb Trial

Goshen, Ind., March -5 [Special].—An indignant mother told a Circuit court jury that an alleged dynamiter attempted to persuade her to sign an insanity complaint against her own son so the son could not testify for the state in the prosecution of three asserted labor terrorists.

The mother, Mrs. Iva Freeman of Jackson, Mich., not only refused to sign a complaint, but came to court as a witness against the alleged labor saboteurs.

Her son, Parrish Freeman, who pleaded guilty in the case and turned state's evidence, already has told the jury his story of the bombings and dynamitings. The mother said that her nephew, Earl Freeman, one of the three men on trial, was the one who asked her to call her son insane.

Echo of Union Struggle.

The three defendants are being tried on charges growing out of a series of dynamitings of steel towers and poles of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company two years ago. The campaign of terrorism against the company was said to have been waged in connection with efforts to unionize its 1,000 employés.

Mrs. Freeman said that Earl Freeman visited her twice in unsuccessful attempts to get her to have her son declared insane. Earl told her, she related, that if Parrish Freeman were removed as a witness, the state's case would collapse.

"Earl came to see me at Jackson last December," she told the jury yesterday. "He told me: 'I am just as guilty as Parrish, and something has to be done, because I can't take the rap.'"

Business Agent on Trial.

On trial with Earl Freeman are Frank Lung of South Bend, and John Marks, assistant business agent for the Michigan City local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers [A. F. of L.]. The three are charged specifically with the unlawful use of dynamite and malicious trespass in the bombing of a utility power line near Millersburg.

Marks is alleged to have engineered the bombings in the hope that the attacks would convince the utility that it would be advisable to drop its legal fight against a National Labor Relations board order.

Snappy.

Snappy has a good home with the Robert Y. Williams family in Highland Park, and he's merely trying to express his gratitude. But it's embarrassing.

Snappy, a mahogany colored cocker spaniel, is the private dog of David Williams, 10 years old. David scrimped on such necessities as ice cream and candy until he saved $5 to buy the dog. That was about nine months ago, when Snappy was 2 weeks old.

Extra! Read All About It!

The embarrassment started a month ago. Snappy began bringing home THE TRIBUNE, apparently without paying for it. Some days he would bring home two copies of the paper, and once it was a copy of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, which left Snappy panting but much pleased with himself.

The Williamses were upset, and not particularly grateful, either, because they already take THE TRIBUNE. Once, by mistake, Snappy brought home an afternoon paper, an error he didn't repeat.

His success as a canine newsboy gave the dog more ideas. He added rubbers, galoshes, blankets, boots, gloves, and other portable objects to his line, leaving them all unchewed on the Williams' front porch.

Some News for the Neighbors.

Last Thursday the Williamses, who live at 160 Hazel avenue, placed an advertisment in their local paper. It said their pup had been stealing various things in Hazel avenue, and that the loot could be viewed and claimed at the Williams' home.

About a dozen neighbors, some from three blocks away, came and retrieved their property.

Snappy, meanwhile, is doing business as usual. He brought home a Tribune yesterday, and maybe he's bringing home another right now!

Catastrophe.

William Grafer of 2426 Madison street summoned his friend and neighbor, Policeman George Dalacker of the Warren avenue district, yesterday and asked him to solve a mystery.

"There's something wrong with me or my car," he said. "Every time I start the engine it seems to say mee-yow."

"Start it now," said Dalacker. Grafer did.

Nope; It's Not Under the Hood.

They looked under the hood and couldn't find the trouble. Then they took the car to a garage, where a mechanic discovered a kitten was lurking in the frame channel beside the engine. But he couldn't get the animal out. The opening was too small.

"This," said the policeman, "is a case for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Let them worry it out."

William Hane, an agent of the society, was summoned. He used his most persuasive cat calls with no result. Then the three men took the car across the street to a filling station. After it had been raised on a hydraulic lift, Hane was able to catch the cat's tail and drag the little animal out.

How the Motor Purrs!

It was agreed that the kitten, which had deprived Grafer of two hours' sleep [he is a night worker] should be called Catastrophe.

This didn't quite end the episode. An investigation was made to determine Catastrophe's ownership, and it was learned he [or she] was a truant from a litter in the bakery under Grafer's flat.

Grafer drove the policeman home.

"I like to hear my engine purring instead of mee-yowing," he said.

Drafting of Married Men Upheld

An appeal board opinion upholding the action of a draft board in placing in class 1-A married men who have no children and whose wives are employed was made public yesterday by Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service. Class 1-A is composed of men available for immediate draft.

Armstrong described the opinion, by Appeal Board No. 12 in Springfield, as "the soundest and most thoro interpretation of the law and regulations concerning the status of married men that I have yet seen." His statement contained no further recommendation, however, that other draft boards in Illinois adhere to this interpretation.

The opinion was given in the draft appeal of Jack Williams Benson, 27 years old, of Springfield. He has been married three years and has no children. Both he and his wife are working and both "are earning money in substantial amounts," the opinion said in denying his plea for deferment.

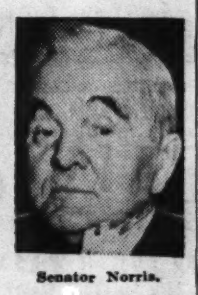
SPEED 7 BILLION ARMS MEASURE TO AID AXIS FOES

On page 11 of the Graphic section is a story of tests made by the British of new American planes under fighting conditions.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Unanimous approval of a bill appropriating seven billion dollars in cash to be spent by President Roosevelt under terms of the war dictatorship law was voted today by a house appropriations subcommittee.



Senator Norris.

The appropriation will be taken up by the house on Tuesday and is slated for passage by Wednesday night. Little opposition is expected to be voiced in the house, but a movement was growing in the senate against the staggering proportions of the fund, which will be used to send planes, ships, munitions, and food to Great Britain and any other power fighting the axis nations which the President may choose to designate.

Norris Is Appalled.

Such a strong supporter of aid to Britain as Senator George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] confessed himself appalled at the size of the amount requested by the President. Other senators, including Walter F. George, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who piloted the dictator bill thru the senate, admitted the possibility of a move to divide the fund into two categories—cash and contract authority—so that the treasury deficit could be spread over several years.

"The sum staggers me," said Norris. "I don't see why we should appropriate all of it at one time. I am willing to pay the entire amount at one time if we can help Britain defeat Hitler but I don't see how industry could absorb all that money at once."

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] indicated that senate noninterventionists would fight for a reduction of the seven billion dollar fund.

The Income Problem.

The urgent problem of obtaining additional income to partly meet the gigantic arms spending program of the administration will be tackled by the house ways and means committee within two weeks, Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] announced.

The committee has been awaiting an analysis of the first income tax payments based on the calendar year of 1940. The deadline for returns expired by midnight and the treasury will compile a report for the committee within a few days. A large increase in payments is expected. With a picture of revenue trends before them, the committee will consider a great variety of new tax proposals, including one to assess all workers receiving $25 a week and up a flat tax of 5 per cent upon their wages in addition to the present income tax.

"We should be at work on a new tax bill by April 1," Doughton said.

15 MILLION SET A NEW INCOME TAX RECORD; CHICAGO YIELD UP 70%

New volume records in income tax collections were set yesterday, the last day for the payment of the first instalment on 1940 incomes. It was estimated that thruout the nation 15,000,000 returns were filed, nearly double those in any previous year, and that totals paid would be far above last year's.

In the Chicago office, some 600 persons an hour filed returns thruout the day. In contrast to the usual situation, however, there were no prospective taxpayers waiting in line when the doors were closed at 7:30 p. m. Deputy collectors said they believed more than the usual number had mailed their remittances.

Collector Carter H. Harrison announced that thru Friday night 353,900 returns involving a tax total of $62,310,560 had been received. During the same period last year 161,025 returns were filed and the tax total was $32,459,265. Nigel Campbell, chief deputy collector, estimated that Chicago payments would be 70 per cent over last year, accounted for largely by the lowering of exemptions. The biggest corporation tax payment was $5,000,000 and the largest individual was $400,000.

HE DEMANDS U.S. GO ALL-OUT ON SIDE OF BRITAIN

Calls on People for Sacrifices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—President Roosevelt tonight called upon the nation for an "all-out effort" to carry forward the cause of Great Britain and her allies against what he called "the blackout of barbarism."

In a speech made at the annual White House Correspondents' association dinner and broadcast to the entire world, the President told the nation that it must make great sacrifices so that "the democracies of the world will be able to prove that dictatorships cannot win."

In administration circles Mr. Roosevelt was seen as laying the groundwork for a proclamation of a full emergency. He proclaimed a limited emergency at the outset of the war. Various New Dealers, notably William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, have been urging him to proclaim a full emergency as a means of implementing the armament program.

His 1939 Utterances.

It was Bullitt who in 1939 told Count Jerzy Potocki, the Polish ambassador to the United States, that the United States would participate on the side of the British and French empires in the event of war in Europe. Bullitt's utterances were in complete harmony with Mr. Roosevelt's public and private expressions of opinion in the two years up to that time.

The President spoke tonight as tho the nation were at actual war, at one point declaring that "nothing short of an all-out effort will win," at another calling upon his listeners to "put aside all personal differences until our victory is won," and at another stating that America "will not be frustrated by threats from powerful enemies abroad."

"Taxes Will Be Higher."

"You will feel the impact of this gigantic effort in your daily lives," the President told the nation. "You will feel it in a way which will cause many inconveniences. You will have to be content with lower profits from business because obviously your taxes will be higher. You will have to work longer at your bench, or your plow, or your machine."

Mr. Roosevelt opened his speech by addressing the correspondents directly. He spoke of his semiweekly press conferences with them and observed that tonight "you cannot ask me questions, and everything I have to says is 'on the record.'"

He spoke of the far-reaching measure called H. R. 1776 as "the aid-to-democracies bill," and in connection with its enactment into law, said: "Let not dictators of Europe and Asia doubt our unanimity now!"

"Democracy in Action."

"The world," he added, "has been told that we, as a united nation, realize the danger which confronts us—and that to meet that danger our democracy has gone into action.

Mr. Roosevelt branded the axis powers "modern tyrants" and "enemies of democracy" and charged that "they openly seek the destruction of all elective systems of government on every continent—including our own."

Of America's rôle now, he said "the time element is of supreme importance. Every plane, every other instrument of war, old and new, which we can spare now, we will send overseas." That, he added, is "common sense strategy."

"A Total Effort."

The President demanded "speed and effectiveness" of the nation's industries, and asserted: "Ours is not a partial effort. It is a total effort. Here in Washington, we are thinking in terms of speed and speed now. And I hope that that watchword will find its way into every home.

"We shall have to make sacrifices—every one of us . . . for our defense against the most ruthless brutality in history."

Shortly before he began his address, Mr. Roosevelt had some good natured fun poked at him by the correspondents. Part of this involved a mock newsreel in which one episode, captioned "bundling for Britain," pictured him in bed with Wendell Will-

MARINES FIND GARAND RIFLE BEST AVAILABLE

Defects in Others May Be Overcome Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The United States Marine corps today made public the results of competitive tests it conducted with the Garand, Johnson, and Winchester semiautomatic rifles, and the Springfield bolt action rifle, which resulted in the adoption of the Garand rifle by the corps Feb. 18.

The corps replaced the Springfield with the Garand, the report said, because it was found to be the most dependable weapon under all conditions. The verdict went against the bolt action gun because it lacks the fire power of the semiautomatic weapons.

Springfield Stands Abuse.

Weapon.	Malfunctions.	Parts Broken or Repairs.
Springfield	53	3
Garand	370	12
Johnson	773	36
Winchester	892	36

On firing under adverse conditions—abuse tests—the Springfield always was operatable where the semiautomatic weapons generally failed to function as self loaders and the Garand and Winchester could not even be operated manually.

In the abuse tests the weapons were subjected to subfreezing temperatures, exposed to heavy dust, dropped in mud, submerged in salt water, wiped free of lubricants, operated in a heavy rain, and various other unfavorable conditions.

After exposure to adverse conditions the semiautomatic rifles were found to require more thoro cleaning and lubrication than the Springfield to insure normal operation.

Improvement Desired.

When any military force armed with semiautomatic rifles is employed in field operations, the report said, part of its fire power will be lost thru malfunctions or complete stoppages of some weapons. Hope was expressed that modifications will be developed which will offset such deficiencies.

The study found that the Garand rifle was the equal of the Springfield in early accuracy tests, but in tests after 9,000 rounds had been fired the Garand was found to be less accurate than other weapons tested.

As a result of the complete test, the report said, it is believed that the Garand rifle is superior to the other semiautomatic rifles in their present stage of development. Altho it failed in some of the abuse tests, the Garand was said to be in general much more reliable in mechanical operation as a self-loading weapon, in ruggedness, and in freedom from repairs or replacements than the other semiautomatics.

Altho the Johnson rifle was superior to the other semiautomatics in the abuse tests because it could always be manually operated with comparative ease, the greater number of malfunctions and repaired or replaced parts as compared with the Garand would indicate that, in its present stage of development, it is a less desirable service weapon.

The Winchester rifle was seriously handicapped in these tests by the short period of time that it has been under development. This was the first real test to which this rifle had been subjected and it is believed that slight modifications in design may eliminate many of the defects noted.

A MATH TEACHER CONSIDERS PLIGHT OF DONALD DULL

Finds Patience Needed to Train Backward Child.

Donald Dull, the dumbbell who drives teachers to despair, had his day yesterday. For the benefit of 70 members of the Women's Mathematics Club of Chicago, he was analyzed, explained, and defended by Miss Mary Potter of Racine, Wis., president of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

The Donald Dulls, Miss Potter said, are the students who are psychologically retarded. They are confused by the simplest problems in arithmetic. Yet if they are segregated and taught by special methods they may make astonishing progress, she said.

The best way to discover and segregate them, she declared, is to give them intelligence tests. A certain way to smoke out Donald is to pose the following question for him.

Pictures of a fish, a tree, and a cake of ice are drawn across the top of the sheet. This problem is stated below: "John is 10 years old, and his sister, Mary, is 8. If John is not Mary's brother draw a line from the fish to the cake of ice. If Mary and John are twins, write your middle name under the tree, and if you have no middle name put a zero there. If they are not twins print your last name on the tree. If Mary is younger than John write the Roman number eight in the upper right hand corner. If both go to school write your full name at the bottom of the paper."

The true Donald Dull, said Miss Potter, has been known to be so confused by this problem that he tore the page out of the book of questions and took it home with him because it struck him as a funny joke.

After Donald has been segregated, Miss Potter said, the next important step is to select a teacher for him.

"The teacher must be an excellent psychologist with a deep love for the human race," said Miss Potter. "She must be keenly sympathetic. She must have infinite patience and imagination."

By use of these methods, Miss Potter said, Donald Dull can be made a useful citizen with self-respect, good habits of work, and sufficient mathematical skill for his adult life.

U. S. PILOT, HURT IN BRITAIN, BACK TO GET RECRUITS

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15 (AP).—His ear drums damaged in a five mile a minute powerdive, Pilot Officer Byron [Jack] Kennerly of Pasadena, Cal., has returned to this continent to help get recruits for a second all-American squadron to fight on Britain's side.

He has been a member of the one group already formed, the Eagle squadron. He said the two squadrons would fly as an R. A. F. "wing."

Kennerly said six members of the Eagle squadron had been killed. [Reports out of London have listed only four deaths.] Kennerly hopes to return in about four months. His injuries occurred Sept. 17.

Calls City the Heart of Greatest Nation.

The story of Chicago, and how it became one of the greatest cities of the world, was told last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, in an address over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system on the weekly Chicagoland Hour. Col. McCormick spoke from Palm Beach, Fla.

He told how the city grew to be the metropolis of the west in spite of the planners of early days, and how it gathered its citizens from many nations.

"By the process of assimilation, intermarriage, and general education," Col. McCormick said, "these foreign influences have practically disappeared. From them has arisen a sturdy, uniform race.

"To a Chicagoan, America is incomparably the greatest nation on earth, and its heart is Chicago."

TEXT OF ADDRESS

"My theme tonight is Old Chicago.

"The oldest thing I know about Chicago is that during the ice age it was under 20 feet of water, and the Great Lakes discharged thru the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers into the Mississippi, carving the beautiful Des Plaines and Illinois valleys.

"French traders and missionaries were the first white men to visit the site of the city, passing over the portage between the St. Lawrence and Mississippi valleys.

"The first resident was a Jamaican Negro who had come up the Mississippi. He was called Point Au Sable, from his hut built on a sandy point of land.

How Chicago Is Pronounced.

"The pronunciation of the name of our city causes some controversy. The natives pronounce it Chicawgo—strangers, Chicahgo. The first spelling, which was applied to the portage rather than to the site of the city, because there was no site of the city until long after, was E-s-c-h-i-c-a-g-e-a-u. The French undoubtedly used the spelling to reproduce the Indian word in French. This would unquestionably be Eschicageau.

"The first Americans to settle here came up the rivers from the south with their southern pronunciation of 'hawse' and 'hawg,' and undoubtedly changed Chicahgo to Chicawgo.

"But I think both pronunciations are all wrong. No one has ever been able to find a significant Indian meaning for either Chicawgo or Chicahgo. If we assume that somewhere a cedilla has been lost from under the second 'c,' the word was Chisago. Sag is the Indian word for water. We find it in such well known words as Saginaw, Michigan, and the river Saguenay. It is normal to assume that Chisago would be the connecting waterway between the lakes and the Mississippi valley. But that, so to speak, is water over the dam, and the correct pronunciation now is Chicawgo.

"The French never settled at Chicago. The settlements which fell to the English with the conquest of Canada were along the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

"Unrecorded Yankee traders must have come west after this, because in 1771 the Illinois settlers petitioned for a charter modeled after that of Connecticut, which provided self-government without a royal governor, royal authority, or British parliamentary authority. This request, made in the republican spirit of the day, was refused, and the Quebec act was enacted, providing arbitrary government by a royal governor.

"In consequence, George Rogers Clark was warmly welcomed by the people of Illinois when he conquered the northwest territory.

"In 1804 Fort Dearborr was built to protect the portage. In the same year, Kinzie, famous in local history, settled near the fort.

"Its garrison and the settlers were the first victims of the war of 1812, massacred on the 15th of August of that year.

Planners Make Mistake.

"As western expansion began, planners laid out Ogdensburg, N. Y., and New Buffalo on the western shore of the Michigan peninsula, both railroad terminals, expecting them to be the capitals of western migration, but the people would not accept the views of the planners. Instead they congregated on the marshy land at the mouth of the Chicago river. Poor as they were and lacking in any form of machinery, they filled this land in to the height of 12 feet to get themselves out of the mud.

"The only paving known to that generation that would remain on top of the mushy soil was made of planks, easily broken and quickly rotted, so both city streets and country roads were full of holes until the science of reinforced concrete was developed.

"Streets could not be kept paved, but tracks could be maintained on ties. Street cars became the universal form of passenger transportation. The great prosperity of the street car companies in the early days impressed itself on the investors and public alike and led to generations of controversy, in which the former have lost in pocket and the latter in transportation facilities.

Ingenuity of Architects.

"Because of marshy soil, Chicago architects were compelled to develop great ingenuity. First they developed the snowshoe foundation. Then, in order to save weight, steel first became a building material in Chicago. Eventually foundations on concrete cylinders were sunk a hundred feet to bedrock.

"Chicago's early rise was due to its position as the southwestern terminus of the Great Lakes system and the corner around which overland traffic had to turn to go north.

"There was an unlimited water supply from the lake, but the disposal of sewage was a difficult problem in the days before chemistry, as drainage obviously was into the lake. A solution was found by pouring it into a canal that had been constructed over the old portage route.

Typhoid Peril Removed.

"This solution was eminently successful—eliminating the typhoid epidemic—and the canal was enlarged several times as the city and river navigation grew; but opposition of other lake cities and jealousy of the army engineers, unwilling to have any other organization work in waterways, persuaded the Supreme court to stop it—and the health authorities are now watching the typhoid statistics apprehensively and dosing the drinking water with unpalatable chemicals.

"In the early days, fuel was brought across the lake in the form of birch logs. Wheat was ground in tiny mills on the short level streams of the neighborhood. Later coal was found a few miles from the city.

"Chicago's first industries were wagon factories to provide transportation for the westward moving emigrants, who no longer were canoe men.

"The manufacture of agricultural machinery centered here. As railroads centered in this point, car factories were developed. The center of the agricultural valley became the collecting point for wheat to be exported to the east and Europe. The processing of animal food here became the first mass production industry in the world.

"The early city was built along the lake south of the river. Bridges over the south branch to bring in farm produce and let immigrants pass out were inevitable, but the property owners in the city, joining with the ship owners, were able to prevent the construction of the bridge to the north side of the river, until the establishment of the Catholic cathedral on the northern prairie made necessary an access for the worshipers.

In 1871 the city was practically wiped out by fire. The whole world was shocked and contributed to the aid of the suffering. This suffering was less than the world supposed, for there were few old people and many of the citizens had been overland campers.

"In the long run the damage turned out to be more apparent than real. The fire insurance companies met their losses. The city was rebuilt with structures more suitable to its future growth.

"Following the fire Joseph Medill, editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was elected mayor. Under his administration the fire department was reformed and ever since has been a model for all the world. A building code was created which was long a pride of the city, altho it has since degenerated into little more than a building material racket.

Problems of Gang Days.

"Some 10 years ago Chicago incurred a bad reputation from the wars of gangland. At that time the alliance of crime and politics was perhaps no closer in Chicago than in most American communities. A number of circumstances combined to aid the criminals against the police. All of the streets and the country roads had been paved. Unlike New York, Boston, San Francisco, St. Louis, and other great American cities, access was not partly cut off by great rivers, with few crossings easily watched. Criminals could enter or leave Chicago by hundreds of streets running in every direction.

"The criminals were the first to learn the science of motorized warfare and of automatic weapons. The police, on foot and armed with old fashioned revolvers, were unable to cope with them. Can we criticize the police when we remember that no army in the world was motorized at that time, or had accepted the principle of automatic weapons?

"Since then squad cars have been adopted. Weapons suited to all needs, including gas, are in the hands of the police. This radio station, W-G-N, initiated the sending of alarms to the squad cars and kept it up until the city obtained its own transmitter.

It's Different Today.

"Today criminals find the Chicago police force a dangerous opponent, and their only allies in certain judges, who sentence them to the House of Correction instead of the penitentiary, and in the abuse of the parole system, which is the disgrace of Illinois, as it is of all the states.

"You will remember how the city south of the river resisted the building of bridges to the north side. A park district, south of the river, organized in 1869, included the entire business section. Thus splendidly financed, the south side set out to make itself the garden spot of the city. Half a century ago its boulevards rivaled those of Paris, and its parks were unrivaled anywhere. But, alas for plans and planning. The population has persistently drifted north and west away from the plans, and many of these municipal masterpieces are now in the so-called depressed areas.

"I have said the original white men to come to Chicago were French. They were followed by Kentuckians and still later by the sons of early settlers in Ohio and citizens from all the states in the Union.

Immigrants from All Nations.

"During the last century there were immigrants from all the countries of Europe and Asia, and strange tongues could be heard on the street corners, but by the process of assimilation, intermarriage, and general education, these foreign influences have practically disappeared. From them has risen a sturdy, uniform race.

"Chicago also has benefited from the departure from its midst of most of the children of its early millionaires, so it has no problem of idle rich, aping and toadying the foreign aristocracies.

POETIC DRAMA PRESENTED

The Chicagoland hour program also included the production, "Ode to Chicago," a poetic drama of the city's rise to greatness. Conceived and directed by William A. Bacher, the drama was first presented last September with Charles Laughton, the English character actor, in the rôle of the "crank" who belittles Chicago. History refutes his criticism in a stirring pageant.

Marvin Mueller played Laughton's rôle last night, with Bret Morrison as narrator. Others in the cast included Willard Waterman, Les Spears, Bob Jellison, Arthur Van Slyke, John Gildsworthy, De Witt McBride, Don Gallagher, Stanley Waxman, and Earle Wilkie.

Officials and members of the American Legion, representing more than 200 Cook county posts, applauded the program, which inaugurated a new series in honor of American cities. Next week New York will be saluted.

The W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, presented the first movement of Dvorak's Fifth symphony, and was joined by the W-G-N chorus in "The Pilgrims' Chorus" from "Tannhauser."

EVERY FASCIST ATTACK BEATEN OFF, SAY GREEKS

ATHENS, Greece, March 15 (AP).—Every Italian assault launched under Premier Mussolini's newly spurred Albanian campaign was declared beaten back by the Greeks tonight. In Athens Mussolini was called a "bogus Cæsar."

This—the Ides of March—was the day Mussolini had set, according to the stories of captured Fascist prisoners as given out by Greek government spokesmen, as the deadline for his generals in Albania to "do something" so that he could go home and announce a victory.

Instead, said Greek military dispatches from the front, a week-long general Italian attack had been smashed with heavy losses for the Fascists, despite their use of fresh troops from Italy and the heaviest concentrations of weapons.

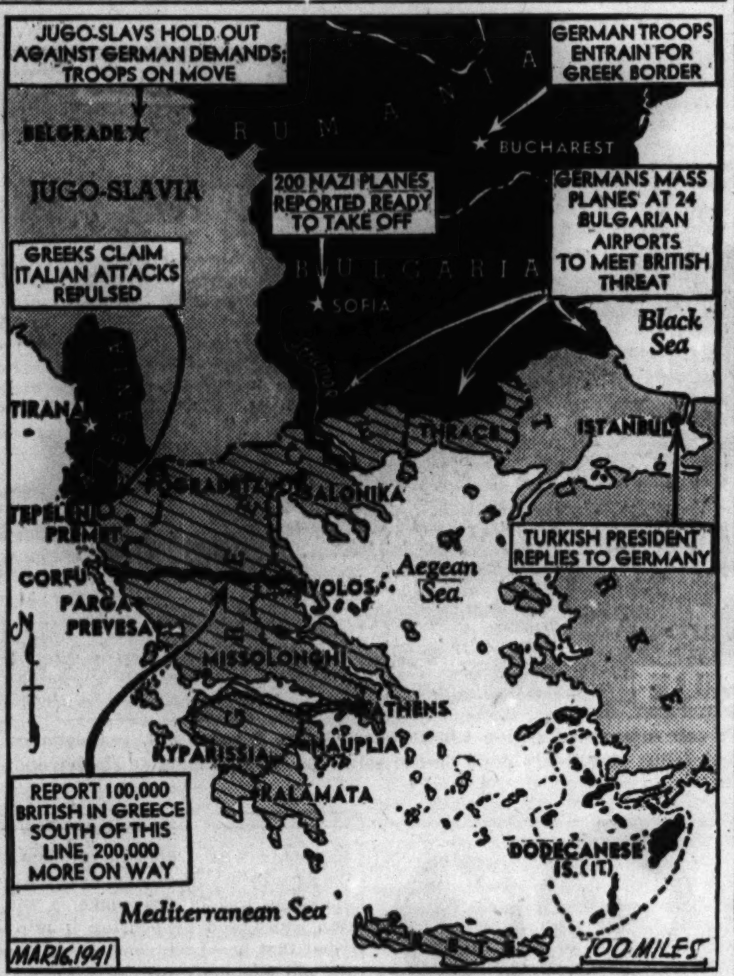
The Greeks said that Mussolini's mission had failed as had his troops—that he had tried in vain to buck up "the morale of the armies and of the dissatisfied Italian population after repeated reverses."

Italian offensive operations of yesterday and today extended over many miles of the front with the heaviest attacks in the central sector. Some assaults were loosed without artillery preparation and in these the Fascists were said by the Greeks to have been trapped in crossfire which left the field covered with dead.

Hundreds of guns and tanks newly sent into Albania also were said to have been in action.

Air activity on both sides was intense. The Greek press declared that 123 Italian planes had been destroyed in the last fortnight.

Major Battle for Greece Foreseen



The Germans massed hundreds of fighting planes in Bulgaria as the British augmented an expeditionary force in Greece reported already to number 100,000 men. Principal developments are told on the map.

NAZI PLANES GIVE LONDON 2 RAID ALARMS

LONDON, March 15 (AP).—German air raiders tonight gave London its second raid alarm of the day, but the all-clear signal was sounded about midnight. Two Nazi patrol planes, looking over the Thames estuary, set off the daytime alarm, which was brief.

Before dawn today, the German air force poured bombs on the Clydeside shipping district of Glasgow and attacked other areas in the third successive overnight raids of the stepped up air war.

British planes also were active, the air ministry announcing widespread raids on "invasion bases" from France to Norway and targets in Germany and Holland, which ended early today. Great fires were reported at Gelsenkirchen, Duesseldorf, and Rotterdam.

[The German high command reported heavy air attacks Friday night and Saturday morning on Glasgow, Sheffield, Southampton, Plymouth, Leeds, and the Tilbury docks at London. It also said two merchant vessels totaling 11,000 tons were sunk and another damaged off the east coast of Britain.]

Six Bombers to Take Seeds of Rubber Trees to Brazil

PANAMA CITY, Panama, March 15 (AP).—United States bombers of the Panama canal force, commanded by Col. Francis Brady and carrying a cargo of valuable rubber tree seeds, are expected to leave soon for Belem, Brail, on a mission for the United States department of agriculture. Three bombers flew a similar cargo to Brazil about six weeks ago.

GERMANS SILENT ON BRITISH TROOP MOVE IN GREECE

Hear Report English Plan to Occupy Azores.

BERLIN, March 15 (AP).—Silence was the only official reaction today to reports that almost 100,000 British troops have been landed in southern Greece. There was no suggestion as to what countermeasures Germany might take. Dienst aus Deutschland, well informed news commentary, offered the only discussion and it said that since the reports were unconfirmed it would be "premature to draw any conclusions respecting any German reaction."

Reports from Tangier, Morocco, that the British contemplate occupation of Portugal's Azores Islands and a landing in Portugal evoked expressions of great interest from German sources.

[The origin of the reports reaching Berlin was not clear. The Associated Press has not received such advices from any other source.]

Says U. S. Doesn't Object.

"The indication from Washington that there is no objection on the part of the United States to such an English project," said Dienst aus Deutschland, "that, in fact, the United States might have encouraged the British in such a step, doubtless will be of special significance to Germans."

It said occupation of the Portuguese owned Azores and bases in Portugal would be in line with British efforts to obtain bases in Ireland for more effective defense against German submarines and long distance bombing planes.

Turk Reply En Route.

DNB, official German news agency, said a high Turkish foreign office official had reached Sofia, Bulgaria, Friday en route to Germany with a handwritten message from Turkish President Ismet Inonu to Adolf Hitler.

[In Istanbul it was said in official quarters that Inonu's answer to the reported offer from Hitler March 4 to look out for Turkey's "interests and well-being" was on its way to Germany by special diplomatic courier. The Turkish press, however, declared there has been no change in the stand of Turkey, bound by a mutual assistance pact with Britain in the event of any aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean.]

ETHIOPIAN DRIVE CONTINUES, SAYS BRITISH REPORT

CAIRO, Egypt, March 15 (AP).—British general headquarters said today that operations of British imperial troops and native forces invading Ethiopia "continue to develop successfully" on all fronts.

The communique follows:

"Libya and Eritrea: Nothing to report.

"Ethiopia: Operations by patriot forces in coöperation with imperial troops continue to develop successfully in the central, western and southern districts of the country."

Invasion Barge Used by British in Lofoten Islands Raid

A British barge heading for the Lofoten Islands, off Norway, in an invasion of German controled territory on March 4, according to British information accompanying picture. Troops stand in the vessels with protective shields fore and aft. Yesterday Britain disclosed she was equipping armored invasion barges carrying 50 men each for use against both Germany and Italy.

WITNESS TELLS HOW U-BOATS SANK FOUR SHIPS

Convoy of 40 Vessels Twice Attacked.

BY SAM ROBERTSON.
[Canadian Press Staff Writer.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15.—Twice in the area Adolf Hitler's undersea marauders usually infest, German submarines waylaid the convoy with which I recently crossed the north Atlantic. The attacks came in the blackness found only at sea, one at 5 in the morning and the other at midnight.

Out in the darkness that eyes could not pierce, we knew ships were going down, taking their men with them. Torpedoes sent at least four ships, perhaps six, to the bottom. More than 200 seamen were aboard the vessels known to have gone down.

There was no way to tell how many survived. Ships that escape attacks on convoys must go on. To stop would be to become a sitting bird. The ship I was on hurried away.

Two Crippled Craft Escape.

The largest of almost 40 ships in the convoy, a massive whaler factory craft with the lines of an overgrown bathtub, and two freighters and an oil tanker went down. Two other vessels that listed badly stil lwere able to push on.

The men of the submarine, or submarines, which made the first attack may or may not have survived depth charges dropped by our naval escorts. If they did, it seemed probable, they would inform a German bomber base of our position. Sky raiders never came, however, and the U-boat men may have met death.

When the second attack came we were on the fringe of the danger area. The moment the first torpedo let go in the vitals of a freighter only a few hundred yards off our starboard beam the convoy dispersed. From then on it was each ship for herself; we did not sight any of the others during the rest of the voyage.

Roused from Sleep by Blasts.

Shudders that seemed to ripple the steel of our ship gave us the first warning of attack. Felt at 5 a. m. as torpedoes hit the four vessels running astern, they electrified most of us from our sleep.

I had gone to bed clothed in woolen underwear, long stockings, flannel trousers, and a sweatshirt. More woolen clothes and such blues-chasers as cigarets and a flask of rum lay by my bunk.

As we joined passengers hurrying to lifeboat stations one of my two cabinmates made a jest intended to steady our nerves.

"Rotten hour to have a boat drill, what?" asked J. M. Hanlon, a ship's third officer on his way to Canada to join a new merchantmen.

All of us knew it was no drill, but we caught his coolness. We laughed.

One Woman Swoons.

About 50 women and girls were aboard, ranging in age from 8 to 80. Among them were Miss D. McMahon, who saw scores of children and seamen die in the sinking of the City of Benares, the last ship to sail with refugee youngsters for America and safety; Mrs. Imri Goritz, whose husband and two children went down with the Simon Bolivar when a mine found that Dutch liner, and an expectant mother in her twenties.

A young English housewife, who had picked up a smattering of Americanese on the way across, called cheerily, "Hy'a, palsy walsy? Been up all night?"

Only one woman swooned.

Bundled in lifejackets and as many layers of clothing as we could snatch up we stood on deck for a tense hour.

Liner Sails from Yokohama Crowded with Americans

YOKOHAMA, March 15 (AP).—The American liner President Pierce sailed for the United States this evening crowded with Americans leaving the orient. Americans in the orient have been under long standing advice from Washington to go home unless they have compelling reasons for staying.

GERMAN MUST DIE FOR 'RADIO OFFENSE,' NAZIS COURT DECREES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 15.—A "serious criminal radio offense" was the charge on which Johann Wild has just been sentenced to death by a special court at Nuremberg. He is alleged to have listened constantly to foreign broadcasts which were hostile to Germany. Wild used the information he got over the radio, it was said, as the basis of attacks on Fuehrer Hitler and the German army. He then sent his notes to the authorities to make sure they knew his sentiments concerning Nazi Germany.

The court decided that Wild was an "incorrigible traitor" and not only sentenced him to death but to four years' imprisonment at hard labor and loss of his civil rights.

LEAVE HUNGARY NOW IF YOU CAN BRITONS ADVISED

LONDON, March 15 (AP).—An informed source today said the British legation in Budapest had asked Britons who have no special reason to remain in Hungary to depart "because it is getting more and more difficult" to leave the country.

This source said those leaving now would have to travel thru Jugo-Slavia or Russia, and that if they remained they might not be able to leave at all.

He added that such advice did not necessarily mean Britain intended to break off diplomatic relations with Hungary.

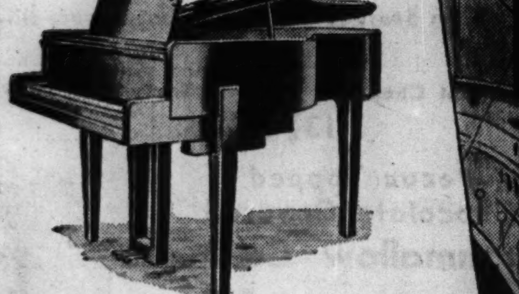
YOUR Steinway OF TODAY



WILL BE YOUR FAMILY'S MOST Treasured Heirloom in the WORLD of TOMORROW!

In measuring the full value of a piano it's wise to think beyond the original price. That's what people usually do when they purchase a Steinway . . . and they know that the matchless beauty of tone and individual ease of action of the Steinway will still be as brilliant when today's children will be in their retiring years. Depreciation is very, very slight. So superbly is the Steinway built that it will last for generations! And should circumstances ever compel you to sell your Steinway you'll find the "trade-in" value high. A "used" Steinway always commands a generous price. Your sense of good business should direct you to a Steinway!

Budget your Steinway!
Just a very small down payment, the balance in terms as long as three years. Your old piano in trade.

FRANCE RESUMES ECONOMIC TALKS WITH NAZIS TODAY

Less Tension Between 2 Countries Is Noted.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, March 15.—Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan, it was announced tonight, will go to Paris tomorrow to continue conferences with German authorities on the subject of collaboration in future economic relations.

Darlan's trip seems to mark a definite relaxation of the tension between the French and Germans and coincides with the spurt in Vichy government activities. On Tuesday Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain will again take to the road for a two day tour, this time visiting Grenoble and Vienne to contact the common people.

Press Stresses United States Aid.

The French press now lays great stress on a possible relaxation of the British blockade thru American intervention, thus enabling food supplies to be sent to the unoccupied zone.

The subject of American aid to France also was the theme of speeches at a dinner tonight at Clermont-Ferrand celebrating the arrival of the freighter Cold Harbor, which brought American Red Cross supplies. Admiral William D. Leahy, ambassador from the United States, who was guest of honor, told those present it was his "personal conviction that France will soon be restored to her rightful and ancient position as an example of culture and civilization."

Want French Fed, British Say.

LONDON, March 15 (AP).—Britain would be willing to let almost any quantity of food for the unoccupied zone in France pass thru her blockade if she could be certain it would "all go down the throats of Frenchmen," a spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare said today.

The spokesman declared Britain would like to see those in the unoccupied area properly fed, but asserted the Germans already were taking some French imports for their own use.

Work on Nazi Orders.

BERLIN, March 15 (AP).—Thru German and French collaboration, French observers said today, there has been a measure of revival of activity in France's manufacturing plants.

Fernand de Brinon, French liaison ambassador to Paris, said the Citroen and Renaud motor plants near Paris were operating with a backlog of German orders, tho fewer workers were employed than before the armistice.

Both plants have resumed the production of combat equipment in addition to motor cars, De Brinon said. The Renaud factory also makes tanks.

NAZIS SENTENCE U. S. WOMAN AT PARIS TO 3 YEAR PRISON TERM

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—The state department was informed today that Mrs. Etta Kahn Shiber, an American, had been sentenced to serve three years in prison by a German military court in Paris.

Mrs. Etta Shiber.

Mrs. Shiber, widow of a New York newspaper man, was charged with complicity in having aided British military fugitives to escape from occupied France. The prosecution had demanded the death penalty for her, the embassy reported. Two other persons tried at the same time were sentenced to death, and four more received prison sentences.

FRANCE OFFERS GUARANTEES IN PLEA FOR BREAD

U. S. Acts as Go-Between in Talks with British.

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—A proposal for the United States to supervise distribution of food in unoccupied Frace was discussed today in a series of conferences between American, British and French officials.

Disclosing this, informed sources emphasized that the United States is acting only as a "friendly intermediary, advancing no proposals of its own, and exerting no pressure on either of the other governments.

Hull Hears Both Views.

Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, and Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull on the food problem for an hour, each presenting the viewpoint of his government on French proposals that the British relax their blockade and permit wheat to be purchased here and transported to unoccupied France.

The French ambassador told newspapermen he was hopeful that an agreement might be achieved soon.

"The French government," he said, "not only is willing to accept complete American control of all grain ships destined for unoccupied France, but—to insure that all are satisfied—would require that American supervisors check each shipment as it was unloaded, ground in the mills, and taken to bakeries to be made into bread."

Pledge "None to Germany."

France is prepared to make any guarantees required, he added, that any and all foodstuffs permitted to be shipped to unoccupied France would be eaten by Frenchmen in unoccupied France, and not be permitted to go elsewhere.

That pledge was made in answer to British declarations that it feared food might go to the German army, or to Germany, and thereby defeat the purpose of the British blockade.

Henry-Haye emphasized that the French are not asking for charity but desire to buy and pay for the food they hope to secure here. An estimated 1⅓ billion dollars in French funds and assets, "frozen" here under President Roosevelt's proclamation, presumably would be available for the proposed food purchases.

L. & N. SWITCHMAN KILLED.

Evansville, Ind., March 15 [Special].—Charles Edward Haskins, 53 years old, a Louisville and Nashville railway switchman, was killed here today when hit by a locomotive in the railroad yards. His widow, three daughters, and three sons survive.

ICE CUBE TRAYS TO AID U. S. TILL THINGS COOL OFF

Omaha, Neb., March 15 (AP).—Ice cube trays made the supreme sacrifice for the nation's preparedness program today.

Walter Byrne, utilities district manager, said all except one tray in each refrigerator in stock would be sent back at a manufacturer's request so the aluminum might be used in armament production.

Until trays of substitute materials can be developed, he explained, refrigerator purchasers will be asked to get along with minimum facilities as a patriotic measure."

Officials of the Peoples Gas company in Chicago said that they had sent a few aluminum trays back to the Servel Electrolux company, which recalled trays from Omaha, Neb., yesterday. Other retail dealers reported they had not been asked to strip refrigerators.

312 FROM 14 CITY DRAFT BOARDS TAKEN BY ARMY

Fourteen city draft boards supplied 312 men for induction into the army on Friday, selective service officials announced yesterday. Seventy-four of the 312 were volunteers. Seventy-five others were rejected because of physical or mental deficiencies.

The highest local draft number, 445, was held by William Martin, 28 years old, of 6124 South Artesian avenue, whose draft board No. 103 went thru 320 names to draft 30 men. Russell Tallent, 23, of 6154 South Whipple street, held No. 436 in the same draft board for the second highest number called. Charles Pray, 34, of 2427 McLean avenue, was third highest with No. 433 from draft board No. 131.

A supplementary call for 157 more colored draftees from boards in Chicago, Chicago Heights, and Evanston was issued yesterday by the Cook county selective service headquarters. They will report the last week in the month.

INVISIBLE CENSOR IN BERLIN HAUNTS NEWSPAPERMEN

U. S. Reporters Cramped by Word 'Verboten.'

[Mr. Noderer recently returned to Chicago from Germany. He served in The Tribune's bureau in Berlin.]

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

It is known as the "invisible censorship" because it can't be seen—the Germans, in fact, deny that it exists. They assert that any correspondent is free to send any story he wishes, and so he is, if he wants to take the consequences.

The consequences range from a scolding by displeased propaganda ministry officials to possible prosecution under the espionage laws. In between these two extremes lies expulsion, the fate which has overtaken several American reporters.

Two Types of Censorship.

There are two types of censorship used in Europe today. One is "direct censorship," under which stories are submitted to censors for consideration before they are sent. The other is the type the Germans and Italians use. Anything may be sent without submitting it first to the authorities, but the writer is held personally responsible.

But since the fall of France, the Nazis have become touchy on many subjects, and gradually a number of prohibitions have appeared.

Correspondents still are not directly forbidden to send news. They are merely told that if they send certain types of news they will be expelled.

Hitler's Trips are Secret.

There are frequent reports in Berlin that the Germans and English are feeling each other out on the possibilities of peace thru a third power. The Berlin foreign office has warned correspondents not to send any stories whatever about peace talks.

The whereabouts of Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop are military secrets. If they leave Berlin, it cannot be mentioned until officially announced. The Germans do not want to expose their leaders to the danger of a British air raid.

Reporters for foreign papers also have been told not to write stories speculating on what political or military rabbits the Nazis may pull out of the hat next.

No military news of any kind may be sent out between 11 p. m. and 6 a. m. This rule was laid down by the army shortly after the battle of Dunkirk, when it was thought that Hitler might give the signal for an invasion of England some evening.

No Dispatches During Raids.

Neither can news be sent during air raids. If a correspondent is talking on an international telephone when the raid alarm sounds, he may continue provided he says nothing about the raid. But no news is to be sent about the raid until the official communique announces it the next morning. Then one may send only what the communique discloses.

News of troop movements, of course is "verboten," as is much other news of a military character.

Correspondents in Berlin never know exactly what they can send and what they cannot, which makes the German indirect censorship more effective than when stories are submitted directly to a censor.

New prohibitions are arising all the time. Not long ago this correspondent was warned by the foreign office that if he sent any news whatsoever about any high German official making a trip anywhere in the next few days, he would be liable to prosecution under the espionage laws. The reference was to Hitler's visit to Marshal Petain, the French chief of state.

About an hour after I received this warning, a communique announcing the visit was issued by the propaganda ministry. These two government agencies, both of which hold daily press conferences, are fighting a private war to see who gets important news out first.

If German observers in the United States—the German consul or the local representatives of DNB, the official Nazi news agency—consider a story sent to an American paper inaccurate, unfriendly or in violation of any of the numerous taboos, they cable a summary back to Berlin. The correspondent is then summoned to explain and perhaps punished.

Wins Pay Increase

ANN SHERIDAN.

Hollywood, Cal., March 15 (AP).—The contract squabble between red haired Ann Sheridan and Warner Brothers studio is over. Ann, one of the biggest box office attractions in the motion picture field, is returning to work, after a long layoff, at a salary of $1,000 a week. She and Warners have been arguing for the last six months about her contract, which called for $650 weekly. Last October she walked out and Warners put her on the suspended list. Today it was understood the studio had taken up her options as of next April 10. Also, it was learned, the studio agreed to pay all her back salary under the old contract, or approximately $20,000. None of the parties to the conference would discuss the agreement.

U. S. REPORTER SEIZED BY NAZIS ON SPY CHARGE

Linked to 'Enemy Power' by Berlin.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 15.—Richard C. Hottelet, a 23 year old American citizen, is in a Berlin jail tonight, probably in the central police headquarters in Alexanderplatz, and is being held incommunicado on a charge of spying for a power that is an enemy of Germany.

Richard C. Hottelet.

Hottelet, who came from Brooklyn, was employed here as assistant correspondent in the Berlin bureau of the United Press. He was awakened this morning by Heinrich Himmler's secret police, who told him to come along, then searched the apartment and took all his papers away.

[Hottelet has been held briefly by the Germans on two other occasions, each in connection with his gathering of information concerning the Nazis' treatment of Jews.]

Another United Press correspondent, Joseph Grigg, who shares the apartment with Hottelet, was held in the apartment for three hours with communications cut off. Later the police went to the United Press office, where they went thru the desks of Hottelet and Frederick Oechsner, European manager of the United Press.

U. S. Embassy Seeks to Aid.

American embassy officials say everything possible is being done for Hottelet. Unofficially, the opinion was expressed that his arrest may have been a reprisal for arrest of German correspondents recently in New York.

[On Tuesday a special grand jury in Washington indicted Trans-Ocean, a German news service, and two individuals, Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, for having violated the law requiring registration of foreign agents.]

A German source issued a statement that Hottelet's arrest had nothing to do with his activities as a journalist. His friends suggested that he was a subject of suspicion because of his wide knowledge of the German language and extensive acquaintance with German affairs. He has been in Germany three years.

It is noted here in American newspaper circles that the espionage laws are so broad that they could be invoked against almost any journalistic activity. They provide a possible death sentence.

U. S. to Seek Details.

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—The White House instructed the state department today to ask the American embassy in Berlin for full details on the arrest of Richard C. Hottelet.

London Cables Canada for Additional Firemen

TORONTO, Ont., March 15 (AP).—Mayor Fred Conboy today received a cable from the lord mayor of London calling for additional fire fighters in London and other centers. The Canadian Federation of Mayors had discussed recently the idea of sending firemen to England and the Toronto city council had been urged to send 25 firemen.

DICTATORS MUST BE VANQUISHED, SAYS PRESIDENT

Calls on All the Nation to Make Sacrifices.

TEXT OF SPEECH

"This dinner of the White House Correspondents' association is unique. It is the first one at which I have made a speech in all these eight years. It differs from the press conferences that you and I hold twice a week. You cannot ask me questions; and everything I have to say is word for word on the record.

"For eight years you and I have been helping each other. I have been trying to keep you informed of the news of Washington, and of the nation, and of the world, from the point of view of the Presidency. You, more than you realize it, have been giving me a great deal of information about what the people of this country are thinking.

"In our press conferences, as at this dinner tonight, we include reporters representing papers and news agencies of many other lands. To most of them it is a matter of constant amazement that press conferences such as ours can exist in any nation in the world.

"That is especially true in those lands where freedoms do not exist—where the purposes of our democracy and the characteristics of our country and of our people have been seriously distorted.

Germany Misinformed.

"Such misunderstandings are not new. I remember that in the early days of the first world war the German government received solemn assurances from their representatives in the United States that the people of America were disunited; that they cared more for peace at any price than for the preservation of ideals and freedom; that there would even be riots and revolutions in the United States if this nation ever asserted its own interests.

"Let not dictators of Europe and Asia doubt our unanimity now.

"Before the present war broke out on Sept. 1, 1939, I was more worried about the future than many people—most people. The record shows I was not worried enough.

"That, however, is water over the dam. Do not let us waste time reviewing the past, or fixing or dodging the blame for it. History cannot be rewritten by wishful thinking. We, the American people, are writing new history today.

Democracy Goes Into Action.

"The big news story of this week is this: The world has been told that we, as a united nation, realize the danger which confronts us—and that to meet that danger our democracy has gone into action.

"We know that altho Prussian autocracy was bad enough, Naziism is far worse.

"Nazi forces are not seeking mere modifications in colonial maps or in minor European boundaries. They openly seek the destruction of all elective systems of government on every continent—including our own; they seek to establish systems of government based on the regimentation of all human beings by a handful of individual rulers who have seized power by force.

"New Order" Not New or Order.

"These men and their hypnotized followers call this a new order. It is not new. It is not order. For order among nations presupposes something enduring—some system of justice under which individuals, over a long period of time, are willing to live. Humanity will never permanently accept a system imposed by conquest and based on slavery.

"These modern tyrants find it necessary to their plans to eliminate all democracies—eliminate them one by one. The nations of Europe, and indeed we ourselves, did not appreciate that purpose. We do now. The process of the elimination of the European nations proceeded according to plan thru 1939 and 1940, until the schedule was shot to pieces by the unbeatable defenders of Britain.

Democracy Proves Itself.

"The enemies of democracy were wrong in their calculations for a very simple reason. They were wrong because they believed that democracy could not adjust itself to the terrible reality of a world at war.

"They believed that democracy, because of its will to live at peace with its neighbors, could not mobilize its energies even in its own defense.

"They know now that democracy can still remain democracy, and speak, and reach conclusions, and arm itself adequately for defense.

"From the bureaus of propaganda of the axis powers came the confident prophecy that the conquest of our country would be an inside job—a job accomplished not by overpowering invasion from without, but by disrupting confusion and disunion and moral disintegration from within.

U. S. Refuses to Be Confounded.

"Those who believed that knew little of our history. America is not a country which can be confounded by the appeasers, the defeatists, the backstairs manufacturers of panic. It is a country which talks out its problems in the open, where any man can hear them.

"We have just now engaged in a great debate. It was not limited to the halls of congress. It was argued in every newspaper, on every wave length—over every cracker barrel in the land. It was finally settled and decided by the American people themselves.

"The decisions of our democracy may be slowly arrived at. But when that decision is made, it is proclaimed not with the voice of any one man but with the voice of 130 millions. It is binding on all of us. And the world is no longer left in doubt.

The End of Compromise.

"This decision is the end of any attempts at appeasement in our land; the end of urging us to get along with the dictators; the end of compromise with tyranny and the forces of oppression.

"The urgency is now.

"We believe firmly that when our production output is in full swing, the democracies of the world will be able to prove that dictatorships cannot win.

"But now the time element is of supreme importance. Every plane, every other instrument of war, old and new, which we can spare we will send overseas. That is common sense strategy.

"The great task of this day, the deep duty which rests upon us, is to move products from the assembly lines of our factories to the battle lines of democracy—now!

"We can have speed and effectiveness if we maintain our existing unity. We do not have and never will have the false unity of a people browbeaten by threats and misled by propaganda. Ours is a unity which is possible only among free men and women who recognize the truth and face reality with intelligence and courage.

A Total Effort.

"Today, at last, ours is not a partial effort. It is a total effort and that is the only way to guarantee ultimate safety.

"Beginning a year ago, we started the erection of hundreds of plants and we started the training of millions of men.

"Then at the moment the aid to democracies bill was passed we were ready to recommend the 7 billion dollar appropriation on the basis of capacity production as now planned.

"The articles themselves cover the whole range of munitions of war and of the facilities for transporting them.

"The aid to democracies bill was agreed to by both houses of the congress last Tuesday afternoon. I signed it one-half hour later. Five minutes later I approved a list of articles for immediate shipment. Many of them are on their way. On Wednesday I recommended an appropriation for new material to the extent of 7 billion dollars; and the congress is making patriotic speed in making the appropriation available.

Speed Is the Watchword.

"Here in Washington we are thinking in terms of speed and speed now. And I hope that that watchword will find its way into every home in the nation.

"We shall have to make sacrifices—every one of us. The final extent of those sacrifices will depend upon the speed with which we act now.

"I must tell you tonight in plain language what this undertaking means to you—to your daily life.

"Whether you are in the armed services; whether you are a steel worker or a stevedore; a machinist or a housewife; a farmer or a banker; a storekeeper or a manufacturer—to all of you it will mean sacrifice in behalf of country and your liberties. You will feel the impact of this gigantic effort in your daily lives. You will feel it in a way which will cause many inconveniences.

"You will have to be content with lower profits from business because obviously your taxes will be higher.

"You will have to work longer at your bench, or your plow, or your machine.

"Let me make it clear that the nation is calling for the sacrifice of some privileges, but not for the sacrifice of fundamental rights. Most of us will do that willingly. That kind of sacrifice is for the common national protection and welfare; for our defense against the most ruthless brutality in history; for the ultimate victory of a way of life now so violently menaced.

Danger of Failure.

"A half hearted effort on our part will lead to failure. This is no part-time job. The concepts of 'business as usual' and 'normalcy' must be forgotten until the task is finished. This is an all-out effort—nothing short of all-out effort will win.

"We are now dedicated, from here on, to a constantly increasing tempo of production—a production greater than we now know or have ever known before—a production that does not stop and should not pause.

"And so, tonight, I am appealing to the heart and to the mind of every man and every woman within our borders who love liberty. I ask you to consider the needs of our nation at this hour and to put aside all personal differences until our victory is won.

"The light of democracy must be kept burning. To the perpetuation of this light, each must do his own share. The single effort of one individual may seem very small. But there are 130 million individuals over here. There are many more millions in Britain and elsewhere bravely shielding the great flame of democracy from the blackout of barbarism.

"It is not enough for us merely to trim the wick or polish the glass The time has come when we must provide the fuel in ever-increasing amounts to keep the flame alight.

"There will be no divisions of party or section, or race, or nationality, or religion. There is not one among us who does not have a stake in the outcome of the effort in which we are now engaged.

"A few weeks ago I spoke of four freedoms—freedom of speech and expression, freedom of every person to worship God in his own way, freedom from want, freedom from fear. They are the ultimate stake. They may not be immediately attainable thruout the world but humanity does move toward those ideals thru democratic processes. If we fail—if democracy is superseded by slavery—then those four freedoms or even the mention of them will become forbidden things. Centuries will pass before they can be revived.

"By winning now we strengthen their meaning, we increase the stature of mankind and the dignity of human life.

Loyalty and Obedience.

"There is a vast difference between the word 'loyalty' and the word 'obedience.' Obedience can be obtained and enforced in a dictatorship by the use of threat and extortion or it can be obtained by a failure on the part of government to tell the truth to its citizens.

"Loyalty is different. It springs from the mind that is given the facts, that retains ancient ideals, and proceeds without coercion to give support to its own government.

"That is true in England, and in Greece, and in China, and in the United States today. And in many other countries millions of men and women are praying for the return of a day when they can give that kind of loyalty.

"Loyalty cannot be bought. Dollars alone will not win this war. Let us not delude ourselves as to that.

Lauds Spirit of Armed Forces.

"Today nearly a million and a half American citizens are hard at work in our armed forces. The spirit and the determination of these men of our army and navy are worthy of the highest traditions of our country. No better men ever served under Washington, or John Paul Jones, or Grant, or Lee, or Pershing. That is a boast, I admit—but it is not an idle one.

"Upon the nation's will to sacrifice and to work depends the output of our industry and our agriculture.

"Upon that will depends the survival of the vital bridge across the ocean—the bridge of ships which carry the arms and food for those who are fighting the good fight.

"Upon that will depends our ability to aid other nations which may determine to offer resistance.

"Upon that will may depend practical assistance to people now living in nations which have been overrun, should they find the opportunity to strike back in an effort to regain their liberties.

Won't Be Frustrated.

"This will of the American people will not be frustrated, either by threats from powerful enemies abroad or by small, selfish groups or individuals at home.

"The determination of America must not be obstructed by war profiteering.

"It must not be obstructed by unnecessary strikes of workers, by short-sighted management, or by deliberate sabotage.

"For, unless we win there will be no freedom for either management or labor.

"Wise labor leaders and wise business managers will realize how necessary it is to their own existence to make common sacrifice for this great common cause.

"There is no longer the slightest question or doubt that the American people recognize the extreme seriousness of the present situation. That is why they have demanded, and got, a policy of unqualified, immediate, all-out aid for Britain, Greece, China, and for all the governments in exile whose homelands are temporarily occupied by the aggressors.

Aid to Be Increased.

"From now on that aid will be increased—and yet again increased—until total victory has been won.

"The British are stronger than ever in the magnificent morale which has enabled them to endure all the dark days and the shattered nights of the last 10 months. They have the full support and help of Canada and the other dominions, of the rest of their empire, and non-British people thruout the world who still think in terms of the great freedoms.

"The British people are braced for invasion whenever the attempt may come—tomorrow—next week—next month.

"In this historic crisis Britain is blessed with a brilliant and great leader in Winston Churchill. But no one knows better than Mr. Churchill himself that it is not alone his stirring words and valiant deeds which give the British their superb morale. The essence of that morale is in the masses of plain people who are completely clear in their minds about the one essential fact—that they would rather die as free men than live as slaves.

Front Line of Civilization.

"These plain people—civilians as well as soldiers, and sailors, and airmen—women and girls as well as men and boys—are fighting in the front line of civilization, and they are holding that line with a fortitude which will forever be the pride and the inspiration of all free men on every continent and on every island of the sea.

"The British people and their Grecian allies need ships. From America, they will get ships.

"They need planes. From America, they will get planes.

"They need food. From America, they will get food.

"They need tanks, and guns, and ammunition, and supplies of all kinds. From America, they will get tanks, and guns, and ammunition, and supplies of all kinds.

China to Be Helped, Too.

"China likewise expresses the magnificent will of millions of plain people to resist the dismemberment of their nation. China, thru the generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, asks our help. America has said that China shall have our help.

"Our country is going to be what our people have proclaimed it must be—the arsenal of democracy.

"Our country is going to play its full part.

"And when dictatorships disintegrate—and pray God that will be sooner than any of us now dares to hope—then our country must continue to play its great part in the period of world reconstruction.

"Master Race" Nonsense.

"We believe that the rallying cry of the dictators, their boasting about a master race, will prove to be pure stuff and nonsense. There never has been, there isn't now, and there never will be any race of people fit to serve as masters over their fellow men.

"The world has no use for any nation which, because of size or because of military might, asserts the right to goose step to world power over other nations or other races. We believe that any nationality, no matter how small, has the inherent right to its own nationhood.

"We believe that the men and women of such nations, no matter what size, can, thru the processes of peace, serve themselves and serve the world by protecting the common man's security, improve the standards of healthful living, provide markets for manufacture and for agriculture. Thru that kind of peaceful service every nation can increase its happiness, banish the terrors of war, and abandon man's inhumanity to man.

"Never, in all our history, have Americans faced a job so well worthwhile. May it be said of us in the days to come that our children and our children's children rise up and call us blessed."

Calls for Sacrifices

President Roosevelt as he appeared while pleading for "all out effort" in behalf of Britain and her allies in speech in Washington, D. C., last night.

U. S. IN 'UNDECLARED' WAR WITH GERMANY, ASSERTS GEN. SMUTS

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, March 15 (AP).—Prime Minister Gen. Jan C. Smuts said today that the American aid bill put the United States into "undeclared" war on the side of Britain. Smuts, in a broadcast after his return from a tour of the middle east, termed the bill Adolf Hitler's "most spectacular defeat."

"Behind Germany's open war with the British commonwealth," Smuts said, "lies the undeclared but no less real, grim war with the United States. Hitler cannot win both. The struggle must now proceed until the ghost of Naziism is finally laid."

JAPS' WARSHIPS QUIT INDO-CHINA; STIR UP MYSTERY

SAIGON, French Indo-China, March 15 (AP).—A Japanese torpedo boat, which had obtained official permission to remain here indefinitely, put out to sea unexpectedly today, mystifying French admiralty circles.

The craft's departure followed that of a Japanese cruiser yesterday and left Saigon without a Japanese warship for the first time since the arrival of a cruiser at the beginning of Japan's mediation of the Thailand [Siam]-Indo-China hostilities Jan. 30.

Departure of the Japanese naval squadron which for many days lay off Cap St. Jacques also was reported.

House Group Unanimously Approves Bill.

"It's a big job and may take the committee a month or more."

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. wrote Chairman Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.] of the house treasury appropriation subcommittee that "an unfortunate impression" has been created by publication of his testimony that mounting government costs probably would have to be financed one-third from revenues and two-thirds from borrowing.

Altho he had made such a statement, Morgenthau wrote, he had later testified before a senate finance subcommittee that he favored legislation to raise revenue sufficient to finance two-thirds of all expenditures, leaving one-third to be raised by borrowing.

Morgenthau did not detail how he expected congress to invent taxes to supply income to finance two-thirds of government spending. For armaments alone, the administration proposes to spend 35½ billions [including the 7 billion British arsenal fund] in the next fiscal year. The estimated revenue of the United States for the coming fiscal year is 8 billions, 275 millions.

The Administration's Attitude.

The administration was reported to be against any move to reduce the seven billion dollar British aid fund or to authorize the President to spend a portion of the amount in cash and make contracts to spend the remainder. Arrangements are being made to spend the entire sum within the next 16 months, it was said. On addition to Great Britain, Greece and China are slated to receive weapons. If Jugo-Slavia and Turkey decide to fight the axis powers, they, too, probably will be given war materials.

Since the President's power to supply war equipment under the dictator bill runs until June 30, 1943, these plans indicated that further billions may be asked if the war continues.

AMERICA FIRST'S WAR FOES RALLY 300 CITY GROUPS

The Chicago chapter of the America First committee mailed letters to more than 300 civic, church, and neighborhood organizations yesterday offering to send America First speakers to address their regular meetings.

At the same time, Miss Cornelia Howe, secretary of the Chicago chapter, announced a series of meetings to be held this week as part of the organization's drive to enroll 1,000,000 active members in Illinois for an intensified campaign to keep America out of war.

Attorney Walter F. Boye will address the Hyde Park chapter of the America First committee at 4:30 p. m. today in Graham-Taylor hall, 5757 University avenue, the first of four weekly meetings to be held under the auspices of the chapter.

Urban G. Willis, principal of Pullman Technical High school, will speak tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. before a meeting sponsored by the Oak Park chapter at 736 Lake street, Oak Park.

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, University of Chicago professor, will address the weekly luncheon of the Cicero Lions club Tuesday at 12:15 p. m. at 5736 22d avenue, Cicero. The speech will be broadcast over station WHFC from 1 to 1:30 p. m. A movie, "Which Way America," will also be shown.

Mrs. Gertrude Gardner, an attorney, will discuss "Defending Democracy at Home" at a meeting sponsored by the Evanston chapter of the America First committee Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Evanston State bank building.

National headquarters of the committee announced that Mrs. John P. Marquand, wife of the author, has been named a member of the national committee. New chapters have been established at Janesville, Wis., and Emerson, N. J., bringing to 652 the number of chapters thruout the nation.

SOUTH AFRICANS DROP OWN 'WAR,' ALL FIGHT NAZIS

Bitter Political Battle Is Shelved; Aid Britain.

[This is the ninth of a series of stories describing Capt. Corpening's trip from Lisbon to the British front in Eritrea.]

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPETOWN, South Africa [By Mail].—Politics is today, and apparently for 100 years, has been one of the most vital problems of South Africa. The present war, in reality, is a secondary problem of national life and serves as a temporary smoothing influence on the turbulent waters of the political battle.

The population of the colony is approximately 10,000,000, with 8,000,000 natives and 2,100,000 whites. The blacks have no vote or voice in the government. About 60 per cent of the whites are Dutch and 40 per cent English. The term Afrikaner applies to any native born white, but the Dutch like to consider themselves the true Afrikaners.

The Portuguese discovered this section at the beginning of the 16th century but the early settlement was established by the Dutch. The English came in numbers about 150 years later. Hence, the Dutch claim priority.

Strife Culminates in War.

As the English gained a foothold, the political strife began. It finally culminated in the Boer war of 1899-1902. An armistice ended the gunplay but added fuel to the political strife. The Boer war still is being fought wherever groups gather.

The extent of political strife is first noticed in advertising signs, which are prepared in both English and Afrikaan, which is the local variant of the language of Holland. Afrikaan is an official language in the colony.

Another glaring example of the cross purposes of the people is found in the dual capital. The legislative seat is in English Capetown, while the executive or administrative capital is Pretoria, in Transvaal province, a Dutch stronghold.

Premier Backs Britain.

The salvation of England's war efforts and interests is found here in Gen. Jan C. Smuts, the premier. He was the leader of the Boers in the 1900 war and leader of South Africa in the world war. Gen. Smuts is an Afrikaan, but believes the colony's best interest lie in playing ball with England.

On the other side is J. B. M. Hertzog, likewise an Afrikaan, who, as head of the National, or opposition, party, believes the colony's future lies within itself and that it should be neutral.

At the moment Gen. Smuts is the man of the hour and the country is playing to English interests by going full steam ahead on war preparations.

Neutral spokesmen declare the National party has agreed to a compromise and will aid the war effort to facilitate its fight for complete independence after the war.

Tremendous strides in war production have been made since the beginning of the war without government force.

Strong Forces Built Up.

In 1939 there was virtually no navy, army, air force, or equipment. Now, however, small boats have been organized into a sea defense and have been used as mine sweepers.. An army of more than 100,000 troops has been mobilized. Airplanes have been brought from England and the United States and training centers set up. Steel plants have been converted into tank factories. American automobile assembly plants are turning out war vehicles and some factories have been converted into munitions and shell plants.

Home guard units also have been organized and women are taking an active interest in military affairs.

Admits Shooting

John Thoel, 28 years old, was shot twice in the body yesterday by Stanford Lawler, 32, in a fight in Thoel's flat at 1149 Washington boulevard. Police said the men had quarreled over Lawler's estranged wife, Mary, 19. Lawler was seized by Park Policeman William Campbell. He admitted the shooting and said Thoel had broken up his home. Thoel was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

HARRIMAN TELLS THE BRITISH U. S. MEANS BUSINESS

LONDON, March 15 (AP).—W. A. Harriman, a special representative of President Roosevelt assigned to London, arrived at Bristol airport today and declared: "Believe me, that as to the war, the American people certainly mean business."

"I have come as the President's special representative to facilitate the arrival of all types of material aid to Britain," Harriman said. He added that this would include ships and food.

Asked if he planned to tour Britain's bombed areas, Harriman replied he was in England "for the duration," except for occasional trips to the United States, and probably would see everything.

Harriman was met at the Bristol airport by a delegation of American embassy officials and flew on to London.

BARE FIGURES ON BOMBERS' TOLL OF BRITISH NAVY

48 Ships Sunk by Direct Blows from Air.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—Interesting facts regarding the destructive power of aircraft in combat against warships are revealed by study of the latest edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships." It discloses that the royal navy's losses from all causes up to and including January totaled 205 ships, ranging from the battleship Royal Oak to drifters, which are used in mine sweeping. The total tonnage of the losses was 396,950.

The publication contains pictures and descriptions of many ships lost. The place and the weapon that caused the sinking are stated where those facts are known.

An analysis reveals that 48 ships are known to have been sunk as the result of air bombing attacks. Mines, which probably were sown by aircraft, accounted for 49 more. Twenty-five other ships just disappeared, and airplanes undoubtedly sank some of them, either thru direct bombing or mine laying.

21 Ships Lost Off Norway.

At Narvik, Norway, Britain lost two destroyers. Twenty-one British ships in all were sunk during the Norwegian operations. Dunkirk became the graveyard of 31 British and eight French warships after the allied armies' disaster on the continent.

The losses in the Norwegian campaign were the aircraft carrier Glorious, sunk by the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau; the cruiser Effingham, sunk on an uncharted rock; the antiaircraft cruser Curley, bombed by aircraft; six destroyers, two sunk with the Glorious and two in the Narvik action; 11 trawlers, and one escort ship.

Three submarines, possibly engaged in trying to prevent German transports from crossing the Skagerrak, were lost about the same time.

Of the 31 ships lost at Dunkirk, 8 were destroyers, 11 trawlers, 1 armed yacht, 1 minesweeper, 5 auxiliary minesweepers, 1 fleet tugboat, 1 gunboat, and 3 miscellaneous vessels.

Cruiser Sunk by Bomb.

Of the total losses, including those in the Mediterranean, air bombing is credited with one cruiser, the Southampton; 1 antiaircraft cruiser, 13 destroyers, 1 escort sloop, 1 fleet minesweeper, 29 trawlers, 1 armed merchantman, 2 armed yachts, 5 auxiliary minesweepers, 1 tug, and 1 auxiliary vessel. This, of course, does not account for ships sunk by mines dropped from aircraft.

The British proved in their raid on the Italian fleet at Taranto, Italy, that aircraft are a more powerful weapon than even their own admirals had been willing to admit. There the planes launched from aircraft carriers did all the damage by aerial torpedoes. The fact that the powerful British battleship Renown survived a direct hit by a heavy bomb without sustaining major damage, however, is declared to show that heavily armored ships are capable of withstanding bombs.

Plane Carrier Survives.

The aircraft carrier Illustrious, one of Britain's newest additions to the fleet, withstood a heavy dive bombing attack by the Germans and, despite a direct hit, reached Malta. There, after more attacks by the dive bombers, she was spirited away to the east for repairs, indicating that even these crafts, altho they appear to be vulnerable, can take bomb attacks. It is certain that in designing aircraft carriers recently added to Britain's fleet, allowances were made to add decks for defense against bombs.

The figures are declared to indicate that naval power and tactics must be evaluated on a new basis because of new hazards to which battleships are now subject, particularly mosquito boats, aerial bombs, torpedoes, and mines.

Illinois D. A. R. Installs New President

A PEACE WITHOUT VICTORY IS URGED BY MISSIONARY

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, famed missionary to India and a leading Protestant minister, pleads in an article in the current Christian Century, Protestant journal, for peace without victory in Europe's war.

America, he says, can follow one of three possible courses: Participation, arbitration, or mediation. He favors the third course.

"Our participation last time was disastrous," Dr. Jones asserts. "It would have been far better to have had 'a peace without victory,' for, drunk with victory we laid the foundation of this war in the Versailles treaty. There is no reason to believe that our participation again would be any less disastrous.

"If we get into the war there will be one unexhausted nation at the close and that will be Russia, and Russia will therefore decide and dominate the peace. The probabilities are that the common people, seeing Russia as the only nonbelligerent, will turn to her as the messiah to lead them out of this recurring hell of war and depression."

Dr. Jones urges mediation as the only acceptable rôle for the United States because, he said, mediation can effect changes in the attitudes of the contestants whereas arbitration, which forces the arbiter to decide what is right and what is wrong, frequently lays the basis for future conflicts.

"We feel that God has some greater rôle for us to play in human affairs than to be the 'arsenal of democracy,'" Dr. Jones declares. "Apart from the question of divine vocation, it seems cheap that we should manufacture instruments of war with which other people are to fight for us what many believe to be our battles."

Dr. Jones is touring the United States in the national Christian mission of the Federal Council of Churches.

Urge U. S. Defense

The Illinois Daughters of the American Revolution forwarded to senators and representatives in Washington yesterday a resolution asking them to follow up their enactment of legislation to furnish arms to other nations by also providing "all necessary armaments for our own country, not sacrificing our defense for others, to the end that the American system of republican democracy shall not be lost in conflicts which are now so general in our world."

The resolution, which also recommended that D. A. R. members maintain a constant vigil on pending legislation in the state and the nation, was indorsed by the Illinois society at the close of its annual convention in the Stevens hotel.

Another resolution commended the state department of education for examining textbooks for subversive teachings, and urged authorities, and members of the society to remain on the alert.

TONNAGE MEANS STORAGE SPACE IN CARGO SHIPS

In War Vessels, However, It Means Weight.

Recent claims by Europe's warring powers of enemy ships sunk have aroused interest in the methods by which the tonnage of ships is determined. R. B. Walker, local representative of Lloyd's agency, London and an experienced marine surveyor, yesterday cleared up some misunderstandings about the size and capacity of ocean vessels.

The term "tonnage" which appears in stories of sinking of merchant and general cargo vessels means "gross tonnage." This is not the actual weight of the ship but the volume of internal space of the vessel—made up of the underdeck volume and any enclosed spaces above deck, such as additional storage space, crew quarters, passengers' cabins, pilot and deck houses. The underdeck, where most cargo is carried, is the space between the ship's bottom and the undersurface of the main deck.

Volume Expressed in Tons.

Gross tonnage, Walker explained, is another way of referring to the ship's volume except that it is expressed in tons with one ton equivalent to 100 cubic feet. Thus, the steamship Manhattan, with a listed gross tonnage of nearly 25,000 tons, has a capacity of 2,500,000 cubic feet.

When "tonnage" is applied to ships of war—battleships, destroyers, submarines and the others with little or practically no cargo carrying capacity—"displacement tonnage" is meant. This is the physical weight of the ship, the figure which would appear on the indicator of some massive scale if the ship could be placed thereon.

Illustration of Difference.

"A ship with a displacement of 10,000 tons," Walker said, "may be so constructed as to be able only to carry a small amount of cargo. Another ship with a similar displacement tonnage may be able to carry cargo weighing 10 times as much."

"A graphic illustration of the difference between gross and displacement tonnage," Walker said, "might be shown by two boxes each with 100 cubic feet of space. One box is of cardboard, the other of lead. Both would be exactly the same size but quite obviously the weight would be different. Thus, both would have gross tonnage, if the shipping system of measurement were applied, of one ton, but the displacement tonnage would vary immensely."

Still a third kind of tonnage is known as "deadweight tonnage." The cargo carrying capacity of a vessel as expressed in the weight of the load it can carry is referred to as "deadweight tonnage." This has no fixed relation to gross tonnage or underdeck tonnage, Walker said.

MORE CANADIANS AT GIBRALTAR TO BUILD NEW FORTS

LONDON, March 15 (AP).—Another contingent of Canadian troops has arrived at Gibraltar to help in the rush job of making new fortifications, the war office said today. Among the men are hard rock miners.

Members of the Royal Canadian Engineers Tunnelling company have been trained for their job and will work with the first Canadian detachment of sappers, who have been in Gibraltar since the start of the winter, cutting new defenses out of the rock and building a subterranean town.

With the new fortifications it has been estimated that the rock would be able to withstand a siege of more than 18 months.

A Sale You Planned in 1937

Yes, Mr. Chicagoan, YOU planned this sale, whether you remember it or not. Back in '37 we were fortunate in securing a remarkable lot of goods at prices that were, to say the least, ridiculous. The sale occurred just before Easter, and needless to say, we sold out in a short time. In 1938 we would gladly have skipped the event, such merchandise not being easily available, but YOU stepped into the picture once again. You demanded the sale and your clamor has been growing louder each year. No longer do we dare overlook it . . . no indeed! For months we must hunt and pick, haggle and fight to get the greatest values of the year for Chicago men. As the prizefighter says, "It's been a tough fight," but we won! The effort that has been put into this event . . . the hours that have been spent in selecting and rejecting the fabrics, the styles . . . all add up to CHICAGO'S GREATEST PRE-EASTER CLOTHING SALE . . . and here it is:

ILLINOIS TROOPS TO STUDY DIXIE'S BATTLE GROUNDS

Will Visit Famous Fields Near Camp Forrest.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Forrest, Tenn., March 15.—Illinois National Guardsmen, now beginning a year of federal service in Tennessee, are to have the opportunity to attend a unique school devoted to a study of the rôle played by this state in the Civil war. They also will be given the chance to learn both the northern and southern points of view on that war.

Classrooms will be the numerous battlefields in this part of Tennessee on which troops of the Union and Confederate armies clashed. Several of these battlefields lie within 100 miles of Camp Forrest.

Attendance in the school will not be compulsory, and there will be no official credit to the soldier-students who take the course. The school is the main cog in a plan evolved by Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton of Chicago, commander of Illinois' 33d Division, to make this a profitable year for his troops.

Rich in War Lore.

"Camp Forrest lies in an area as rich in historical lore of the Civil war period as any in the United States," Gen. Lawton said today. "It would be a shame if our Illinois men, many of whom never have been in the south before, should not have the opportunity to study this Civil war history at first hand.

"Soldiers who wish to take the course will spend their week-ends visiting the various battlefields. We will arrange to have them transported to the historical sites by bus or army trucks. Some arrangements will be worked out for inexpensive food and lodging on these trips. Guides will accompany them.

"I feel that the men should be offered both the Union and Confederate points of view in regard to the war. For this reason, before the trips begin, we will have mimeographed chapters from both northern and southern histories dealing with the battles of this area. These will be distributed to the students so they will get both sides of the story."

Await Better Weather.

Gen. Lawton said the first trip will be to Murfreesboro, 43 miles north of Camp Forrest. There Union troops under Gen. William S. Rosecrans attacked the Confederates under Gen. Braxton Bragg and forced them to withdraw in 1863. Gen. Lawton said this trip will be made as soon as the weather, which has been consistently bad at Camp Forrest, becomes better.

Other trips on the schedule include visits to the vicinity of Chattanooga, 75 miles southeast of Forrest, where were fought the battles of Chicamauga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, and Chattanooga.

Trips also will be made to Franklin and Nashville, northwest of Camp Forrest—both scenes of fierce fighting.

"We also plan to take the men to King's mountain, on the border between North and South Carolina, where one of the greatest battles of the revolutionary war was fought on Oct. 7, 1780," Gen. Lawton said.

124th Field Artillery Will Entrain for Camp Today

Eight hundred officers and men of the 124th field artillery will leave by train today for Camp Forrest, Tenn., where they will join other former National Guard units of the 33d division for a year's army service. The group will leave in two units from Union station, the first at 12:40 p. m. and the second at 3:40 p. m.

GUARD OFFICERS' POLITICAL PASTS UNDER SCRUTINY

Undesirables Are to Be Dropped from Service.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The army has launched an investigation into the private lives of National Guard officers who owe their shoulder insignia to politics, it was learned today. The purpose is to weed out any officers whose political past would indicate they might bring disgrace upon the officer corps.

"The army has no intention of harboring in its officer ranks any one who might transform the eagle on his shoulder straps or buttons into a political bird of prey," an officer of general rank said of the investigation.

It was reported that the army's investigation is largely in states where powerful political machines have dominated all phases of state life. It was reported that investigators are at work in Illinois. Among officers under scrutiny is one who has made a fortune out of his political connections.

Many "Outs" for Army.

In the event a Guard officer is found undesirable the army has several ways of removing him without bringing discredit to the army, a general officer said.

Most of the political officers are of such age that a doctor could find some excuse for turning them down on physical grounds or the army can place such officers in virtual exile by sidetracking them or relieving them of their commands.

The army has still another course—to make army life unbearable for the officer who is not wanted because of his political record. He can be demoted or given tours of duty which will force him to submit his resignation.

Many Are Ambitious.

The army recognizes that many guard officers owe their rank to friends in political circles. Many of these were prompted to use their connections to fulfill military ambitions, as many a young entrant to the military academy at West Point used political connections to obtain appointment to the academy.

Some officers so selected are incompetent, but many are as good as can be expected. A few are excellent, it was said.

SEEK INDICTMENT OF APPELT TODAY IN LOVE SLAYING

A cousin, to whom Walter Appelt, 32 years old, is reported to have confessed the killing of Joseph Lorenz, a rival for the affections of Appelt's estranged wife, will testify before the grand jury tomorrow when the state seeks the indictment of Appelt on a murder charge, Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan said yesterday.

Appelt visited the cousin, Herbert Schultz, at the latter's home in Effingham, Ill., shortly after Lorenz was shot in the back near his home at 4521 Malden street.

Mrs. Waneta Appelt, the estranged wife, made a statement yesterday to Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall police.

TRIBUNE FAMILY AND W-G-N STAFF TO TRADE VISITS

Each Group to See What Other Fellow Does.

Up to the present many of the employés of THE TRIBUNE and their fellows across the court in the W-G-N radio station have worked for years, literally side by side, without ever knowing much about how "the other half" operates.

But this situation is about to be remedied. Beginning tomorrow night, members of the entire Tribune-W-G-N family will engage in a series of exchange visits. Tribune men and women, from pressroom to editorial sanctum, will be guests at broadcasts in the main audience studio of W-G-N, while those of the radio station will be taken on conducted tours thru every department of the newspaper plant.

To See What Other Fellow Does.

These visits were planned to afford an opportunity for the staffs of the two organizations to take part, with their husbands, wives, and families, in informal gatherings at which they would learn how "the other fellow does his job."

Two weeks ago personal invitations went to each of the 2,950 employés of the newspaper in Chicago, and to the 269 staff members of W-G-N. Because the capacity of the studio auditorium is limited to 650 persons and the conducted tours of THE TRIBUNE usually include no more than 50, a staggered schedule of visiting dates was arranged and each person was asked to express his preference.

Seven Broadcasts Reserved.

Reservations were made for Tribune employés at seven W-G-N broadcasts. The first of these broadcasts—the Pageant of Melody program tomorrow night—will be given over to an observance of St. Patrick's day. Attilio Baggiore will sing in his best Irish brogue, supplemented by the W-G-N chorus. Henry Weber will conduct the studio concert orchestra. The program also will be broadcast over the Mutual network.

The six succeeding broadcasts to be visited include two Whispering Smith programs on Wednesday nights; two In Chicago Tonight shows on Thursday evenings; another Pageant of Melody broadcast on Monday evening, March 24, and the Chicagoland Hour program on the night of March 29, which will conclude the visits.

Tours of the Tribune plant to which W-G-N staff members and their families have been invited will be conducted tomorrow evening and every evening for the following four days. These tours will include a showing of the sound motion picture, "Trees to Tribunes."

STAY OF PRISON TERM GRANTED TO CARRUTHERS

Hugh Greer Carruthers, who is under sentence of 10 years in the penitentiary for raping a girl, 12 years old, was granted a writ of supersedeas yesterday by Justice Loren Murphy of the Illinois Supreme court in Monmouth. The writ means that Carruthers will remain free on bond of $20,000 until the high court reviews his case. The writ was obtained by Attorney Cameron Latter, according to word received by Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. Carruthers is head of the Neological [new logic] Foundation, 32 West Randolph street.

ASK SANITY TEST FOR MAIL CARRIER WHO WON'T WORK

William Hintz, a Highland Park mail carrier for 27 years, who has taken long layoffs recently because he "didn't feel like working," will be given a sanity test in the Lake county court at Waukegan late this week. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Coulson announced this yesterday before County Judge Perry L. Persons.

Hintz, who is 55 years old and lives at 157 North 2d street in Highland Park, was scheduled to go before Judge Persons yesterday on a charge of contributing to the dependency of his wife, Burnetta Hintz, and their three children, but he failed to appear. Postal officials, who are eager to keep Hintz on the job three more years to qualify him for a pension, said he is a good worker and they cannot understand his attitude.

Mrs. Hintz said that in two year periods since 1924, her husband has stopped working for several months.

Wheaton College Plans New Physical Education Building

Dr. V. Raymond Edman, president of Wheaton college, announced yesterday that $37,000 is on hand toward the building of a new physical education building to cost $110,000. Dr. Edman said construction may be started early in the spring.

OUT OF THE NIGHT

. . . When the day's work is ended you hope to obtain—out of the night—the recreation and relaxation that comes from the reading of the current best-seller, your popular magazine or your favorite newspaper.

But perhaps you are one of those people who just can't relax and lose the cares of the day in interesting reading. Perhaps you're too nervous, or too tired or perhaps you suffer from close work headache. Perhaps your nervousness, tiredness or headache is due to eyestrain—and perhaps it is not.

Many people with eye discomfort do not need glasses. Eyestrain may be due to too much close work, for example. But when any question of eyestrain exists, a trip to Chicago's most modern optical department will result in an intelligent eye examination and sane and truthful advice . . . without charge or obligation.

ARMY TRAINING SPECIALISTS IN INVASION TERROR

'Destruction Units' Would Drop Behind Lines.

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—The army said today that sabotage, destruction and demoralization would be the mission of a specialized corps of fighters it is training for landing behind potential enemy lines by parachute and plane.

The objectives were set forth in a routine new training circular, prescribing rules and regulations for these "task forces."

Altho their use was suggested long ago the United States army did not form a parachute battalion until October, 1940, after German parachute troops had proved their striking power in the conquest of the Low countries and France.

500 Sky-Soldiers Training.

The 501st parachute battalion, with 500 men now in training at Fort Benning, Ga., is the army's only sky-soldier unit, but it will provide the nucleus for other planned detachments of air troops.

"Air landing troops," to support the parachutists once they have won a foothold, are also being equipped and trained to be flown to their objective in transport planes.

"Both types of troops are intended primarily for missions that require dash, aggressive enterprise and determination," the army says.

Used for Special Missions.

"Such troops would seize, hold and exploit important tactical localities or installations in conjunction with, or while awaiting the arrival of other military or naval forces. To assist in the decisive exploitation of success achieved by combat aviation or ground troops, they would be thrown into a fight on special missions of destruction and demoralization.

"Sabotage would be a specialty of these troops. Prowling thru rear areas they would smash the enemy's communications and all installations necessary for sustaining enemy troops. Movements of enemy reserves would be impeded. Enemy supplies would be destroyed."

Parachutists will carry rifles, automatic rifles, pistols, submachine guns, and grenades, while transport planes carrying supporting air troops will carry heavy machine guns, antitank guns, mortars, and perhaps 75 mm. howitzers.

The air troops must carry their own portable radio sets, aircraft signal panels, and pyrotechnics for communication.

VANITY'S NAME STILL WOMAN TO CHIROPODIST

Vanity is the foot's worst enemy, in the opinion of some 400 members of the Illinois Association of Chiropodists and Foot Specialists who assembled in the Morrison hotel last night to open their 33d annual convention.

High spike heels, open toes, and such fashions cause much of the trouble women have with their feet, according to Dr. William Gribow of Chicago, chairman of the association's ethical relations committee. He said women patients outnumber men, 20 to 1, in the chiropodist's office.

Men's troubles usually begin in youth, when a narrow, pointed toe is likely to be considered the criterion of a shoe's stylishness. Men adopt sensible styles when they reach the age of discretion, Dr. Gribow observed.

"Incidentally, women's claims to the contrary, men have better posture than women," said Dr. Gribow. "A high heel throws the weight of the body forward to the ball of the foot, instead of over the arch. In leaning back to compensate for this, women often tend to develop a slight curvature of the spine."

Extradition of Accused Rapist O. K.'d by Green

Extradition of Maurice Bearss, 29 years old, from the Lake county jail at Waukegan to Rutland, Vt., to face trial on a rape charge was authorized yesterday by Gov. Green in Springfield. Bearss is accused of attacking a girl near Rutland in April, 1937. He later enlisted in the army, being assigned to Fort Sheridan two months ago. He was found thru his finger prints. Bearss has been discharged from the army.

3 VESSELS RUSH TO AID OF SHIP AFTER SOS CALL

Crew Takes to Boats, Message Says.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 15 (AP).—More than a score of seamen were believed bobbing about on the waves of the Atlantic ocean more than 600 miles east of here today as three ships sped to the position given by their vessel in an SOS just before the radio operator said they were taking to the lifeboats.

The call letters of the ship indicated it was the former American freighter Mahukona with a crew of about 26 men, mostly Brazilians.

Cargo of Coal Aboard.

The freighter left Norfolk, Va., Monday with a cargo of coal for Rio de Janeiro where the ship was to be turned over to its new owners, Navebras, S. A., and renamed the Santa Clara. Capt. Thedim of Brazil was in command.

Coast guard division headquarters here reported receipt of the SOS and said three ships—the SS. Borinquen, the SS. West Shipper, and the coast guard cutter Modoc—were proceeding to the scene.

The New York and Porto Rico Steamship company said late tonight the Borinquen reported she was unable to find any trace of the Mahukona.

Unable to Locate Lifeboats.

The Borinquen, which was 70 miles from the position given by the freighter in the S O S, reported:

"Have not been able to locate lifeboats of steamer Mahukona or any wreckage at position given last message from her at 9 a. m. reporting they were abandoning ship."

OUR PRICE FIXERS.

Washington's price policeman, Leon Henderson, had nothing to say last week about the rise which took place in the price of a number of agricultural products. Mr. Henderson has fixed maximum prices for scrap iron and second hand machine tools. He has threatened summary action if the increase in the quotations on several other commodities is not terminated.

The reason that the price commissar did not indicate his displeasure at the advancing market for butter, eggs, cheese, cottonseed oil, and several other agricultural products is that the government itself was doing the buying. Bids by the government agency known as the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation carried butter to the highest point in four years and eggs to the peak of the last three years.

The government is thus trying to keep down the price of certain commodities at the same time that it is trying to raise the price of certain other commodities. There is a third class of goods, the price of which the government is trying neither to inflate or to deflate.

The department of labor publishes weekly an index which shows whether the price level is rising or falling. So far there has been very little change since the war started in this over-all measure of prices. On March 1 the index stood at 80.5, which is about 1 point higher than in September, 1939. This index is lower than at any time in 1936 or 1937 and below the peak of 1938.

The government's action in moving both ways at once has been due to a belief in official circles that those commodities which have gone down should have gone up and the commodities which have gone up should have gone down or at least not have changed.

But are the methods followed in attaining economy in armament and prosperity on the farm well adapted to the purposes sought? The reason that the strategic materials like scrap iron and machine tools command higher prices is that the supplies are not equal to the demand. The government's effort should be directed toward bringing forth larger supplies. The price itself is the most important influence in affecting the amount available. If the price of machine tools were to rise high enough many persons who now use some tools on nondefense work would find it profitable to sell. The used machine tool supply in the market is no larger than it is because the price is no higher than it is. And it is the same with other commodity prices about which Mr. Henderson concerns himself. There will be no shortage of scrap iron if the government allows the price to go high enough to bring forth the supply.

With agricultural commodities the government policy is just the reverse, and mistaken for the opposite reason. Supplies are so excessive storage space is at a premium, because at this stage the government steps in either with loans or outright purchases and prevents a reduction in price which would both increase consumption and reduce production. The government is thereby bringing about a further increase in supply of commodities of which we already have too much.

Note: Argentina, which paid its farmers 36 cents a bushel for last year's corn, has most of it on hand and is confronted with a huge new crop. The old corn is being sold for 3 cents a bushel to be used for fuel.

SONS OF THE WAGNER ACT.

Sidney Hillman of the Office of Production Management says he has told both A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. leaders that they must be "big enough" to stop the jurisdictional disputes that are crippling defense production. He also says that he does not believe that the wave of strikes is interfering seriously with production.

Mr. Hillman is a partisan of one of the contending labor camps and his view of the inconsequential nature of the production tieups is one that may not be shared widely. It is not improbable that congressional anger at labor disturbances will boil over and result in some statutes that will bring home to labor unions the fact that if government can bestow privileges lavishly it can also take them away on the same large scale.

The Wagner act was passed on the excuse, and perhaps in the sincere belief of many of its backers, that it would minimize industrial strife. Its effect has been the opposite. That effect was inevitable, considering its provisions.

The invitation to ambitious labor leaders to seize control of industrial labor was as rich a piece of booty as ever was conferred by a legislative act. Beside it the homestead acts that opened the public lands to settlers were mere poor relief measures. There was, futhermore, no restraint placed on the dues collecting franchises or upon the excercise of the immense economic and political power vested in the unions. The Wagner act has not only failed to protect employers and the public against labor abuses, it has even failed to offer union members any safeguards against the rapacity or tyranny of their own leaders.

It was inevitable that with such rich prizes at stake the struggle to possess them would be bitter in the extreme. It is not improbable that even if the Congress of Industrial Organizations had not been in process of formation the rivalry for power would have split the ranks of the American Federation of Labor.

The Wagner act also facilitated the intrusion into the two national labor movements of their twin evils, the communists in the C. I. O. and the gangsters in the A. F. of L. The communists had been pretty well weeded out of labor unions until the C. I. O. had need of their services as trained revolutionaries. Once in, they have been able to use union treasuries to finance their movement and union power to further their ends, and the act has protected them in so doing. An employer may know that the union agent sitting across from him is a communist whose interest is not in getting better wages but in disrupting production, but he must bargain with the communist or be haled into court by fellow travelers in the labor board.

There were gangsters in unions before the passage of the Wagner act, but it was the rich rewards offered by the act that attracted the Nittis and Bioffs and other prohibition era racketeers into the labor field, and it was the riches and power reaped thru the act that permitted them to bolster their positions and defy their own members and the public to get rid of them.

It will be said of this situation that the Wagner act has secured better wages and working conditions for hundreds of thousands of workmen, which is true. But they would still have the benefits and would be free of a myriad of abuses if the act had exacted a measure of responsibility equal to the powers it conferred.

It will also be said that the majority of labor leaders are honest men and democratic Americans who do not abuse their power. But if this is true the honest men have done nothing effective to clean their ranks of the communists and the racketeers, and thus have no ground for complaint if they are subjected to legal restraints designed to correct the abuses.

A GIANT AMONG NATIONS.

In the London Economist of Jan. 11, which reached this country a few days ago, a leading article was devoted to an examination of America's military strength. A few sentences may be quoted:

"There can be no question that it is by far the most powerful economic unit in the world that is thus being mobilized. In national income the United States outweighs either Great Britain or Germany fourfold; its annual output is probably twice as great as that of the whole continent of Europe, victors and vanquished alike." The editor goes on to say that our productive capacity is not yet fully directed to war purposes, but "in time the United States could be strong enough to stand alone against a coalition of every great power in the world." By January, 1943, he says, "America will be a giant among nations."

Any Americans who have been listening to the terrified cries from Washington in recent weeks and months will hardly recognize their country in that description. We have no reason to fear any nation or any combination of nations that can be brought against us. Japan already has her hands full in China and the end of that war is not in sight. Germany is still trying to overcome Britain. Italy is punch drunk. Even if all their plans of conquest should succeed within the next few months it would still be long after January of 1943 before they would turn their attention to us. No sane man can suppose that Germany will undertake an American adventure as long as a dozen conquered nations in Europe are praying for just such an opportunity to rise and throw off the yoke.

America has no need to rely upon allies for her salvation from overseas attack. That is why Americans who think of America first are opposing our participation in the war. We have no reason to resume a colonial status; we are strong in our own right and fully able to defend ourselves against any dangers that may come our way. We are stronger than any of the so-called mother countries and, in fact, stronger than all of them together, as the editor of the Economist has testified. Our geographical position, which he did not mention, is another stupendous factor in our favor. We can stand on our own feet if any nation in the history of nations ever could.

Nevertheless, the campaign of terror has made great headway in this country, aided as it has been by all the bleeding hearts and the amateur colonials. The campaign was and is directed toward getting us into the war. Merely to organize the nation's capacity for defense it was not necessary to spread the hysteria of fear, but it was necessary if the nation was to be swept into a war which was not of our making and from which we could gain nothing to compensate us for the cost.

There is no need to itemize the bill. If we get into the war the republic itself will be lost. The bankruptcy, social disorganization, and despair which war will produce will drive this country as they have so many others into dictatorship. Political liberty will disappear and with it economic liberty. To escape a fancied danger of invasion from Europe we are risking everything we value.

Last week we revised the Platform for Illinois and Chicago which for many years has appeared at the head of the editorial column in THE DAILY TRIBUNE. Now the platform contains only one plank: "Save Our Republic." Perhaps we should make the same change in the Platform for America at the head of the Sunday page, for, obviously, "Save Our Republic" is not a slogan for Chicago and Illinois alone, but for the present we shall leave the national platform as it has stood. The two planks tell how the republic can be saved; and besides, we cherish the hope that Illinois, which gave Lincoln and Grant to the nation in '61 and led in the preservation of the Union, will lead again.

Editorial of the Day

NOT "VENTURE CAPITAL."

[New York World-Telegram.]

Millions of Americans ought to be keenly interested in the life insurance report and recommendations made to the temporary national economic committee by representatives of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Many of the findings and proposals are constructive.

Unfortunately, everything else is overshadowed by the statement that "the vast assets of the life companies are only available for big business" and by the suggestion that government may have to do something to correct that alleged situation—specifically, that the companies should invest part of their assets in common stocks.

This is, in plain effect, a proposal to use life insurance reserves to meet the demand for "venture capital." It is alarming to every policyholder. What the policyholder wants is safety for the estate he is buying for his family. That's why he pays insurance premiums instead of buying common stocks. He certainly does not want an insurance company to put his money into enterprises he considers too risky for himself.

The need for "venture capital" is great, and we think the insurance companies may be doing more than the report concedes to meet this need. Almost 30 per cent of their 28 billion dollar assets is secured in farm and urban mortgages and policy loans, much of it undoubtedly helping small and new enterprises.

The government could and should do a great deal to encourage, and to stop discouraging, investment in such enterprises by wealthy individuals. But the mere hint that the government has its eye on life insurance savings, and may be seeking a way to compel their use as "venture capital," is enough to make policyholders suspicious of every recommendation in the life insurance report.

BRITAIN'S RESCUE HEROES

BY GUY MURCHIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON [by Mail].—Of the many ways in which America is participating in Europe's war, probably the most familiar to the British people is the activity of American ambulances. The trim gray cars with crossed American and British flag insignia on the sides are a common sight in any English town that knows its bombs. The part they play is a story.

In the Germans' big attack on Coventry the American ambulances had to evacuate patients from a damaged hospital over a road treacherously pitted with bomb craters. Delayed bombs were still going off at intervals, sometimes blowing houses into the streets. The streets were littered with broken glass, loose bricks, roof slates and pieces of beams and joists, and a cloud of smoke hung over the city. Water mains had been broken and a hundred fires raged.

An ambulance section leader, Mrs. Colmore, told me:

"We arrived at the hospital to find the nurses' dormitory gone and the main building partly demolished. Patients were lying on stretchers or being carried down a gigantic mound of earth and rubble flung up by the blast.

"My job was to evacuate the patients of a maternity ward to Leamington, ten miles distant. Familiar landmarks had either vanished or been made unrecognizable with heaps of débris, and so I drove a twisting course thru side streets until I got outside the city and joined a procession of homeless people streaming toward Leamington. They carried few belongings. One held a bird cage, another a loaf of bread and a blanket. Children clutched dolls or toy airplanes. One man had a little black dog tucked into his coat. An old woman was pushed along in a chair, and a baby carriage served as moving van for one family.

"When we had unloaded our patients in Leamington we hurried back to Coventry and found that the only remaining patient was a wounded German airman [here several words were deleted by the censor] but we picked up about two dozen refugees. Before returning to our station in Birmingham we gave a ride to a fireman who had collapsed after 36 hours of continuous work without food.

"The girls in the other ambulance at the Coventry hospital had to cook and sleep in their vehicle with a 500 pound time bomb 70 feet away and an oil bomb alongside."

No sooner had the tired girls dropped off to sleep than the Germans opened a "blitz" against Birmingham. For six more hours the girls evacuated patients from the West Bromwich hospital in a thunderstorm of bombs.

That was on a Tuesday. On the following Friday Birmingham was attacked for 11 hours and the apartment house in which Mrs. Colmore and three of her drivers lived received a direct hit, two of the girls narrowly escaping death.

* * *

There are now in Britain more than 500 American ambulances and motorized surgical or first-aid units kept in readiness to relieve air raid victims or move hospital patients to quiet areas. About half of them are operated by the American Ambulance in Great Britain, of which Charles G. Osborne, who was in charge of Red Cross transportation in France during the last war, is director. The others are run by the American Red Cross and the British-American Volunteer Ambulance. About $1,000,000, enough for the first year's operations, has been donated by Americans to keep the ambulances ready.

The girl drivers are British and sections have been organized over all England, Wales, and Scotland, several serving the London area.

Approximately $10 a week is paid each girl and she pays her share for food and rent. The girls do their own cooking and housework, and usually their washing.

The London County council had 400 ambulances and 3,000 firemen before the war; now there are approximately 10,000 ambulances and 30,000 firemen, not counting the huge new crops of amateur fire watchers. To these must now be added about 15,000 rescue and demolition workers, both men and women, who rescue bomb victims and clear away débris or brace weak buildings to enable traffic and pedestrians to use the streets.

And then there are contractors' workmen and army pioneers who complete the clearing away of débris after the emergency work has been done. Next come the salvage corps and repair squads, who patch broken windows, replace roof tiles, and make habitable any building that seems to be worth using. The cost of repairs is theoretically paid by the owner of the premises concerned, but in practice it is charged against compensation the government has promised to pay householders after the war.

Girl ambulance crews and male rescue squads receive intensive periods of training. Besides learning to drive, the girls take courses in mechanics, first aid, and stretcher carrying.

* * *

The rescue men are trained as specialists. Most of them are picked from the building trades or mining so that they will be experienced in handling heavy materials and using hoists and crowbars, and be better prepared to prevent collapses and cave-ins. There are five training schools for these men and about 7,000 had been graduated when the Germans began their heavy bombings.

Until last August rescue workers were not popular in England. For a year, as they sat waiting, they were accused of dodging the draft for a soft life. Then the bombings started, and overnight the rescue men, the firemen, the ambulance drivers, and the war reserve police became heroes.

Now a complaint has been made about rescue workers quitting their jobs. Clearance workers, who labor in daylight at less risk, are paid more than the night heroes. The heroes, of course, are leaving their night jobs whenever they can get day work. The difference in pay scales exists because the clearance workers are paid by contractors for 10 hours of labor on definite tasks, while the rescue squads work only when there are rescues to be made.

Strange and heroic stories are told by the London rescue men. A movie theater on the outskirts of the city was so badly bombed one night that the front collapsed. The title of the picture showing there was "Everything Happens at Night." By contrast there is the story of an 18 year old girl who remained 48 hours under débris but was finally dug out alive. Shortly afterward the sirens sounded for another raid and she died from fright within an hour.

A girl ambulance driver said patients suffering from nervous shock may be unperturbed when bombs fall but may shriek in alarm at the sirens. Doctors say it has something to do with the vibratory effect on the nerves.

* * *

A girl driver gave this correspondent the best description he has heard of how the rescue crews do their work. A home for aged women had been broken in two "like a piece of crumbly cake" by a bomb. Bricks, concrete, steel, and roof slates all came to rest in a pile of rubble. Beneath the débris were 30 or 40 old people in a shelter. They might be alive, they might be dead—nobody knew. The skilled rescue men, mostly miners, began driving a tunnel toward the shelter horizontally from the lowest point they could reach at one side of the wreckage. They never tunnel downward at a steep angle if it can be avoided because their prying and shoveling might cause rubble to fall on the trapped victims. More than one pinned victim has lost his life thru the inexpert digging of amateurs.

As the men tunneled a voice came from the top floor of the building. A nurse was pinned in her bed by a roof beam and couldn't be seen because 2 tons of débris covered her room. A dozen men climbed the dangerous heap of rubble and began handing down bricks and beams piece by piece, passing them from man to man.

After four hours of this the top man finally saw the injured woman thru a small hole he had made. He administered oxygen passed up to him and then fed her a little milk thru a tube. To relieve her pain he gave her an opiate—all thru the small hole in a brick wall about a foot thick. It took six hours' more work to make a hole big enough to get the woman safely out.

PEANUT BUTTER IN VITAMIN DEFICIENCY.

WE are coming to realize more and more that some of us may be slightly below par in physical vigor because of a dietary deficiency. We can take 10,000 calories daily of perfectly good food and yet remain undernourished—even starved. One-fifth this amount will do if the materials are what we require.

It has been estimated that 50 per cent of those who do not feel hale and hearty are victims of an improper eating régime. This is perhaps an extreme figure without much supporting evidence. Nevertheless, so many spectacular recoveries follow the restoration of menus containing all the essentials that we may accept the statement until more accurate information is available.

Take, for example, one member of the vitamin family—B. The portion B1 [thiamin]—when administered in sufficient proportions—may afford so much relief from pain as to be far better than the most powerful narcotic. Riboflavin [B2] has brought about the abatement of eye distress, experienced by many who could not stand even the ordinary light of a living room. Then, too, nicotinic acid—another fraction—has changed the outlook of those suffering from mental symptoms incident to pellagra and has enabled them to regain well being and resume earning capacity.

But our main objective is to make sure that children will not be obliged to grow up deprived of some factor—the absence of which leads to the development of fretfulness and nervousness. As has been stated before, the trouble lies in the fact that we pay too little attention to a balanced regimen. We allow our offspring to choose what they like rather than what they should have.

After all, tastes can be developed. If not, we must find other means by which the necessary substances can be fed. We need not hold an iron rod over the child, but we can employ some eagerly-desired dish which embodies the indispensable nutriment.

Again with reference to B [with which so many youngsters are inadequately supplied], if the tot can't eat yeast and liver—or if his appetite becomes cloyed—peanut butter will be helpful. Mild vitamin deficiencies can be treated with this substitute. It will furnish protein and energy. There is scarcely a child who will not welcome a sandwich of this material.

In a recent report by Spies and others 25 malnourished persons in an Alabama hospital were studied. All were underweight and exhibited signs of a shortage of B. These individuals were offered peanut butter mixed with 15 per cent of brewer's yeast. No limit was placed on the quantity allowed. Not a single objection was encountered. In fact, it was found that the yeast percentage could be raised to 25 and still the edible would be consumed with gusto.

Later, some of the "butter" was replaced with peanut oil and bowls of the mixture placed on the table. Most of the patients used from two to two and one-half ounces per day. The result was improved appetite, gain in weight and strength, with disappearance of all annoying symptoms. After many trials a standard formula was adopted of 25 per cent yeast powder, 67 per cent peanut butter, and 8 per cent peanut oil. This palatable spread proved its value in cases wherein B was lacking. The preparation had this additional advantage, that it provided about as much protein as an equal serving of beefsteak, and one-half as much fat as butter.

All of this goes to show that the longing of our children for goobers at the circus is sound. Tots who prefer peanut butter are craving real food. Ground up to the consistency of a medium soft paste, the product is extremely nourishing. But—lest we forget—enough is enough. There should be no orgies with any single item on the bill of fare.

A LONG INTESTINE.

Mrs. R. W. writes: X-ray shows that my young daughter has 12 inches too much intestine. Is this a serious condition?

REPLY.

If the structure is normal—if there are no untoward symptoms—you need not worry. She may digest her food just that much better. If the colon is enlarged [megacolon], this condition may require treatment.

IF THIS BE JINGOISM.

Chicago, March 12.—I was told the other day that I was old-fashioned in my ideas. I made the statement that I was disgusted with the sob sisters who bawled about sacrificing their sons, and with the pacifistic element in our colleges, who for 20 years have opposed every effort of our citizens to make even the fundamental effort of national preparedness against just this emergency, and who are now yelling for war and whooping up the spending of billions. If this is our war, I said, let us get into it and show the same spirit that has always guided America in its wars of the past.

As a veteran of the Spanish war in the Philippines and the world war in France, whose father served in the civil war from Pea Ridge thru Vicksburg to Mobile, I am ashamed of the craven attitude of the present day leaders. What a pleasure it would be to have a Cleveland or a T. R. arise among us that we might regain pride in our nation and courage to face any other nation in the world!

I am for a showdown with Germany or Japan or any other country which dares to tell America where its ships can sail or where its citizens may go.

It saddened me to witness the 33d division marching away last week. Not a cheer, not a handclap, not a manifestation of patriotic fervor but a shamed, fearful attitude, the fear of war.

Let Americans again show courage toward the rest of the world. If this be jingoism—make the most of it.

JAMES E. WHITE.

DISILLUSIONED.

Chicago, March 10.—May I be permitted to answer your correspondent, J. J. G.'s, inquiry as to what is "Our way of life."

The American way of life is: To retain the privilege of being allowed to select what politicians shall rob us rather than have them chosen for us as in Germany;

To have millions of people living on the bounty of the government and the labor of the people rather than have a select few as in England;

To have as many bigotries as we want, upon which private individuals can make money, rather than have a single bigotry profitable only to the government as in Russia;

To choose our own leader to lead us upon foolish foreign ventures rather than have such a leader appoint himself as in Italy;

To be the unhappiest people with the most wealth per capita rather than the happiest with the least wealth as in China;

To tolerate numerous petty dictators in private industry rather than in the government as in Latin American countries;

To make fetishes of new things just because they are new rather than of old things and old customs just because they are old as in most small European countries;

To make our own bad laws rather than have them made for us as in dictatorships;

To throw our liberties away rather than have them taken from us.

MARK TABER.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION.

Chicago, March 9.—As the writer has driven around Chicago with an automobile of some kind since 1911 I want to congratulate you on your editorial in yesterday's TRIBUNE relative to the laxity of Chicago police in stopping reckless driving.

I have even asked the different policemen why they allowed people to break rules of traffic without hindrance. They have given me different answers but one was honest enough to say they were following instructions. There are so many infractions to be seen in one's daily work if you drive the streets of Chicago constantly as I do. They cut you off, do not stop for stop signs, break speed laws, stop short without signals, park wrong, have no consideration for pedestrians—in fact the infractions are so numerous in one day that it would make a list as long as your arm. If a traffic policeman happens to be stationed at some intersection he might correct some abuses, but if he is a regular patrolman, he will tell you that he is not concerned with those things.

I have often speculated on what a grand opportunity a man would have if given authority by the city officials to make a regular survey of the thing and then have all police concern themselves with the things that finally result in very serious accidents, a lot of which are fatal.

Most of the killings and injuries are the result of a cynical disregard for laws and regulations now on the books and which if firmly enforced would reduce these accidents to an infinitesimal amount. After having driven 500,000 miles, I wish to make the statement that at least 90 per cent of all accidents are the result of careless or vicious disregard for the rights of others. I am thoroly convinced that 90 per cent could be avoided and that almost all of the so-called unavoidable accidents are easily avoidable.

R. N. MOTHERWELL.

JOINING A FEDERAL UNION

Albion, Mich., March 9.—Your editorial of today, "The Charted Course," says: "The aim of the movement is to create a supergovernment to embrace the United States and the British empire." Later you say: "The grand purpose is to have us join the British empire in war and remain joined to it after war." Which statement do you want to stand by? If you would read the Federalist and Streit's books you would learn what the movement is about. You will never learn by reading old speeches of President Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie.

According to your editorial Illinois did not join our Union, but did join Vermont, Virginia, and the other states, or is the United States a superstate, governing Vermont, Illinois, and the other states?

I am glad that you have waked up to the fact that "Union Now is emerging from relative obscurity," even tho you misconceive it. The movement aims to have the people of the democracies send delegates to a constitutional convention, draft a new constitution, and send it back to the people to approve or reject. The United States would "join" only if our people voted to approve this constitution. They would not vote to join Britain any more than Illinois by "joining" our Union voted to "join" Vermont, Virginia, and the other states. Illinois did join the other states in joining the Union, but all the states joined the Union, not each other.

Had your editor lived between 1787 and 1789 and published this editorial he would have been opposing the formation of the United States and preaching isolationism for Virginia, which then claimed the Northwest Territory, including the land now known as Illinois, and if he had induced Virginia not to join the Union where would Chicago and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE be today?

INHERITANCE TAX.

Chicago, March 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A widow has a two apartment building in her name. A married son and daughter and their families occupy both apartments, the mother living with the daughter. The mother has been a widow for the last seven years, and since that time these two children have paid all the building expenses, payments on principal, interest, taxes, upkeep, etc. They also have paid their mother's personal expenses, food, clothing, etc. The building now has a H. O. L. C. mortgage with balance due of $3,500 and it is expected the mother will leave this building to these children in her will.

1. Will these two have to pay inheritance tax on acquiring this building?

2. If so, what percentage of what amount or value?

3. The purchase price some years ago was $12,500. The present value is about $6,000.

B. C.

1. Depends on the value. The exemption on a gift to a child is $20,000 worth.

2. See 1.

3. There would be no inheritance tax if this is the only asset.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LEGALITY OF WILL.

Cicero, Ill., March 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a will legal in Illinois if it is written at home by the daughter of the maker of the will?

2. The daughter is a beneficiary in this will.

M. J.

1. The facts stated would not invalidate the will if the statute is complied with in other respects.

2. This would mean that she is ineligible as a witness and it might be considered with other evidence as bearing on a possible claim of undue influence. But it would not be enough standing alone to set aside the will.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ESTATE DEBTS.

Chicago, March 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My understanding is that interest earned by the personal property of an estate, such as from mortgages, bonds, should be paid to heirs by administrator, without waiting for the estate to be closed. Is this correct? Kindly advise where a citation may be found to cover the point in question.

G. F.

No. Creditors are allowed nine months in which to file their claims and their claims are entitled to priority over the rights of the heirs or distributees.

SPEECH DEFECTS CURB 13 MILLION, EXPERTS REPORT

Society Seeks Regulation of Specialists.

There are 13 million persons in the United States—10 per cent of the population—who suffer from some speech defect or voice abnormality, and there's nothing in the law to prevent butcher, baker, or precinct captain from setting himself up as a specialist to cure these ills.

Paul D. Knight.

These facts were disclosed yesterday by Paul D. Knight, president of the Chicago Speech Correction society, which numbers 16 members who hope to do something about this lack of regulation. The organization, which includes Vice President Margaret E. Hall, speech pathologist for the Chicago public schools, and Secretary Treasurer Frances Perlowski Gaines, speech correctionist for Children's Memorial hospital and Rush Medical college, looks toward eventual legislation to make necessary certification of workers in the field.

Society Fixes Standard.

"We are working toward a law that will set up in our field standards of professional conduct comparable to those now legally enforced in the medical and dental professions," Knight said.

His organization demands that a member possess an academic master's or doctor's degree or an M. D., he said, and also academic specialization adequate to prepare for speech correction work.

Knight said speech correctionists deal only with functional disorders, while organic troubles are referred to physicians and serious emotional disorders to psychiatrists. Of the 13 million voice afflicted persons in the United States, approximately 1 million suffer from stuttering, or "civilization shock." He said this and other afflictions increase during times of crisis.

Pupils' Defects Told.

Among speech defects—and 5 per cent of the Chicago school children are afflicted in this field or that of voice abnormality—are listed infantile speech, or baby talk, and delayed speech. Knight said he knew of a man 28 years old who still said "wuv" for "love" and "wife" for "life."

Knight said this man had been trained by a doting, baby talking mother, had adopted the idiosyncracies of speech thru habit, and was unaware of his mistakes. He said delayed speech is that affliction in which the child doesn't develop conversation in normal time.

Listed under and treated as speech defects—in addition to stuttering, delayed and infantile speech—are sound substitution [the dese and dem school] foreign accent, cluttered or indistinctive speech, and faulty speech caused by dental malformation and changes. Voice abnormalities include insufficient resonance, breathy, guttural, hoarse, metallic, high pitched, weak, strident, and monotonous voices.

Talks of Negligee

Nita Naldi as she appeared at the height of her film career.

"They used to put me in boudoir scenes wearing ermine tails and paradises in my hair and a couple of snakes coiled around my shoulders," she said today. "A man would run 20 miles if he ever stumbled on a woman really looking like that."

Actors today, she said in an interview, were able "to get over more with three words than we could in yards of film."

Among those yards of film, she admitted, were scorching love scenes in which she and her co-star, Rudolph Valentino, had the nation gasping. That, of course, was in early '20s before censors applied stop watches. Nevertheless, Miss Naldi said she still considered Valentino the greatest lover of them all.

Miss Naldi, who has lived in France and Italy for the last 12 years, returned to New York a few months ago. She, Carlyle Blackwell, and other silent stars will appear in a night club revue, "The Silent Screen."

CANADA REVEALS DETAILS OF AIR BASES TO YUKON

Lays Out Routes on Both Sides of Rockies.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15 (AP).—Tractor trains are moving into the Canadian northwest with 800 tons of equipment and materials for construction of a new series of air bases stretching from Edmonton and Vancouver to Alaska, the air ministry and the transport department revealed today.

Air Minister C. G. Power announced some time ago that the bases would be built as part of the defense program on recommendation of the joint Canadian-United States defense board. Today's statement, however, was the first official disclosure of details of the program.

Bases Along Rockies.

There will be fully equipped airdromes dotting two routes, one on either side of the Rocky mountain barrier.

"North of Edmonton, the easterly route runs 1,000 miles, or seven hours flying time, to Whitehorse in the Yukon, with airdromes at Grande Prairie, Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, and Watson Lake," said the official statement.

"The route on the western side of the Rockies runs north from Vancouver and Kamloops to Williams lake and Prince George, and then joins the eastern chain at Fort St. John and Fort Nelson, Watson lake and Whitehorse. An airdrome is also being built at Smithers, near Prince Rupert within operating range of Prince George and coast points."

The statement added that if the Pacific coast ever became "a theater of war, Canadian and United States fighter squadrons could be moved rapidly to Alaska by air." Altho fighter aircraft with short range of flight may now be moved to Alaska on short notice under favorable conditions, greatly improved airdrome and refueling facilities are necessary."

Dog Teams Blaze Trail.

The new airdromes will have landing strips 4,000 feet long by 500 feet wide, full lighting equipment for night flying, and a complete radio system to guide aircraft over the route in all kinds of weather.

The statement said men with two dog teams had blazed a trail for development of the airdrome chain, and behind them supplies have been moving in by tractor trains.

New fields are being laid out at Watson lake in the Yukon and Smithers in British Columbia. Fields at Grande Prairie, Alberta, at Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, and Prince George, B. C., will be enlarged and improved.

UNIONISTS TOLD TO SHOW WHERE $600,000 WENT

Labor Bosses Accused in Court Complaint.

Troy, N. Y., March 15 (AP).—State Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray today ordered officers of the Newburgh local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers union, to produce the local's financial records pending hearing on a complaint charging them with "conspiracy to arbitrarily control" the organization.

Justice Murray, granting a temporary injunction asked by 17 union members against the officers, stipulated the records must be delivered to the Ulster county clerk to permit examination by the union membership. No date for the hearing has been set.

Big Sums Involved.

The jurist said the plaintiffs asserted in affidavits that the officers have collected $600,000 from 6,000 members in initiation fees and dues since 1936, of which approximately $400,000 should now be in the union treasury. The plaintiffs claimed, Justice Murray's opinion said, that the officers admit collections of $200,000 from 1,900 members.

Named as defendants in the action were Samuel Muzzo, secretary and treasurer; Andrew Russell, president, and seven others.

Justice Murray said:

"It is obviously the duty of the defendant Muzzo, since he has collected the monies, to account for the same not to some person in Chicago, New York, Boston, or elsewhere, but to those working men who gave him part of their hard earned money."

"Policy of Terror."

The jurist further wrote that the plaintiffs further contended the defendants "used a policy of terror and intimidation to stiffe all opposition to the rule; that unsuccessful in this method, defendants contrived a new scheme of placing charges against all members who resisted the tyrannical rule of the defendants."

The plaintiffs' affidavit said the international union claims 990 affiliated locals with a membership of 165,000. Headquarters are in Chicago.

TOKIO GOLF CLUB TAKEN BY ARMY; TO BE HOSPITAL

TOKIO, March 15 (AP).—The Tokio golf course, one of the world's finest, with turf imported from Scotland, is being taken over by the army tomorrow and it is expected that the luxurious clubhouse will be converted into a hospital. Such American golf stars as Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen have played the 170 acre course. The membership of 500 includes five imperial princes, Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe and other cabinet members. The army considers such luxury pastimes as golf not in keeping with the new national structure and the present emergency.

THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE

ONLY $25 MORE FOR AN EIGHT IN ANY MODEL!
PERHAPS YOU'VE SEEN the new Pontiac "Torpedo" described as "the Fine Car with the Low Price" and wondered a little bit about that statement:
You can accept the "fine car" part without any doubt, we believe—especially if you've examined a new Pontiac. For then you know that, in addition to being big and handsome, it is upholstered, trimmed and finished with all the emphasis on quality and detail characteristic of the fine-car field.
That "low price" part may stop you, however. Can the new Pontiac—one of the smartest-looking, easiest-riding cars on the road today—actually be low-priced? Well, here are the facts:
Pontiac prices begin at $828*. A new 1941 Pontiac "Torpedo" will cost you so little more than the "lowest-priced three" that the difference will amount to only a very few dollars per month. What's more, Pontiac's economy of operation and upkeep permits you to drive for practically the same money that a lesser car requires.
Yes, the new Pontiac, with its body by Fisher, has earned the title, "the Fine Car with the Low Price." Try a new Pontiac before you put your money in something less desirable.

A REPORT

to America

The Ford Motor Company's business has always been to serve the needs of the American people. In providing them with low-cost transportation for the past 38 years, we have developed one of the country's largest and most useful industrial units. During a national emergency, we feel that these facilities should be devoted without reserve to our country's needs. Toward that end we started rolling months ago, with these results:

1 A $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine factory, started only 6 months ago, is nearly completed. Production will start with an initial order for 4,236 eighteen cylinder, air-cooled, double-row, radial engines.

2 We are building a new $800,000 Ford magnesium alloy foundry, one of the few in the country. It is already producing lightweight airplane engine castings.

3 Army reconnaissance cars—military vehicles of an entirely new type—are rolling off special Ford assembly lines at the rate of more than 600 a month. We have produced Army staff cars and bomber service trucks.

4 The government has given the "go-ahead" and work is now under way for the fast construction of an $11,000,000 Ford plant to produce bomber airframe assemblies by mass production methods.

5 Several months ago work was started, on our own initiative, on an entirely new 1500 horsepower airplane engine especially designed for mass production. This engine is now in the test stage and plans are being developed for producing it in large quantities when and if needed.

6 A Ford aircraft apprentice school has been established, to train 2000 students at a time.

That is a report of progress to date.

The experience and facilities of this company can be used to do much of the job which America now needs to get done in a hurry. Our way of working, which avoids all possible red tape, enables us to get results and get them fast. This benefits users of our products and workers who produce them.

We are ready to make anything we know how to make, to make it to the limit of our capacity if need be, to make it as fast as we can go, and to start the next job whenever our country asks us to. And to this end, we know we have the full confidence and loyal support of the workmen throughout our plants.

REVISE SYSTEM OF DEPORTATION, JACKSON URGES

No Place to Send 6,249 Aliens, He Says.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson today recommended broad changes in existing federal law covering the detention and deportation of undesirable aliens. He said the government has 6,249 deportation warrants which it cannot execute for reasons beyond its control.

With no sailings to Europe, except to the British Isles, Portugal, and Spain, he said, this country's long standing policy of deporting the undesirables has become inadequate. Jackson warned that unless changes are made to adapt immigration statutes to present wartime conditions, the alien population will become increasingly contemptuous of laws which it knows cannot be enforced.

The attorney general also noted the folly of spending large sums of money every year for investigations and deportation hearings if in the end the deportation order is to be frustrated by transportation failures and other causes.

Proposes Other Methods.

He declared that until the end of the hostilities the United States must cease to depend solely upon deportation as a protection against undesirables and adopt alternative measures for various alien classes.

"In considering a substitute for deportation it must be borne in mind that deportees are not a single class to be treated by rule of thumb," Jackson said. "Some provision must be made for adapting the treatment to their circumstances and character, and any deprivation of liberty must be based upon findings as to the individual case."

"It is my belief that this function should be vested in an independent board of dignity and standing, which would arrive at classifications of deportable persons based on their fitness to be at large in our society under present conditions, after hearings which the courts would accept.

Points to Support Problem.

"It is undesirable to relieve aliens of self-support and to undertake their public support except insofar as it is reasonably necessary for the protection of our society. Under no circumstances should my recommendation be construed as any suggestion of deprivation of liberty of aliens for mere alienage or other technical reasons."

The attorney general's statements were made in a letter to Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, which is considering new alien legislation.

In revealing that the government now has 6,249 deportation warrants which it cannot execute, Jackson said, 3,947 were issued against aliens whose native lands have refused to take them back, and that the other 2,302 cannot be sent back because of perilous transportation conditions.

Among the aliens whose own countries do not want them are:

Russia, 1,254; Turkey, 88; Rumania, 125; Poland, 390; Italy, 117; Hungary, 144; Germany, 136; England, 105; Czecho-Slovakia, 90; Canada, 438; British West Indies, 74, and Norway, 83.

List Includes 852 Criminals.

The 1,960 aliens who cannot be deported because of transportation difficulties include 8 communists, and 852 criminal aliens, among whom are 773 felons, 45 narcotic violators, and 34 counterfeiters.

For the criminal classes, Jackson said imprisonment appears to be the only possible alternative to deportation which he described, under the present dangers on the high seas, as "a sort of contingent sentence of death." For the others, whose offenses are purely technical, he suggested release on parole.

The attorney general also suggested that the present law prohibiting aliens from being members of an organization whose purpose is the overthrow of the government be clarified with respect to the communist party and the German-American bund. The present law in failing to mention these groups specifically, he declared, has resulted in confusion and conflicting opinions in the courts with no certainty as to whether or not an alien is deportable simply because of membership in the communist party or the bund.

'Attendant' Takes Customer Home and Steals Her Car

Two robbers who entered a public garage at 1122 Hollywood avenue failed to get any money from Frank Meagher, the manager. So they waited until Miss Lillian Leahy, 5718 Kenmore avenue, drove up and sounded her horn for an attendant to drive her home. One introduced himself as a new attendant, rode home with her, and then drove back, picked up his companion, and drove away in her car.

Boat Worker Wins $37,000 in Suit Over Loss of Leg

A jury before Judge Walter T. Stanton yesterday awarded damages of $37,000 to Louis Green, 33 years old, Cape Girardeau, Mo., a river boat worker. The judgment was against the Central Barge company of Peoria. Green charged he suffered the loss of a leg in an accident while working on one of the barges of the company. A motion for a new trial was set for March 21.

SELF-CONFESSED RED SUSPENDED IN SCHOOL PROBE

Teacher Accused of Giving False Testimony.

New York, March 15 [Special].—As a result of disclosures by the joint legislative committee investigating subversive activities in the tax supported city schools, Harry N. Wright, acting president of City college today ordered Morris U. Schappes, self-confessed former communist who has been a tutor in English at the college since 1931, suspended without pay.

The same time a committee of the board of higher education announced that charges were being drawn up against other members of the faculty. How many teachers were involved, or their identity, was not disclosed.

At open hearings of the investigating committee the names of some 50 members of the college's administrative and instructional staff were cited by witnesses as being present or past members of the campus unit of the communist party.

Testimony Called False.

In a letter to the board Dr. Wright asserted that Schappes was unfit to remain a member of the teaching staff. His testimony before the investigating committee, Wright added, was a "crude falsification" designed to conceal the activities and membership of the communist party on the campus.

At the committee's hearing March 6 Schappes admitted he had been an active communist from 1934 to 1939 when, he said, he resigned.

An immediate reaction to the dismissal order came from the Committee for the Defense of Public Education, which is composed of the Teachers union and the College Teachers union, both of which recently have been described as radical. The committee demanded the board rescind the Schappes suspension.

Deceit Is Charged.

Charges against the suspended teacher allege that he obstructed the legislative committee by giving false and evasive testimony, that he attempted to deceive the committee, that he edited a campus communist publication that contained "coarse, abusive, scurrilous, scandalous, and vulgar" attacks upon college officials and that he attempted to implant communist doctrines and principles in the minds of students.

On another front Former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein, who is conducting a taxpayers' suit seeking the ouster of six Brooklyn college faculty members named as communists, announced he would bring legal action against members of the board of higher education charging them with flagrant violation of their duties. He said he agreed with General Sessions Judge Alfred J. Talley that board members have been indifferent to conditions in the school system.

THIEVES LOOT 19 AUTOS.

Thieves who broke into 19 autos in a parking lot at 1920 Carroll avenue took tools, jacks, robes, lights, and clocks. The cars are owned by workers at the nearby Dole Valve company plant.

ALIEN SEIZED IN EXTORT THREAT DEMANDING $5,000

Dietrich Wilhelm Fittje, 51 years old, was arrested yesterday as he received a letter addressed to him at his home, 538 North Wells street. In the letter was a $5,000 check to which had been signed the name of William J. Springer, a grain broker who died Feb. 10.

Fittje was seized by Detectives Samuel Pettigrew and Eugene Steinway on information supplied by Charles Schaffer, former secretary for Springer in the Board of Trade building, 141 West Jackson boulevard. Schaffer said $5,000 had been demanded as a loan by Fittje in letters addressed to Springer in the last few weeks. Schaffer signed Springer's name to the check sent to Fittje.

Fittje, a former bookkeeper, wrote that he had information of market rigging in the past which would be disadvantageous to grain dealers if it became public, Schaffer said.

Immigration authorities were asked to investigate Fittje, who came here 25 years ago from Germany and has only taken out first citizenship papers.

THE length of time we live . . . and all that we get out of life . . . depends to a great extent upon the kind of protection and care we give to our health. Our body machinery runs day and night. No matter how perfect it was in the beginning certain parts will show the effects of work and worry and set the stage for beginning disease later in life. It is highly important today that we know what our physical defects are. The tempo of human life has been tremendously accelerated. Stout hearts and strong bodies are needed to withstand the strains that have become so much a part of our every day existence. Thousands . . . in every walk of life . . . are headed for physical breakdowns, unless they take stock of their conditions now before it becomes too late. Medical attention is as necessary as food, clothing and shelter to those who wish to continue to work and get the most out of life. It will protect you against many diseases which may develop within the body without your knowledge and cause serious danger to health. This all too frequently happens in the most productive years right when extra energy and strength are most important. The diseases which cause the greatest disability and untimely death are heart disease, hardening of the arteries, chronic kidney disease, diabetes, arthritis, tuberculosis, syphilis and cancer. Heart disease is by far the greatest single cause. It is a constant menace to every individual . . . especially to those who are past 40 years of age. However, a definite control over heart disease has been established through early diagnosis by means of the electrocardiogram, X-rays and other scientific tests . . . followed by proper medical supervision and care. These complete medical services are available at low fees through a United Medical Service. Here you will find experienced physicians . . . representing all departments of medicine . . . with extensive scientific instruments and tests to accurately diagnose and competently treat all diseases dangerous to health. It would be difficult to find another medical organization more fully complete and modern in all of its facilities . . . more widely experienced . . . more efficiently staffed . . . more adequately prepared to provide friendly, competent medical and surgical care . . . at such low fees. These services, including X-rays, medical laboratory tests, special diagnostic procedures and consultations are available here directly or through your family doctor. Inspection of our facilities and services are cordially invited. Illustrated booklet sent upon request.

ART AND BUSINESS MIX ON PALETTES OF 14 AMATEURS

Spare Time Painters Open Loop Exhibit.

A little cluster of men who'd rather spend spare time setting down tranquil sunsets, smiling faces, and the vibrant sea on canvas than playing poker, golfing, or gulping highballs had their big day yesterday. Fourteen of them, members of the Business Men's Art club, opened an exhibit in the club women's bureau at Mandel Brothers of water colors and oils which they created in after office hours.

None of the men is a professional artist, altho F. L. Hotz, a State street jeweler, does have a painting in the current show at the Art institute featuring works of Chicago artists. One is a photo engraver, another an auditor, a third an insurance agent, a fourth a retired clothing manufacturer. But their works, according to the enthusiasms of those who came to the loop exhibit to look yesterday, easily approach professional standards.

Exhibits 'Wisconsin Landscape.'

There are landscapes—like that of A. M. Kandle, a color printing expert—which suggest those of Curry Bohm, one of the country's great landscape artists who, incidentally, began painting 15 years ago when he was a member of the club. Hotz has a "Wisconsin Landscape" in water colors which drew considerable study and evoked "ohs" and "ahs" from visitors to the temporary gallery.

Another exhibitor is the Rev. James O'May, a Methodist minister whose youthful years as a wiry sailor are recalled in a lifelike "Open Sea." He also is showing a realistic oil, "Church in Indiana."

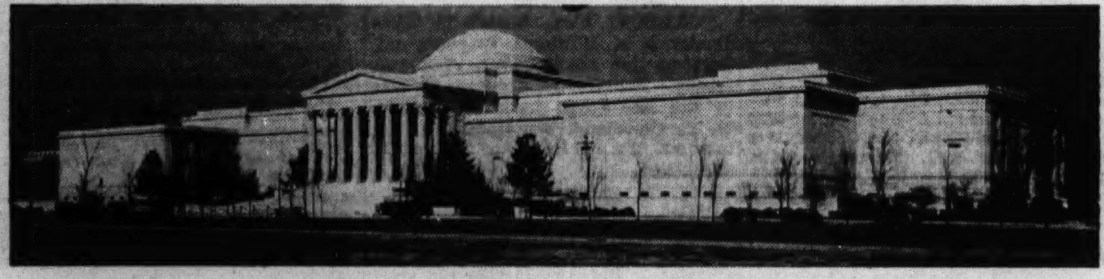
A retired clothing manufacturer and amateur artist—A. H. Kimball, 5496 Hyde Park boulevard—looked out his front room window one night, mused a bit, then took up his paints and went to work. The result is shown as "First Night of Spring." Col. H. B. Colby, one of the club's original members when it was founded 24 years ago, has a softly-hued "Morning Mists" on display. He himself is the subject of a portrait by Kandle.

Others Exhibiting Work.

The others? Well, there's Arthur M. Sullivan, an auditor in Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes' office, whose contributions include "Roses" and a vivid "Crashing Surf"; F. M. Wheeler, a wholesale fish merchant who, appropriately enough, is showing his "Gloucester Dock," and nearly 50 other works by Leslie Ebinger, a lumber contractor; John Hanny, a scenic designer; William Helmcke, an auditor; Oscar M. Lumby, an attorney; Paul L. Olsen, an insurance executive; H. A. Reynolds, a printer, and Jacob Sander, an engraver.

The show will run thru April 10.

National Gallery of Art Opens Tomorrow



The National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C., which is to be dedicated tomorrow. The building was completed recently at a cost of 15 million dollars, the gift of funds provided by the late Andrew W. Mellon. The building, 785 by 305 feet, is made of pink Tennessee marble. This view is from the mall.

CAPITAL GALLERY BUILT BY MELLON TO BE DEDICATED

10,000 Are Invited for Formal Opening.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The new National Gallery of Art will open on Monday night before a specially invited audience of 10,000 notables and art patrons from North and South America, headed by President Roosevelt, who will make the official dedication address. The next morning the gallery will open to the American public as a gift to the nation from the late Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the treasury and financier.

On view will be more pictures and sculptures than any gallery in the world ever opened with—126 paintings and 26 statues from the Andrew Mellon collection, 418 paintings and 40 sculptures from the Samuel Kress collection, and over 300 engravings and etchings from Ellen T. Bullard and three anonymous donors.

The National gallery, therefore, is ranked with the leading art centers of Europe and has perhaps the finest collection visible today, with the European galleries closed and their treasures hidden.

Expect Other Contributions.

Before long the Joseph Widener collection now in Philadelphia will be added, and it is expected other private contributions will be made. The majority of exhibition space is unoccupied today for this reason.

Covering three blocks on Constitution avenue, the monumental structure designed by the late John Russell Pope is 785 feet long and 305 feet wide. It is built of Tennessee pink marble, is the largest marble structure in the world, and described as the finest gallery building ever designed.

The central theme is a great rotunda, designed after the Pantheon in Rome, and surmounted by a low dome. From the rotunda extend two square wings containing 200,000 square feet of exhibition area, providing space for 100 separate galleries.

Light Without Glare.

The usual marble museum floors are lacking. The floors are of wood for the comfort of visitors. There are overstuffed sofas, too, for the convenience of guests.

Mellon donated his collection of masterpieces as a "nucleus" for the National gallery constructed by him at a cost of $15,000,000. He specifically stipulated the building should not bear his name in the hope that others would be moved to add their collections to a national one for the American public. This "nucleus" covers the principal European schools from 1200 to the early 19th century and includes a number of early American masterpieces.

Kress Collection Included.

The Samuel Kress collection, among those contributed, exhibits Italian painting and sculpture. It illustrates the complete development of Italian art from the 13th century in Florence, Siena, and Rome to the last creative period in Venice in the 18th century.

The value of the exhibits is estimated in excess of 100 million dollars. Mellon paid "over one million" to the Russian government for Raphael's Alba Madonna alone.

By always turning to the right, the visitor is never lost and proceeds from the Italian primitives thru successive schools of paintings to the 19th century works. One gallery alone contains nine Rembrandts, another four Raphaels, still another six Titians.

A few of the most famous masterpieces, many of which never before have been shown in the United States, are Bindo Altoviti by Raphael, Adoration of the Magi and the Madonna and Child by Botticelli, Giorgione's Adoration, Jan van Eyck's Annunciation, Van Dyck's Lord Wharton, once owned by Catherine the Great; El Greco's St. Martin, and the Beggar, three paintings by Velasquez, two by Goya.

The English school is well represented and includes many paintings by Sir Joshua Reynolds, as well as Gainsborough's Mrs. Sheridan, which all school children know.

TERRIER SAVES 3 IN IOWA FAMILY 2D TIME IN YEAR

Dubuque, Ia., March 15 [Special].—For the second time within a year Patty, 6 year old terrier, saved Mr. and Mrs. William Meister and their son, William Jr., 17, from possible death. The dog is owned by the son.

Early this morning Patty awakened the elder Meister, who discovered that the home was filled with carbon monoxide fumes, the result of a hot water heater exhausting the oxygen supply in the basement. The three members of the family were taken to Finlay hospital by police and firemen for treatment.

Last year Patty awakened the family when the oil furance exploded and fire started in the basement.

OPEN 'ART ALONG THE MISSISSIPPI' SHOW ON APRIL 3

Davenport, Ia., March 15 [Special].—The second annual show of Art and Artists Along the Mississippi will open at the Davenport municipal art gallery Thursday, April 3, and continue all month. Approximately 100 exhibitors will be represented.

Paintings and pictures of the Mississippi river and regional themes have been assembled from art centers and cities along the river, and exhibitors have been selected in accordance with the prestige they have gained in their communities.

A high standard of craftsmanship, together with originality in choice of subject matter depicting life in the Mississippi valley, has been sought in the pictures to be displayed.

Altho complete reports from artists from the river centers have not been received there is definite word that the following cities will be represented: Minneapolis, St. Paul, Dubuque, Clinton, Muscatine, St. Louis, Memphis, Vicksburg, and New Orleans. In addition some 20 local exhibitors who gained admission upon the basis of jury selection at the time of the quad-city artists' exhibition in November will also be presented. Artists in other art centers along the river were drawn from Grand Detour, Ill., Iowa City, St. Genevieve, Mo., Jackson, Miss., and Pineville, La.

To arouse interest in the exhibition last year the Friends of Art, auxiliary organization to the gallery, offered a $200 prize toward the purchase of some painting of outstanding merit in the show.

TRUMPETS KEEP A 44 YEAR PACT WITH DEAD MAN

Midnight...a Lonely Grave —and Irish Music!

Reading, Pa., March 15 (AP).—In a cemetery high on lonely Neversink mountain, an aged church musician and four companions will gather just before midnight tomorrow for a strange tryst at the grave of a long-dead Irish saloon keeper.

It will be 75 year old Alvah Schaeffer's annual fulfillment of a St. Patrick's day pact he made nearly half a century ago with Tom Hannahoe, proprietor of the Stars and Stripes saloon and unofficial mayor of Reading's Irishtown.

Rite Attracts Thousands.

There was a time when Schaeffer made his pilgrimage alone, but now thousands of curious mass in the shadows on the fringe of the little cemetery to see the ghost-like ceremony that has changed but little in 44 years.

When the stroke of midnight ushers in another St. Patrick's day, the mountain stillness suddenly will be shattered by trumpets playing "Lass O'Galway" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee" over Hannahoe's grave.

Schaeffer will stand with bared head while his four companions play. As the last notes fade he will turn away wondering—as he has for many years now—whether this one will be the last.

It's a Long Time.

"I never dreamed it would last this long," said Schaeffer, who was 75 today. "I guess Tom didn't either.

"The big Irishman, God rest his soul, was always kidding the daylights out of me. There was always big doings at the Stars and Stripes on St. Patrick's day.

"Maybe Tom got sentimental this particular night—I don't remember exactly how it happened—but we made the agreement.

"'If I die first,' Tom told me, 'you play the tunes over my grave on St. Patrick's day, but if you die first I'll keep the grass forever green over your grave and put a shamrock on it every year.'"

Death Comes Soon.

Hannahoe died a year later. The melodies were his favorites and he had taught Schaeffer to play them. Schaeffer's fingers now are too stiff from rheumatism to work the stops on a cornet himself, so he takes along young musicians.

At first it was lonely—often a hardship—to keep the pact. Some stormy nights Schaeffer had to shovel a path thru deep snow to reach the cemetery. Later officials tried to block the ritual because of the crowds it attracted.

Vatican Paper Reports 10 Abbeys in Germany Shut

VATICAN CITY, March 15 (AP).—The Vatican City newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, printed a dispatch under a Berne, Switzerland, date line today saying that 10 Benedictine abbeys had been closed in Germany and German-occupied territory and that six others had been vacated.

Four Injured in Three Car Crash

How three cars looked after unusual accident at Sangamon and Ohio streets yesterday in which four persons were injured. Just before the accident one of the cars was going north in Sangamon, another west in Ohio, and the third was stopped at the intersection waiting for traffic to clear.

AUTO KILLS GIRL SCOUT, 11, AS SHE AIDS COOKIE SALE

Leona Charlson, 11 years old, of Porter, Ind., was killed by an automobile yesterday in route 12, 15 miles west of Michigan City, Ind., while soliciting orders for Girl Scout cookies. She had ridden to the country with her mother, a widow, and was running across the highway to the home of a prospective patron when she was struck. The driver, Joseph F. Trybus of Detroit, Mich., was held by the Indiana state police for a coroner's investigation. Leona was the eldest of four children.

Lee R. Ross, 50 years old, a salesman for the Fruehauf Trailer company, was killed in route 20, seven miles east of Elgin, where his car skidded on the slushy road and struck a tree. His home was at 7601 Cregier avenue.

Three cars were involved in an accident at Sangamon and Ohio street in which four persons were injured and one of the cars trapped between the other two. A car driven by Joseph Henning, 3225 Douglas boulevard, traveling north in Sangamon, struck the auto driven west in Ohio street by John Nykiel, 6614 South Karlov avenue, according to police, and then glanced into a car driven by John Anifer, 4728 South Kedvale avenue. Police said Anifer's car was waiting at the intersection for another to pass. Anifer, Henning, and two passengers with the latter were injured.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 163 persons had been killed in Cook county traffic since Jan. 1. Of these 124 died in Chicago, where 4,266 were injured during the same period.

ALL WEAR GREEN AS BIRTHRIGHT IN ST. PATRICK, MO.

St. Patrick, Mo., March 15 [Special].—Shurrah, and every one in this town will be out "wearin' 'o the green" and singing "Erin go bragh" in the St. Patrick's day celebration Monday. And we mean everybody, because every one in this Irish town is Irish, the whole 90 of them.

The annual honoring of the Irish saint is the No. 1 event of the year in this unique community and no patriotic son of the old sod is going to miss any part of it.

The town, which nestles in the extreme northeast corner of Missouri in Clark county, is the only community in the United States—at least among those large enough to have a postoffice—that is named St. Patrick. The name has been the same for about three-fourths of the town's 106 years.

Among the day's ceremonies will be a gathering at the site in town where a colleen from Chicago's west side, Margaret O'Brien, recently planted seeds of shamrock. She was delegated by the Irish Mummers' club to plant the seeds in this country because of the difficulty in getting genuine plants from Ireland during the war.

SHERIFF BLAMES ST. CHARLES HEAD IN KNIFE REVOLT

Hits Slowness in Calling for Assistance.

Investigation of the latest scandal at the St. Charles School for Boys, in which two young criminals went on a rampage with butcher knives and slashed another inmate, was marked by the following developments yesterday:

1. W. T. Harmon, head of the school, was criticized by Sheriff Marcus Damisch of Kane county for not calling for aid more often when tougher inmates become "too tough to handle."

2. State's Attorney Charles Seidel said the Kane county grand jury will meet March 31 to consider action against the two rebellious inmates, John Demitralis, 16 years old, of Chicago, a burglar, and William Davis, 18, colored, of Harrisburg, a delinquent. Both are being held in $5,000 bonds on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

3. It was learned that a dozen guards brought to the school from Joliet penitentiary last month after another inmate was beaten to death by two guards had been sent back to the penitentiary because, according to Harmon, "there was no longer any need for their services."

Row Begun on Wednesday.

The two toughs went on their rampage Wednesday morning when they began a quarrel with another inmate over stolen earmuffs. The quarrel was settled temporarily, but was resumed later in Madison cottage when Demitralis drew a knife. He was disarmed, but later, as he passed a table in the kitchen off the mess hall he snatched a knife. Davis also drew a knife. They threatened the other prisoners and officials. Later they were temporarily subdued and taken to Harmon.

On Thursday evening—more than 36 hours later—after various disciplinary methods had failed, Harmon finally called Sheriff Damisch's offices, and two deputies placed the trouble makers in a cell in the county jail.

Called Too Late, He Asserts.

"They called us too late—as usual," Sheriff Damisch said. "It's happened before. When any of their really tough guys get rebellious Harmon ought to call my office. We have a lot of empty cells in the county jail for just such tough boys. If my office were called for aid and cooperation by Harmon more frequently, there would be a lot less trouble at the school."

Harmon said that the Joliet guards had returned to the penitentiary because the turmoil that followed the killing of a 16 year old inmate by a house father and another employé had quieted down. "The recommendation for their recall was made to Col. Frank D. Whipp, state superintendent of prisons," Harmon said.

Another reason for the recall, it was learned, was that the guards were needed more urgently at the penitentiary.

PARENTS BRING IN 2 BOYS SOUGHT IN RAID ON HOME

Two boys, whom their parents surrendered to police, were in custody of juvenile authorities yesterday, charged with being accessories to burglary. They fled after a companion was captured Friday night by a householder who for a week had lain in wait for the return of burglars who had looted his home.

The two are William Hoey, 15 years old, 2614 Gladys avenue, and Frank McTighe, 15, of 2650 Van Buren street. Their companion, James Rogan, also 15, of 2800 Van Buren street, was captured after he had been boosted thru a transom in the home of Herman Stephan, 2651 Flournoy street.

Hoey told his mother of being with Rogan, and the boy's father surrendered him to Marquette police. McTighe's parents surrendered him when they were notified he was implicated. The boys will appear March 28 in Juvenile court, Rogan on charges of burglary and the other two on charges of being accessories.

3 NORTH SHORE YOUTHS JAILED IN 'TREASURE HUNT'

Held 10 Hours, Fined for Sign Pilfering.

Three youths, members of prominent north shore families, went on their own idea of a treasure hunt early yesterday. Here is what they bagged:

A small empty United States mail box and signs reading "private entrance" and "Woodmere" from the estate of Mrs. Grace Hogan on Milwaukee avenue, south of Libertyville.

A sign with the legend "Barat college and Convent of the Sacred Heart" from that girls' school in Lake Forest.

All New Trier High Seniors.

The youths, all seniors at New Trier township High school, are Leslie L. Cooke Jr., 18 years old, 141 Sheridan road, Winnetka, whose father is a retired electrical engineer; Ralph R. Hawxhurst Jr., 18, of 618 Essex road, Kenilworth, son of a Chicago attorney, and Everett L. Kennedy Jr., 17, ot 820 Oakwood avenue, Wilmette, son of the head of a construtcion company.

Policemen Bernard Ghini and Albert Bernardi of Highwood came upon the three in young Hawxhurst's car at 2:30 a. m. near Fort Sheridan. Hawxhurst was carrying an unloaded pistol, another unloaded one was under the front seat of the car and Cooke wore a holster and belt containing several .22 shells. The signs end other loot were in the luggage trunk of the car.

"We just thought it would be a lark to collect signs and other stuff," Hawxhurst said. "We weren't going to sell any of it."

The three were kept in the Highwood jail for 10 hours. The senior Kennedy and Mr. Hawxhurst arrived then and the group went before Justice of the Peace Clarence Shetzley in Highland Park. The youths were charged with disorderly conduct.

Escape Possible Federal Charge.

"You young men don't realize what a serious thing you've done," Justice Shetzley said. "Taking the mail box could have been a federal offense and removal of the roadway signs—a state offense—might have caused accidents."

He then fined each of the youths $10 and $5 costs, placed them on probation for six months and forbade them to drive automobiles for 30 days. Their families were ordered to pay the cost of returning and replacing the moved material. The pistols will be given back to their parents.

"And you should have heard," said Police Chief John DeSmidt of Highwood, "the lectures those lads got from the elder Kennedy and Mr. Hawxhurst."

Twenty Irish members of the Chicago police force will soar over the city tomorrow in a United Air lines mainliner as guests of the line and of Tom O'Hara, a policeman who has been stationed at the airport for the last 10 years. The plane crew will be all-Irish, at least in name, and Irish stew will be served. There's no particular reason for the flight, except that tomorrow is St. Patrick's day and O'Hara has been wishing for a long time that he could show a few friends how Chicago looks from above.

PAROLE REFORM ASKED AS AID TO FIRST OFFENDER

Approved by Bachrach Public Defender.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, known in the courts as the "poor man's friend," announced yesterday that he is supporting the Ward-Rennick parole reform bill, which is before the legislature. Bachrach was one of the group of judges, lawyers, and prosecuting officials who helped to draw the original parole reform bill several years ago. He has held the office of public defender since it was created in 1930.

The Ward-Rennick bill is designed to put an end to the recurring parole scandals by allowing the judges of the Criminal courts to fix minimum and maximum sentences within the limits of the present indeterminate sentence act. The bill does not abolish either the parole board or the indeterminate sentence act, but places restrictions on each.

Aid for First Offenders.

The framers of the new law hope that it will work for first offenders entitled to early release and against crime repeaters. The complaint of many public officials is that the parole board frequently loses friendless first offenders in the shuffle when they have no money or friends to speak for them, and that repeaters frequently are prematurely paroled.

"The people I represent are poor people, who have not enough money to pay a lawyer," Bachrach said. "Under the present system they have a hard time getting out of prison within a reasonable period.

"Even if the parole board is willing to parole them within two or three years after their incarceration they are unable to comply with the rule requiring them to have a job awaiting them on their release. This is because of the fact they are poor and their families and friends are poor and not in a position to find them jobs.

Need Money or "Drag."

"The parole law as it now stands does not function in the least for the needy prisoner, but only for the influential one with a drag or with money to make the proper connections. Under the proposed law a prisoner at least could not be kept in prison beyond the maximum time set by the judge, less time off for good behavior.

"Most of the people who stay in the penitentiary are my former clients."

Defender Bachrach and his staff represent 60 per cent of those who appear in the Criminal courts. His clients, however, seldom are of the repeater type because most professional criminals have means to hire their own lawyers. In the 10 years the public defender's office has been in existence, Bachrach and his staff have represented 13,370 defendants.

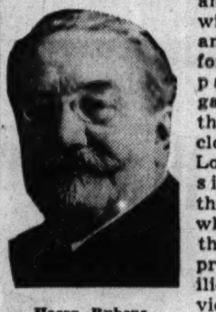
Old Majestic Apartments Will Be Torn Down

LATEST VICTIM OF TAXES, HIGH OPERATING COST

Parking Lot, Gas Station to Occupy Site.

The Majestic apartment building at the southwest corner of Walton place and Rush street, will be torn down and its site used for automobile parking and a gasoline station, the owners disclosed yesterday. Long a near north side landmark, the structure, which once was the home of many prominent families, is the latest victim of mounting taxes and operating costs.



Harry Rubens.

The property, which fronts 105 feet on Rush street and 135 feet on Walton place, is owned by Hertha Mosser and Anna Wagner, daughters of the late Harry Rubens, prominent Chicago attorney and civic leader. It has been leased for 10 years at an aggregate rental of $55,000 to the Publix Parking company, of which Ross Prio is president.

When the building is razed—demolition is scheduled to start May 15—a $25,000 service station and parking facilities for about 100 cars will be installed. The old Majestic is eight stories high and contains 24 apartments.

Criticized for Purchase.

Rubens bought the site for the building in 1892 and put up the Majestic—one of the first steel frame, fireproof apartment houses in the city. THE TRIBUNE on Aug. 6, 1893 made this comment: "The building was designed by the well known architect, Edmund R. Krause. It will have a framework of steel and iron, with terra cotta panels. The halls are to be inlaid with mosaic and Mexican onyx. Provisions are made for a costly electric light installation and for steam heat thruout."

Realty men of the day criticized Rubens' judgment in erecting such a building on the north side. One was quoted as describing it as a "pioneer building," with the comment, "that this flat craze is a passing fancy and that it would be much more sound to build a world's fair hotel for the Columbian exposition in the 31st to 39th street and Lake Park section."

However, the building was a success from the start and because of good maintenance and constant modernization it has held its own among the close-in apartment buildings. Many of the present tenants, including Mrs. Mosser, have lived in it for years. But mounting taxes and the high cost of maintaining the structure eventually reduced the revenues to a point where the owners felt they could not afford to keep it in use.

Gain in Value.

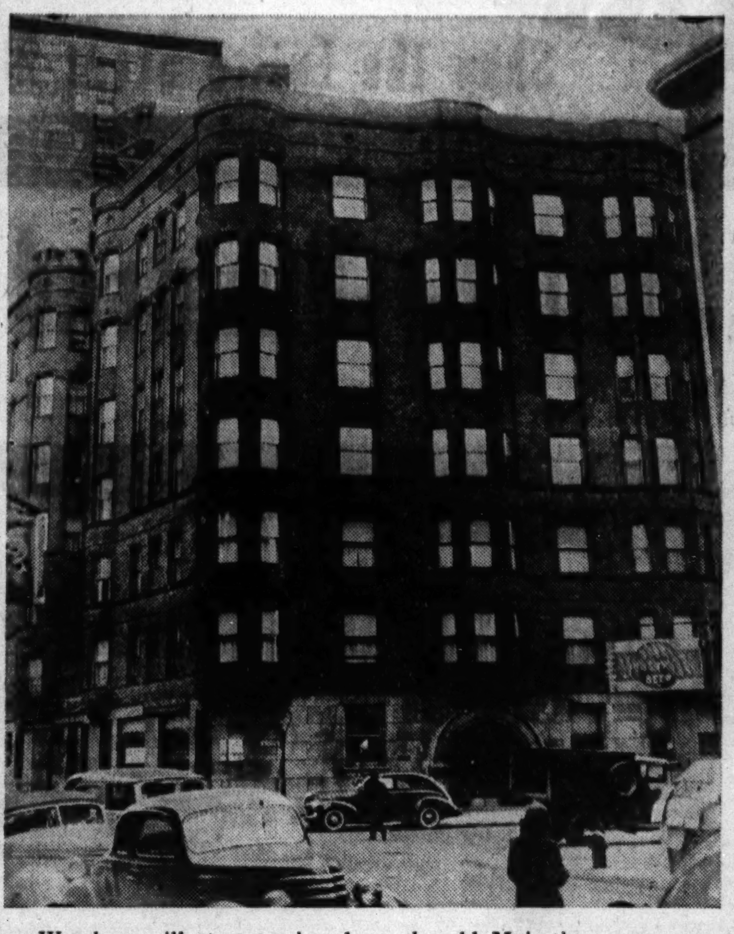
Real estate men taking part in the present deal report that in a recent sale of nearby corner property on Rush street a price of more than $1,000 a foot was paid for Rush street frontage, whereas the original cost to Rubens was $300 a foot. Property on 36th street for which Rubens was criticized for not buying at $600 a foot, now is reported as being quoted at $35 a front foot.

A. K. Smith and James Miksak Jr. of Baird and Warner, Inc., agent for the property, represented the owners in the negotiation of the lease. Norman L. Olson and J. Rockefeller Prentice were attorneys for the lessors, and Fred F. Romano was attorney for Publix.

F. W. Heitmann Acquires South Ashland Property

Fred W. Heitmann, veteran lumber dealer, has purchased the property at 5808-20 South Ashland avenue, extending 266 feet west to Marshfield avenue, along the Pennsylvania railway right of way, from the General Wrecking and Lumber company. He has organized the Fred W. Heitmann Lumber company and will operate a general lumber and millwork business from the new location. M. D. Smith of John McCarthy & Co. was broker.

Near North Side Landmark to Pass



Wreckers will start tearing down the old Majestic apartments at Rush street and Walton place about May 15. Parking facilities and a gasoline station will occupy the site.

REYNOLDS HOME BEING CONVERTED TO APARTMENTS

The former George M. Reynolds residence at 1444 Lake Shore drive has been leased for five years and is being divided into small apartments, it was disclosed yesterday. For many years one of the show places of the drive, the 22 room residence had as its last tenant the Polish consulate. The German invasion of Poland resulted in the closing of the consulate.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, which holds title to the property, entered into a five year lease with an out of town group on the building. Apartments will be both furnished and unfurnished. Three are said to have been rented.

The residence was erected in the early 1890s by the late Gen. Alexander C. McClurg. Designed by Francis Whitehouse, well known architect, the house was patterned after the French chateau of Mme. de Maintenon, Gen. McClurg's son, Ogden McClurg, occupied it for a time. Reynolds, former head of the Continental Illinois, occupied the residence for many years prior to his moving to California in 1933.

At the Realty Boards

James C. Downs Jr. of Downs, Mohl & Co., and Henry T. Holsman of the Parker-Holsman company, members of the Chicago Real Estate board, have been named members of committees of the Institute of Real Estate Management, professional branch of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Henry G. Zander Jr. will be the guest speaker tomorrow noon at the meeting of the Oak Park Real Estate board at the Oak Park Arms.

The North Side Real Estate board has amended its by-laws to permit its appraisal committee to undertake the appraisal of north side properties on a broad comprehensive plan involving all classes of real estate. In the last 10 days the committee, of which Hugh W. Croxton is chairman, has valued 12 listings.

SUBURBS REPORT BUILDING GAINS DURING FEBRUARY

February building construction in 85 suburban towns totaled $3,696,013 compared with $3,517,451 in February, 1940, according to a survey made public yesterday. While building workers were a little more active in the suburbs, there was a small decline in Chicago proper, the total for the month amounting to $2,179,080, compared with $2,316,199 a year ago.

Arthur G. Erdmann.

Arthur G. Erdmann, president of the Bell Savings and Loan association, which made the survey, said that in the first two months of this year suburban building permits totaled $8,151,000 compared with $5,092,000 in the corresponding 1940 period. For Chicago the two months' figures were $5,150,000 and $3,185,000.

The building of new homes, mostly in the moderate price field, continued to dominate construction activity in the Chicago area. February saw a total of 439 homes started in the suburbs costing a total of $2,942,803 compared with 262 costing $1,736,147 in February, 1940. In Chicago permits for 218 homes were issued for a total of $1,187,430 compared with 167 valued at $868,052 in February, 1940.

To Tenant Farmers who are wondering about the Future

"Wonder where I'll be in a year, two years from now. There's Jim, who used to lease the Wright farm—he had to move when the farm was sold. Couldn't find another decent farm and had to get a job in town ..."

If you are worried by the fear that some one else will come along and buy the farm you are living on, we suggest that you investigate the Tenant Purchase Plan offered by Opportunity Farms. Last year 1100 families invested their savings in Opportunity Farms; 770 of these were tenant farmers. Today they own their farm home and face the future with the comfortable feeling of knowing that they stand on their own ground.

Today's prices are low and terms are very easy—a small down payment and then just 6% a year on the balance covers payments on both principal and interest.

Our farms are now leased for 1941, but we can arrange today for March 1st, 1942, possession. Delaying the matter is unnecessary. We are always glad to discuss your plans with you. There is no obligation. Write or call:

WHAT IS AN OPPORTUNITY FARM?
An Opportunity Farm, to earn that name, must have adequate, sound, well-painted, weather-tight buildings; improved soil, with good drainage; and planned profitable crop rotation. Every farm is a going concern.

CHICAGO, NEW YORK GOLDEN GLOVERS STEP UP TRAINING

REIGN OF WEST IS THREATENED IN STADIUM BOUTS

Each Squad Packed with Power.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's Golden Gloves team will step up the tempo of its training during the coming week with the expectation of reaching maximum efficiency several days in advance of the Intercity matches against New York. These will be held in the Stadium on March 26.

With a tradition of victory to uphold, Chicago's 1941 Golden Gloves squad will brace itself for one of the most formidable threats ever launched from the east. Since 1934, no Chicago team has been beaten, tho two have been tied.

Chicago boxing fans, who will be getting their first look at Intercity Golden Gloves since 1939, will gather in the Stadium with the expectation of seeing more great bouts such as they watched two years ago when the local team scored its third consecutive 9 to 7 victory over the easterners. From the looks of things, they won't be disappointed.

New Yorkers Can Hit.

Just when the Chicago coaches were congratulating themselves on having a finely balanced array of fighters, scouts returned from the east with reports that the New York tournament, which ended last Wednesday, brought out a number of champions who are not only expert boxers but also tremendous hitters.

Diogenes Leon, the Puerto Rican flyweight who punches like a welterweight, is New York's answer to Chicago's Harold Dade, who marched to his second consecutive championship with a display of remarkable superiority over every one else in his class.

When Dick Menchaca also made a successful defense of his title, Chicago fans thought they'd have nothing much to worry about in the bantamweight class. Then along came Lester McGowan, an Irish lad from Buffalo, to hammer his way to the eastern championship so emphatically that he left no doubt about his right to a ranking among the nation's best amateur 118 pounders.

Conducted on Large Scale.

And so it went all thru the various weight divisions. The New York tournament was conducted on a scale almost as large as that which centered in Chicago. Subsidiary events were held all along the eastern seaboard from New England to Florida. Thus it was assured that only seasoned, skilful, and courageous fighters could get thru to the finals.

In the course of the Intercity Golden Gloves series, Chicago has shown a consistent superiority, winning seven and tying three. New York has been able to come out on top only three times. On many other occasions, however, results have been so close that a shift in the decisions of two or three of the bouts could have thrown the outcome the other way.

The first encounter of the now historic series resulted in an 8 to 8 tie. That was in 1928. This event gave boxing fans a foretaste of the bitterly close rivalry that was to develop as the years went on. There have been only two overwhelming victories—one for each side. These were Chicago's 13 to 3 triumph in 1931 and New York's 12 to 4 comeback the following year.

Chicago Wins in 1935.

The Chicago team started its trend toward supremacy with an 11 to 5 victory in 1935. After an 8 to 8 tie in 1936, Chicago won three consecutive engagements by scores of 9 to 7. Then came last year's 8 to 8 tie.

There were times during last year's battle in Madison Square Garden when things looked bad for the Chicago boys. When only James Joyce and Leon Haire were able to salvage anything out of the entire first half of the program it appeared that New York's 6 to 2 lead would be just too much to overcome. As the second half began, however, Anthony Jones, and Savior Canadeo turned the tide for Chicago. Joe Maxin, Shelton Bell, James Richie, and Cornelius Young followed up with victories to clinch a tie.

The spirit of the present squad is developing to a point where it will be capable of a rally as stirring as that of its predecessor if occasion should demand. Local fans don't expect to see the Chicago team get very far behind at any stage of the match, however, because the strength of the team is well distributed.

Work Will Increase.

Head Coach Johnny Behr and his assistants, Paddy Kane, Fred Caserio and Bob Howard, will keep on increasing the allotment of work steadily during the coming week. By Friday the boys will be going thru four rounds of sparring in their training quarters in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium. By that time, the coaches expect to have them in top form and will attempt to keep them there until the big night.

WORK AND PLAY FILL DAY OF CHICAGO'S GOLDEN GLOVES BOXERS

Charles Presser, who is battling for a place in the 160 pound class against New York, finds this a comfortable pose in which to write a letter home.

EASTERN GLOVES CHAMPIONS HEAR VICTORY DRUMS

BY BILL MURTHA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—The most impressive eastern Golden Gloves team in seven years went thru its first strenuous drill today in preparation for the 14th annual intercity fights in Chicago Stadium March 26.

The atmosphere in the C. Y. O. gym, where the eastern champions are working out, is charged with the same electric tension that crackles in a Minnesota dressing room before the kick-off in a Michigan football game.

Constantly Coach Spike Webb, an old psychologist from the navy, reminds the easterners of the seven lean years since New York last battered a Chicago Golden Gloves team into submission. They have been told the Chicagoans are contemptuous of their ability and convinced the eastern challenge will be a puny one.

So fervent have been Spike's pleas that the workout glittered with sparkling individual performances. The western invasion has been turned into a crusade.

They Have Confidence.

Altho reasonably respectful of the prowess of their opponents, the eastern champions have the utmost confidence in their capabilities. They're particularly pleased because the annual battle will be fought on alien ground. Famished for victory, they welcome the opportunity to humble the westerners in their own town. New York has never won in Chicago.

On paper the coming bouts shape up much like those of last year. The east seems stronger in the lighter divisions, the west in the heavy classes.

Diogenes Leon is the finest flyweight to show in New York in many a year. He has had 33 bouts and has yet to be defeated. A masterly boxer, crafty ring general, and a devastating walloper, he swept thru the New York tournament like a tornado.

They Are Really Tough.

Only a step behind Leon are Gus Levine, a member of last year's intercity team, and Al Vitola, the surprise package of this year's squad. Vitola resembles a white Henry Armstrong. He is utterly contemptuous of punishment and moves forward constantly until he can rest his chin on his opponent's shoulder and whale away with both hands. He was the biggest crowd pleaser in New York's tournament this year.

New York's bantamweight champion is baby-faced Lester McGowan, a product of Buffalo's Celtic 1st ward, which gave Jimmy Slattery and Jackie Donovan to the ring. Like Leon, he has never been defeated. The alternate spot is amply filled by Johnny Aiello of Philadelphia, who dropped a disputed decision to Jimmy Joyce of Chicago in last year's meeting.

The east's alternate featherweight, Bob McQuillan, probably was the outstanding boxer of the recently concluded Tournament of Champions. Altho the champion, Charley Davis, earned his close victory in the finals, McQuillan fought the last two rounds with a sprained wrist.

Chicago's 112 pound champion, Harold Dade, puts everything he has into a session with the heavy bag.

FROEBEL ENTERS INDIANA FINALS; TRIUMPHS, 37-36

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Hoosier hysterics, sometimes known as basketball, didn't wait until next week's finals in Indianapolis to break out. There was a severe case of it only last evening in the Hammond Civic center as Froebel High school's Blue Devils from Gary won a spine tickling battle from Central of South Bend, 37 to 36, for the right to represent the northwestern corner of the state in the main event Saturday in Butler university's fieldhouse.

Froebel trailed by 12 to 2 in the first quarter.

The score at the half was 20 to 20.

The count was tied four times and the lead changed hands 13 times in the last two quarters.

Froebel Plays Safe.

Froebel controlled the ball for the last two and a half minutes, passing up at least three setup shots and disdaining five Central fouls in favor of offsides.

Defeat of Central eliminated another of the outstanding favorites to reach the Indianapolis final foursome, but sent Froebel fans into an after game demonstration in which two negro boys, Davage Minor and Jim Isabel, were the principals. Minor, 6 foot 2 inch state high jump champion, scored 16 points in addition to working magic in ball handling. Isabel counted only three field goals but made them all in the fourth quarter, which found Central with 32 to 29 lead. This advantage was due in large part to Harvey Martens, South Bend's leading scorer, who found time to collect 15 points despite a heavily bandaged right shoulder.

They Earn Their Chance.

Both teams had to toil yesterday afternoon in order to bring about last night's meeting, particularly Central, which found itself trailing a game

Littler Sets Illinois Tech 440 Record

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Gene Littler, Nebraska's Big Six conference sprint champion proved once more last night in the University of Chicago fieldhouse that he is equally brilliant at any distance up to a quarter of a mile. Littler began the evening by winning the opening event of the Illinois Tech relays, the 70 yard dash. Two hours later he broke the meet record for 440 yards.

Littler wasn't the only double winner—there was Don Sommerfield, of Michigan Normal, for instance, who took both the hurdle races in the college division—but the cornhusker athlete turned in the best individual performance. In taking the 70 yard sprint, he successfully defended his title, altho he was one-fifth of a second slower than when he tied the meet record of 7 1-10 seconds last year.

Wins Pulled Up.

Gene ran away from the field in the quarter mile. Not only did he win by 10 yards in the record breaking time of 49.3 seconds, but he came in pulled up. No one could doubt but that he might easily have bettered 49 seconds had he been pressed.

Littler's victory also was evidence of the excellence of the Chicago track, for on this same course in the Western conference meet last year Indiana's Roy Cochran set an American record of 48.2 seconds.

Littler holds the Big Six indoor quarter mile title, set an American indoor 300 yard mark this year in the Illinois relays, and won the 440 yard invitational at the Sugar Bowl games in New Orleans.

Wisconsin Wins.

Wisconsin won the university team title with 44¼ points. Illinois was second and Marquette third.

Michigan Normal won that honor in the college division, scoring 55 5/6 points. The Northern Illinois Teachers college of De Kalb was second with 33 points.

The surprise of the meet unquestionably was the defeat of Bill Williams of Wisconsin, who one week ago won the Western conference pole vault championship. Williams could do no better than third last night. The title was shared at 13 feet 3 inches by Ed Thistlethwaite, North-

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—The Cubs, fresh from the home of the flying fish, glass bottom boats, and seals in their native habitat—dear old Catalina Island—showed the effects of rain-curtailed spring exercise as they were held to five hits and suffered a 4 to 2 trimming at the hands of the Philadelphia Athletics in their exhibition opener here today.

There was nothing especially discouraging about the experience, inasmuch as the Athletics have been playing exhibition games many of the days the Cubs spent in isolation out in the blue Pacific. The Cubs doubtless will be better after they become reacclimated to life on the North American continent.

The last two Philadelphia runs, the margin of victory, were supplied by First Baseman Dick Siebert, briefly owned by the Cubs several years ago. Dick smashed a homer off Swede Erickson in the sixth inning and in the eighth scored again after doubling off Tot Pressnell.

Not Much Powder.

The Cubs' first run was made when Lou Novikoff and Phil Cavarretta got together in the fourth with a single and a double and Lou got home on an infield out. The other run was on a homer by Bill Nicholson in the seventh. The other two Chicago hits were a triple by Clyde McCullough in the second and a double by Dom Dallessandro in the ninth.

All the damage suffered by Charley Root in the first three innings was administered by the first two batsmen, Eddie Collins Jr., and Benny McCoy. Collins stroked the first pitch of the game for a triple to right center and scored on McCoy's single to center. Benny took second when Augie Galan juggled the ball. Thereafter Root halted progress by striking out Bob Johnson and causing Frank Hayes and Siebert to lift easy flies to the outfield.

Sam Chapman opened the second with the third and last hit off Root, a single to right, whereupon the next three batsmen supplied easy infield outs.

Clyde Bangs One.

McCullough, third batsman in the second inning, was the first Cub to get on base off Johnny Babich. Clyde banged a triple over Collins' head, but died on third when Johnson captured Lou Stringer's fly.

After Erickson had held the Athletics to one single in the fourth, the Cubs stepped on Tom Ferrick for a 1 to 1 tie in their half of the inning. After McCoy had sunk Eddie Waitkus with a beautiful pickup, Novikoff singled to left and got to third on Cavarretta's double to left. Novikoff scored the tying run while McCoy was tossing out Billy Herman. Then McCullough fanned.

Erickson retired the Athletics in order in the fifth, owing some thanks

3 HURLERS STOP HOLLYWOOD ON TWO HIT DIET

Rigney Yields One Pass for Day.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 15.—The White Sox proved today that inroads made on their training efforts by flu bugs and almost perpetual cloudbursts were merely a slight inconvenience. They burst forth in impressive fashion to administer a 10 to 3 lathering to the Hollywood Pacific Coast leaguers, known as the Stars. The Stars didn't have much of a chance to twinkle, for they gathered only two hits.

The Sox, as might be judged by their run production, performed fancy hitting feats, but the most pleasing demonstrations came from the three gentlemen entrusted with the pitching. All John Rigney yielded in three innings was a single pass. Eddie [Lefty] Smith, recent refugee from the flu ward, surrendered one hit in his three inning stretch, that hit driving in a pair of runs. And to top off the pitching job Jack Hallett, the giant rookie, gave up one hit, an infield scratch.

Kreevich After Old Spot.

Mike Kreevich, batting eighth because of last season's slump, furnished indications that he has mapped a campaign for the return of his old spot higher in the column. Iron Mike, who withdrew when the second string talent entered the activity, had three chances with his bat and made good on each. He singled in the first inning to round out a five run affair featured by Julius Solters' three run homer. In the fourth Kreevich doubled, again bringing in some runs, and in the fifth exploded another two bagger. The latter tap, however, went to waste.

Wildness on Bittner's part helped the Sox to a flying start in their five run first inning. The wildness fashioned passes for Kennedy and Dickey. A hit and run sign beckoned a single over short from Kuhel's bat, Kennedy scoring. One pitch from Bittner was enough for Solters. He banged it far over the left field barrier, jogging home behind Dickey and Kuhel. Appling followed with a single, Rosenthal popped out, Knickerbocker walked and Kreevich singled to score Appling. Waldo then relieved Bittner and the Sox went into a protracted slump.

Kreevich Gets Things Going.

They didn't break out again until the fourth when a lad named Gay was on the mound. Kreevich launched this bit of run getting business with a line drive double into center and was moved to third by Rigney's bunt. Kennedy promoted a pass, but was forced by Dickey, Kreevich scoring on the play. Kuhel whistled a single into right, Dickey going to third and home from there on Solters' single to left. Appling walked to fill the bases, but with this juicy situation in front of him Rosenthal succumbed on strikes.

As soon as Lefty Smith took over the Sox pitching burden in the fourth the Stars found a way to get around the bases. Smith gave them a clew by walking Cissell and Dickshot and then helping them to an extra base

YANKS TURN ON POWER TO BEAT CARDINALS, 7-4

Get Three Runs in First Inning Off Cooper.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 15 (AP).—The New York Yankees tore into Morton Cooper for three runs in the first inning today and went on to a 7 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Yanks made 13 hits, with Red Rolfe and Buddy Rosar getting three apiece, to overshadow the nine collected by the Cardinals.

Terry Moore, batting in the cleanup spot, drove in all four St. Louis runs—one in the first and one in the third against Spud Chandler and two in the seventh off Rugger Ardizoia. In between Marvin Breuer pitched three shutout innings for the Yanks. Score:

St. Louis [N.] ....101 000 200—4 9 3

TIGERS BEAT INDIANS, 12-2.

Lakeland, Fla., March 15 (AP).—The champion Detroit Tigers opened their spring exhibition schedule today by lambasting the Cleveland Indians, 12 to 2, with heavy hitting and top notch early season pitching.

Dizzy Trout, Johnny Gorsica and Al Benton limited the tribe to five hits while the Tigers were collecting 15 off Rookie Dewey Adkins, Al Smith, and Jim Bagby. Barney McCosky hit an inside the park homer in the first with two on when Jeff Heath missed an attempted shoe string catch of his drive.

Benton and Gorsica each yielded one hit in three innings' work. Score:

Cleveland ....110 000 000— 2 5 6
Detroit ....321 213 00*—12 15 0

REDS, 4; SENATORS, 2.

Orlando, Fla., March 15 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds Whittled a 4 to 2 victory from a trio of Washington pitchers in an exhibition game today.

The National league club made 11 hits, including three triples, from the offerings of Washington's Dutch Leonard, Danny McFayden, and Rookie Hardin Cathey. Score:

DODGERS BLANK CUBANS.

HAVANA, March 15 (AP).—Steve Rachunok, striving to stick with the Brooklyn Dodgers this season, worked seven innings on the mound today and kept five hits scattered as the local section of the Dodgers shut out the Cuban All-Stars, 3 to 0.

Rachunok tripled to open the fifth and scored one of his team's runs. Brooklyn scored in the first on a walk and two singles and again in the sixth on a three bagger by Johnny Gilbert. Bill Swift pitched hitless ball in the last two innings. Score:

PHILLIES WIN, 3 TO 0.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 15 (AP).—The Phillies shut out the Rochester International league club today, 3 to 0, behind the four hit pitching of Gene Lambert, Dale Jones and Walt Beck.

The Phils likewise made only four hits, but scored two runs in the fifth on a walk, an error, a hit batsman, and a long fly. In the ninth Johnny Rizzo walked, went to third on Nick Etten's single, and scored on a wild pitch. Score:

GIANTS, 14; DODGERS, 12.

The Dodgers made 20 hits, including a homer by Peewee Reese that opened the game, but also committed four errors.

The Giants piled up 18 hits, including two home runs by Joe Orengo, and fielded faultlessly. Score:

Ted Williams and Jim Tabor were the only regulars in the Sox lineup and the former showed his batting eye was coming back to normal with a powerful 423 foot triple to left center, which scored Pete Fox in the fourth. Score:

MONTERREY, Mexico, March 15 (AP).—A mighty homer by Chet Laabs was the hardest wallop as the Cafés de San Luis posted a 5 to 3 exhibition victory over the Abejhas de Boston—otherwise known to you as the St. Louis Browns and the Boston Bees.

BIG TEN FENCERS SETTLE SUPREMACY

John Putz, University of Wisconsin (left), and Bob Franks, University of Illinois, start their match in the Western conference fencing tournament yesterday in Bartlett gymnasium, Chicago, as Director Newton Calhoun calls "En garde." The Maroons won their sixth straight Big Ten title with 14½ points to 14 to 14 each for Northwestern and Wisconsin. Athletics Win Over Cubs, 4-2, in Los Angeles to Novikoff, who made a brilliant catch of Collins' fly near the foul line. But the Athletics resumed the lead in the first half of the sixth. Bob Johnson led off with a triple off the center field wall and scored while Len Merullo was throwing out Hayes. Siebert knocked the ball over the right field screen, then Nicholson allowed S. Chapman's fly to plunk at his feet for a double. Stringer threw out Suder and F. Chapman flied to Barney Olsen.

Nicholson Connects.

Pressnell was pretty much in charge in his first inning, the seventh. He threw out Miles, batting for Ferrick, and also tossed out Collins. He walked McCoy, but struck out Bob Johnson.

Nicholson, the first Cub to face Nelson Potter, opened with that homer, high over the right field wall. Herman walked and reached second while Potter was throwing out George, but Hack flied to Collins and Myers popped to F. Chapman.

After Hayes had fanned at the start of the eighth, Siebert socked his second extrabaser, a double to left. S. Chapman walked, then Siebert reached third on a passed ball. Dallessandro slipped in the mud and Pete Suder's pop fly fell for a single, Siebert scoring. S. Chapman was picked off second, Pressnell to Myers, and F. Chapman fanned.

Vance Page pitched the ninth for the Cubs. Potter was retired by Herman, but Collins was safe on Herman's fumble and took second on George's second passed ball. McCoy walked, but Johnson hit into a double play, Hack to Herman to Waitkus.

Dallessandro opened the ninth with a double off the screen in right center and took third while Hayes was throwing out Nicholson. Umpire Bill Grieve apparently missed the play at first by four or five feet, but the crowd did more hollering than the Cubs. Herman fouled to Hayes and George fanned.

MEET AGAIN TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—The Cubs and Athletics will play here tomorrow and Monday and on Tuesday will move to the Philadelphia training base at Anaheim, Cal. The Cubs never have played in Anaheim, tho that was the A's base last year.

Those two Philadelphia boys, Connie Mack and Jimmy Wilson, are obligingly forehanded in the matter of announcing pitching assignments. Tomorrow it is to be Claude Passeau, Dizzy Dean, and Jake Mooty vs. John Knott, Chubby Dean, and William Beckman. On Monday it will be Larry French, Vern Olsen, and Bob Henriksen vs. Nelson Potter, Porter Vaughan, and Phil Marchildon. Tuesday Ken Raffensberger, Herb Chmiel, and Clay Bryant will face Lee Ross, Lester McCrabb, and A. Rankin Johnson.

Wrigley field here is far from its usual spring shape. There was a rodeo on the premises last Sunday and until today, no sunshine to revive the tender blades crushed by the hooves of cayuses.

The Cubs, far behind in their training schedule because of their floor experiences on Catalina during most of the week, were busy here this morning at 11 o'clock.

apiece on a wild pitch. They scored on Rosenberg's double over Kuhel's head, the first enemy hit. The next scoring was done by the Sox who counted one in the eighth on Short's single an error and a single by Webb.

Webb Fumbles Grounder.

For a parting shot in the ninth Hallett singled, Dickey doubled and both counted on Hajduk's single. Then the Stars fell heir to their second hit. Harrison opened the final home half with a roller to Kolloway whose throw was too late for an out at first. After two were out Webb fumbled Gray's grounder and Harrison scored.

The White Sox return here tomorrow for another whirl at the Stars. Two of the mound performers will be Ted Lyons and Rookie Walter [Lefty] Navie. Joe Haynes, the lad purchased conditionally from Washington, may be the third pitcher.

Flu Germs in Retreat.

The Sox are still operating with limited man power, but reports from the club's well patronized dispensary indicated the flu germs were in retreat. With the exception of Tom Stevens, the batting practice pitcher, the last of the nine victims arose from their beds this morning. These included Manager Jim Dykes, who accompanied his charges here but didn't don a uniform.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

The University of Chicago won the Western conference fencing championship for the sixth straight time yesterday in the university's Bartlett gymnasium. The épéeists saved the judges work by wiring themselves electrically so that a light flashed in a box when they scored.

Epéeists use a slender edged weapon, the épée, with a metal bowl to protect their hand. They score when they touch any part of their opponent's body with the point.

Hampe Wins Title.

The épéeist who won the championship by flashing the light the most is Edward Hampe of the University of Wisconsin. The others found him hard to hit because he is 5 feet 10 and weighs only 114 pounds. You had to aim at his middle, they complained, to touch him at all.

The spectators liked the flashing light that scored the épéeists as much as the officials did. But the judging system in the saber and foils contests was even more fun.

The saber and the foil are both slender edged weapons, the saber with a wide guard for the hand and the foil with a small inverted bowl. A score is made with the saber when the fencer touches any part of his opponent's body except the legs with the point or edge. The point of the foil must touch any part of the body except the arm, legs or head.

The Director Is in Charge.

The official in charge was the director. He was aided in the saber and foils contests by four judges.

The director started things by calling out "En garde!" He and the judges watched until there was a touch. [They didn't call it touche.] The director then called a halt and the fun began. He questioned each of the judges on what had gone on.

"The attack," he asked looking impartial, "parried?" But the judges didn't always agree. One would say "No." Another would say "Yes." And one would say "I abstain." It all got rather complicated.

Sometimes They Do It Over.

"Riposte?" the director would go on, inquiring about the return. Then he would get opinions on the counter riposte, the remise [replace] and counter remise.

When it was established that all the preliminaries had been accomplished satisfactorily, the director would announce that the man who did the touching had done it. But if things didn't suit the officials, the director would have them do it all over again.

The fencers didn't grunt, as wrestlers do, which may account for the fact that there were only 71 spectators in the stands in the midst o. the contest.

Victory by a Half Point.

Coach Alvar Hermanson's Maroons won by only a half point, with a score of 14½. Northwestern and Wisconsin tied for second with 14. Illinois was fourth with 11, and Ohio State fourth with 6½.

The individual champions were: Epée—Edward Hampe, University of Wisconsin. Foils—Herbert Rubin, University of Chicago. Saber—Joseph Molkup, University of Chicago.

The half point which turned out to be Chicago's victory margin, was gained in the early rounds of épée fencing when Jim Mullen of the Maroons and Ernie McLaughlin, of Ohio State, tied their bout. The Maroons were trailing Northwestern and Wisconsin by alf a point when Molkup defeated Ronald Sachs of Northwestern to wind up the team competition and score his fourth straight victory.

Jim REALLY Is a Golf Pro Now

Jim Ferrier, former open and amateur champion in his native Australia, yesterday dropped his quasiprofessional ranking in golf by signing as an instructor at the Elmhurst Country club. Since last summer his amateur status had been questioned by the United States Golf association.

Golfer Oliver Finds Army Is Not So Bad

Fort Dix, N. J., March 15 (AP).—Ed Oliver, professional golf star, who figures he is losing $10,000 in links prizes this year, looked back on two weeks of army life today and opined, "It's not so bad. I even kind of like it."

Made an acting corporal eight days after he was drafted, the pro golfer is taking his new duties and life seriously.

"Sure, I tell these rookies what to do," he said, "even if I don't know myself. I drill 'em every morning. I'm studying the manual and I do the best I can. I don't know a whole lot about it, but I'm learning."

Watch That Cigaret!

He looked up suddenly and exclaimed:

"Hey, watch that cigaret! Don't throw it down, they'll throw me in the brig. No, sir, no trash around. You know how you flip a cigaret away on the golf course; it's a habit with me. The first couple of days I did it like that. Then I'd think, O, gosh! Boy, I caught 'em before they hit the ground."

Temporarily, the golfing star is in charge of his barracks and sees that his men keep the place scrupulously clean.

"I'm the boss and I make 'em do it," he said, and then added "but you know me, I can't really be tough."

Hopes to Play Golf.

Oliver is rather proud of the 87 he made in his intelligence test, because he understands 96 is high to date.

"I did some good guessing that day," he commented.

The pudgy 220 pounder still has hopes of continuing the golfing that made him one of the nation's leading pros last year.

PRINCETON, YALE TIE IN EASTERN WRESTLING MEET

New York, March 15 (AP).—Princeton and Yale tied for the eastern intercollegiate wrestling team championship at Columbia university today with 21 points each.

The Tigers, with victors in the 128 and 136 pound championship division, led Yale by four points going into the consolation round. But the Elis scored nine points in the bouts for second and third places while the Tigers had to be content with five.

Pennsylvania's favored team and Navy finished tied for third with 17 points apiece while Penn State scored 16.

Toronto, Ont., March 15 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs wound up their National Hockey league home season tonight by trouncing the Chicago Blackhawks, 7 to 1, in a rough battle witnessed by 11,744. After the game the teams departed for Chicago where they will meet in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night in the final league game of the season for both teams.

The Leafs scored 31 seconds after the game opened and rapped in three more goals before the first period ended to take a 4 to 0 lead. They counted again in the second period to lead, 5 to 0, a Hawk goal by Bill Thoms a second after the period ended being disallowed. Earl Seibert drew three penalties during this period.

Thoms Scores for Hawks.

The Chicagoans finally robbed Goalie Turk Broda of a shutout at 4:37 in the third period when Thoms, taking a pass from Seibert and Max Bentley, drove the puck thru a maze of legs from in front of the Leaf goal and Broda had no chance to save.

The Leafs more than made up for this by getting two more goals before the period ended to run their total up to seven for the evening. Thoms nearly scored again for the Hawks in the final seconds when his shot hit the cross bar of the net with Broda out of position.

Drillon Gets Five Points.

The game proved a boon to the Leaf players who picked up a total of 19 scoring points during the evening. Gordie Drillon led with five on two goals and three assists. Don Metz also picked up two goals, getting his first on 31 seconds after the game opened.

The game meant nothing to either team in the league standing, as both have qualified for the Shaughnessy cup playoffs starting next week. The Leafs, however, dominated play thruout and would have had a much higher total had it not been for some spectacular saves by Goalie Sammy Lo Presti.

CANADIENS, 6; AMERICANS, 0

MONTREAL, March 15 (AP).—Coach Dick Irvin's experiment in alternating two goalies proved a success in its initial try-out tonight as the Montreal Canadiens demonstrated their right to the last National Hockey league play-off berth by defeating the last place New York Americans, 6 to 0.

In their final scheduled game before meeting the Chicago Blackhawks in a Stanley cup play-off, the Canadiens tried out Irvin's theory by alternating Bert Gardiner and Paul Bibeault. The two goalies were changed at about seven minute intervals. Summary:

Wright set a meet record of :07.4 this afternoon in the preliminaries of the 60 yard low hurdles.

Indiana got away to a good start in its attempt to dethrone Michigan as team champion by winning the two mile university relay, while the Wolverines were second. Indiana was fourth in the university medley relay, in which Michigan failed to place.

Delaney Beats Harris.

Campbell Kane's great finishing kick enabled Indiana to win the two mile relay. Warren Breidenbach of Michigan, who started on even terms with Kane on the anchor leg, dropped back and then caught Kane at the start of the final lap. Kane put on a burst of speed, however, to win by five yards.

86 ILLINI OPEN SPRING PRACTICE UNDER STADIUM

Champaign, Ill., March 15 [Special].—Driven inside the east hall in the stadium by snow which covered the practice field, 86 candidates for the University of Illinois football team reported to Coach Bob Zuppke today for the opening of spring practice.

The turnout, 15 more than reported for the first practice last year, included a group of letter men, most of the freshmen who won numerals and a number of newcomers of whom little is known.

Jimmy Smith, No. 1 left half back in 1939, who was obliged to withdraw before the start of practice last fall and undergo a knee operation, called signals at quarter back on a team which Zuppke lined up to demonstrate plays.

Seven Teams Available.

Zuppke gave a chalk talk to explain the fundamental plays which will be used in the workouts.

Seven elevens were lined up to rehearse the formations with these coaches assisting Zuppke: Ray Eliot, Jus Lindgren, Charles Bennis, Ralph Fletcher, Walter Crawford, Ray Duncan, Carl Knox, and Bernard [Bunny] Oakes, now a graduate student.

Line Is Problem.

Inspection of the squad confirmed the opinion of Zuppke and his assistants that the greatest problem is to find and develop linemen. With the return of Smith and the addition of several promising freshmen, it is hoped the back field will be somewhat improved over last season.

"The turnout is encouraging in numbers at least," Zuppke commented. "Several varsity men are occupied in other sports and others will report next week. We gave out 103 suits. We hope to see results from the football conditioning exercises which about 25 of the boys have been taking."

Practice will continue for at least six weeks. Next Saturday high school coaches attending the state basketball tournament will be guests at the drill.

western, and Bob Kincheloe of Chicago.

Nugent Suffers Fracture.

Hal Nugent, Drake university junior, suffered a broken left ankle vaulting. Nugent, who was graduated from Senn High school before attending Drake, received the injury when he landed in the sawdust after clearing the bar. He was sent to Mercy hospital. His parents reside at 5825 Winthrop.

Kansas State's relay team won the two mile championship in which only two other university teams, Chicago and Wisconsin, competed. The Maroons finished second. Northwestern and Drake were scratched. The time was 8:03.4, eleven seconds slower than the meet record set last year by Marquette university.

Tilden Tech's half mile relay team broke the meet record in winning the event in which Chicago high schools compete annually. Four high schools were entered, and Englewood, Schurz, and Lake View finished in that order behind the new champions. Tilden's time was 1:35.4, three tenths of a second faster than the 1940 mark made by Austin.

Purple Hurdlers Score.

Northwestern's hurdlers, Charles Horvath and Joe Finch, who finished in that order, led home the contestants in the 70 yard high hurdles. In third place was Bob Kahler of Nebraska. Horvath's winning time was 8 9/10 seconds. Don Sommerfield of Michigan Normal, won this event for colleges. His time was 9 seconds.

The University of Illinois won the sprint medley in which the 1938 Illini set a meet record. Last night Illinois was timed in 3:32.8, 9/10ths of a second over the all-time mark. Northern Illinois Teachers of De Kalb took the mile relay for colleges. Coe, Michigan State Normal, North Central, and Milwaukee Teachers followed in that order.

Paskvan Loosens Up.

George Paskvan, Wisconsin's shot putter, who took the Western conference indoor title from Indiana's Archie Harris, defending champion, last week at Purdue, won the event last night with one of the better performances in the meet. Paskvan tossed the 16 pound weight 49 feet 9⅛ inches. In the college division, Vincent Jones of Lawrence college, was the winner with a mark of 45 feet ⅝ inch.

HOPES ARE HIGH IN PARIS (ILL.) AND CENTRALIA

Streaks at Stake as Preps Clash Tomorrow.

There's plenty of excitement in 16 Illinois communities today, as representatives of each await the last week of the state prep basketball tournament. But none can equal the fanatic pitch existing in Centralia and Paris. Their teams, with the longest winning streaks in the domain, clash tomorrow night.

This is the long awaited battle, the first stern test in the title bid of a sensational Centralia team that has achieved 40 consecutive triumphs. Paris, riding the crest of a 24 game victory string, will travel 108 miles from its home near the Indiana line, carrying the fight to Centralia's own stronghold.

Seven other contests are on tomorrow's schedule as the opening round of the state meet is played in four cities for the first time in history. Two each in Centralia, Elgin, Springfield, and Pekin, will be followed by quarter-finals at the same sites on Tuesday. Semi-finals and finals will be contested in Champaign Friday and Saturday.

Their Second Meeting.

The main first round attraction brings together teams which between them have won 73 of 77 games. Centralia has won 41 of 42; Paris 32 of 35. Both are perennial contenders. On Friday night Paris gained its fifth sectional championship in the last six years; Centralia its third in the last eight.

Tomorrow's battle will be their second meeting, but don't let the previous result deceive you. Centralia won, 52 to 30, in Centralia on Dec. 23, but Paris was only two points behind in the second half when its star center, Lawrence Humerickhouse, was banned on personal fouls.

Centralia's hopes took on a darkened hue yesterday when Dwight Eddleman, its holder of the state scoring record, was reported to be suffering from a boil on his left leg. It is probable, however, that he will be ready to play tomorrow. Eddleman has scored 888 points.

In the other half of the draw at Centralia is Mattoon, with 15 straight and 20 victories in 24 games, and a strong finishing Carbondale quintet. Carbondale has won its last six for a total of 18 victories after 10 defeats.

Mattoon and Sterling, which plays in Pekin, are the only newcomers to final week combat in a state race. Pittsfield last progressed this far in 1921. All other cities represented have boasted at least one sectional title since this stage was added to the program in 1922.

East Rockford vs. Morton.

Technically, tho, there are two more newcomers. One is East High of Rockford, less than a year old, but directed by the same coach—James Laude—who led the now defunct Rockford High to four sectional crowns and the 1938 state title. The other is Feitshans of Springfield, one of two new schools which have taken some of the play from the Central High. Old Springfield High had produced four sectional champions, including a state title winner, from 1932 to 1935.

Morton of Cicero, Chicago's Suburban league champion, will meet East Rockford tomorrow night in Elgin. Morton is back in the final week for the third time in nine years and under the same coach—Norman Ziebell—who guided Morton to the state title in 1932. Morton, with an enrollment of 5,900, is the largest of the 16 survivors.

The smallest, Waterman, has the best record behind Centralia, with 29 victories in 31 games. It will seek its 18th straight in Elgin tomorrow against Freeport, which has survived due to rare circumstances. Beaten in the Rockford sectional final, Freeport's name was pulled out in a chance draw to fill the spot vacated by the withdrawal of the Chicago Public School league.

Waterman Recalls 1930.

Waterman, with 520 population and only 109 students in its school, is no stranger to the "sweet 16." Back in 1930 Waterman played four overtime periods before succumbing to Beardstown in the first round. Its coach then was Ernest Eveland, now at Paris for his seventh season.

Canton, city of 11,718, is represented for the 11th time in 24 years. Canton finished either first, second, or third in seven state races in the era of 1918 to 1932. Winner in 24 of 27 games, Canton plays in Pekin tomorrow against Streator, one of the two sectional champs of 1940 to repeat, the other being Paris.

Oldest of the coaches in point of service are Arthur Trout, serving his 27th season at Centralia, and Lowell Dale, in his 24th at Streator.

Of the 16 survivors, five were runners-up in regional tourneys March 8, but were given another chance last week in the intricate Illinois system. They are Sterling, Collinsville, Urbana, Athens, and Morton. Sterling had won 14 straight until beaten by Dixon in an anticlimax regional final, but since has won three for 17 out of 18.

Urbana reversed the setup of 1940 by beating Champaign's Big 12 champions after twice losing to its Twin City rival in conference games.

Carry Gary's Colors into Hoosier Finals

Froebel Wins, 37-36; Enters Indiana Finals

little Jefferson High from Lafayette by 16 to 11 at the half. Big Ed Ehlers finally began to hit for South Bend and it escaped with a 27 to 21 decision. Froebel also had difficulty for a spell with Logansport's Berries, who led the Gary five, 21 to 19, at the intermission. The second half saw Minor and slender Pete Mandich pace the Blue Devils to a 43 to 32 triumph.

Central Takes the Lead.

Central started out as tho it were going to make a runaway of it, going into an 8 to 0 lead after only two minutes of play. Howell touched it off by stealing a Froebel pass and scoring easily. Ehlers followed this with a tip-in shot, and then Howell added his second field goal on a followup. Martens then committed a larceny and had no trouble in counting. Mandich finally hit from outside the free throw circle for Froebel's first points. Martens hit on another followup and Ehlers and Tom Rzeszewcki contributed free throws to run the South Bend advantage to 12-2.

Froebel's cause seemed a hopeless one, Martin connecting on one of his patented long shots to make it 12 to 4 at the quarter. Ehlers ignited the second period with a hook shot for South Bend, but Mandich and Martin replied with long shots for Froebel. The Gary rooters took further heart when Benko pushed one in from a scramble at the free throw mark and went wild when Minor delivered on two free throws after Ehlers' foul.

They Make It 18 to 12.

Farmer and Ehlers then scored under the basket, and it was 18 to 12. Once again Minor came thru. He scored two free throws off of another Ehler foul after having hit from the side on a push shot. With two minutes to go he repeated to tie the score at 18-18. Martens then put Central ahead again with a push effort, but Badanich clicked from the side to tie it up at 20 to 20 just as the half ended.

The second half saw Minor and Willie Martin engaged in a scoring battle with Martens, the latter getting seven points to put his team in front, 27 to 26. Martin then tied it with a free throw, but the best Froebel could do before the quarter ended against the baskets by Jim Farner, Ehlers, and Martens was a one hander by Minor.

Isabel entered the game in the last quarter, counted two follow shots, and then delivered from the side after Tom Rzeszewski had scored for Central. Ehlers then hit on a followup shot, but Minor made it 37 to 36 for the Blue Devils and they took charge of the situation therefrom. Lineups:

Ward, Dubs to Meet Again in Marigold Ring

Gene Ward is all set for a 10 round return bout with Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., in Marigold Gardens tomorrow. If the west side lightweight repeats his previous victory over Dubs, an accomplishment he achieved in the same arena on Jan. 13, he will seek a match with Quentin [Babe] Breese, contender for a shot at the title held by Sammy Angott.

Ward, who is 21 years old, was given recognition by virtue of a surprise triumph he scored over Eddie Lander in the Coliseum last month. A second decision over Dubs will go a long way toward determining whether Gene merits a match with Breese. Some fans are of the opinion Ward was lucky when he beat Harvey the first time, as he was behind on points when his Canadian rival incurred a cut forehead which forced his surrender in the ninth round. Since this setback Dubs has conquered Jackie Simmons of Kansas City. Supporting matches:

George Feltes vs. George Eschman [4], 160.
Mickey Potter vs. Buddy Wright [4], 147.
Vito Rizzo vs. Jesse Yarber [4], 128.

A birthday anniversary party will be held in honor of George Gardner, light heavyweight champion in 1903, at 946 Leland avenue tomorrow night. Gardner was born in Listoonvarna, Ireland, March 17, 1877. . . . Date of a dance, sponsored by the Veteran Boxers' association of Illinois, is May 3. Original date for the event, which will be presented in the Midland hotel, was April 3.

8 MORE TEAMS ACCEPT BIDS TO CATHOLIC MEET

14 Ready for Tourney at Loyola March 26.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Two high scoring quintets from the eastern seaboard, two from the old south, two from the champion producing state of Indiana, one from Wisconsin, and one from the southwest yesterday were added to the list of teams entered in the national Catholic prep basketball tournament which opens in Loyola university gymnasium on March 26. The meet will continue until the night of March 30, when the 1941 title will be decided.

The eastern representatives will be St. Michael of Union City, N. J., and Northeast Catholic of Philadelphia, Pa. The squads accomplished impressive records during the 1940-'41 campaign and they are expected to furnish outstanding battles in the attempt to bring the national title to the east for the first time since the tournament was inaugurated 18 years ago.

New Orleans Team Enters.

The south will send St. Francis of Owensboro, Ky., regional champion, and St. Aloysius of New Orleans, La. The New Orleans quintet is expected to prove as colorful as the Bay St. Louis, Miss., team which qualified thru the New Orleans area in 1925 and had in its lineup Zeke Bonura, formerly of the Chicago Cubs and White Sox, and Marchmont Schwartz, now assistant to Head Football Coach Clark Shaughnessy at Stanford university.

Hoosierland's representatives are Memorial of Evansville, Ind., state champion, and Catholic High of Huntington, runner-up. Memorial succeeded Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, defending national champion, as Indiana title holder this season. Aquinas of La Crosse is the first Wisconsin entry in the meet. Aquinas, winner of the St. Norbert college tournament, finished the season with a record of 17 victories and five defeats, averaging 47 points per game.

Southwest May Send El Paso.

The southwest's hope of winning the national title will depend upon Cathedral of El Paso, Tex., winner of the state title in five out of the last six years. Definite acceptance of the invitation to compete in the meet, however, is not expected for several days. The squad is rated as powerful as the team from its neighboring state, St. Michael's of Santa Fe, N. M., which went to the final round of the 1940 tournament.

The eight acceptances brought the total entered in the meet to 14. The six others include four from Illinois, Leo and St. George of the Catholic league; Trinity of Bloomington and Spalding of Peoria; Fort Wayne, Ind., and St. John's Cathedral of Paterson, N. J. Thirty-two quintets will be in the field.

62½ Pound Muskie Tops for 1940.

BY BOB BECKER.

As fishermen scan the tackle displays in the sporting goods stores, inspect the new lures and rods and talk about the big fish they have to catch during 1941 to win a place among the prize winners, they are marking down these figures: 62 pounds 8 ounces. That's the weight of the 1940 prize winning muskie, the one they have to beat during 1941 in order to break a world record for hook and line fishing.

To Percy P. Haver of Detroit, Mich., goes the honor of catching the largest muskie during 1940. It was his 62 pound 8 ounce fish which topped all the big 'lunge taken during the last year. Haver caught his prize winner right at his back door—in Lake St. Clair. He refused to disclose the weight of the fish until late in the season altho he caught it, weighed and confidently announced he had a prize winner during the month of July. Haver, former winner of a number of fishing contest prizes in the muskie class, reports he used his own make of lure on a heavy linen line and a heavy rod. The fish was taken when he was trolling his lure.

Wisconsin Man Second.

Louie Spray of Hayward, Wis., won second honors by landing a 61 pound 13 ounce muskie from Couderay lake, Wis. Spray, who spends every spare minute hunting for big muskies in northwestern Wisconsin, was using a metal bass-pop lure when this big muskie hit. The fact that both of these muskies weighed more than 61 pounds and neither came from Canadian waters was a big surprise to anglers, for lakes across the boundary are expected to produce the whoppers.

When J. E. Walden, 610 West Van Buren street, Chicago, checked in with a third muskellunge weighing more than 61 pounds [61 pounds 9 ounces] and entered it in fishing contests, many rod and reel enthusiasts could hardly believe the news. Walden placed third in the national competition with his fine specimen which was caught on a Gephart rod and a spoon lure. He caught his prize in Eagle lake, Ont.

Quite a Drop in Weights.

From third to fourth place in the muskie fishing competition there is quite a drop in the weights of the fish. The fourth place muskie weighed 53 pounds 8 ounces. The Chippewa flowage produced a 44 pound 5 ouncer last summer and Couderay lake grew the 10th place winner which gave Wisconsin 3 prize winning muskies out of the 10 that were in the money.

We were interested in learning the types of lures which the 10 prize winning muskies hit a few minutes before their careers ended in the boat of a jubilant fisherman. The list of fish foolers which tricked the big ones shows that spoons and bucktails and plugs haven't lost their attraction for muskies.

Haver caught his big fish on a homemade lure, but two of the prize winning fish fell for an underwater spoon and bucktail combination [musky-houn] which is familiar to fishermen. The bass-pop which caught a 61 pounder is a comparatively new surface lure. The plug type of lure was represented among the winners by a jointed vamp and the large sized pikie minnow. Skinner and Muskill spoon and bucktails also brought in a couple of the big ones. Just one splashing noisy surface lure—the well known mud puppy—made the list.

ARMOUR, JONES LEAD SARAZEN AND HAGEN, 2 UP

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 15 (AP). —The veteran Tommy Armour turned the pages of time back a decade today as he and Bobby Jones turned in a best ball of 69, two under par, to take a 2 up lead over Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen at the half way mark of the 36 hole match of champions.

Armour scored three birdies and turned in an individual 70. Jones helped his partner on only one hole.

The duke of Windsor, sponsor of this match for the Red Cross, was referee. Dressed in a plaid sport coat, yellow slacks and sneakers, the duke held the pin for each shot and also decided which golfer should shoot first.

The duchess also followed the golfers around the course, along with about 1,000 visitors at this resort. She wore a double-breasted red jacket, blue skirt and blue hat.

Hagen earned his share of the spotlight by clicking off consecutive birdies with putts of better than 16 feet each on the 13th and 14th holes. Armour halved the former with an easy four.

Jones made only one birdie for a 73. Sarazen sank a 35 foot putt for a birdie two on the 18th hole for a 72. Hagen shot a 76, but Sarazen was almost as badly off form. The remaining 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

CHICAGO HOPES FOR PASSAGE OF SLUM MEASURE

Assembly Hearings to Start Tuesday.

With hearings scheduled to start Tuesday at Springfield on the Neighborhood Redevelopment corporation bill, several leaders in Chicago business and civic affairs yesterday expressed hope that the slum clearing measure will be enacted by the legislature.

Representative Swanson.

The bill was introduced in the Illinois house of representatives Feb. 11, and is now in the hands of the house judiciary committee, of which David I. Swanson [R., Chicago] is chairman. Swanson's committee will hold the hearings which are to begin Tuesday.

Shaped to provide broad enabling legislation for the rehabilitation of run down city areas, the bill would permit creation of special redevelopment corporations which would be empowered to undertake improvement projects with the approval of locally controled commissions.

Provides for Local Decision.

Each town or city would decide for itself whether such a redevelopment commission should be formed and corporations created. The corporations would have a limited power to condemn part of a needed project site if "holdout" property owners threatened to block a redevelopment program.

Passage of the measure was urged yesterday by David Mayer Jr., chairman, State Street council; William Alvin Dudley, managing director of the Greater Chicago District Association, Inc., and Walter A. Knoop, managing director of the Cook County Retail council.

"We consider this bill a long step in the right direction toward cleaning up slum areas," said Mayer. "The measure would help put local government bodies on a strong economic basis by restoring run down properties to the taxpaying rolls. After the armament emergency is over, the bill will, if enacted, help create employment for labor which will be released from armament production work."

Called Community Aid.

Dudley said:

"The Neighborhood Redevelopment corporation bill should be passed by this legislature. Its enactment will interest private capital in doing a good job which not only will benefit the community but pay a fair return to the investor.

"The safeguards and management plan of the bill will assure fair dealing in acquisition of real estate from develop their properties. It is high time we ceased leaning on a paternal federal agency to correct every business ache and pain. The bill offers us the means of doing for ourselves what greatly needs doing."

Knoop praised the Chicago Building congress, sponsor of the bill, and Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of a city council housing subcommittee which held hearings to help the congress study suggestions when the bill was being drafted.

"The congress and Ald. Lindell have done a masterful job in drafting the bill," said Knoop. "They went to the crux of the problem in providing for acquisition of property thru the power of eminent domain, with sufficient safeguards in the public interest. Blighted areas have been growing. Private capital must be encouraged to tackle the problem. Unless the problem of the holdout property owner is met, there will be no incentive to undertake large scale housing."

CHICAGO FIRMS SHARE IN ARMY AND NAVY ORDERS

The Bauer & Black division of Kendall company, Chicago, yesterday was awarded a contract to supply the army with $181,109 of absorbent cotton and gauze bandages.

Among other numerous army contracts was one for $141,795, for a sewage treatment plant at Scott Field, Ill. Buesching Brothers Construction company, Fort Wayne, Ind., won the contract. Dickie Construction company, St. Louis, Mo., received a $117,181 contract for construction of temporary housing at Scott Field.

The navy department announced the following awards to Chicago companies: International Tag and Salesbook company, shipping tags, $10,570; Fairbanks, Morse & Co., Diesel engine drive and equipment, $8,894; Bryant Machinery and Engineering company, drilling and tapping machines, $12,902, and Sciaky corporation, welding machines and cabinets, $53,995.

Big Aluminum Users Turning to War Goods

Because of the indicated government curtailment of aluminum supplies for the making of cooking utensils, many of the country's manufacturers of this type of kitchenware have been speeding preparations for converting a portion of their operations into the manufacture of armament products, it was learned yesterday.

Altho some observers in the industry were inclined to view the present shortage of aluminum as a temporary situation, most manufacturers of aluminum ware were reported to be of the opinion that the industry would be forced to cut down heavily on their normal operations when supplies on hand run out. It was said that all aluminum utensil manufacturers who recently conferred with officials of the office of production management agreed that the industry would have to switch to other lines of production or cut their aluminum ware operations to a minimum.

Plan to Switch Operations.

Lawrence W. Scudder, president of the Century Metalcraft corporation, with main offices in Chicago, said that the company planned to change its plant operations from the manufacture of aluminum cooking utensils to that of aircraft parts as rapidly as the situation demanded.

As one of the manufacturers who attended the recent conference in Washington, D. C., he reported that OMP officials had indicated that aluminum for cooking utensils would fall far down on the list of rationing for civilian purposes. Manufacturers of products which require but a small amount of the metal for the finished item, he said, probably would receive first chance at the civilian production supplies.

"We manufacturers of aluminum cooking utensils would be foolish to rely on our regular lines of production if we are able to obtain only the small amount of aluminum that has been indicated," he said. "It was the general consensus of opinion that the aluminum kitchen utensil industry will have to adapt part of its equipment to producing goods needed directly in the armament program."

Has Large Sales Staff.

Unlike many other utensil companies that do not have their own sales staffs, Scudder said that Century Metalcraft was faced with the added problem of maintaining a large sales force. However, he said this situation would be met thru the introduction of a substitute for the company's regular line of cooking utensil.

The company has its main plants at Los Angeles, Cal., where employment is around 250 persons. Its sales force consists of approximately 1,000 salesmen.

Scudder explained the difficulty most aluminum ware companies would experience in attempting to produce a substitute utensil with their present facilities. Even if stainless steel were not on the priority list, most companies would find this material a poor substitute, he said, inasmuch as many of the dies and a large part of the machinery for making aluminum utensils would not stand the strain of the heavier material. Copper was cited as a metal that might serve as a substitute.

Glass Firms Stand to Gain.

With the production of aluminum ware cut down, it was said that manufacturers of glass and enamel ware probably would realize a substantial increase in sales volume.

Scudder said that OPM officials outlined to aluminum utensil manufacturers the following ranking in importance of products needing aluminum:

1. Direct armament goods, such as airplanes.
2. Products which fit indirectly into the armament production program.
3. Products used as repairs or replacements for machines needed in this type of production.
4. Products closely connected with the public health, such as in the pharmaceutical industry.
5. Products which require only a small proportionate amount of aluminum in the finished item, such as in the manufacture of radios.

Besides making aircraft parts, he said that the aluminum utensil manufacturers also could adapt their equipment for the production of powder cans, parts for boats and guns, and other types of direct armament work.

Building of Giant Bombers Hinted by Airplane Maker

San Diego, Cal., March 15 (AP).—Consolidated Aircraft corporation indicated today it was considering construction of a bomber which would dwarf its present 25 ton, four motored craft. Announcing that contracts had been awarded for erection of assembly plants at Tulsa and Fort Worth, Consolidated said the plants would be sufficiently large to permit construction of planes of as much as 195 feet span, weighing up to 200,000 pounds each.

STEEL AND AUTO FIRMS STEP UP OUTPUT TEMPO

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Steel and automobile production, heavy construction and electric power output were the leaders last week in another upward movement of American industry.

Retail trade, new security offerings, bank loans to business and cotton textile manufacturing swung in behind the pace setters to climb to higher levels than were reached in the preceding week. Residential construction held about even. Railroad freight volume, however, made a poor showing, dipping more than the normal seasonal amount, partly because of the snowstorms in the east.

The national average rate of steel production was pushed up to 98.8 per cent of theoretical plant capacity, from 97.5 per cent for the preceding week, with tonnage the largest on record. Eight of the 13 steel districts were reported to have reached or exceeded 100 per cent of rated capacity.

Auto Assemblies Climb.

In what was said to be the apparent beginning of a spring rally automobile assemblies rose to the highest mark for any week since that of May 15, 1937. They totaled 131,410 units, compared with 125,915 in the preceding week, 105,720 in the corresponding 1940 period, and 139,507 in the week ended May 15, 1937.

Reflecting rearmament preparations, the volume of engineering construction contracts soared to more than three times the awards in the 1940 week. The figure for the latest period was $132,626,000, compared with $43,308,000 a year earlier. The total also was larger than in the preceding week, when $103,962,000 of contracts were let.

A survey of home building activities showed that 18,000 small houses costing $90,782,000 were under construction in 37 states east of the Rocky mountains in February, F. W. Dodge corporation reported.

Power Output Sets Record.

Production of electricity in the week ended March 8, the latest period covered by statistics, was 2,835,321,000 kilowatt hours, the largest output for that time of year on record, and 15 per cent more than for the corresponding 1940 week.

The weekly index of industrial activity compiled by the Associated Press touched an all-time high level. The index, based on 1929-'30 levels as 100, compared as follows:

New strikes were called at plants loaded with armament orders, and bus workers in New York City struck, tying up 95 per cent of Manhattan's surface transportation. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America [C. I. O.] began biennial negotiations for a wage agreement to replace the present one, which expires April 1. The UMWA demanded a $1 a day wage hike for the 450,000 miners in eight Appalachian states who dig nearly three-fourths of the nation's soft coal.

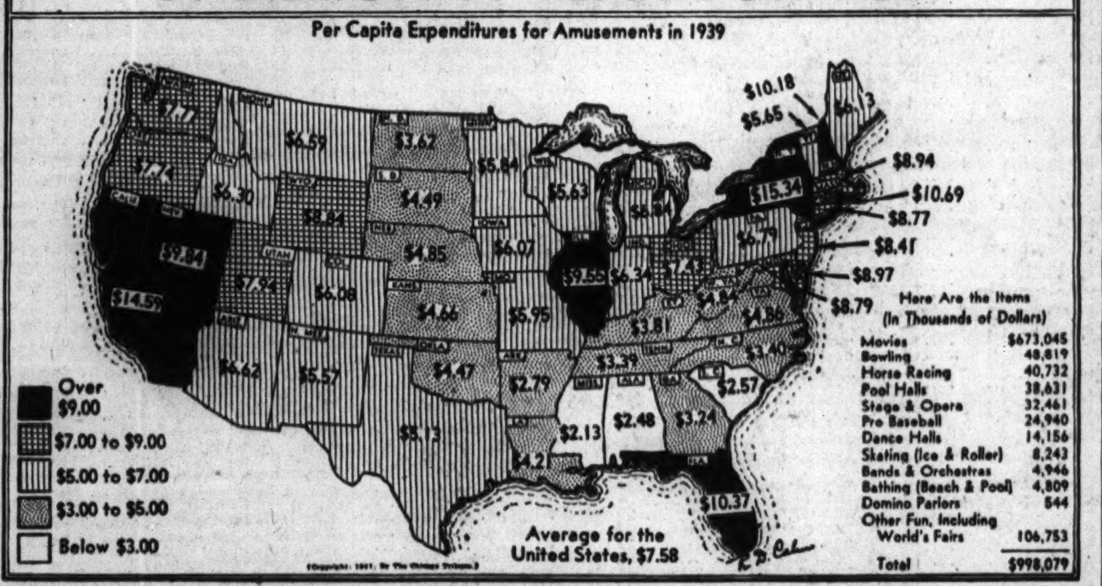
A BILLION A YEAR FOR FUN



Chicago Army Buying Office About to Open

The new national office which will handle purchases of fresh fruits and vegetables for the army will be established in Chicago within a week, the Illinois Manufacturers association's committee on national defense reported yesterday.

The office will be at 1425 South Racine avenue, in the heart of the South Water market. John A. Martin, chief of the perishable foods section of the subsistence and supply branch, purchases division, of the office of production management, will be in charge of the new headquarters. Martin formerly was vice president and general manager of Wesco Foods company, Chicago.

About $100,000 a day will be expended thru the office, the association said. Thirty purchasing offices, controled by the Chicago central headquarters, will be established in various marketing centers thruout the nation to serve army posts. Each of the 30 buying branches will be in the charge of a commissioned officer of the quartermaster corps, and each of these officers will be advised by an experienced civilian produce buyer.

When the new buying plan goes into effect, the army will change from the "garrison ration" to the "field ration" system. Under the garrison ration plan an army camp is fed on a money allowance basis. The other plan is based on a commodity allowance.

Complete Change by May 1.

Completion of the change to the field ration system is not expected before May 1, it was said. Later, some of the 30 branch offices will handle such perishables as meat, poultry, eggs and butter, as well as fresh fruits and vegetables.

The manufacturers association reported also that the Chicago quartermaster depot eventually will become the purchasing agency for canned meats, evaporated and dried milk, flour and flour products, rice, beans, dried peas, and several other commodities.

FSCC PURCHASES 338,8000 DOZENS OF FRESH EGGS

Country purchases of 338,800 dozens of fresh eggs by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation were announced yesterday by the Agricultural Marketing service. On offers submitted during the week the government agency bought in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, and South Dakota.

The largest purchases were in Illinois, where more than 158,000 dozens were acquired. Prices were from 18½ to 19¾ cents a dozen for U. S. No. 1 extras.

Egg futures yesterday advanced 0.40 to 0.45 cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, the October delivery closing at 20.95 cents, highest since 1938. Butter futures gained 0.35 to 0.45 cent a pound, with March contracts at 29.70 cents.

FERTILIZER BEING SHIPPED BRITISH COLONIES BY U. S.

Norfolk, Va., March 15 [Special].—The American steamer Alcoa Scout today was loading fertilizer to be delivered in the British West Indies, where efforts are being made to grow much larger food crops this year for shipment to the British Isles.

This is the first of several cargoes that will be sent to English possessions under the dictator law provisions, it was said today at the office of the Chesapeake Shipping company, agent for the Alcoa Steamship company which operates the Alcoa Scout and 15 other vessels.

U. S. TO BUY POWDER, GUN PLANTS BUILT FOR BRITISH ACCOUNT

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced today that the government was taking over and paying for powder and gun plants built for the British at a cost of $46,000,000. England will pay a rental or charge to plants that continue to manufacture for her account.

Jones said that Defense Plant corporation, a subsidiary of the RFC, was arranging to make the purchases at the request of the war department and with the approval of President Roosevelt. Other plants, he said, may be acquired later.

The plants to be taken over include a powder factory near Memphis, Tenn., built for Great Britain by the du Pont interests at a cost of approximately $25,000,000 and these four machine gun plants, aggregating about $21,000,000, Buffalo Arms corporation, at Buffalo, N. Y.; Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing company, Hartford, Conn.; Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, Plymouth, Mich., and High Standard Manufacturing company, New Haven, Conn.

CHICAGO STEEL MILLS TO RUN AT RECORD RATE

Chicago's steel mills are scheduled to start operations tomorrow at 101.2 per cent of their theoretical capacity, an all time high rate. The value of the products being produced with the mills running at capacity was estimated yesterday as exceeding $12,684,000 weekly. And it was estimated that about 85,000 persons in the Chicago area are earning their living from the steel business.

The Chicago mills have a rated theoretical capacity of 15,722,400 tons of steel annually, but this total makes allowance for the closing down of plant facilities for repairs or changes. Actually the capacity of the mills is about 10 per cent larger than the rated amount.

On a basis of the scheduled rate Chicago's mills will be producing tomorrow at a rate of more than 302,000 tons a week. Based on an arbitrary average of $42 a ton for steel, the total value is in excess of $12,000,000 weekly.

2 STREAMLINERS ARE ORDERED BY BY MO. PACIFIC

St. Louis, Mo., March 15 (AP).—The Missouri Pacific railroad announced today it had awarded contracts for two new streamlined, stainless steel trains which it will operate between St. Louis and Denver.

The Electro-Motive corporation of La Grange, Ill., will build the locomotives, the Pullman Manufacturing company will provide the sleeping cars, and the remainder of the equipment will be built by the Budd Manufacturing company of Philadelphia. The cost, exclusive of the Pullmans, is approximately $1,500,000, President L. W. Baldwin said. Delivery is expected in six to eight months.

Each train will consist of a 4,000 horse power Diesel-electric locomotive, two Pullmans, a diner-lounge car, two coaches, a mail car, and a mail-baggage car. One additional storage car for handling of extra mail was included in the order.

Mandel Earns More in Year; Sales Larger

Mandel Brothers, Inc., had a profit, before provision for federal income taxes, of $354,128 in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1941, compared with $306,208 in the preceding fiscal year, the company's annual report to stockholders said yesterday. Leon Mandel, vice president and general manager, said that after provision for the federal income tax the profit was $269,128 against $256,208 in the preceding year.

Leon Mandel.

Net sales totaled $18,506,098 compared with $18,089,250 in the preceding year and cost of goods sold and operating expenses, exclusive of depreciation, were $18,111,122 compared with $17,737,103.

Condition Reported Sound.

"The balance sheet showed a very sound condition," Mandel said in a letter accompanying the statement. "Working capital increased and there were no bank loans. Cash alone, $1,637,121, exceeded the total current liabilities.

"The company continues its record of dividend payments unbroken since 1936. The directors again followed the practice of declaring a preliminary dividend in December to be followed by a further dividend, if justified, after the final results of the year are available. A payment of 50 cents a share was made last December compared with 25 cents in the previous December.

Statement on Dividend.

"It is the present intention of the directors to declare an additional dividend at the meeting of the board to be held April 2. It is anticipated that the additional dividend, if declared, will be payable in April and will bring total dividends paid out of earnings for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1941, to an amount at least equal to the 75 cents a share which was paid out of earnings for the prior fiscal year."

The report said that accounts receivable were in sound condition, collections were good thruout the year, and the reserve for bad debt losses was more than adequate.

Chicago Bank Clearings Rise Above 391 Millions

An increase in Chicago bank clearings to $391,700,000 last week, from $331,200,000 in the preceding week, was reported yesterday by the Chicago Clearing House association. In the corresponding 1940 period the volume was $316,500,000. The association's report follows:

U. S. Doles Out Copper from Its War Chest

New York, March 15 (AP).—The federal government drew on its war chest of copper this week to supply hard pressed domestic consumers who were unable to buy metal elsewhere.

Metal the government disposed of apparently either came from 35,000 tons held here under bond and originally destined for France, or from Latin America. Dealers estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 tons was sold at the market price.

May Seize Japanese Copper.

Rumors were heard the United States might commandeer Chilean copper originally bought by Japan. This metal was sold with a clause providing for cancellation at the discretion of Chilean or United States authorities. About 20,000 tons, it was believed, had been ordered by Japan for delivery thru April. Such a move would deprive Japan of its last major source of copper supply.

Another plan believed under federal consideration was to open up high cost domestic mines, possibly under a subsidy arrangement. These mines, metal experts declared, cannot produce profitably at the current market price.

Dole Out Supplies.

Major producers meanwhile continued to dole out available supplies at the unchanged price of 12 cents a pound. Indications that the industry was striving to make present stocks go as far as possible was seen in a sales report which disclosed business for March to date was roughly 9,000 tons behind the comparable February period.

Zinc continues on a strict allocation basis with present stocks equal to only a few days' demand.

PORT AUTHORITY FIGHTS PLAN TO TAX ITS BONDS

New York, March 15 (AP).—The Port of New York authority today countered the United States treasury move to tax income of bonds issued by the authority with an offer to assume the defense of all of its bondholders "who are thus singled out for attack."

A statement by Frank C. Ferguson, chairman of the authority, said:

"The port authority is confident it will defeat the treasury's proposed suit testing the immunity of port authority bonds from federal taxation. The treasury's action is an attempt to tax outstanding bonds that have been regarded as immune from federal taxation by the treasury's own regulations over the last 20 years. It is an attack not only on port authority bonds but on the constitutional immunity of all outstanding state and municipal issues."

The treasury's first step was taken late yesterday with a formal claim against seven holders of bonds of the authority for federal income taxes on intereset received on the bonds. The action was planned ultimately to prove that the federal government has constitutional power to tax the income from state and municipal securities.

Spring Home Furnishings Market Set for May 5-10

The American Furniture mart's spring national home furnishings market will be held May 5 to 10, and indications are that the attendance will be "far in excess" of the usual figure of about 2,500 buyers, Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the mart, said yesterday.

FANSTEEL SETS NEW RECORDS IN ALL DIVISIONS

Production Pushed, but Orders Mount.

New production peaks were reported yesterday in all departments of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, North Chicago producer of vital armament materials and sole source of some. Outlining to shareholders the expansion in production facilities completed and under way, Robert J. Aitchison, president of the company, said:

Robert J. Aitchison.

"Our mounting backlog of orders and insistent preference demands make it clear that our primary problem during the rest of the year will be to meet intensified pressure for production.

"The company has recognized its responsibility under the government's armament program without sacrificing its normal peacetime business. Expansions undertaken to meet the present demands have all been fashioned with a view toward permanent constructive benefit in the company's operations."

Year's Profit Is Smaller.

The report showed that last year's expenditures for plant expansion, along with increased taxes and reduced selling prices on carbides and carbide tools, resulted in lowering the company's net income.

Net profit was $215,540 after all charges, equal to 86 cents a share on common stock, compared with $238,666, or $1.02 a share in 1939. Federal income and excess profit taxes rose to $113,616, from $48,086 the year before. Aitchison said that the inclusion of Fansteel's share of the 1940 profits of the Vascoloy-Ramet corporation, an unconsolidated, two-thirds owned subsidiary, would increase profits to $246,631, or $1.01 a share.

From 409 at the beginning of 1940, Fansteel increased its employment to 618 at the close of the year and to 755 as of March 10, Aitchison said.

Sales Up 25 Per Cent.

Gross sales were 25 per cent above the 1939 volume and more than double that of 1938. Orders currently booked, the report said, would require four months for production with three shifts at work daily.

Reporting Fansteel holding the position primarily of supplying other industries with materials, equipment, tools, parts and supplies, Aitchison said:

"America has few other manufacturers of tungsten and molybdenum, and no other supplier of tantalum and columbium. Many important industries, therefore, are dependent upon Fansteel for these metals and parts or products in which they are used."

STOCKS REVIVE; SOME RUN UP SEVERAL POINTS

Good Earnings Outlook Is Cause of Upturn.

New York, March 15 (AP).—Bullish sentiment revived in the stock market today and enabled the list to finish a rather spotty week on the advancing side. Altho many leaders limited gains to fractions, specialties, including shipbuildings and an assortment of senior issues, added 1 to 4 or more points.

Improvement was attributed mainly to a more optimistic appraisal of corporation earnings prospects and the belief that prices, on the whole, had discounted a lot of unfavorable news. The more cheerful feeling was present in the face of mounting taxes, labor difficulties, and signs that a war crisis in the Balkans was near. Persistent strength of major commodities also served as a bolstering influence.

Average Is Higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 0.3 point at 41.7 and on the week showed a net recovery of 0.5. Volume picked up at intervals and transfers for the two hours, 265,260 shares, were the largest for a Saturday since Feb. 15.

Stocks setting new high marks for the year included New York Shipbuilding, Continental Baking A, Climax Molybdenum, and Wesson Oil.

The stock department had its best and liveliest day of the week Monday when expectations of quick passage of the British aid bill by congress, with coincidental huge governmental armament outlays, buoyed speculative forces. There was substantial selling on Tuesday. The market just about held its own Wednesday. Tax worries and apprehension over spreading strikes received the blame for a downturn Thursday. There was little change in the news Friday and trends were mixed.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Fractional advances were in the majority at the close of the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Trading totaled 13,000 shares. Aviation and Transportation was the most active issue, closing ¼ point higher at 4¼ on a turnover of 2,250 shares. Commonwealth Edison closed unchanged at 28⅞ on a turnover of 750 shares.

Last week's trading on the exchange increased to 100,000 shares, from 87,000 the week before, but fell below the year ago volume of 119,000 shares.

FUTURES PRICES OF COMMODITIES SWEEP UPWARD

Seven Staples Advance to New '41 Peaks.

Commodities for future delivery shot upward last week in one of the fastest spurts since the rearmament "boom" of last fall as traders and speculators weighed forecasts of vast quantities of materials to be sent overseas as well as shipping shortages for imported staples. Rubber, hides, wool tops, domestic sugar, Santos coffee, cocoa, and cottonseed oil were carried to their highest prices of the year. Copper moved alone against the trend.

Despite inroads of profit selling, futures finished the week pointed upward in general as brisk demand appeared likely to continue. Cash prices generally kept pace with futures.

Rubber and Silk Soar.

Rubber soared to 22.65 cents a pound for the May delivery and closed with a gain of 1.33 cents at 22.48 cents. The cash market jumped 1⅛ cents to 22.75 cents. Similarly, silk, another import, was 6 cents a pound ahead of $2.77 in May, while the cash quotation bounded 16 cents to $2.86.

With cash raw sugar prices highest since the war flurry in September, 1939, and refined advancing steadily, domestic futures reached a top of 2.37 cents a pound for May before ending 0.05 cent ahead of the week at 2.35 cents. Wool tops showed sporadic strength and rose to $1.25 7-10 a pound in May contracts. The close at $1.24 was a gain of 0.7 cent.

Nonferrous Metals Lag.

Nonferrous metal futures lagged in comparison with the swift rise among other commodities. Copper for May delivery slumped 0.31 cent a pound to 11.75 cents. Zinc was removed from the speculative market at the instance of the Defense Advisory commission. Tin for May added 0.30 cent at 51.90 cents a pound and lead crept forward 0.02 cent to 5.67 cents in that position.

The Associated Press weighted wholesale price index of 35 cash staples, based on 1926 as 100, advanced 1.04 to 79.16, highest since November, 1937. The Dow-Jones commodity futures index rose 1.94 to 61.50.

RAILROADS GAIN TRAFFIC DUE TO SHIP SHORTAGES

Former Coastal Movement Made Cross Country.

Lumber from the Pacific coast and manufactured goods from the eastern seaboard are moving in larger volume over the transcontinental railroads and in smaller volume by intercoastal ships by way of the Panama canal, Chicago transportation men said yesterday. They forecast a continuance and acceleration of this trend as the result of war shipping losses and the diversion of intercoastal ships into other services.

A number of other products have been affected by this shift in transportation agencies, the influence of which has been felt at points of destination a considerable distance inland from each coast, as well as along the gulf, it was said.

Handle Orient Shipments.

Chicago officials of the Association of American Railroads, as well as representatives of individual roads, expressed the opinion that in addition to hauling a larger proportion of domestic freight the railroads will share to a larger degree in the transportation of goods originating in or shipped to the orient.

A. A. R. officials said the transcontinental lines had already made plans for hauling from Pacific ports some of the Dutch East Indies rubber, tin, and other raw materials which heretofore have been shipped thru the canal to eastern ports. They based their plans on the expectation that the national government, in its program for aiding Great Britain, would cause such a shift in ocean shipping procedure.

Releases Ships Quickly.

It was observed that the unloading of raw materials for the arms program at Pacific ports, rather than at eastern ports, would materially reduce the time for shipping from the orient and release vessels for service on return trips. Further, railroad shipment from the west coast would bring the raw materials to the fabrication plants much faster than by boat to eastern ports, thence by rail to destination, it was said.

In commenting on the upturn which has affected Chicago transcontinental railroads and those with transcontinental connections, Edward W. Soergel, freight traffic manager of the Milwaukee railroad, said:

"There has been a very heavy increase in freight traffic both eastbound and westbound. This is the result of two factors: there is more freight to carry, and there are fewer ships available for operation in the intercoastal services.

Wool Shipped East by Rail.

"Australian wool which formerly would be shipped to Atlantic ports is now being unloaded at Pacific ports and shipped inland by rail. This trend is expected to continue and to embrace a growing number of products.

"The railroads can handle this added tonnage in the normal course of business because the increase will be gradual and because there is still a comfortable cushion between present railway freight operations and ultimate capacity."

Frank J. Conrad, assistant freight traffic manager of the Burlington railroad, said the road had succeeded in obtaining a substantial volume of business from shippers who heretofore had used intercoastal ship lines to transport their goods.

James J. Grogan, freight traffic manager of the Santa Fe, said that road had shared in the increased traffic moving by rail, and said the Santa Fe and other carriers were in position to substantially boost their operations without taxing their facilities.

GRAIN MARKETS SWING HIGHER IN LIVELY TRADING

Bullish sentiment was rampant on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday and September wheat and all deliveries of lard sold at new seasonal high prices. Wheat advanced ¾ cent a bushel at one time and soy beans rose more than 3 cents.

Altho the grain markets were called upon to absorb liberal profit taking sales, each bulge carried prices into new high ground, and the close was only slightly below the top. Wheat futures finished 1 to 1⅛ cents net higher. Corn gained ⅜ to ½ cent and oats were ¼ to ⅜ cent higher. Soy beans gained 3⅛ to 3⅜ cents. Lard futures rose 22½ to 25 cents a hundred pounds and closed at the top.

Reports that President Roosevelt had called a conference of department of agriculture officials and congressmen for late yesterday in an effort to iron out proposed farm aid legislation and set a loan limit on the 1941 wheat crop had much to do with the upturn in wheat, brokers said. The trade has heard persistent rumors that the loan rates on the new crop would be 75 to 85 cents a bushel, or 11 to 21 cents above the average price on the 1940 harvest.

BRITAIN'S WAR SPENDING HITS ALL-TIME PEAK

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—Britain's war expenditure last week reached the record figure of £96,161,000 [about $384,644,000], or close to $55,000,000 daily, according to official treasury statistics.

Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of exchequer.

National revenues totaled only £41,364,000 [about $165,456,000], leaving a deficit for the week of £54,797,000 [about $219,188,000.

The latest treasury statement brings national accounts to within 23 days of the end of the fiscal year and provides an indication of the final balance sheet whereon Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood will base his new budget.

Spends 14 Billions in Year.

The British government's total expenditure for the current fiscal year to date totals £3,530,416,000 [about $14,121,664,000]. Against this, revenue amounted to only £1,271,243 [about $5,084,972,000].

Altho well informed financial sources estimate that by the end of this month the revenue should pass the £1,400,000,000 mark [about $5,600,000,000], expenditures for the full year are expected to total £3,750,000,000 [about 15 billion dollars]. This would leave a final deficit of approximately £2,350,000,000 [about $9,400,000,000].

Despite President Roosevelt's signing of the dictator bill, financial circles state there is little prospect of an early decline in the rate of expenditure.

Reveals Income Sources.

Revenue and savings combined are producing approximately £60,000,000 [about $240,000,000] weekly on the basis of a recent treasury statement. The sales of gold and market securities, plus borrowing from empire countries, added another £10,000,000 [about $40,000,000] weekly. Thus, Chancellor Wood is confronted with the task of bridging an inflationary gap between revenue and borrowings and expenditures of at least £15,000,000 [about $60,000,000] a week.

In the face of this situation, passage of the dictator bill, altho generally welcomed, aroused little excitement in the markets. Financial writers stress warnings against "overoptimism," asserting that the Washington move will not lessen the necessity of the British government rigorously enforcing its plan to limit supplies to industry, concentrate on production, mobilize savings, and tighten up the checks on inflationary tendencies.

LAKE SHIPPING ROUTES MAY BE OPEN BY APRIL 1

Coast Guard Vessels Are Battering Ice.

As shippers yesterday predicted the largest iron ore movements in history on the Great Lakes this year, the United States coast guard was engaged in efforts to permit the opening of the shipping season by April 1, two weeks earlier than usual.

Stimulated by the peak operations of steel mills working on the armament program, ore shipments are expected to amount to 72,000,000 tons. If cold weather does not thwart the attempts of the coast guard to open channels early and November should be a favorable month, the total may reach 75,000,000 tons, vessel operators said. The record is 65,205,000 tons in 1929.

Two Ice Breakers Working.

Two coast guard boats are engaged in breaking ice in the upper lakes, the Escanaba up thru the Straits of Mackinac and the Tahoma from the Soo locks to Lake Huron, Capt. Gordon T. Finlay, commander of the Chicago district of the United States coast guard, said yesterday.

The army engineers expect to have the important Soo locks open by April 1, he added. They were not open until April 26 last year and not before April 13 in the last three years, Capt. Finlay said.

With less ice than average in the lakes, straits, and canal, the task of opening the channels has been lessened, he indicated. An airplane stationed at Traverse City, Mich., is being employed to fly over the lakes, locating ice free channels as an aid to the work of the cutters.

Some grain dealers expressed fear yesterday that the demand for ore boats may interfere with grain shipments. Vessel operators are divided in opinion, some claiming that sufficient boats will be available.

Arthur Sullivan, president of D. Sullivan & Co., lake transportation, asserted that the lakes fleet is adequate to move all grain desired.

Officials of Inland Steel company said their fleet of ships hauling iron ore would be ready to start their trips between Michigan and Minnesota ports and Chicago about the first week in April.

Tribune Boats Loaded.

The Chicago Tribune's boats, loaded with rolls of paper during the winter, are all set to move toward Chicago from Canada as soon as favorable conditions are reported. They expect to leave earlier than usual this year.

The "regular" shipping season will not start until April 15, the time the regular insurance on freighters goes into effect, covering commercial navigation until Nov. 30, shippers explained. Rates before and after that period are higher. Many vessel operators indicated that they planned to start earlier this year, however, weather permitting.

LONG TERM U. S. BONDS RISE; NEW LOAN PONDERED

Dealers Predict Higher Coupon Rate.

New York, March 15 (AP).—Long-term tax-exempt federal bonds advanced briskly today as traders sought to anticipate the terms of the treasury's forthcoming $1,000,000,000 financing, including $500,000,000 additional cash for armament expenses.

The longest dated treasury issues finished ½ to ⅝ of a point higher in the over-the-counter market, where most of the trading was done, dealers said. Intermediate dated loans were about unchanged.

Secondary Rails Rally.

Top grade corporate bonds felt the stimulus of the improvement in the treasury market and secondary rails and industrials rallied moderately with stocks in a week-end flurry of buying.

The market consensus, dealers reported, seemed to be the treasury would offer a maturity of 10 to 12 years with a coupon of 2⅜ to 2½ per cent, compared with the recent fully taxable loan due in 7 to 9 years with a 2 per cent coupon. Dealers admitted, however, they were merely guessing.

The government market has improved since the 2 per cent taxable loan. The new issue likewise is expected to be fully taxable.

THE RISE OF PLASTICS.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., priorities director of the Office of Production Management, recently threw the spotlight on a fast growing branch of the chemical industry when he advocated the substitution of plastics for aluminum and other strategic arms metals, wherever possible.

Obscure and insignificant economically a decade ago, plastics have come forward prominently in the last five or six years. In 1935 plastics output amounted to 127 million pounds. By 1939 production jumped to approximately 300 million pounds.

Development of numerous new products, including nylon and synthetic rubber, boosted output sharply in 1940. Annual business of the industry is valued at 500 million dollars, according to trade estimates.

A working definition of plastics suggests they are materials which can be shaped under heat or pressure into forms which they will retain with some degree of permanency.

Plastics usually are encountered as door knobs, steering wheels, bottle tops, flashlight cases, radio cabinets, cameras, tooth brush handles, and several thousand other articles. However, cellophane, nylon, synthetic rubber, adhesives, and certain kinds of paints, varnishes, and enamels are not recognized ordinarily as plastics by persons not familiar with the industry.

The first plastic was celluloid [cellulose nitrate], which was discovered in 1863. It was made from nitric acid and cotton. Chemical research has developed numerous other vegetable plastics made from cotton, wood, soy beans, and other farm products.

The bulk of the plastics output, however, is derived from minerals, mainly coal, and, to an increasing extent, petroleum. A third important group of plastics is made from casein obtained from skimmed milk.

The manufacture of plastics falls into the following divisions: [1] production of the raw materials, such as cellulose or coal tar, [2] fabrication of semifinished sheets, tubes, rods, or powders, [3] finishing, and [4] processing, by molding plastic powder, casting molten plastic, or by laminating strips of fabric or wood in sandwich form with the aid of a plastic adhesive.

There are about 500 companies in the plastics industry, but about four or five leading chemical companies dominate the field. Competitive research and development of new applications have brought new enterprises into the industry and spurred its growth. The armament program may accelerate the industry's already brisk pace.

[A list of the major companies in the plastics industry my be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to the Investors' Guide.]

Reid L. Carr, president of the Columbian Carbon company, whose carbon black and other products are being used in increasing quantities for the manufacture of automobile tires and other materials, reported the current volume of business was at the highest level in the company's experience. The company, which has headquarters in New York City, had 1940 net earnings of $3,068,799, equal to $5.71 a share, against $2,857,103, or $5.32 a share in 1939.

Timken Roller Bearing company announced $4,000,000 had been spent or set aside for plant expansion in Ohio and reported 1940 net income of $8,995,211, compared with $7,287,911 in 1939. The profit per share was $3.72 and $3.02 in the respective years.

Aluminum Firm Expanding.

Roy W. Wilson, president of the Advance Aluminum Castings corporation, with plants in Chicago and Rockford, Ill., said that much of the company's expansion preparatory to handling a larger business in aviation castings had been completed. The 1940 net earnings were $102,727, equal to 64 cents a share, compared with 1939 income of $92,848, or 58 cents a share.

A. O. Smith corporation of Milwaukee, Wis., whose normal manufacturing business has been augmented by the production of bomb casings and other military products, reported profits were more than doubled for the quarter ended Jan. 31. Net earnings were $978,617, equal to $1.96 a share, against $472,016, or 94 cents a share in the corresponding period a year ago.

PRICES OF HOGS LITTLE CHANGED; CATTLE STEADY

Very little change occurred in the market for hogs last week. Stock under 250 pounds in weight rose 5 to 10 cents, while heavier hogs declined equal amounts. The average for the six days, at $7.55 a hundred pounds, showed a loss of 5 cents. Heavy selling of hogs from the 1940 spring pig crop by large commercial feeders boosted the average weight of hogs to 260 pounds, equal to the heaviest March average on record.

Altho price trends for cattle were uneven, the six day steer average, at $10.75, was exactly the same as the week before. Good steers and yearlings closed steady to 25 cents higher for the week, while medium grades were weak to 25 cents lower.

I. C. Investigates 4 Recent Wrecks; Sabotage Suggested

Officials of the Illinois Central System are investigating four recent freight wrecks which have cost the railroad approximately $40,000 in damages to tracks and equipment, in addition to merchandise losses which have not been computed. It has been suggested that the wrecks resulted from sabotage, but officials of the line said they have found no evidence of this.

Two of the wrecks occurred on the Kentucky division. Twenty-six cars were derailed Feb. 21 at Rives, Ky., with damage of $17,500, and 15 were derailed March 10 at Brighton, Tenn., with damage of $5,800. The series began Feb. 11, when a minor derailment occurred at Lakeland, La. The latest of the wrecks occurred Tuesday at Freeport, Ill., where 17 cars were derailed with damage of $13,000.

Three Wrecks Have Common Cause.

Railroad officials said three of the wrecks had a common cause—broken journals. The journal is a device that holds the trucks of the freight car to the axle. When it gives way the car capsizes, and the derailment of a dozen or more cars is likely. Broken journals caused the wrecks at Lakeland, Brighton, and Freeport. The one in Kentucky was caused by a broken wheel.

Journals break or burn out because of lack of lubrication, or, as one Illinois Central official suggested yesterday, "from sand in the box." The possibilities of sand or deliberate failure to lubricate the journals are being investigated.

Wayne A. Johnston of Flossmoor, who has been acting superintendent of the Kentucky division since October, with headquarters at Paducah, was reached by telephone there last night.

Wrecks Frequent, Says Official.

"I have no suspicion of sabotage. altho wrecks have been rather frequent," Johnston said. "But that's the way it goes; a road won't have any for some time, then they come three or four at a time. I started railroading 21 years ago and my first job was to go to a wreck. I've been going to them ever since."

Johnston said he was not particularly disturbed by the two wrecks on his division but added they were being investigated. He said no cause has been ascribed for the broken journal at Brighton or for the broken wheel which caused the Kentucky wreck. He said a wheel fracture might result from imperfect manufacture.

A. S. Pitzer, chief dispatcher at Paducah, who investigated both wrecks in the Kentucky division, also said he did not believe sabotage had caused the derailments.

The type of materials derailed in the four wrecks included pig iron, coal, steel, lumber, general merchandise, flour, and oyster shell, the latter used for fertilizer.

FARMERS TO GET FUNDS FOR STOCK KILLED BY DOGS

Nine Nearby Counties to Pay Claims.

Checks were being prepared yesterday to pay thousands of dollars to farmers in nine nearby counties for livestock losses caused last year by dogs, foxes, and wolves.

Each year at this time the county treasurers prepare to pay claims accumulated during the previous 12 months. The bill for 1940 is $12,887.10 in the counties of Lake [Ill.], Lake [Ind.], Will, Du Page, Kane, Kendall, De Kalb, McHenry and Boone. Claims for 1939 totaled $10,932.13 in eight of the counties. Lake county, Indiana, claims for 1939 were unavailable.

Wild dogs—animals which stray and run in packs—are the chief offenders. These bands often are joined by farm dogs which leave their kennels to take part in nightly forays.

Abandoned Dogs Blamed.

In Lake county [Ill.] Garfield Leaf, the treasurer, blamed the depredations to a large extent on dogs left behind by summer resort residents. He said these animals, left to shift for themselves, often turn to stock killing.

Like most counties, Will county suffered heavily from raids on sheep. Claims for 1940 included those for 187 sheep which had been killed, and for 187 injured sheep, six dead cows, five dead calves, 15 dead swine, 80 dead turkeys, and 45 injured turkeys. In Lake county claims also were filed for a Shetland pony, a goat, and a bull.

Maximum payments allowed by state law are $75 for cattle, $50 for horses, $25 for swine, $15 for sheep or goats, and $5 for turkeys. Farmers are reimbursed from receipts of the county's dog tax. If tax funds are insufficient to pay the claims, as they are in Will county, the available amount is prorated among claimants.

Affidavits Are Required.

The law specifies that payment will be made from the dog tax license fund and only for those animals killed by dogs. As a result, farmers are careful to state that their stock losses were caused by dogs. Each claim must be accompanied by the affidavit of two witnesses, who are paid 50 cents each for appearing before the supervisor.

Following are the losses reported for the nine counties:

County.	1939	1940
Boone	$ 596.00	$ 604.00
De Kalb	3,127.31	1,657.00
Du Page	488.50	254.00
Kane	1,427.20	1,492.50
Kendall	1,382.50	1,507.50
Lake [Ill.]	836.50	962.10
McHenry	1,693.12	906.00
Lake [Ind.]	[unavailable]	2,420.00
Will	1,381.00	3,084.00
Total	$10,932.13	$12,887.10

Claims in several counties were lower last year than in 1939. This was attributed in part to activities of sportsmen's groups in campaigning for the extermination of livestock killers.

Livestock claim payments in Cook county last were made in 1936, when most of the townships discontinued the dog tax, leaving no money available for claims.

ASSERT LARGER ARMS JOBS GO TO A FEW BIG FIRMS

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—Armament program officials disclosed today that the du Pont interests, General Motors corporation, and the Bethlehem Steel corporaton obtained 23 per cent of all defense contracts exceeding a million dollars which were granted during a seven month period.

Chester C. Davis, associated with the defense advisory commission, said in a speech in New Orleans that between one-fifth and one-quarter of the contracts "had gone to two groups of companies of closely interconnected ownership. Between 40 and 45 per cent had gone to six closely interconnected groups."

Davis did not mention the firms names, but officials here cited a tabulation of large contracts awarded between June 13 and Feb. 15. The contracts aggregated $11,500,000,000.

The six groups of companies, they said, included du Pont and General Motors; Bethlehem Steel, Curtiss-Wright, United States Steel, Aviation and Transportation corporation, and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company. These, they said, obtained 44 per cent of the contracts.

FARM PROBLEM NOW IS: BAILING OUT OF UTOPIA!

Portland, Ore., March 15 [Special].—Resettlement farmers who have suffered in their dealings with the Federal Security administration are turning to state authorities for help in retaining loosened grips on farms they occupy.

A delegation of 11 resettlers called on Gov. Charles A. Sprague, a Republican who frequently has criticized federal bureaus for alleged incompetence and extravagance in attempts to administer distant local affairs. They appealed for aid in salvaging whatever is possible from the government's faltering agricultural Utopia.

Meanwhile more settlers abandoned farms on the experimental projects in Yamhill, Polk, and Washington counties where the FSA had been trying for four years to establish farm families. A score of farmers moved away last week, unable to meet the government's financial demands.

Misrepresentation Charged.

The group that called on Gov. Sprague told him that Walter A. Duffy, regional FSA director, had misrepresented the situation to them. They said that Duffy, in response to their contention that a major cause of the projects' failure was his refusal to give long time leases, had replied that only about half a dozen farmers had short term leases.

In refuting Duffy's assertion, the delegation gave Gov. Sprague the names of 21 farmers who do not have any leases or who have leases covering periods of only three or six months. They pointed out that they cannot operate their farms efficiently without some certainty in planning crops.

Gov. Sprague expressed regret that the FSA experiment had not turned out satisfactorily. He promised to discuss the matter with Duffy and to call the attention of Washington officials to the situation in the twofold hope of saving at least a part of the government's huge investment in the project and of obtaining revision of lease terms and other obligations to ease the resettlers' plight.

Sounds Nice, But Won't Work.

Among the newly disilusioned farmers was George W. Ham of near Lafayette, a poultryman, who commented that "the scheme sounded nice when it was told to us, but it just didn't work out."

"My bills included surprise items for taxes, maintenance, depreciation and FSA supervision," related H. L. Taylor of Bellevue, a dairy farmer, who was one of the new movers.

"Altho I was handicapped by illness during my three and a half years on the place, I wouldn't have been able to make the 38 acres of tillable land pay the three year rent bill of $1,138. My neighbors were in the same fix.

Bills Go Unpaid.

Yamhill county business and professional men told of long delinquent bills for goods sold to farmers on credit. One seed and feed firm official pointed to $2,600 in unpaid bills, explaining that his firm had "erroneously assumed that the FSA office, after verbally approving a resettler's credit, would assist us and the farmers in keeping good credit relations."

A McMinnville lawyer said he was consulted by farmers for advice on how to extricate themselves from the troubles with the experiment which they attribute to being "over sold" and given misinformation when they signed up with the government.

ROOSEVELT COOL TO 'FULL PARITY' FARM PRODUCTS

Washington, D. C., March 15 (AP).—Congressional farm leaders said today they had failed to convince President Roosevelt of the need for legislation guaranteeing "full parity" prices for basic agricultural products. They left a White House conference admittedly "discouraged" and threatening to conduct a drive for greatly increased direct appropriations to insure higher farm prices.

Parity is the price at which farm products would have the same purchasing power in relation to other commodities that they had in the 1909-'14 period. Senator John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.], one of those participating in the White House conference, said that under present conditions this would mean 15¾ cent cotton, $1.13 wheat and 82 cent corn, with various prices for tobacco according to grade.

C.I.O. IS ACCUSED OF STALLING TO PROLONG STRIKE

A. F. of L. Hits Tactics at Harvester Plant.

Officials of the American Federation of Labor union at the strikebound McCormick works of the International Harvester yesterday charged the rival union of the Congress of Industrial Organization with stalling tactics to prolong the strike.

The A. F. of L. union has asked for an election at the plant—one of four Harvester units in Chicagoland tied up by strikes which have cost wage losses estimated at 2 million dollars—to determine the bargaining agent. The C. I. O. union refused to agree to an electon and then, on Friday, charged that the A. F. of L. union was company dominated. This charge drew the fire of A. F. of L. leaders.

"The C. I. O. is trying to keep the strike going to improve its chances of signing up members," said Irving Brown, an organizer for the A. F. of L. union. "It means little to the C. I. O. that thousands of workers are losing wages.

Calls Charge a "Phony."

"This C. I. O. charge is a phony. Workers spontaneously joined our union to escape irresponsible C. I. O. leadership. Our union has not even met with the company, and certainly has not been coerced or encouraged. Once established by the National Labor Relations board as the bargaining agent, we will negotiate with the company for higher wages and better working conditions."

Brown said his union would demand that the charge of company domination be cleared up within two days.

But I. S. Dorfman, acting regional director for the NLRB, said no decision could be expected that soon. An investigation will be started tomorrow. Affidavits presented by the C. I. O. will be investigated, witnesses questioned, and a report sent to Washington. The national board will decide the question.

Charge Takes Precedence.

"The charge of company domination takes precedence over the request for an election," Dorfman said. "If the board decides the A. F. of L. union is dominated, there would be no need to go thru the rather lengthy procedure aimed at getting a board order for an election."

This would not affect the A. F. of L. petition for an election at the company's West Pullman works because the C. I. O. did not apply its charge to that plant. There is no strike there but there are strikes at the tractor works in Chicago and at the Rock Fall, Ill., and Richmond, Ind., works, besides the one at the McCormick works.

An attempt will be made today to settle the C. I. O. strike at the Richmond plant. Spokesmen for the company, the union, and the Indiana state labor office will confer in Richmond at 10 a. m.

SHIP STEEL UNDER GUARD

Other developments in labor difficulties around the country included:

BRIDGEVILLE, Pa.—A group of foremen and office workers, guarded by 37 state policemen ordered to the scene by Gov. Arthur H. James, passed thru picket lines into the strikebound Vanadium corporation plant here tonight to load and ship rustproof steel alloys vital to rearmament industries.

James ordered the police to protect removal of 7,500 pounds of finished materials after striking C. I. O. vanadium workers denied the national defense commission permission to ship the products. The plant has been closed five weeks by the strike.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—A court order permitting removal of finished die cast airplane parts from the Harvill Airplane Die Casting corporation plant in Inglewood, which was closed by a C. I. O. strike Friday, will be sought Monday. This move was announced by Henry Harvill, president, after conferring by telephone with government officials in Washington in an attempt to avoid delaying production schedules of Douglas, Vultee, North American, Lockheed, and Boeing aircraft which depend on the factory for a majority of their die cast parts.

NEW YORK—Isaac Penner, an electrical contractor whose employment of four C. I. O. men on an army job at Wright field, Dayton, O., three weeks ago resulted in a strike of 400 A. F. L. workmen in other trades, today said the army had asked him officially to discharge his workmen and either hire A. F. L. electricians or men from the federal civil service list. Only on this basis, he said he was told, could the war department hope to get its 6 million dollar expansion of the experimental plant under way again.

Penner laid the proposal before Leon Zwicker, regional director of the C. I. O. construction workers and was told he would be held to his contract. Zwicker said the department's suggestions were discriminatory. He also told the contractor that he would protest against the department's attempt to end the A. F. L. strike at the expense of the C. I. O.

Purchase of 48½ acres of land on the west side of Joliet as the site of 182 homes to be built for permanent employés of the new munitions works in that area was announced yesterday by an agent of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, H. W. Robertson.

The homes, to be rented to the workers for $35 to $40 a month, will contain five to six rooms each and will be built by Defense Homes, Inc., with R. F. C. funds. Patrick Ward company, Chicago, will be the general contractor, and J. Fletcher Lankton of Peoria will be the architect. Both will receive flat fees.

The total cost of the homes, not including paving and utility installations, will be about $750,000, Robertson said.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO SAVE
TWO YEARS' RENT?

You can—by owning this brand new brick country home with more than an acre of ground.

4 bedrooms, 2 baths, 2 fireplaces, large screened porch off both living and dining rooms, modern kitchen, 2 car garage.

Fully decorated, the house includes tasteful appointments such as typical Monterey balcony, panelled recreation room, kitchen clock and all steel kitchen cabinets.

Built under contracts awarded before recent price increase, this home would cost 10 to 15 per cent more to reproduce today. You can own it, a part of this restricted countryside community near Barrington, for less than $105 a month—including everything.

Day by Day on the Farm

By BOB BECKER

Talk Turkey on Spring

March 15, 1941.

AMATEUR weather forecasters who like to use a little natural history in arriving at their guesses may be interested in knowing that the nine turkeys on the Du Page county farm left the barnyard about six weeks ahead of schedule this year. That may or may not mean that we're going to have an early spring.

The turkeys stay in the barnyard all winter, but as soon as the spring is here they fly over the rail fence and parade to the woods and fields to enjoy the wide open spaces. Later they make their nests in the fields and hatch their young. Ordinarily they don't make this annual migration before the 1st of May, but this season they left the second week of March.

Gobblers Start Strutting.

The flockmaster was telling us that as soon as the temperature went into the 40's and low 50's the two gobblers started strutting around the barnyard. This feathered "style parade" persuaded the whole flock to flutter clumsily over the fence and start for the woods. Altho bad weather arrived shortly after the turkeys succumbed to spring fever they refused to come back to the yard. So now the men have to take feed out to them. Most of the turkeys have joined the wandering geese, at least at mealtime. Double portions of grain are left at the feeding station ordinarily reserved for the geese, and now the turkeys feed with the big gray honkers.

The men on the farm also are thinking about spring. Already they have put 144 White Rock chicken eggs into the electric incubator in the basement of a farm house, and when we visited the barnyard the other day the men were painting a brooder to be prepared for the day when the chicks hatch.

Prepare Farm Tools.

In another set of farm buildings one of the workers was taking a disc apart and putting it together again for use this spring in soil preparations. Some of the other farm tools also have been checked and rechecked so they'll be in repair when needed.

We tramped around the wet fields this week in the hope that we might find a meadowlark. A few of these colorful and happy songsters stay around Chicago all winter altho most of them migrate farther south. Between the first of January and the middle of February we saw three meadow larks that were foolish enough to choose the winter climate in northern Illinois [illegible] in preference to an easier life down south where the temperatures are higher. All the others [illegible] the northern part of the city.

Glad Song Is Awaited.

Altho we weren't successful in finding any of these feathered harbingers of spring this week, [illegible] expect the meadow larks most any day now. The average arrival date of the species is March 11.

The boys on the farm remarked this week that they could hardly wait until the merry whistling of the larks is heard from the fields because the presence of this common farm bird is an assurance that warm spring days which will slowly take the frost from the ground are not far ahead.

MEN DON'T GOSSIP

(SO THEY SAY - - -)

But that ain't the way we heered it. One feller tells the other feller, and this feller tells a good friend of his, and his friend tells his uncle, who tells his neighbor, who comes to us and—SAY!—he says my neighbor tells me he bought a swell used car from you people—says some relatives told him about the swell deal they got. They're both satisfied, so I'm buying here too! We still say—"Men Don't Gossip"—they're just discussing actual facts. You'll be a member of the gossip club too after you buy a CITY reconditioned late model used car.

MOTORS—TRAFFIC—HIGHWAYS

MICHIGAN SEEKS IMPROVEMENT OF LAKE SHORE ROAD

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Muskegon, Mich., March 13 [by mail].—G. Donald Kennedy, campaigning for reëlection as state highway commissioner, has responded with promises to the pleas from this section of the state for a reconstruction of U. S. 12 and U. S. 31, the route that carries Chicagoland traffic to and from resorts and summer homes on the east coast of Lake Michigan.

The present four lane slab of U. S. 12 from the Indiana line to St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, 95 miles from Chicago, would be widened to accommodate a center curb of a type that New Jersey has pioneered with substantial reductions in accidents. The hazards peculiar to a four lane undivided slab are familiar to Chicagoans who drive the 40 foot Illinois killers radiating from their city.

New Site Skirts Water Front.

North of Saugatuck, U. S. 31 would be relocated to north of Manistee. The new site would skirt the water front, thru wooded dunes for much of the distance, with frequent views of Lake Michigan. Grade separations and several expensive bridges are included in this plan.

The present U. S. 31 includes stretches of dangerously narrow old pavement and several hazardous curves. It is so crooked as to be extravagant with mileage. It is away from the lake coast that is one of this district's main attractions for its highly profitable tourist and resort industry. The old road would remain for local traffic between the towns it traverses.

Long Range Program.

"This is a long range construction program," said Commissioner Kennedy, "but I believe its completion can be hastened with federal grants. Some sections are of importance to national defense and the government will aid in the construction as part of the armament program. Also, it is likely that the government will appropriate for other highway work to relieve unemployment when peace ends rearmament activities.

"At St. Joseph there would be a relocation of approximately four miles. This new line would extend across the St. Joseph river and along Higman park, connecting with the new shore road about two miles north of Benton Harbor. This relocation also would include two grade separations and a lift bridge at St. Joseph. This is being urged as a military priority project of first importance.

Divided Highway Suggested.

"From Benton Harbor to Saugatuck there would be no relocation of the present highway. However, a divided highway, with a center strip separating opposing traffic is suggested from Benton Harbor to South Haven. The Federal Public Roads administration has asked the Michigan state highway department to do this job as quickly as possible because of defense traffic using this road.

"From South Haven to north of Saugatuck any new construction would be on approximately the present right of way with no major relocation contemplated.

"Starting north of Saugatuck and continuing to Grand Haven, the department has planned an entirely new location along the shore line except where resort developments would interfere. This new road between Saugatuck and Grand Haven would also include a lift bridge where a crossing would be made over the outlet to Lake Macatawa.

Would Utilize Existing Bridge.

"The highway would continue thru Grand Haven on approximately the present route and would utilize the existing bridge there.

"From Grand Haven and thru Muskegon to Pentwater an entirely new location along the lake shore is planned, altho the exact location is indefinite at this time.

"At Muskegon it would be necessary to go thru the city park on the south side and the state park on the north side of the channel. The department would construct a draw bridge, or tunnel, across the channel outlet to Muskegon lake and take advantage of the existing county road from Muskegon lake to White lake wherever feasible. There would also be a draw bridge across the outlet to White lake, and at Pentwater another draw bridge would be necessary across Pentwater river.

Would Reconstruct Draw Bridge.

"The road would continue from north of Pentwater to south of Ludington on a new lake shore location. From south of Ludington to the outlet of Hamlin lake, the route would follow M-110.

"From the Hamlin lake outlet to north of Portage lake, the highway would be built on an entirely new location. At Manistee a draw bridge would be constructed across the Manistee river."

Highway Plans

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

LOUD HORNS.

Chicago, March 6.—Our taxicab companies could win public good will by muffling the horns on their new cars. The horns are too loud for city driving. They startle pedestrians and other motorists. MISS ETHEL.

EVANSTON BOTTLENECK.

Chicago, March 10.—I wish THE TRIBUNE would investigate the viaduct at Ridge, Emerson, and Green Bay road. I understand that this bottleneck could be relieved if the City of Evanston went about the matter aggressively.
J. W. P.

FROM A HOOSIER FRIEND.

Camp Shelby, Miss., March 7.—Before you write any more on the subject, you had better come down here with me and study military highways and see the new vehicles and actually ride in them over the roads or where there are no roads. There have been some changes since we served together 14 years ago.
JOHN WHEELER,

U. S. 20 IMPROVED.

South Bend, Ind., March 9.—I have failed to read in THE TRIBUNE the compliments the Indiana highway department deserves for its widening of U. S. 20 from South Bend to the Dunes relief road near Michigan City. The center curb, separating opposing streams of traffic, is of a type you have been advocating in your editorial plank for Illinois. "Build Deathproof Highways." Asphaltic center lanes with concrete outer lanes is a combination that keeps traffic to the right except when passing. JAMES HEBERLY.

SUNDAY DRIVERS.

Chicago, March 10.—Sunshine brought Sunday drivers onto the rural highways of Chicagoland yesterday. The heavy holiday traffic demonstrated that there is a job for Gov. Green's state police in keeping mopers from the center lanes of our four lane highways. THE TRIBUNE could help by educating the motorists to do their day dreaming on side roads and to keep up with express traffic when on express routes.
S. WILLIAMS SANDERSON.

RUSH HOUR JAM.

Chicago, March 11.—Here's a way to break the morning bottleneck on the Outer drive just south of Foster avenue. Send in a letter of request to the park board that the north bound section, between Foster and Irving Park road be used also for south bound traffic during the morning rush hour. At present a handful of north bound cars run over it up to Lawrence avenue, while we are jammed into the south bound section. Give us both sections for south bound traffic, and save time, money, nerves, gasoline, and accidents. We can get it if we ask for it hard enough.
NORTH SIDER.

LONGER DAYS AND SUNSHINE BRING OUT MOTORISTS

BY HAL FOUST.

Early spring is opening a new touring season. The days are getting longer and the sunshine is getting warmer. After months of dark skies and icy pavements Chicagoland motorists thirst for these first balmy opportunities to throttle thru the countryside in search of a trace of green or a chirp of a song bird.

A trip just a few hundred miles southward is particularly pleasant at this time of the year. Additions to the odometer advance the season. A day of driving advances the roadside vegetation from two to four weeks. On a week-end tour in late March you can get a taste of late April weather, if you're not so unlucky as to run into a snow storm.

Green Hillsides Downstate.

Southern Illinois can show a Chicagoan some green hillsides weeks before he'll see them at home. We like the drive down the Illinois river to the Mississippi and thence to Cairo. Wooded bluffs abound. It's the route of pioneer trails. Springfield, with its Lincoln memorials and nearby New Salem state park, is a good stop for the return trip.

Kentucky and Tennessee are popular for spring tours. At this time of the year the foothills locally called knobs are not the dull and dead brown of winter that they are during the heavy travel to and from Florida. There are battle fields of the civil war that recall the blood that has been shed to preserve the United States.

For patriotic inspiration, however, Virginia has few rivals. Its highways are posted with historical markers. It's warm there now, and it's not too far to drive for a week's vacation. Recent news from Europe and from Washington is reviving interest in the American institution.

Visits to Men in Army.

Current events will have an even stronger influence on tour trails this year in sending friends and relatives to visit national guardsmen and draftees in training camps. A Chicago Motor club review of recent inquiries relating to highway routes found 22 per cent of the questions related to trips to cantonments and other defense projects. Chicagoans will be driving to El Paso, Tex., Alexandria, La., and Tullahoma, Tenn.

This same motor club survey of touring motives found that 26 per cent of the customers wanted to see country new to them or to fish or to hunt, just respectable vagabondage. Twenty-two per cent of those asking for maps were en route to visit friends or relatives; 23 per cent were en route to resorts; 14 per cent were bound for the national parks; 8 per cent were for business trips; and 7 per cent were in search of historic, geographic, or sociological education.

1941 May Bring New High.

In volume, the inquiries received by this club and other affiliates of the American Automobile association indicate that 1941 may surpass the 1940 all time high of 6 billion dollars spent for recreational travel in the United States. Catering to these tourists is one of the country's biggest industries, scattered more than any other over thousands of miles of highways with their gas stations, hotels, cottage camps, garages, and roadside eating establishments.

The outlook for this business is good. The experts report that we motorists will exceed last year's record of having consumed 12 billion bottles of pop and 4½ billion hot dogs at roadside stands.

NEWS AND VIEWS

An accessory gadget which is taking on with motorists this year is an automatic windshield wiper which may be installed on any car. The device enables the motorist to clean his windshield of dirt splashed on the windows by passing cars or car driving ahead. It also gets rid of dust and bugs in a hurry. A press of a button sends a spray of water on the windshield and the wiper does the rest. One filling of the reservoir is sufficient to take care of 400 to 600 miles of normal driving.

W. R. Bellows, vice president and general manager of the Packard Motor Car company of Chicago, reports that Packard sales in Chicago totaled 294 in the first 10 days of March as compared with 110 in the same period in February and 223 in the same period of 1940. He said that some of the buying probably was in expectation that armament activity may result in higher prices.

J. H. Crisman, Chicago zone manager of General Motors Truck and Coach, has been holding a series of dealer meetings thruout the Chicago zone to discuss spring sales plans. The Chicago meetings were held at the Palmer House.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has ordered 50 per cent more sectional highway maps than for the 1941 travel season because of an expected heavier travel this year. The sectional maps eliminate the need of a motorist carrying a bundle of individual state maps for long trips. The company will distribute state and city maps for motorists taking short trips.

K. A. Ridenour, Dodge's Chicago region manager, reports that sales for the week ended March 1 showed a sales gain of 14.4 per cent over the preceding week. Dealers' sales of used cars showed a 25 per cent gain. Ridenour attributes the sales gain, which gained momentum thru February, as being in part the result of public acceptance of fluid drive.

Is lack of money holding up your marriage? If so, are you doing anything to make yourself more valuable to your employer, and as a result, earn more pay?

The best jobs with the big pay go to men who know how to help their employers make more money. Have you ever thought of trading some of your spare time for the training which can boost your earning power?

If you are really serious about wanting to get ahead, it will pay to read the announcements of interest to ambitious men and women in the Instruction, Trade Schools, Musical and Dramatic and Dressmaking and Millinery Schools columns in the Tribune want ad section. Review them today.

Because want ad users get better results, they place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

"If you hadn't phoned a want ad to the Tribune, those tax figures would have been lost!"

WHENEVER you lose anything of value, be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune want ad section.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Right in metropolitan Chicago, the Tribune sells 450,000 more copies on weekdays and from 380,000 to 460,000 more on Sundays than are sold in Chicago and suburbs by other Chicago newspapers.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad marketplace, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

● As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn Street, and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan Avenue.

Call SUPERIOR 0100—WANT AD-VISER
and ask for Miss Miller if you wish to recover lost valuables. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

EVANSTON CENSUS UPSETS TRADITION

DRAFT APPEAL RULINGS VARY AS TO BOARDS

Similar Cases Draw Different Verdicts.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Decisions in army draft appeal cases differ widely, both because of the imperfections of the selective service act and regulations and by reason of the wide latitude given appeal board members.

William H. King Jr., administrator for the eight draft boards of appeal in Cook county, called attention last week to some of the defects and omissions in rules, and cited interesting cases that give an insight into the working of these review bodies.

One reason there is no unanimity among appeal board members in dependency cases, the administrator said, is that the draft act, passed by congress, and the draft regulations formulated by the national draft board have different definitions for dependents. Some appeal boards follow the act literally, while those more liberally inclined accept the language of the regulations.

Term Loosely Used.

It is a rule that any registrant may appeal from a Class 1 classification, but he must do so within five days after he is classified. However, there is the case of a man who accepted Class 1 without appeal, and whose father afterward died, leaving the selectee with his mother as a dependent. At any time before induction he may ask his local board to reclassify him in a dependency class. If the local board refuses because of the five day appeal provision, he is not entitled to carry his case to the appeal board.

Aim to Correct Fault.

There have been other similar cases, and efforts are now afoot to correct this fault in the regulations, the administrator indicated. Here are a few actual cases selected from the appeal board files by Mr. King to show how local and appeal boards function:

Registrant A, 25 years old, married last June and childless, asked dependency deferment, but his local board placed him in Class 1 A. He was earning $17 a week and his wife earned $21 a week. The couple paid $25 a month rent and had a few bills outstanding.

The registrant appealed. The local board, in its statement, held that if the husband were drafted it would eliminate his living expenses from the family scene, and with the contribution he could make from his service pay the home could be maintained at its existing standard. The appeal was therefore denied.

Registrant B, 22 years old and married last June, earned $25 a week and his wife $16. The couple lived with her mother. Registrant claimed dependency but his local board, holding the young people had no established home to surrender, placed him in Class 1 A, so he appealed. The appeal was denied.

Appeal Is Granted.

Registrant C, 25 years old, made $18.50 a week and his wife $16 additional. They had an apartment lease with two years to run. The local board set forth in its statement that it had directed 1 A classification, "but not without some misgivings."

The appeal board pointed out that regulations say that in dependency cases any doubt must be resolved in favor of the registrant, and granted the appellant Class 3 A deferment.

Registrant D earned $31 a week and his wife made $1,040 last year. They were paying $22 a month rent. The registrant, who had served two years in the army air corps [not enough to claim deferment], asked the appeal board to shift him from 1 A to 3 A. The board held that because the wife's parents were separated she had no home to return to if her own were dissolved, and granted the appeal.

Government Loses Case.

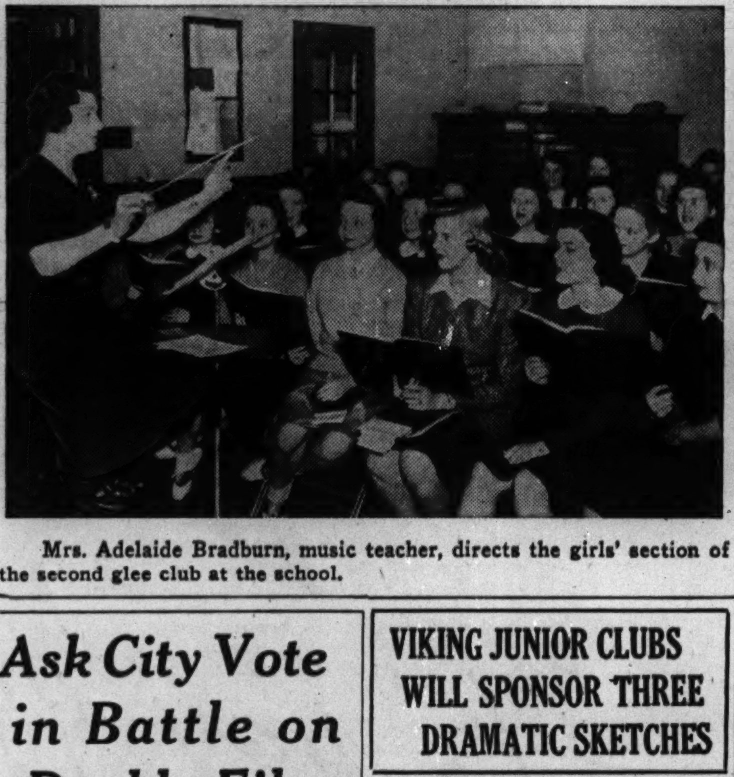
Registrant E, 29 years old, and his wife, 28, were married in 1935. He was earning $45 a week and his wife earned $1,200 last year. The local board gave the registrant dependency deferment, but the government appeal agent, whose function it is to look after the interests of both registrants and the government, appealed for 1 A classification. The appeal was denied and the registrant remained in Class 3 A.

Registrant F, 33 years old, and married since early 1939, was earning $45 a week and his wife made $2,075 last year, largely thru overtime work. They were paying $55 a month rent. The local board placed the registrant in 1 A, but the appeal board held the couple should be permitted to keep their home intact and granted the appeal.

Registrant G, also 33 years old, earned $27.50 a week, and his wife, to whom he was married in 1938, made $1,675 last year. Most of her money was being used to pay off a $3,000 balance on their home, in which they held an equity of about $1,000. In the winter months her parents lived with them. The appeal board granted deferment from 1 A to 3 A.

New Trier High School Gives Students Balanced Training

New Trier High school, Winnetka, makes a practice of tying in its educational curriculum with everyday life. In the art department students paint subjects related to other courses. As an example, Betty Harkness (wearing smock), Ed Devlin, and Joan Johnson point to a modernistic conception of the present day mechanized world. The painting is on exhibition in the school's art department.



Mrs. Adelaide Bradburn, music teacher, directs the girls' section of the second glee club at the school.

Ask City Vote in Battle on Double Films

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

Evanston, which gets its double feature movies even later than Chicago, may turn into a testing ground in the dogged struggle to restore the motion picture theater to its former single film status.

The Evanston Better Films council, made up of delegates from practically every civic organization in the suburb, has launched a petition to put the double feature movie fight into a town referendum. The petitions call for a special election on the question.

Signatures of 25 per cent of the registered voters are needed. The Better Films council officials predict they will sign up a much larger number. The petitions ask Mayor Henry Penfield and the city council to put the issue on the ballot. Then, if a majority of the voters approve, the aldermen would adopt an ordinance banning double and triple features from Evanston's four movie houses.

Is a Pioneer Move.

The Better Films group expects to turn in the required signature quota by the end of the month. Heads of the movement say that Evanston is one of the first cities in the nation to attempt a ban of the double-decker films by referendum vote. But the Better Films council also expects a court fight should the suburb pass an antidouble feature law.

"We are positive we will win in court," said Mrs. Gordon C. Graham, president of the group. "We think the courts will uphold our democratic right to decide what kind of entertainment our children should have at the movies."

More than a year ago the council took a test poll of a cross section of Evanston's population, Mrs. Graham said. Seventy-three per cent of the responses favored single film showings, she declared.

Measure of Health.

Mrs. Graham, who is the mother of two boys of school age, declared that the council was pitching its fight against double films on the basis of health, adding:

"If school children were forced to concentrate on their studies four and five hours at a time without a recess, the parents would be up in arms. Yet, when our children go to the movies they sit without an intermission for long periods of time, often for four and five hours.

"These double and triple feature movies cause eyestrain, not only to youngsters, but to adults as well. Most people who would like to see only the feature attraction at the neighborhood theater are forced to sit thru a couple of extra hours of movies that are so old they have whiskers, before the good one comes on."

Mrs. Graham, whose activities range from membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution to being one of the board of managers of the Evanston Safety council, also said that she has been so busy fighting double features she hasn't seen a movie in a long time.

VIKING JUNIOR CLUBS WILL SPONSOR THREE DRAMATIC SKETCHES

Miss Ruth Swanson.

The program, which also will include music and dancing, will be directed jointly by Miss Ruth Swanson, Mrs. Isabel Wahlstrom and Mrs. Edith H. Berman. The clubs are affiliated with the adult groups of the Independent Order of Vikings, Swedish-American fraternal society.

PLAYERS SOUGHT FOR SYMPHONY IN ROGERS PARK

A call for players of stringed instruments has been made by the North Side Symphony orchestra which will hold an open meeting Wednesday evening in the Rogers Park Baptist church 1900 Greenleaf avenue. Rudolph Reiners, a member of the Chicago Symphony and conductor of the Zion symphony for the Passion play, is the director. Leaders of the group are Kurt Dreifuss, chairman, Melvin Goldberger, secretary, Edward Zeisler, treasurer, and Miss Sarah Bates, librarian.

PURIM HOLIDAY FETES COME TO AN END TODAY

Purim, the gayest holiday in the Hebrew calendar, celebrated to commemorate the deliverance of the Jews from the clutches of an ancient dictator, will come to an end today in a program of holiday festivities to be held at north side synagogues.

Anshe Emet synagogus, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street, will add another version this evening to the much parodied Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "The Mikado." Members will stage what they call "The Purim Mikado," written and directed by Ben Aronin. The cast will include Cantor Moses Silverman, Leah Schiff, Rose Arkin, Gertrude Chase, Marcia Golda, Ann Lebow, David Brand, Jerry Weinstein, and other members of the temple.

Temple Sholom's religious school will present a Purim masquerade this afternoon in the community rooms, 3480 Lake Shore drive. Prizes will be awarded to youngsters wearing the funniest, prettiest, and most biblically accurate costumes. The Men's club held its fourth annual Purim ball last evening.

The Jewish Youth leagues, composed of city high school students, will hold a carnival celebration of Purim this evening in Bialik hall, 220 South State street.

EVANSTON ZONTA PAYS TRIBUTE TO MRS. J. A. ODELL

Evanston Zonta club will present Mrs. James A. Odell of Evanston with a medal for distinguished service to her community at its 11th anniversary dinner Wednesday night in the Orrington hotel. Mrs. Rufus Dawes, associated with Mrs. Odell in the Evanston Woman's club and in many civic projects, will tell about Mrs. Odell's activities and Dr. William Alexander will review her early philanthropic work.

Miss Ardel Janson, Evanston, a regional officer of Zonta International, will preside. This is the first time the Evanston club has presented a community service award, according to Dr. Margery C. Carlson of Northwestern university, president.

In 1901 when Mrs. Odell came to Evanston, she started to work for the community. She campaigned for the Visiting Nurse association and served on its board for 20 years. During 1917 she directed the Community kitchen, a project of the Woman's club, popularly known as a "wife-saver station" for it supplied meals to maidless homes and also that year helped to organize the Girl's Community home, a club where working girls could meet and entertain friends.

When every one was conserving food in 1918, Mrs. Odell and two other clubwomen devised a plan for collecting jars from Evanston homes which were filled at the Community kitchen and distributed to needy persons.

PERSONAL NOTE IS STRESSED AT NEW TRIER HIGH

School to Be Guest on Citizen Show.

The old teaching problem of giving sufficient individual guidance to pupils—a problem that has bothered educators since the beginning of mass education—has been solved for the 2,650 students of New Trier High school in Winnetka.

Each freshman student is assigned to a faculty adviser on the day he enrolls and for four years the same faculty member watches over his school career. The teacher visits the pupil's home at least once annually, confers with him periodically, helps him if he gets into trouble, encourages and advises, and, generally, is a friend thruout the four years. Often the friendship continues long after graduation. Each faculty member is the adviser for 30 students.

Subjects Are Synchronized.

New Trier's educational aim is to synchronize as many school subjects as possible. Art and music courses, for example, have been geared to fit ancient history. A student of Greek or Roman history will find that the music and art departments will focus attention on the development of painting and music in the days of Caesar and Alexander.

The school draws its students mainly from Winnetka, Kenilworth, Wilmette, and Glencoe, an area with a population of 40,000. Matthew Gaffney, principal, values the institution at $3,000,000. It was founded in 1901 with 72 pupils and 7 teachers. One of the original 7, Miss Elizabeth Packer, a Latin teacher, has been on the faculty ever since the doors opened. She is dean of girls.

Citizens of Tomorrow.

The growth of the school will be told Tuesday afternoon on the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 4:30 o'clock. Six hundred New Trier students will be guests at the studio. Philip Maxwell of the Tribune staff will be master of ceremonies.

He will introduce over the air Mr. Gaffney; John Ballman, president of the New Trier High school board; A. R. Peterson, board member; Gordon Hinners, president of the P.-T. A.; Fred Kahler, New Trier's dean of boys, and Miss Packer.

Music students will sing the two school songs under the direction of Mrs. Marion Cotton, head of the music department. Mrs. Adelaide Bradburn, music teacher, will lead the singing of two other selections, "Lost in the Night" and "Climbin' Up the Mountain," a spiritual.

Touch World Affairs.

In the curriculum special attention is made to integrating the student body activities with the outside world. At least once a year students dramatize some important event in the news. Last year they turned the huge gymnasium into a mock convention, faithfully copying the mechanics of the Chicago Democratic national convention.

Possibly the most widely publicized of New Trier's alumni is Ralph Bellamy, the Hollywood actor. Two former New Trier students played together on the 1940 All-Star football team. They are Tad Harvey, Notre Dame tackle, and Bob Waldorf, University of Missouri guard.

Practically every student learns to swim in the school's 75 by 60 foot indoor pool. The swimming team has won seven straight Suburban league championships. The gallery around the pool seats 1,200 spectators.

Proud of Gymnasiums.

New Trier is equally proud of its gymnasium, which has an audience capacity of 4,000 persons. The community often uses it for massmeetings and lectures.

The grounds cover 26 acres. The red brick, ivy covered buildings are spread over 6 acres and are connected by walled-in and roofed sidewalks. At the close of each school day a 15 student squad of volunteer policemen unsnarls the traffic jams along the streets bordering the campus.

Most of the students go on to college after finishing New Trier. Seventy per cent of each commencement class enrolls at college the year of graduation.

U. OF C. AWARDS DEGREES TO 13 NORTH SIDERS

Thirteen north siders are among the 153 students at the University of Chicago who received degrees at the 203d convocation last Friday in the Rockefeller Memorial chapel. Dr. James Rowland Angell, president emeritus of Yale university, was guest speaker.

Alexander L. George, 814 Roscoe street, is one of three graduates who has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He received his bachelor's degree. President Robert Maynard Hutchins awarded doctor's degrees in philosophy to Clark G. Kuebler and Isadore Richlin and a doctor of medicine to Joseph K. Freilich.

North siders who received masters degrees were Suzanne R. Chatfield, Florence Keen, Myron R. Kirsch, and Elizabeth A. Parmelee, and those receiving bachelors included Cecile Citron, Isabelle Dabrin, Ralph M. Goldstein, Willard E. Harris, and Helen F. Lyon.

ROY GOLD, freshman at Sullivan High school, doesn't say much about it, but his friends want everybody to know that he is a hero. This is what happened: Virginia Downes, 10 years old, with several other girls was climbing on the ice-coated rocks along the lake when she slipped and fell into the water. Frightened, the girls ran away. Roy, hearing Virginia's cries for help, rushed to the spot, grabbed her arm, and almost slipped in himself. Try as might he couldn't pull her out because of his own slippery position on the rocks, but managed to keep her head out of the water until several other boys came to his aid. Chain fashion they pulled her to safety and then Roy wrapped his leather jacket around her and took her home to 6975 North Bell avenue. Roy lives at 1110 Pratt boulevard.

LIEUT. COL. PHILIP M. BEDESSEM, 5230 Magnolia avenue, left recently with the 108th medical regiment, 33d division, for duty in Tennessee. It was with this same division that he went overseas during the last war. He is a physician at Hines hospital.

Club Employe Exhibits His Talent in Art

Quite unexpectedly a man has stolen the spotlight in a woman's club art exhibit, Ottmark Stadtmann, 27 years old, houseman at the Rogers Park Woman's club, has had an urge to paint for many years, but only in the last six months has he had the opportunity to do anything about it. Now he has six pastels in the exhibit of paintings by members of the club's art class.

"Ott," as he is known by the clubwomen, confessed his ambition to Mrs. Lulu Simon, the housekeeper. Mrs. Simon has been getting things done around the clubhouse for years, so she immediately set to work on Ott's problem. First he had to have some money for materials; second, he needed some training and encouragement.

Looks Toward Career.

Mrs. Simon provided extra jobs to bring in the needed cash and then told some of the members and the WPA art instructor about Ott. The latter criticized his work and the members gave advice and encouragement. Jessie Field, a well known Chicago artist and clubwoman, took a special interest in Ott and now he is taking private lessons from her.

Ott watches the classes at the club, but he does most of his work at home, 2410 Cullom avenue, where he receives additional encouragement from his parents. Ott prefers still life or landscapes for his subjects and he is fond of brilliant colors. He hopes to make painting more than a hobby. If he's good enough, it will become his career.

The exhibit was hung last week, under the direction of Mrs. Eli Zimmer, and will remain thru Saturday. Clubwomen exhibiting are Miss Anna Huber, Mrs. John Sayre, Mrs. Halford H. Decker, Mrs. Edna Heicher, Mrs. James W. Hamilton, Mrs. L. R. Allen, and Mrs. W. W. Gilmore.

Lecture at Tea.

Adam Emory Albright will be a guest at the art tea from 5 to 8 o'clock this afternoon. He will give an illustrated lecture on his paintings. Mrs. Arthur R. Bilodeau, art chairman, and Miss Nan Jean Beck, junior art chairman, are in charge of arrangements.

Rabbi Charles E. Shulman of North Shore Congregation Israel in Glencoe will be guest speaker at the Tuesday meeting. In the morning, Mrs. Porter Venn, American home co-chairman, has arranged for a meat demonstration and Mrs. James J. Harvey will review "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," by John P. Marquand.

73 Per Cent Claim Religious Tie.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Evanston's reputation as the city of churches and church people is upheld by the first successful religious census ever taken of the population of Evanston. Figures released this week show that 73.3 per cent of the population, estimated at 68,000, claim affiliation with some religious organization. The figure for the nation is less than 50 per cent.

Dr. R. L. Logan. [Eleanor Burkart Photo.]

A summary shows that 49.3 per cent are Protestants, 19.3 per cent are Catholics, 8.4 per cent attend Negro churches, .5 per cent are Jewish, and 4.7 per cent are Christian Scientists. Evanston is not, as one might think, a children's town. There are 2.56 times as many adults as children, altho the ratio varies from five adults to one child in the 1st ward, composed largely of apartments and hotels, to 1.9 adults per child in the 6th ward, which is mainly residential.

Same in Each Group.

The proportion of children in the families of each religion group is approximately the same. The ratio of adults to children is 2.6 to one among the Protestants, 2.3 to one among the Catholics, 2.6 to one among the Negroes, and 2.9 to one among the Jews.

The majority of the Protestants are either Presbyterians, Methodists, or Episcopalians and the local churches in these groups have an equal number of members. Residents belonging to a church in Chicago or some other suburb include 1,404 Protestants and 354 Catholics.

Only .6 per cent claim interest in "miscellaneous sects." The census takers found one atheist and one Confucius follower. A small group was listed as the "Black Stockings" because the unique characteristic to be found was that all the women wear black cotton stockings.

Also among the 412 persons listed under miscellaneous sects are Jehovah's Witnessess, Latter Day Saints, Mormons, Adventists, Salvation Army members, Baha'ists, Buddhists, Plymouth Brethren, Unitarians, Swedenborgians and members of Gospel Hall, the Scripture league and the Assembly of God.

Most Willingly Answer.

Less than 1 per cent of the people refused to give information to the more than 600 volunteer workers who canvassed the city by wards. Only 9.5 per cent of the population was not interviewed, points out Dr. Robert Lee Logan of Northminster Presbyterian church, who supervised the compilation of the material.

The suggestion for a census was made last fall when several pastors wanted to canvass their own wards. It was decided finally to take a citywide census by wards and the Rev. Frederic E. Pamp of Mission Covenant church was appointed chairman. Dr. Logan had worked on similar projects in Peoria and Quincy, Ill., and offered to make the final report.

Workers asked residents if they were affiliated or interested in a local church and if not, what church did they prefer? The primary purpose of the census was to find out the persons who were interested in a church in order to approach them during the Lenten season. Many churches now are conducting agressive membership campaigns based on information obtained from the census.

Points Out Difficulties.

Before drawing any conclusions in his report, Dr. Logan pointed out some of the difficulties encountered in taking the census. The work was done by volunteers and the committee had to depend upon their interest and enthusiasm. Certain sections of the city have many apartment houses and hotels where it was difficult to obtain information and in the residential sections, the committee discovered that many residents spend a large amount of time away from home.

There were no population figures available for checking purposes, but the census figures do compare closely with the Evanston school census.

Among those few who would not give information, one said "the government is taking enough censuses" and another curtly replied "it's none of your business." One man who would give no church preference said "I belong to the Elks and the Masons, that's enough religion for any one."

Those on the Rev. Mr. Pamp's committee included the Rev. W. G. McGeoch, Girst United Presbyterian; the Rev. Hugh E. Brown, First Congregational; the Rev. Harold L. Bowen, St. Mark's Episcopal; the Rev. Arthur T. Clark, First Methodist; P. F. Hauser, Y. M. C. A. secretary; the Rev. G. G. Moore, St. Luke's Episcopal; the Rev. Robert D. Bulkley, First Presbyterian; the Rev. C. H. Newham, Covenant Methodist, and Msgr. F. J. Magner, St. Mary's.

FINDS PARK LITTERED.

Lincoln park used to be my favorite park. After an absence of three years from Chicago, I visited the park the other day. I looked at all the animals in the zoo. As a Chicagoan, I was proud of the place. But I did notice one drawback—the dirt.

Lincoln park used to be as spotless a public place as any in all of Chicagoland. The park district used to hire crews of men to pick up papers and rubbish. On the afternoon I visited the park I didn't see one paper picker. The sidewalks were littered with peanut shells, newspapers and other rubbish. What's happened? The park is still a wonderful place and would be even a greater advertisment for Chicago if it were cleaner.

OLD TIMER.

PEACE AND PATRIOTISM.

I want to commend the propeace stand of Mrs. J. Hale in last Sunday's Voice. Being for peace, she said, "Some folks may think I'm very unpatriotic." Maybe some will think that peace is not patriotic, but the majority, I'm sure, are against the United States entering the war. The tons of mail received by the prowar senate indicate that America is against war. It's people like Mrs. Hale—and there are millions—who can keep America out of war, not the politicians.

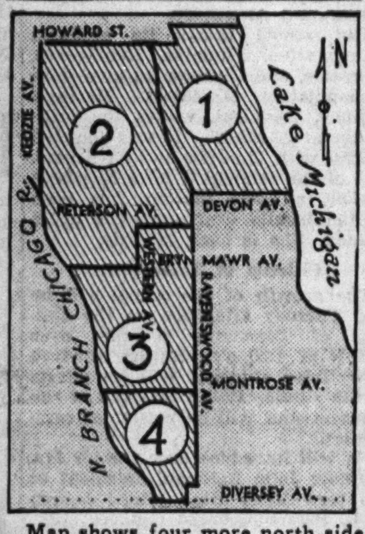
'Fun-Za-Fire' to Be Given by Little Flower Circle

Little Flower Circle, a philanthropic group of Catholic women, will give its annual show, entitled "Fun-Za-Fire," on Thursday evening in the Foreman High school auditorium, 5100 Belmont avenue. Mr. and Mrs. James J. Maloney, 3748 Magnolia avenue, are directing the performance.

Housing Survey



Map shows four more north side areas which have been studied for housing information by the Chicago Land Use Survey. Pamphlets containing the reports covering Rogers Park (1), West Ridge (2), Lincoln Square (3), and North Center (4) can be obtained at branch libraries and community civic organizations.

SHARP CONTRAST IN AREAS SHOWN IN HOUSING DATA

Survey Compares North and South Sides.

Reports on the housing situation in four more areas on the north side have been released by the Chicago Land Use Survey working under the direction of the city plan commission.

The new reports bring the coverage up to 46 of Chicago's 75 sections and are being distributed in bound booklets to libraries, community centers, and civic organizations. The north side areas covered in the recent release are Rogers Park, West Ridge, Lincoln Square and North Center.

Contrast in Facilities.

There is a striking need for housing rehabilitation in the city, plan commission officials declared after a study of the reports. The contrast between housing facilities on the north and south side was found to be particularly great.

In the near south side area, which covers 21 blocks, every building was found to be in neew of major repairs. The Rogers Park area, which is the same size, had only one block in which more than 40 per cent of the buildings needed major repairing. The median of rentals is, in this area, $49.62 a month, while in the near south side section the median is $22.74.

Houseman Enters Club Art Show

Ottmark Stadtmann, 2410 Cullom avenue, who has been working as houseman at the Rogers Park Woman's club for four years, is exhibiting six paintings in the club art show this week. Members of the art class discovered his interest in painting and invited him to display the work he has been doing at home during the last six months. Among the pastels are still life studies of a fruit bowl, a bowl and jug, and a vase of mums and some landscapes. (Story on page 1.)

More than 140 members of the Falstein-Korman family who reside in the Chicago area are expected to attend the "life with the family" party this evening in the St. Clair hotel.

The family originated in Nemorov, Russian Ukraine, and the tree has been traced 150 years back to Fallck Falstein and his wife.

Greenberg, Highland Park, will speak; Mrs. Harold Ettlinger, 6644 Newgard avenue, will read poetry written by her husband; Mrs. Maurice Falstein, 6332 Winthrop avenue, and Mrs. Yetta Tulchin, 4145 Broadway, will sing; Dr. James Olshan, 534 Cornelia street, will conduct a "quiz kids" act, and Dr. Eugene I. Falstein, 1255 North State street, will show Hawaiian movies taken by his wife and make movies of the party.

Other north side members of the family are Mrs. Bertha Deckowitz, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deckowitz, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Greenberg, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Greene, Mrs. Miriam Olshan Feinberg, Mrs. Harry Tulchin, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Korman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Korman, Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Robins, Mrs. Rose Ersler, and Mr. and Mrs. Max A. Corman.

Twill for your coat

because it has a clean cut, precise look—because it tailors beautifully—because it shapes to the figure and emphasizes that desired long, lean look. Because with all its crispness it has a definitely feminine look. Because it's perfect for any hour of the day or night—it has that elegant simplicity that is the very essence of Spring. We show here four examples of the chic of twill for your coat.

above left, the shirtwaist coat taken from your favorite shirtwaist dresses even to the center pleat closing, the French cuffs—done in Forstmann's Cordaleen twill, $45. with it a great flaring brim of felt, the crown of mesh, $15

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tom, Dick, and Harry have started something. They have reversed the old radio custom of sending pictures to listeners. Instead, they have invited fans to send them their photos to W-G-N.

The result is an avalanche of photos, ranging from daguerrotypes to modern miniature negatives. While women's pictures are in the majority, there are specimens of bald headed men, and babies, too, in their ever expanding collection.

For years Tom, Dick, and Harry—who are Bud Vandover, Marlin Hurt, and Gordon Vandover, have been wondering what radio listeners look like. It is a curiosity that consumes many a man before the microphone. Tom, Dick, and Harry for years had been itching to find out. But they never did anything to solve the riddle.

It's All an Accident.

They went on year after year, carrying about their mental pictures of admirers, forever uncertain as to their accuracy. It gave them a feeling of frustration, ultimately. But they did nothing.

Then, one day they rescued themselves from the horns of this dilemma, quite accidentally. After romping thru one of their ad-libbed sessions on the air they concluded it with an offer to send pictures of themselves to all who requested them.

Strictly as a gag Tom exclaimed to Announcer Ed Allen: "Why not have them send in their pictures for a change? We certainly would like to see what they look like."

They laughed and forgot about it. The public, however, took the suggestion seriously. The following day a hundred pictures arrived. They have been rolling in ever since.

A Pleasure and a Shock.

These pictures have been a pleasure and inspiration in some instances; a shock in others. One girl sent a folder containing six pictures of herself revealing the various emotions inspired by listening to the comedians—pleasure, perplexity, pain, and so on.

There was a note of comedy in many of the letters. One chap sent a picture of a snow covered cabin. He explained:

Another letter [with a picture] which the boys treasure, states: "I have always been considered a prize dope. So, running true to form, I am asking for your photo. Having seen 'Frankenstein,' 'Dracula,' and 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' my appetite for horror pictures will not be satisfied until I see yours."

Animals Are Fans.

Still another fan sent in pictures of a dog, two ducks and a goat. All, she said, were inveterate followers of the Tom, Dick, and Harry clambakes.

Featured in Annual Waa-Mu Show

HERBERT PETERSON AND LOUISE YATES.

Among Chicagoland students at Northwestern university to be featured in the annual Waa-Mu show on March 25 to 29 and the radio preview of the musical comedy to be presented over W-G-N from 7:30 to 8 o'clock Thursday night on the "In Chicago Tonight" broadcast are Louise Yates of Kenilworth and Herbert Peterson, 1447 Foster avenue. The revue will be presented in five evening performances in Scott hall on the Evanston campus.

W-G-N TO SALUTE NEW YORK WITH 'ODE' SATURDAY

Musical Will Feature Chicagoland Hour.

The Chicagoland hour will give a salute to New York from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network. A special production — "Ode to New York"—will be the highlight of this program featuring the W-G-N players, concert orchestra, and chorus, and Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, as soloist.

Members of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and their friends will be guests in the W-G-N audience studio.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

By use of dramatic sequences, unique sound effects and impressionistic music by the orchestra and ensemble, the "Ode to New York" will bring the pulse beats of that mighty metropolis to a coast-to-coast radio audience.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening. Henry Weber, conducting the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, will present "Melting Pot Medley," with Attilio Baggiore as soloist.

Baggiore to Sing Aria.

Weber and the orchestra also will feature Dvorak's "Carnival Overture."

SALUTE GUATEMALA ON ROTARY-MUTUAL BROADCAST TODAY

Another link in the chain of good will among the countries of the western hemisphere will be forged from 2 to 2:30 p. m. today when the third program of Rotary-Mutual's "The Americas Speak" series will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The broadcast will salute Guatemala.

The program will be introduced from the studios of W-G-N, and will then swing to Guatemala City for a 20 minute broadcast from the studios of TGW, Gen. Jorge Ubico, president of Guatemala, will speak, and native Indian music played by a marimba band as well as human interest highlights, will be presented.

A highlight of the program will be an interview with Mrs. Lily de Osborne, internationally known authority on textiles, who has written several books on Guatemalian customs and folk lore. Mrs. de Osborne will speak from Guatemala City.

Octavio Barrios, consul general for Guatemala in Chicago, will speak from the W-G-N studios.

Mary Foster's Troubles.

Marital difficulties strike at the happiness of Mary Foster and Philip Day in the episodes which are in store for listeners this week to "Mary Foster, the Editor's Daughter," dramatic serial, broadcast by W-G-N each weekday, Monday thru Friday, at 11 a. m.

30 NORTH SIDERS REHEARSE ROLES IN WAA-MU SHOW

W-G-N to Offer Preview Thursday Night.

The north side metropolitan area is providing almost half of the musical and dramatic talent for Northwestern university's 1941 Waa-Mu show. Thirty of the 70 characters and dancers in the cast reside on the north side or in the suburbs. The musical comedy, "Wait a Minute," will be presented in Scott hall on the Evanston campus March 25 to 29.

A preview of the student production will be broadcast over W-G-N from 7:30 to 8 o'clock Thursday evening on the "In Chicago Tonight" program. The broadcast will open with the show's prolog, a scene in the White House. The W-G-N chorus will sing the title tune, "Wait a Minute," and accompany the student principals in presenting several other songs written by Lloyd Norlin, a senior.

George Jessel, who is appearing at the State-Lake theater, will be featured in the show. Jessel will be master of ceremonies.

Songs in Show.

The script, written around skits by Charles Nelson of Evanston, a graduate of Northwestern, progresses from a "morning" first act thru a "noontime" intermission to a "bedtime" finale. Jack Haskell of Evanston and Louise Yates of Kenilworth will sing "Where Do We Live," followed by a comedy monolog by Robert Zellens, 5731 North Kimball avenue.

Mr. Haskell will be featured again in "Where Was I" and "One Fine September," and Miss Yates will be heard in "She Stoops to Conga." "Romance in the Balcony," part of the evening scene, will be dramatized by Herbert Peterson, 1447 Foster avenue, Mr. Haskell, Martha Thomson, and Mr. Zellens. The show will wind up with "Let's Call It a Day," sung by Lauretta Schultz of Oak Park and Mr. Haskell.

Nearly 500 students auditioned for parts in the revue. The regular cast will be augmented by the Orchesis modern dance group. The settings were designed by Charles Vance, former faculty member. J. W. Miller is general director, Janice Raymond and William Barr are student co-chairmen, and Jack Davidson and Les Johnson are in charge of promotion.

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. For a FREE 60 cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's, send your name and address on a penny post card to Box A. Monticello, Ill., by Mar. 22, 1941.

SPACIOUS LIVING ROOM IS FOCAL POINT IN HOME

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Good houses built in the United States in the last few years have a certain distinguishing quality derived from American taste, logic, and ingenuity.

The 1940 home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale, illustrates this point. It is modern, efficient, enduring, compact, and possessed of that indefinable thing called charm. Is there much more a home owner, investing in a house to suit his family's needs, can ask?

The architects, Zook & Taylor, 140 South Dearborn street, took into consideration the various activities and habits of the family and designed the home from the standpoint of used areas as well as rooms. Special attention was given to wall and roof textures and there are many points about the home which the builder of a six room home will appreciate.

Stone and Wood Shingles.

It is an English cottage type dwelling with lannon stone and wood effectively combined on the exterior. The steep roofs are of wood shingles and the home stands on a lot which is 90 feet by 150 feet.

The house has a first floor plan which includes a very livable, attractive library. Two walls of this room are of casement windows and there is a stunning plank flooring pegged with butterflies. The paneled walls with wide horizontal boards of graduated widths which narrow toward the ceiling, are finished in a grayish white; a "driftwood" treatment of unusual charm. The ceiling is plastered.

30 Foot Living Room.

The living room, which is 30 feet long, has a most arresting stone fireplace which reaches to the ceiling. There also is a great story and a half studio bay window and a stained beam ceiling. The walls are plastered in sand finish and the floor is plank, like the library. The dining room, which is two steps down, also has plastered walls and beamed ceiling. Here there are large corner windows which open the room to an abundance of sunlight.

Again there are corner windows in the bathroom, with its wall of ceramic tile, a built-in square tub, and corner built-in dressing case.

The kitchen is a captivating spot with its deep blue rubber flooring, ivory walls, and cabinets and gay red linoleum counter tops and table. The walls of the breakfast alcove have attractive treatment of stained plywood, and corner windows.

Has Two Bedrooms.

One large bedroom on the second floor, 11x17 feet, has one wall entirely of windows, while the second bedroom, 12x13 feet, has large corner windows.

The home is heated by a gas fired warm air heating plant located in the basement. Here the excavation has been under the living room only with sufficient space for heater room, laundry room, and other storage facilities.

Few small homes show a fresher or more personal approach. Lighting thruout is modern, the plan simple yet sound. Design and plan, here are equal contributors to a particularly attractive suburban home.

English House in Hinsdale

Many subtleties of design as well as extreme graciousness in handling are found in this six room English type home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale.

Andrew Jackson Drama on Great Artists Series

A drama woven about the fiery personality of Andrew Jackson as a youth will be presented on the "Great Artists" program which will be broadcast by W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. today. The Andrew Jackson drama is being given to draw attention to the Art institute's showing of Mrs. James Ward Thorne's American rooms. One of these rooms is a replica of the entrance hall in Jackson's mansion, the Hermitage.

Mothers Club Dinner.

The St. Patrick's Academy Mothers' club will hold a corned beef and cabbage dinner from 5 to 7 o'clock tomorrow evening at 122 South Des Plaines street. Mrs. Alex Brown is chairman.

DR. FRANKLYN SNYDER TO BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will make his first appearance before the Chicago Sunday evening club at 8 o'clock this evening in Orchestra hall. His address will be "Young America Goes to College."

Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder.

For 30 years Dr. Snyder has been connected with the university as vice president and dean of the faculties and is now a teacher of English. Believing in education as one of the basic resources in our national defense, he said at the time of his inauguration that the arch foes of humanity are not Hitler and Stalin, nor Naziism nor Communism, but sin and ignorance.

Dr. Snyder expresses faith in modern youth and his address will give an evaluation of higher education in the preparation of youth to exercise the rights and duties of citizenship.

A choir of 125 voices under the direction of Edgar Nelson will provide music for the service. Mark Love, basso, and Charles Sears, tenor, will be the soloists. Stanley Martin is organist.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 17.

Mulching on perennial borders should be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Take the material that is raked off and use it as the beginning of a compost heap; keep adding to it thruout the season. This material can be used later for summer mulching, a practice that is invaluable where the summer is as hot as it is in the middle west.

When spraying for scale on the shrubs see that each scale is covered. Use a dormant or oil spray. It can be obtained ready to use, except for adding water. Spray snowballls with the same material. The common snowball is sometimes simply smothered with lice unless spraying is undertaken at regular intervals.

Tuesday, March 18.

Be sure the garden tools are dependable and sturdy. Keep the spade bright and sharp; never let it stand over night without cleaning, and a good way is to wash it off and then wipe it with an oiled rag. Oil the lawnmower and paint all parts that should be painted.

Many perennials can be divided and transplanted as soon as they show thru the ground and it is not too wet to spade. Early removal enables the newly set plants to make an early growth.

Wednesday, March 19.

Examine cellar plants or those that are in storage to see if they are in good condition. Oleanders, century plants, poinsettias, and others will soon need attention. Apartment house gardeners will find a number of plants suitable for growing in water. Among these are the sweet potato vine. Be sure to get a potato that is not kiln dried, or the buds will be destroyed. Place a good sized potato in a jar of water and watch results.

The lovely philodendron is also a good subject, and the English ivy does exceedingly well when grown in the same manner. The Chinese evergreen is very attractive and the wandering Jew is easily and quickly grown. Take a few strong cuttings of the common foliage plant or coleus and enjoy them for a long time by placing them in water.

You can have a nice display of lily-of-the-valley for Easter by planting the roots [pips] in moss. After planting, place the container in the dark for a few days or until growth has started, then bring to the light.

Thursday, March 20.

In selecting annuals choose the rust-proof snapdragons and the wilt-resistant class of asters. The orange flare cosmos is a delightful flower and the rosemond larkspurs are among the best.

New varieties of marigolds furnish excellent material for the garden. These include guinea gold, yellow supreme, and Dixie sunshine. The nasturtium golden gleam is good, and the new doubles offer something different. The beauty of Oxford verbenas, fantasy zinnias, jubilee gem cornflowers, Indian spring hollyhocks, and other recommended sorts may be developed into a most modern garden.

Friday, March 21.

Apply the commercial, complete plant food to the lawn. An early application at the rate of four pounds to each 100 square feet of area will give the grass a heavy growth. It is not necessary to water in the food if done at this time.

Roll the lawn when not too wet to reduce the elevations and compact the soil around the roots. An application should also be made to the perennial border just as soon as the plants start into growth.

Saturday, March 22.

Keep pots of bulbous plants well watered. Grow a few hardy lilies in the borders. Lilies will grow most anywhere, but they do best when grown with a ground cover which keeps shade about their base. A leaf-mold soil, well drained, is suitable for all kinds.

Some kinds may be safely planted in spring; among them are L. auratum, elegans, davuricum, Henryi, regale, speciosum, tigrinum, and unbellatum. Plant in masses or in small groups and a fine effect will be obtained. Plant base rooting varieties shallow and stem rooting kinds comparatively deep.

Lilies like a well drained soil. Clematis hybrids should be more generously planted. Among them are varieties Henryi, a white; Jackmanii, purple; Mad Edward Andre, red, and Ramona, light blue. Give a good, leaf-mold soil, well drained. The stems are slender and should be securely tied in place as they grow.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

SCHOOL PUPILS' ART WORK WILL BE DISPLAYED

Hundreds of Chicago school children will have their art work displayed at Western Arts association convention at the Stevens hotel Wednesday thru Saturday of this week. The display was arranged by Miss Elizabeth Wells Robertson director of art for the public schools. Approximately 3,500 canvases will also be on view at the convention, which is open to the public. The school exhibit will later be sent on a tour of South America in an exchange of work done by pupils on the two American continents.

Prof. Edmonds will talk on the points to watch in the selection of a riding horse. Mann will present motion pictures and a verbal description of the forest preserve trails. There will be a question period after the talks.

O. K. TOLLS FOR A SUPERHIGHWAY

DRAFT APPEAL RULINGS VARY AS TO BOARDS

Similar Cases Draw Different Verdicts.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Decisions in army draft appeal cases differ widely, both because of the imperfections of the selective service act and regulations and by reason of the wide latitude given appeal board members.

William H. King Jr., administrator for the eight draft boards of appeal in Cook county, called attention last week to some of the defects and omissions in rules, and cited interesting cases that give an insight into the working of these review bodies.

One reason there is no unanimity among appeal board members in dependency cases, the administrator said, is that the draft act, passed by congress, and the draft regulations formulated by the national draft board have different definitions for dependents. Some appeal boards follow the act literally, while those more liberally inclined accept the language of the regulations.

Term Loosely Used.

It is a rule that any registrant may appeal from a Class 1 classification, but he must do so within five days after he is classified. However, there is the case of a man who accepted Class 1 without appeal, and whose father afterward died, leaving the selectee with his mother as a dependent. At any time before induction he may ask his local board to reclassify him in a dependency class. If the local board refuses because of the five day appeal provision, he is not entitled to carry his case to the appeal board.

Aim to Correct Fault.

There have been other similar cases, and efforts are now afoot to correct this fault in the regulations, the administrator indicated. Here are a few actual cases selected from the appeal board files by Mr. King to show how local and appeal boards function:

Registrant A, 25 years old, married last June and childless, asked dependency deferment, but his local board placed him in Class 1 A. He was earning $17 a week and his wife earned $21 a week. The couple paid $25 a month rent and had a few bills outstanding.

The registrant appealed. The local board, in its statement, held that if the husband were drafted it would eliminate his living expenses from the family scene, and with the contribution he could make from his service pay the home could be maintained at its existing standard. The appeal was therefore denied.

Registrant B, 22 years old and married last June, earned $25 a week and his wife $16. The couple lived with her mother. Registrant claimed dependency but his local board, holding the young people had no established home to surrender, placed him in Class 1 A, so he appealed. The appeal was denied.

Appeal Is Granted.

Registrant C, 25 years old, made $18.50 a week and his wife $16 additional. They had an apartment lease with two years to run. The local board set forth in its statement that it had directed 1 A classification, "but not without some misgivings."

The appeal board pointed out that regulations say that in dependency cases any doubt must be resolved in favor of the registrant, and granted the appellant Class 3 A deferment.

Registrant D earned $31 a week and his wife made $1,040 last year. They were paying $22 a month rent. The registrant, who had served two years in the army air corps [not enough to claim deferment], asked the appeal board to shift him from 1 A to 3 A. The board held that because the wife's parents were separated she had no home to return to if her own were dissolved, and granted the appeal.

Government Loses Case.

Registrant E, 29 years old, and his wife, 28, were married in 1935. He was earning $45 a week and his wife earned $1,200 last year. The local board gave the registrant dependency deferment, but the government appeal agent, whose function it is to look after the interests of both registrants and the government, appealed for 1 A classification. The appeal was denied and the registrant remained in Class 3 A.

Registrant F, 33 years old, and married since early 1939, was earning $45 a week and his wife made $2,075 last year, largely thru overtime work. They were paying $55 a month rent. The local board placed the registrant in 1 A, but the appeal board held the couple should be permitted to keep their home intact and granted the appeal.

Registrant G, also 33 years old, earned $27.50 a week, and his wife, to whom he was married in 1938, made $1,675 last year. Most of her money was being used to pay off a $3,000 balance on their home, in which they held an equity of about $1,000. In the winter months her parents lived with them. The appeal board granted deferment from 1 A to 3 A.

IRISH TAKE BACK BAGPIPES WHICH SCOTS ADOPTED

Not Up to Kilts Yet, Say Shannon Rovers.

People think "How odd!" when they see the Shannon Rovers band, made up of some 40 Irishmen, marching along, wearing the green and playing—of all things—bagpipes and drums.

"I suppose they'll be wearing kilts next," they laugh.

Well the Shannon Rovers have set about to redeem things which, they point out, the lads from Scotland have borrowed for the last several hundred years—the bagpipes.

Thomas Ryan, 4222 West Monroe street, a street car conductor, is founder and president of the band. When started in 1926 it was a conventional Irish fife band, nearly all of whose members had been born across the sea and wanted "a little bit of home" in the new world.

Bagpipes from Ireland.

But during the following five years Ryan did a little historical reading which brought about an awakening in the group. He found that bagpipes and drums, which attracted so much attention to Scottish bands thruout the land, were originally Irish. He learned that when the native Celts in Ireland waged war in the fifth century, they marched to the tune of bagpipes.

In about the 14th century, the books told him, an Irishman invented the fife, which soon began to displace the bagpipes. And during the last century the English, in their attempt to stamp out Irish nationalism, made it a penal offense to own or play a bagpipe.

Meanwhile, over in the highlands, Scottish clans adopted the bagpipe, Ryan relates. Then they started using the kilt and made it out of their plaids. The Highlander bagpipe bands became a regular part of the British army as it marched in all corners of the world.

Play Tomorrow Night.

Then, in 1931, arose the Shannon Rovers Bagpipe band, which will play for the club's 10th annual St. Patrick's night dance tomorrow night at Temple hall, 332 South Marshfield avenue.

On all occasions the members wear green coats and white and gold trousers—the traditional Irish colors.

"We don't wear kilts yet," Ryan said, "because we are busy enough trying to persuade people that the bagpipe is not Scottish. It would take too much time and money to work on the kilt at the same time."

John Hartigan, a policeman, is vice president of the group. Others officers are Robert O'Reilly, secretary; Joseph Powers, financial secretary; James Rudden, pipe major, and Daniel Keogh, pipe sergeant.

"And the members," Ryan proudly added, "come from all the 32 counties of Ireland!"

ANNUAL DISPLAY OF ART ON VIEW IN DES PLAINES

15 Men, Women Artists Have Canvases.

Local artists are facing the appraisal of an art-conscious Des Plaines as their work is exhibited in Rand park fieldhouse under the sponsorship of the Des Plaines Woman's club. The show opened last evening and may be viewed from 2 o'clock this afternoon till 9 this evening, and from 5 until 9 tomorrow evening.

Club Opens Rental Gallery.

The woman's club started the annual community art show a number of years ago as a means of bringing before the public the many artists who live in Des Plaines. The club also opened a rental gallery, which the artists are now carrying on, and for a time placed paintings in the local schools. Mrs. Lester Thorne, club art chairman, is in charge of the exhibit.

Fifteen artists are represented in the present exhibit, eight of them being men and seven women. They are Herbert J. Day, Alvin Hanson, Lloyd R. Jones, Charles A. Akers, Frank T. Ransley, Hugo J. Liedberg, Kenneth Brown Ransley, Kenneth Evertson, Maybelle Tallant, Judith Kennard, Eunice Stephens, Margaret Selleck, Virginia Close, Margaret Liedberg, and Muriel Kelly.

Exhibits Are Judged.

The exhibit has been judged and ribbon awards allocated in six classes, water colors, oils, ceramics and sculpture, pastels, pen and ink, and etchings. They will be announced later in the week. The jury was composed of Richard A. Chase, member of the Chicago Galleries; John G. Wilkins, head of the art department of Niles Township High school and former teacher and exhibitor at the art institute, and Adolph Heinze, member of the Painters and Sculptors association and the Chicago Galleries.

Postman's Trip to Be Just Like a Practice Run

Since no word has come from Washington to the contrary, Trumbull's subdivision in River Grove will become part of Melrose Park's rural free delivery system tomorrow in spite of the vehement objections of many of the residents of this area.

Stanley B. Norris, the Melrose Park deliverer, will drive among the homes in the late afternoon as part of the five mile addition to his route which has been made effective as a result of pleas for mail delivery by residents of the unincorporated area between the towns.

This part of his trip will be a mere formality, in all probability, because the majority of these residents have refused to put up mailboxes, and Mrs. George Vondran, one of the most active of the group, even tore down her mailbox to avoid being adopted by the Melrose Park postoffice.

Must Follow Route.

James D. Larry Sr., Melrose Park postmaster, pointed out that the decision to include this section of River Grove in his rural route was made by postal inspectors and that Norris would have to follow the route prescribed, even if there was nothing for him to do there.

The new route covers some 70 homes along North avenue from 19th avenue east to the Des Plaines river, and on River road from North avenue up to Fullerton, including a turn thru Trumbull's subdivision.

Larry added that for more than 30 years Melrose Park has delivered mail to Berkeley and to part of Hillside, as well as to a large unincorporated area northwest of the village, including the site chosen for the new Buick plant. The route already established took care of some 1,100 homes, he said.

Will Get No Benefit.

"Service to that small part of River Grove will do us no good in Melrose Park," Larry said. "No one is going to come all the way here to buy their stamps. They will continue to get them in River Grove.

"Moreover they will not have to put 3 cents on a letter to the rest of River Grove as long as they mail it in River Grove, which is much more convenient for them. Those who erect mailboxes will not be required to pay postage due on letters addressed to River Grove for a considerable period."

Letters would have to be addressed sooner or later, however, to "Melrose Park, R. F. D. route 1," or have "Melrose Park postoffice" written beneath "River Grove."

"This," complain those in the subdivision, "makes us sound like farmers!"

E. MAINE GRADE SCHOOL DUE TO OPEN IN FALL

The new $101,000 East Maine elementary school should be ready for occupancy by September, it was said last week by Clarence Callahan, district superintendent in charge of northwest area county schools.

The underground work has been completed and the walls of the building, which will have four rooms, a gymnasium, and an auditorium, are well up. The project has been undertaken with $56,000 granted by the WPA, and $45,000 contributed by school district 63. Work was started in December.

The building is on Milwaukee avenue near Ballard road, in Maine township, and is to replace a two room school on Potter road, which has become overcrowded due to the growth of the area. The new school, of which Mrs. Emma K. Melzer is principal, will have a capacity of about 120 pupils.

Don't Want Their Mail from Melrose Park

These signs displayed by residents of Trumbull's subdivision in River Grove spelled the doom of the brand new mailbox shown in the center. It was erected several weeks ago by Mrs. George Vondran, holding the placard directly behind it, because she thought the proposed mail delivery was going to be from the River Grove postoffice. When she learned it was Melrose Park instead, she summoned a council of war of her neighbors and tore off the mailbox. None of the residents have complied with Melrose Park's invitation to put up boxes and get mail delivery. Those in the picture are Miss Gail Brown, Mrs. Frank Engel, Mrs. Dewey White, Mrs. Vondran, Miss Ruth Skinner, Mrs. Fred Skinner, and Mrs. John Volckaert. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

AUTOISTS READY TO PAY TO GET NEEDED ROUTE

N. West Civic Groups Ask Legislation.

Most northwest siders would be willing to pay toll charges for the use of a superhighway serving them if the right to charge tolls would enable the county to build such a road, judging by the reaction of two of the largest civic club organizations in the neighborhood.

Edward F. Boyle.

The Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs and the Nor'West'Ton congress, whose combined membership includes several dozen clubs on the northwest side, have both reacted favorably to bills recently introduced in the state legislature which would make the Cook county highway superintendent a road building authority.

Under these bills he would be authorized to sell 30 million dollars worth of bonds for the construction of superhighways, the interest and retirement requirements to be paid from toll collections.

One Club Opposed.

One influential club, the Albany Park Chamber of Commerce, according to William Levy, its president, is opposed to the plan.

"We are against the principle of charging tolls for the use of roads after a motorist has already paid vehicle, gasoline, and other taxes destined for road work," Levy said. "Moreover, there ought to be enough money available, if efficiently handled, to construct a good many more roads."

The federation, however, has vociferously declared itself in favor of the bills, since they are in line with a resolution it adopted more than two months ago advocating the creation of a "Chicago Improvement Authority" which should be authorized to construct a city-wide system of "safeways."

Edward F. Boyle, vice president of the federation and chairman of its arterial highway committee, pointed out the long delay which has marked progress in the way of express highways for the northwest side, and also the success with which an authority such as the one proposed has met in New York.

Have Military Value.

The military value of improving the highways as soon as possible was brought up by W. W. Luedtke, president of the Nor'Wes'Ton congress. A favorable report on the bills has been made to the congress by a special committee made up of Luedtke, Amedee Caboor, and John H. Kerr.

The Northwest Area council of the Chicago Motor club, of which Kerr is chairman, also discussed the bills favorably at a meeting last week, and the Chicago Plan commission has indorsed the idea of superhighways with the suggestion that the power should be vested in an authority covering larger territory then Cook county alone.

There is, however, an underlying fear that the eyes of the authorities are more on a Congress street parkway than on Milwaukee, Avondale, or Elston avenue improvements. Luedtke pointed out that there already were several boulevards leading to the west suburbs, and no thru ones to those on the northwest.

Roads Much Used.

The Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs also provided figures based on a count made by the state six years ago showing the large use of northwest side roads. These indicate that more than 92,000 cars pass daily at the corner of Augusta boulevard and Milwaukee avenue.

However, estimates made by the county highway department, whose superintendent, Maj. George A. Quinlan, originated the bills now before the legislature, show that at the city limits the volume of traffic on a superhighway along the Elston-Milwaukee avenue route would be 19,000.

Beginning in May the highway department will take another "origin and destination" count of traffic thruout the city.

SWIM OR SINK.

As a parent I have finally decided that my daughter will have to succeed or fail, socially, without any further interference from me. I did not always hold to this opinion. I felt that teachers, especially those given charge of school entertainments or as supervisors of parties and dances could, by a little tact, give the less forward a better chance. Now, I realize it is up to the individual and that there is little, after all, that the teachers can do about it.

In my previous resentments, I contended that teachers were inclined to form snap judgments, and that the favoritisms were intentional and cruel. But if there is no surface registering of talent or of a pleasing personality, why should a busy teacher be blamed?

All homage, just the same, to the teacher who discovers hidden talents or brings out the highest possibilities in a shy personality.

THANKS FOR SAVING DOG.

I want to express my thanks and appreciation thru your paper for the rescue of our dog Skippy on March 4 from the creek at Hamlin avenue. The dog fell in and the current was taking her down stream when several boys risked falling in themselves in order to save Skippy, and a kind gentleman drove us to our home. In my excitement I did not get a chance to thank them all personally, and would like to do so now.

PRAISES PARK GYMNASTS.

Recently I went to see one of the park district's gymnasium shows and it surely was an inspiring sight. It made me feel young again to watch their drills and games and dances and exercises. "Keep Fit" was their slogan and they must keep fit to be able to do those things. Young people learning such good healthy exercises won't have much time or wish to get into mischief, and surely this is better "Keep Fit" training than any army camp could be. Let's not let up on recreation programs.

FAR NORTHWEST AREAS RATE HIGH IN LAND SURVEY

Living Conditions Above Average for City.

The most extensive land-use survey of any large city ever made is in the process of completion in Chicago, and preliminary pamphlets dealing with three far northwest side communities, namely the Edison, Norwood, and Jefferson Park areas, have been released.

The survey has been sponsored by the Chicago Plan commission, headed by George F. Horton, and has been accomplished thru a fund of $152,000 provided by the city together with WPA labor and materials valued at nearly $3,000,000. More than 700,000 parcels of land have been studied by 3,000 workers, according to Hugh E. Young, chief engineer of the commission and director of the survey.

Areas Are Canvassed.

The information has been obtained thru two operations. Basic facts, such as the area, value, and age of buildings and land, were taken from the records of the county assessor. A house-to-house canvass then produced data on the type and condition of structures, number of occupied and vacant dwelling units, monthly rental, plumbing and heating facilities, overcrowding, and state of repair.

All three areas were well above the general city rate with respect to proportion of single family dwellings, homes occupied by the owners and buildings in good condition. They were below the average in tuberculosis mortality and male juvenile delinquency, the results indicate. The monthly rental is high in Edison Park and above average in Norwood and Jefferson Parks.

The median age of buildings in these areas among the smallest in the city. In Jefferson Park the average building was built in 1923, while in Norwood and Edison Park it is two years newer. The median year built thruout the city is 1906.

7 ON NORTHWEST SIDE BEGIN CO-OP BUSINESS STUDY

Seven northwest side students are enrolled in the new five year business and industrial management coöperative courses at Lewis division of the Illinois Institute of Technology, an announcement by Miss Kathryn Judkins, coördinator of the plan, reveals.

The new course is patterned after the successful mechanical engineering coöperative plan begun at Armour college of the institute five years ago. Each school year is divided into six periods of eight weeks each. The first is spent in fundamental studies in science, economics, and the humanities as well as courses in salesmanship, purchasing, marketing, advertising, office management.

The alternate periods will be spent in jobs that pay tuition costs and incidental school expenses. Each coöperating firm is given a team of students, the student at work and the student at school who replaces him at work.

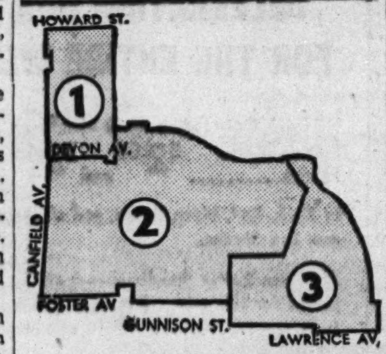
Alvernia Band and Choir to Give Concert Thursday

Alvernia High school band and choral group will give a joint program Thursday evening in the school auditorium, 3901 North Ridgeway avenue. Guido Mattei is the band director and Sister M. Vitalis and Anna Helen Reuter will direct the verse speaking choir.

Golden Wedding Day

A reception and party in the Irving Park Lutheran church was the way in which Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Nordling of 5052 North Tripp avenue recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. More than 100 persons were present. Guests included their daughter, Mrs. Herbert Helgeson, and their three grandchildren. Mr. Nordling is 82 years old and Mrs. Nordling is 78. She has written and published two books in Swedish since her 50th birthday.

Areas in Survey



The three areas pictured here are the subject of the initial release of findings in the Chicago land use survey for the northwest side. Numerically they are Edison Park (1), Norwood Park (2), and Jefferson Park (3).

JEWISH YOUTHS JOIN FOR PURIM PARTY TONIGHT

Pastry Eating Contest Is on Program.

A pastry eating contest will mark the Purim celebration by Jewish high school students at Bialik hall, 220 South State street, this evening. The celebration is sponsored by the Jewish Youth league, which has branches in many of the public high schools.

A committee from each of these schools is in charge of the program. The three northwest side schools represented and the heads of their committees are as follows: Tuley-Sabin, Beatrice Leifman, 1307 North Campbell avenue; Von Steuben, Harriet Prosterman, 4957 North Lawndale avenue; and Roosevelt, Joseph Gusfield, 2235 North Kedzie avenue.

One hundred Jewish soldiers stationed in camps in the Chicago area have been invited by the Chicago youth division of the American Jewish congress to attend its annual dance tonight at the Hotel Sherman.

The Albany Park Youth division will have its Purim celebration at 3 o'clock this afternoon at River park fieldhouse, 5100 North Francisco avenue.

Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn of Temple Beth Israel will speak this morning at the Jefferson Park Congregational church, Giddings street near Milwaukee avenue, on the subject, "Who Are the Chosen People?"

Mrs. Wendell E. Green, a colored leader, will speak on "Minority Groups and Interracial Problems" at the regular meeting of the Humboldt Boulevard temple sisterhood at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard.

Each member of the Albany Park B'nai B'rith junior auxiliary will bring a ten cent article to the Purim festival of the club at the Morrison hotel at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. There will be a grab bag for these articles. Rabbi Isaac Siegel of Congregation Beth Itzchok will address the group.

CENSUS PROVES EVANSTON IS A RELIGIOUS CITY

73 Pct. of Folks Claim Some Church Tie.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Evanston's reputation as the city of churches and church people is upheld by the first successful religious census ever taken of the population of Evanston. Figures released this week show that 73.3 per cent of the population, estimated at 68,000, claim affiliation with some religious organization. The figure for the nation is less than 50 per cent.

Dr. R. L. Logan. [Eleanor Burkart Photo.]

A summary shows that 49.3 per cent are Protestants, 19.3 per cent are Catholics, 8.4 per cent attend Negro churches, .5 per cent are Jewish, and 4.7 per cent are Christian Scientists. Evanston is not, as one might think, a children's town. There are 2.56 times as many adults as children, altho the ratio varies from five adults to one child in the 1st ward, composed largely of apartments and hotels, to 1.9 adults per child in the 6th ward, which is mainly residential.

Same in Each Group.

The proportion of children in the families of each religion group is approximately the same. The ratio of adults to children is 2.6 to one among the Protestants, 2.3 to one among the Catholics, 2.6 to one among the Negroes, and 2.9 to one among the Jews.

The majority of the Protestants are either Presbyterians, Methodists, or Episcopalians and the local churches in these groups have an equal number of members. Residents belonging to a church in Chicago or some other suburb include 1,404 Protestants and 354 Catholics.

Only .6 per cent claim interest in "miscellaneous sects." The census takers found one atheist and one Confucius follower. A small group was listed as the "Black Stockings" because the unique characteristic to be found was that all the women wear black cotton stockings.

Also among the 412 persons listed under miscellaneous sects are Jehovah's Witnesses, Latter Day Saints, Mormons, Adventists, Salvation Army members, Baha'ists, Buddhists, Plymouth Brethren, Unitarians, Swedenborgians and members of Gospel Hall, the Scripture league and the Assembly of God.

Most Willingly Answer.

Less than 1 per cent of the people refused to give information to the more than 600 volunteer workers who canvassed the city by wards. Only 9.5 per cent of the population was not interviewed, points out Dr. Robert Lee Logan of Northminster Presbyterian church, who supervised the compilation of the material.

The suggestion for a census was made last fall when several pastors wanted to canvass their own wards. It was decided finally to take a city-wide census by wards and the Rev. Frederic E. Pamp of Mission Covenant church was appointed chairman.

GET WHAT YOU WANT AND SAVE TIME, ENERGY AND MONEY WITH HELPFUL Tribune Want Ads

"I'VE WAITED YEARS FOR THIS MOMENT!"

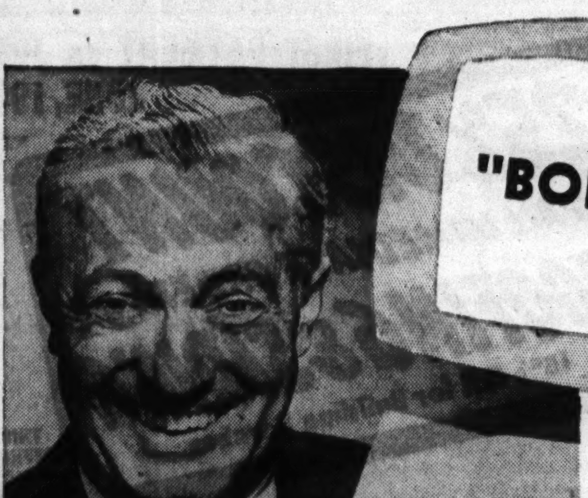
"This check makes us homeowners, honey!"

Have you been watching for the right opportunity to buy a home? You are far more likely to find what you want, regardless of location, number of rooms, lot size and price if you follow the ads in the Real Estate want ad columns in the Tribune. Because property owners and real estate dealers get better results, they place in the Tribune more real estate want advertising than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined. Begin today to review the values offered in the real estate want ads!

"NOW WE CAN GO AHEAD"

"We found all the machinery needed thru the want ads!"

If you are in immediate need of machinery and equipment to speed production, it will pay you to follow the want ads in the Machinery and Equipment column. It is Chicago's leading market for used lathes, drills, shapers, screw machines, conveyors, cranes, copper kettles, presses, bottling equipment, and a wide variety of other devices and machines.



"BOB'S PROMOTED!"

"That special training did the trick!"

Are you as far from a well paying job as on the day you first started to work? Why not train for one of the new jobs opening up in many industries? For announcements of courses which can help ambitious men and women, read the Instruction, Trade Schools, Dressmaking and Millinery Schools, and Musical and Dramatic columns in the Tribune want ad section.

"YOU'LL NOT WEAR OUT THAT MOTOR SOON!"

Are you spending more and more to keep your present car in good running condition? Why not consider trading it in on a good used late model? Late models are roomy, smartly upholstered, easier to steer, safer to drive, and better to see. Prices are attractively low, and terms are generous. Many dealers may be willing to consider your present car as the down payment. For Chicago's largest selection of late models, turn to the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Because want ad users get better results, they place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

IT'S FUN TO TRADE!

What would you like to have in place of the little used things you have stored away? What about that camera, shotgun, chest of tools, sets of books, musical instruments, and similar articles? There are many persons who are willing to trade with you. You'll find their offers in the Barter and Exchange column in the Tribune want ad section. Follow the offers in this column regularly for opportunities to turn little used possessions into useful ones!

LAPIDARY HOBBY FITS HIM AS A PARK TEACHER

Menzel Has Had a Life of Adventure.

If you've been around Humboldt park during the evenings you've probably seen or heard of William Menzel, known as a lapidarist because as a hobby he helps teach the park lapidary class.

William Menzel.

While you are trying to find out what a lapidarist is, if you don't know, you might as well know that he is also a mineralogist, archaeologist, egologist, seafarer, lumberjack, cowhand, model shipbuilder, and pearl grower. His regular job is selling chemicals.

A lapidarist is an expert on precious stones, and as such Menzel cooperater with Howard Hufford of the park staff in conducting classes at Humboldt park in the cutting of small stones and making of jewelry.

Shanghaied as Boy.

Stone cutting is a far cry from the way Menzel started his career, however. For at the age of 13 he ran away from his family's farm in Michigan and was shanghaied as a cabin boy to Hongkong on a British tramp sailing ship.

"I was staying in a boarding house in San Francisco looking for some short job on a vessel," Menzel recounted, "when one day the landlord told me to come with him to see the captain of a ship. We went aboard, but before I could find out where it was going or how long the vessel would be gone, the landloard went ashore and the ship set sail. Then I learned it was bound for China. I was at sea on and off for seven years."

During this time, in the first few years of the century, he spent some time working in the diamond mines of South Africa. This seems to have been the experience which turned his interest to mining and stone cutting.

Cowhand for a Summer.

Later, in this country, after spending as a cowhand on aranch in Wyoming as a cowhand, he studied for a year at the University of Colorado School of Mines. He then prospected and mined in Alaska, California, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, and Mexico.

Back on the farm in Ottawa county, Michigan, he tried some pearl raising in the clams on the Grand river. In 1917 he collaborated with Prof. George E. Marsh of Washington, D. C., in a synthesis of ruby and sapphire which resulted in the producing of a 98 carat sapphire crystal.

He is a member of several scientific institutions, and organized the Marquette Geological association, which makes trips annually to the Rocky mountains to study formations. He married in 1910, and has three children.

Bride at Home

Mrs. George J. Gutten is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Mosny Sr., 3344 Waveland avenue. She was married recently in Holy Trinity Slovak Lutheran church to the son of Mrs. Susan Gutten of 2503 North Ashland avenue. The couple are now living at 3906 Monticello avenue.

Two likely prospects for queens at the Carnival of Champions at Loyola university Wednesday, April 2, are northwest siders. One, Dorothea Walters, 3306 North Springfield avenue, is a student at Mundelein college, and the other, Mary Wojtalewicz, of 4029 Roscoe street, is a sophomore at Rosary college, in River Forest. This carnival is a popular one for prospective queens to compete in because two are chosen—one to represent each of these Catholic girls' colleges. At the carnival there will be intramural finals in many sports.

EVENING CLUBS SURVEY NEEDS OF INSTITUTIONS

Seek Better Ways of Lending Help.

In its evening auxiliary clubs the 7th district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs has another one of the precedent forming innovations which have contributed to the record of this northwest side organization. The 7th is the only district to have established evening auxiliaries as a separate district department.

Mrs. R. B. Ford, 5443 North Sawyer avenue, has been chairman of the evening auxiliary since it was started about two years ago. Members of the evening clubs are on the whole young, and in the business, or young married women, classification. They are distinguished from the junior clubs, another department, whose average age is perhaps a little younger and who have slightly different interests.

Made Survey of Needs.

The auxiliaries have already made contribution to club philanthropic projects in the form of a survey completed last year by Miss Mary Bunting, 4112 North Keeler avenue, on what the various clubs can do to help charitable institutions on the northwest side in other ways than actual cash donations.

The survey covered old people's homes, settlement houses, women's and girls' homes, children's institutions, and other miscellaneous organizations. It was praised by Mrs. William T. Bruckner, state federation president, and was recommended to other state groups.

Most of the requests reported in the survey were for second hand articles—clothing, furniture, books, tinfoil, and the like; for programs and entertainment, for staff helpers, for advertising of rooms and facilities, and for cars and transportation.

The four evening auxiliary clubs have endeavored to follow out the research this year. Each club has taken one of the requests mentioned by an institution and tried to supply it. One is saving comic strips and Sunday features for a day nursery which can use unlimited numbers of them. Another club has provided several magazine subscriptions for a hospital; all have taken up these things in addition to their regular philanthropic projects.

The four clubs who are trail blazers in the evening club class have an aggregate membership of approximately 135 young women. Mrs. Olliver Goldsmith, 3729 North Kildare avenue, is president of the evening auxiliary of the Irving Park Woman's club; Miss Bunting heads the Irving Park Catholic Young Woman's club; Mrs. E. P. Simon is president of the Park Ridge Woman's club evening auxiliary, and Miss Elise Brown, 3059 Wilson avenue, is the leader of the young woman's auxiliary of the Albany Park Woman's club.

Southern Honeymoon

A long honeymoon in Florida and Cuba is being enjoyed by Mrs. Seymour Ziff before she and her husband return to take up their residence in Chicago. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Rosenberg, 4915 North Monticello avenue. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Ziff of 5508 West Congress street, attended the University of Illinois and Northwestern law school.

RAZE OLD HOME ON N. WEST SIDE AS FIRE HAZARD

Dickinson House Built 55 Years Ago.

If houses uttered "famous last words," the last words of the old Dickinson house, a historic landmark on Laporte near Belle Plaine avenue, would have been something like this:

"Bless my soul! What do you suppose those wrecking trucks are stopping here for?"

It would not have had time to say more before the sounds of tapping hammers, splitting wood, and falling boards drowned out all else.

The dilapidated old house had become a fire hazard and an incentive to mischief among neighborhood boys. Since last Halloween, when a fire started in its basement, the Portage Park Chamber of Commerce and Woman's club have united in an effort to have the home demolished.

Its owner, Arthur Dickinson, a pioneer builder of the northwest side, constructed the home on Milwaukee and Belle Plaine avenues nearly 55 years ago. It was one of the first homes in the neighborhood. It was later moved a block west to its present location.

Dickinson died six years ago, his widow now lives on the north side, and the home has been vacant.

Mrs. Herman Kloock of the civic department of the Woman's club and Bernard S. Molay of the business charge of the matter. He made armen put Lester G. Burroughs in rangements with the heirs, the cost of demolition being put up largely by the business men.

MORE PARKING SPACE FOR DES PLAINES IS BUSINESS MEN'S AIM

Increased parking facilities for Des Plaines is the leading project on the docket of the Des Plaines Business Men's association for 1941, it has been announced by the newly elected president, Roy Collignon. Collignon, who is in the dairy business, succeeds Joseph Feulner as president. It was pointed out that the association already operates one lot on Center street on land which it has rented, but that there is need for four or five more. It was felt that lack of parking facilities was a hindrance to business near the center of town.

Newly appointed committee chairmen for the association are as follows: C. W. M. Brown Jr., advertising; Anthony Paroubek, civic; George Kinder, finance; Henry Wiese, legislation; Ross Lapham, membership; Murray S. Smith, parking; B. F. Eidamiller, program advertising; W. J. Ladendorf, ways and means; F. A. Fulle, publicity, and L. E. Manuel, city beautiful.

A FLOOD OF FAN PHOTOS DELUGES TOM, DICK, HARRY

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tom, Dick, and Harry have started something. They have reversed the old radio custom of sending pictures to listeners. Instead, they have invited fans to send them their photos to W-G-N.

The result is an avalanche of photos, ranging from daguerrotypes to modern miniature negatives. While women's pictures are in the majority, there are specimens of bald headed men, and babies, too, in their ever expanding collection.

For years Tom, Dick, and Harry—who are Bud Vandover, Marlin Hurt, and Gordon Vandover, have been wondering what radio listeners look like. It is a curiosity that consumes many a man before the microphone. Tom, Dick, and Harry for years had been itching to find out. But they never did anything to solve the riddle.

It's All an Accident.

They went on year after year, carrying about their mental pictures of admirers, forever uncertain as to their accuracy. It gave them a feeling of frustration, ultimately. But they did nothing.

Then, one day they rescued themselves from the horns of this dilemma, quite accidentally. After romping thru one of their ad-libbed sessions on the air they concluded it with an offer to send pictures of themselves to all who requested them.

Strictly as a gag Tom exclaimed to Announcer Ed Allen: "Why not have them send in their pictures for a change? We certainly would like to see what they look like."

They laughed and forgot about it. The public, however, took the suggestion seriously. The following day a hundred pictures arrived. They have been rolling in ever since.

A Pleasure and a Shock.

These pictures have been a pleasure and inspiration in some instances; a shock in others. One girl sent a folder containing six pictures of herself revealing the various emotions inspired by listening to the comedians—pleasure, perplexity, pain, and so on.

There was a note of comedy in many of the letters. One chap sent a picture of a snow covered cabin. He explained:

Another letter [with a picture] which the boys treasure, states: "I have always been considered a prize dope. So, running true to form, I am asking for your photo. Having seen 'Frankenstein,' 'Dracula,' and 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' my appetite for horror pictures will not be satisfied until I see yours."

Animals Are Fans.

Still another fan sent in pictures of a dog, two ducks and a goat. All, she said, were inveterate followers of the Tom, Dick, and Harry clambakes.

Mary Foster's Troubles.

Jorge Ubico, president of Guatemala, will speak, and native Indian music played by a marimba band as well as human interest highlights, will be presented.

A highlight of the program will be an interview with Mrs. Lily de Osborne, internationally known authority on textiles, who has written several books on Guatemalian customs and folk lore. Mrs. de Osborne will speak from Guatemala City.

Musical Drama to Feature Chicagoland Hour.

The Chicagoland hour will give a salute to New York from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network. A special production — "Ode to New York"—will be the highlight of this program featuring the W-G-N players, concert orchestra, and chorus, and Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, as soloist.

Members of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and their friends will be guests in the W-G-N audience studio.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

By use of dramatic sequences, unique sound effects and impressionistic music by the orchestra and ensemble, the "Ode to New York" will bring the pulse beats of that mighty metropolis to a coast-to-coast radio audience.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening. Henry Weber, conducting the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, will present "Melting Pot Medley," with Attilio Baggiore as soloist.

Baggiore to Sing Aria.

Weber and the orchestra also will feature Dvorak's "Carnival Overture."

BLIND TO GIVE REVUE ON HOUR OF OPPORTUNITY

A 60 minute variety revue, presented entirely by blind people, will be the feature of the Hour of Opportunity amateur program on WCFL at 8 tonight. Talented persons who have lost their sight have been gathered from all sections of Chicagoland thru the efforts of the Blind Service association and its president and founder, Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein.

Geraldine Lawhorn will offer a dramatic reading of her own composition. Miss Lawhorn is blind and deaf. William Grow, despite his handicap, has developed an unusual memory, thru which he can tell the temperature and weather of any day in the past 50 years. Buddy Horrell will play "Marie" and "I Never Knew" on the marimba.

NEW TRIER HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON CITIZENS HOUR

New Trier High school, the 3 million dollar institution serving the four North Shore communities of Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday when the school will be featured on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N.

Six hundred students led by their play-acting, mountain-climbing principal, Matthew P. Gaffney, will be on hand for the broadcast. Mr. Gaffney will speak briefly. He will be introduced by Philip Maxwell, member of the Tribune's editorial staff, who plays the rôle of the principal and is master of ceremonies.

The choir will sing four numbers, including two school songs written by teachers of New Trier. "Here's to Our Team," was written by Samuel Vernon, general science teacher, and the lyrics of the second school song, sung to the tune of "Old Crusader" were written by Frederick Kahler, dean of boys.

Mr. Maxwell will name three more Chicagoland students to the program's roll of honor. They are George William Byers of Lafayette, Ind.; John Jones of Milwaukee, Wis., and David Parson of Dubuque, Ia.

W-G-N and Mutual carry Williams' news analysis at 7 p. m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and at 8:30 p. m. on Sundays.

WAA-MU PREVIEW TO BE BROADCAST ON CHICAGO HOUR

Jessel to Be Master of Ceremonies.

A preview of the 13th annual "Waa-Mu" show of Northwestern university will be broadcast on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 next Thursday evening. This year's Waa-Mu show is titled "Wait a Minute." It is student written and student enacted.

Music and lyrics are by Lloyd B. Norlin, a senior, who wrote last year's show also. Joe W. Miller is the director. The show will open at Scott hall on the campus in Evanston on Tuesday, March 25, and will continue each evening thru March 29.

Jessels on Show.

Along with the presentation of hit songs from the show In Chicago Tonight will feature the comedy and songs of George Jessel, who is appearing at the State-Lake theater. Jessel, as master of ceremonies, will introduce Jack Haskell and Louise Yates, University students, who will sing songs from the campus production.

The preview will open with the show's prolog, a scene in the White House. The W-G-N chorus will sing the title tune, "Wait a Minute" and accompany the student principals in the other songs.

Songs to be heard include "Where Do We Live?," "Where Was I?," "On the Tip of My Tongue," and "Let's Call It a Day."

Alumni to Listen In.

Many faculty members, alumni, and students will be among the studio audience. Alumni will be tuned in from coast to coast.

This is the second campus production to be aired on In Chicago Tonight. Recently the University of Chicago Mirror Revue was presented.

Purpose of the festival, according to the Rev. Roderick Hurley, president of the association, is to demonstrate what is being done in Catholic high schools in the study of music.

In Radio Debut

Miss Lauretta Schultz, 214 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, will sing "Let's Call It a Day," in Northwestern university's Waa-Mu show preview at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening on the W-G-N In Chicago Tonight broadcast. This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 17.

Mulching on perennial borders should be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Take the material that is raked off and use it as the beginning of a compost heap; keep adding to it thruout the season. This material can be used later for summer mulching, a practice that is invaluable where the summer is as hot as it is in the middle west.

When spraying for scale on the shrubs see that each scale is covered. Use a dormant or oil spray. It can be obtained ready to use, except for adding water. Spray snowballs with the same material.

Tuesday, March 18.

Be sure the garden tools are dependable and sturdy. Keep the spade bright and sharp; never let it stand over night without cleaning, and a good way is to wash it off and then wipe it with an oiled rag. Oil the lawnmower and paint all parts that should be painted.

Wednesday, March 19.

Examine cellar plants or those that are in storage to see if they are in good condition. Oleanders, century plants, poinsettias, and others will soon need attention. Apartment house gardeners will find a number of plants suitable for growing in water. Among these are the sweet potato vine. Be sure to get a potato that is not kiln dried, or the buds will be destroyed. Place a good sized potato in a jar of water and watch results.

Thursday, March 20.

In selecting annuals choose the rustproof snapdragons and the wilt-resistant class of asters. The orange flare cosmos is a delightful flower and the rosemond larkspurs are among the best.

New varieties of marigolds furnish excellent material for the garden. These include guinea gold, yellow supreme, and Dixie sunshine. The nasturtium golden gleam is good, and the new doubles offer something different.

Friday, March 21.

Apply the commercial, complete plant food to the lawn. An early application at the rate of four pounds to each 100 square feet of area will give the grass a heavy growth. It is not necessary to water in the food if done at this time.

Saturday, March 22.

Keep pots of bulbous plants well watered. Grow a few hardy lilies in the borders. Lilies will grow most anywhere, but they do best when grown with a ground cover which keeps shade about their base. A leaf mold soil, well drained, is suitable for all kinds.

SPACIOUS LIVING ROOM IS FOCAL POINT IN HOME

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Good houses built in the United States in the last few years have a certain distinguishing quality derived from American taste, logic, and ingenuity.

The 1940 home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale, illustrates this point. It is modern, efficient, enduring, compact, and possessed of that indefinable thing called charm. Is there much more a home owner, investing in a house to suit his family's needs, can ask?

The architects, Zook & Taylor, 140 South Dearborn street, took into consideration the various activities and habits of the family and designed the home from the standpoint of used areas as well as rooms. Special attention was given to wall and roof textures and there are many points about the home which the builder of a six room home will appreciate.

Stone and Wood Shingles.

It is an English cottage type dwelling with lannon stone and wood effectively combined on the exterior. The steep roofs are of wood shingles and the home stands on a lot which is 90 feet by 150 feet.

The house has a first floor plan which includes a very livable, attractive library. Two walls of this room are of casement windows and there is a stunning plank flooring pegged with butterflies. The paneled walls with wide horizontal boards of graduated widths which narrow toward the ceiling, are finished in a grayish white; a "driftwood" treatment of unusual charm. The ceiling is plastered.

30 Foot Living Room.

The living room, which is 30 feet long, has a most arresting stone fireplace which reaches to the ceiling. There also is a great story and a half studio bay window and a stained beam ceiling. The walls are plastered in sand finish and the floor is plank, like the library. The dining room, which is two steps down, also has plastered walls and beamed ceiling. Here there are large corner windows which open the room to an abundance of sunlight.

Again there are corner windows in the bathroom, with its wall of ceramic tile, a built-in square tub, and corner built-in dressing case.

One large bedroom on the second floor, 11x17 feet, has one wall entirely of windows, while the second bedroom, 12x13 feet, has large corner windows.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB WILL HEAR DR. F. B. SNYDER

Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will make his first appearance before the Chicago Sunday evening club at 8 o'clock this evening in Orchestra hall. His address will be "Young America Goes to College."

Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder.

For 30 years Dr. Snyder has been connected with the university as vice president and dean of the faculties and is now a teacher of English. Believing in education as one of the basic resources in our national defense, he said at the time of his inauguration that the arch foes of humanity are not Hitler and Stalin, nor Nazlism nor Communism, but sin and ignorance.

A choir of 125 voices under the direction of Edgar Nelson will provide music for the service.

CURTAIN TO RISE IN NEW THEATER

DRAFT APPEAL RULINGS VARY AS TO BOARDS

Similar Cases Draw Different Verdicts.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Decisions in army draft appeal cases differ widely, both because of the imperfections of the selective service act and regulations and by reason of the wide latitude given appeal board members.

William H. King Jr., administrator for the eight draft boards of appeal in Cook county, called attention last week to some of the defects and omissions in rules, and cited interesting cases that give an insight into the working of these review bodies.

One reason there is no unanimity among appeal board members in dependency cases, the administrator said, is that the draft act, passed by congress, and the draft regulations formulated by the national draft board have different definitions for dependents. Some appeal boards follow the act literally, while those more liberally inclined accept the language of the regulations.

Term Loosely Used.

It is a rule that any registrant may appeal from a Class 1 classification, but he must do so within five days after he is classified. However, there is the case of a man who accepted Class 1 without appeal, and whose father afterward died, leaving the selectee with his mother as a dependent. At any time before induction he may ask his local board to reclassify him in a dependency class. If the local board refuses because of the five day appeal provision, he is not entitled to carry his case to the appeal board.

Aim to Correct Fault.

There have been other similar cases, and efforts are now afoot to correct this fault in the regulations, the administrator indicated. Here are a few actual cases selected from the appeal board files by Mr. King to show how local and appeal boards function:

Registrant A, 25 years old, married last June and childless, asked dependency deferment, but his local board placed him in Class 1 A. He was earning $17 a week and his wife earned $21 a week. The couple paid $25 a month rent and had a few bills outstanding.

The registrant appealed. The local board, in its statement, held that if the husband were drafted it would eliminate his living expenses from the family scene, and with the contribution he could make from his service pay the home could be maintained at its existing standard. The appeal was therefore denied.

Registrant B, 22 years old and married last June, earned $25 a week and his wife $16. The couple lived with her mother. Registrant claimed dependency but his local board, holding the young people had no established home to surrender, placed him in Class 1 A, so he appealed. The appeal was denied.

Appeal Is Granted.

Registrant C, 25 years old, made $18.50 a week and his wife $16 additional. They had an apartment lease with two years to run. The local board set forth in its statement that it had directed 1 A classification, "but not without some misgivings."

The appeal board pointed out that regulations say that in dependency cases any doubt must be resolved in favor of the registrant, and granted the appellant Class 3 A deferment.

Registrant D earned $31 a week and his wife made $1,040 last year. They were paying $22 a month rent. The registrant, who had served two years in the army air corps [not enough to claim deferment], asked the appeal board to shift him from 1 A to 3 A. The board held that because the wife's parents were separated she had no home to return to if her own were dissolved, and granted the appeal.

Government Loses Case.

Registrant E, 29 years old, and his wife, 28, were married in 1935. He was earning $45 a week and his wife earned $1,200 last year. The local board gave the registrant dependency deferment, but the government appeal agent, whose function it is to look after the interests of both registrants and the government, appealed for 1 A classification. The appeal was denied and the registrant remained in Class 3 A.

Registrant F, 33 years old, and married since early 1939, was earning $45 a week and his wife made $2,075 last year, largely thru overtime work. They were paying $55 a month rent. The local board placed the registrant in 1 A, but the appeal board held the couple should be permitted to keep their home intact and granted the appeal.

Registrant G, also 33 years old, earned $27.50 a week, and his wife, to whom he was married in 1938, made $1,675 last year. Most of her money was being used to pay off a $3,000 balance on their home, in which they held an equity of about $1,000. In the winter months her parents lived with them. The appeal board granted deferment from 1 A to 3 A.

Sometimes a Hero Also Stays at Home

BY MILDRED WILDS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wiltrakis, who started her life on a farm in Lithuania, lives alone now. Last Tuesday, in her six room flat at 4330 Washington boulevard, she said good-by to her brother, Maj. George Joanitis, who must live in Arizona for his health. A piece of shrapnel smashed his shoulder during the Argonne offensive of world war I.

On Friday she said good-by to her son, Leo. He is her last and youngest son to go. In the army records he is Second Lieutenant Leo Wiltrakis of the 122d field artillery, one of the 12,000 men in the 33d division training at Camp Forrest in Tennessee.

A little more than a month ago she said good-by to her son, Dr. George Wiltrakis of the medical corps, assigned to Camp Grant. Dr. George was on the staff of the state hospital in Peoria.

In Navy Since 1918.

Since 1918 she has been saying good-by to her son, Jack. That was the year he enlisted as a machinist in the United States navy. Today he is master mechanic aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga and his mother has a yellowed picture of his ship folded away. She cut it out of a newspaper.

She said good-by to her son, Edward, last summer. That was when he was home on furlough before taking up his duties as first lieutenant in the engineering corps stationed at Arlington, Va.

She did her worrying over her oldest son, Joseph, in 1917. He enlisted then as a private in the United States army when America entered the war. He was an 18 year old boy in training when the armistice was signed. Joseph is married now and works as an electrician.

When Lieut. Leo marched off in his uniform this week-end, that left Mrs. Wiltrakis alone in her six room flat. There five stalwart sons and a brother stand in wooden picture frames across the top of a big mahogany piano. There's no more call for her homemade pancakes, the "kugeli," rich in eggs and butter, and baked three hours in the oven, or the heavy beet soup. "But I still have my work," she said. "I must earn my living and take care of my building."

Manages Her Property.

The gray stone apartment building is managed by Mrs. Wiltrakis. Her husband, John, a tailor, bought it with his savings before he died 11 years ago. To get the savings and educate their sons, both husband and wife labored in the tailor shop and cleaned the apartment building at night.

"My boys have always been good boys," says Mrs. Wiltrakis. "They never caused me trouble. I never had to cry for them."

Leo was in high school when his father died. "He worked nights to earn money for his college," his mother says. "He is an engineering graduate from Armour institute and he helped earn his way himself."

The sons in their knee breeches and their first long pants, the sons on their wedding days and at their confirmations, hang in picture frames on the plain brown walls of Mrs. Wiltrakis' parlor. The curtains are fresh and white. There are religious pictures hanging between the military poses of her sons.

"If there is war we must know it is God's will," she says with her husky voice low. "That's all I can say. How can we know who is right and who is wrong?"

Leaves Farm for America.

A long time ago Mrs. Wiltrakis lived on a farm in Lithuania. She worked in the fields bending over the fallen wheat and rye tying it into bundles, In 1896 she came to Boston, worked as housekeeper for her uncle, who was a priest. "Then I got a man of my own," she said, and she came with him to Chicago.

Her brother, George, followed her to Boston, became a priest, and enlisted in the United States army. He was at the front in the Meuse-Argonne drive, at Verdun, San Mihiel, and Chateau Thierry. Since the shrapnel hit his shoulder he has had 18 operations, stayed one time at Hines hospital four months. Once he lost the use of both arms, then partially recovered. He lived in Omaha after the war, was spiritual leader for a parish there, helped his nephews thru college.

"We are Americans," he said before he went back to Arizona last week. "There is nothing for us but the United States flag."

Mrs. Wiltrakis says: "We chose this country to work in because it was a free country. We had nobody to boss us. In Lithuania we had to hide our prayer books under our arms. Only Russian we were allowed to speak."

Old Life Forgotten.

"It is my sons' duty to defend our country," she says. "We have a duty to the American flag. We chose this country. My sons can't even speak Lithuanian very good. The old life is forgotten."

"Of course I worry about my sons; all of them I worry alike," she says. "I am their mother."

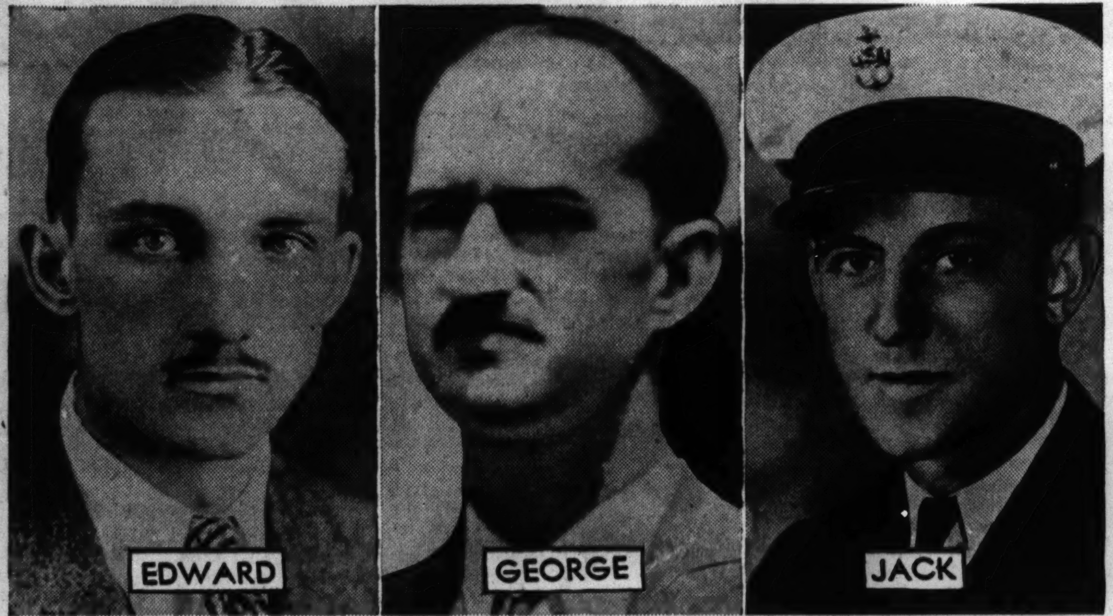
With a deep, warm chuckle Mrs. Wiltrakis will answer the question as to who helped her with her housework: "Ho! Ho!" she says, did I have a maid? Look at my hands." She spreads them out in a proud gesture.

Her arms are strong muscles and her hands are calloused and broad. Her gray bobbed hair is caught down flat at the sides of her cheeks. Today she is stolid about the turn of events that has left her alone.

"I will be here waiting for them," she says. "I will be here when my sons come back."

Sends Four Sons to Armed Services

The call to training camps has emptied the Wiltrakis family home at 4330 Washington boulevard. Left at home alone is Mrs. Elizabeth Wiltrakis, who has four sons in the armed forces. Her fifth and oldest son, Joseph, was a private in training when the armistice was signed for world war I., and he has married and set up his own home. Mrs. Wiltrakis, who was born in Lithuania and came to the United States in 1896, said good-by on Thursday to her youngest son, Lieut. Leo Wiltrakis, the last of the four sons to leave for training. Leo is a second lieutenant in the Illinois National Guard, now the 33d division of the United States army.



The other three sons in training are Lieut. Edward Wiltrakis, a graduate of Armour Institute of Technology. He is an instructor in the engineering corps stationed at Arlington, Va. Edward is 28 years old, worked for the state highway department before he was called. Dr. George Wiltrakis is a graduate of Loyola university and received his M. D. in 1928. He interned at Cook county hospital and was a psychiatrist at Elgin state hospital for eight years. He was assistant superintendent at Dunning, at Alton state hospital, and at Peoria before he was called Feb. 1 to the medical corps at Camp Grant. Another son, Jack, is master mechanic aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga whose last letter Mrs. Wiltrakis received from Seattle, Wash., a month ago. Jack enlisted in the navy in 1918 in the second machinist class.

On Tuesday Mrs. Wiltrakis said her farewell to her brother, Maj. George F. Jonaitis, the soldier uncle of the four men in service. A Catholic priest, Maj. Jonaitis was a chaplain in the United States army during world war I., and was wounded in the Argonne offensive. He has had 18 operations since and must live in Tucson, Ariz., for his health. The oldest son, Joseph, did his training for service during the world war.

Doherty has spent the quarter of a century at the Racine avenue station. His entire policeman's record is 34 years along with 16 years spent on the patrol wagon.

The Dohertys have a son, the Rev. James Doherty Jr., a Catholic priest, and two daughters, Mrs. George Mitchell and Miss Mary Doherty.

KIWANIS PLANS ESSAY CONTEST ON CITIZENSHIP

An essay contest at the two high schools in its territory, Proviso and Trinity, is being conducted by the Forest Park Kiwanis club as part of a state-wide club project. "Citizenship Responsibility—the Price of Liberty" is the title of the essay.

Medal and cup awards will be made at the conclusion of the contest. In order that impartial judging of essays may be given, three organizations of the community have been asked to pass on the essays. These are Forest Park Chamber of Commerce, the American Legion, and the Forest Park Review.

Arthur Dobbeck is chairman of the citizenship committee of the Kiwanis club in charge of the contest that will start April 1 and reach a conclusion April 20. Other members of the committee are Fred Roos, Ben Hoffman, and Harold Hosler.

AUSTIN BANDS TO CREATE ITS OWN PLAYHOUSE

The lights that went out in the old Windsor theater 10 years ago will be turned on again in the new Austin Community theater, 433 North Laramie avenue, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings. Before the cast could present this first play, "The Torch Bearers," by George Kelly, members had to add a floor, seats, build a stage, and paint and clean their theater in addition to learning their lines.

Ken Carrington.

The grand opening this week in the theater is not the real beginning of the enterprise. That took place some months ago when Ken Carrington, an actor who came home from trouping to settle down in Austin, saw the empty show house on Laramie avenue. He told his plan for a community theater to Mrs. Frank Drummond, an Austin clubwoman, and on Nov. 28 a half dozen interested persons met in her home to found the theater association.

Now Has 500 Members.

Today there are 500 members, and the men and women of the cast in the first production have already served as scrubbers, movers, carpenters, painters and budget balancers. The association is not in debt, as the curtains, lights and painting were paid for as the work was done.

When the theater association signed a five year lease on the old theater, it found four square walls and dirt. Lumber was purchased from a second hand yard and some was donated. Plaster board was used to build the stage and the tormentors at the side.

Some one donated a piano and another gave a radio-phonograph combination. Seats were purchased from the Lincoln-Dixie theater in Chicago Heights and a detail was assigned to scrape off the chewing gum plastered on the bottoms, sides, and back of every chair.

All-Austin Talent.

All-Austin talent is being combined for the first production. The sets have been designed by Mrs. Hubert Kampp, wife of the local funeral director. Mrs. Kampp, before her marriage, designed sets for the legitimate stage for Eugenie Leontovitch, Glenn Hunter, and Nazimova.

She organized and operated the Circuit theater, a professional traveling company of which Tyrone Power was an original member. She was one of three American women exhibiters in the International Exhibition of Stage Design.

Mrs. Estelle Carson Jones, an instructor in dramatic arts, is staging the play. Stuart Bohacek has the leading rôle of Ritter. Mrs. Ritter will be played by Helen Straube and Mme. Panpanelli will be played by Lois Polges. Others are George Logan, Ray Hall, Isobel Borushek, Peggy Padgett, Cebart Levine, William A. Graham, and Betty Willis. Mr. Carrington is director.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. Thelma Lucas will meet with the children's division of the Austin Community theater. Mrs. Lucas started her stage career when she was 3 years old and lived two blocks from the Essanay theater of Chicago. She is now married, the mother of two small children, and resides at 5408 Fulton street.

Mrs. Lucas will give her services to the community project. The first two plays in a series of eight will be presented under her direction on April 17, 18, and 19.

Will Teach Children.

The children will be taught singing by Jane Ogden Hunter and will be given dancing instruction by Belden Starr. A Mothers' club is being organized by Mrs. Lucas so the parents can share in making costumes and sets for the children's plays.

Mr. Carrington recently released the spring play bill for the new theater. A cast will present "Goodbye Again" on April 3, 4, and 5. "Crime in the Country" is scheduled for May 1, 2, and 3 and the comedy, "Petticoat Fever," will be presented on May 15, 16, and 17. On March 29 the play "Goodbye Again" will be presented for the soldiers at Fort Sheridan.

Norman Holdsworth is president of the association and Mrs. Drummond is vice president and financial secretary. The carpentry work in the theater was directed by Mr. Drummond, who is in the contracting business.

O. K.'s PLOWING UP PARKS.

I read about the Men's Garden clubs wanting everybody to plant gardens and I don't think it's any of their business. If it becomes necessary to plow up parks and playgrounds to grow fresh vegetables, then we will have to do it. I don't see what good a lawn does, anyway. More people could eat if we didn't waste all that space on parkways and lawns.

Looking at pretty landscaping doesn't do anybody any good when he's hungry. I live in the city where there are no lawns and trees and I get along.

Mr. Roosevelt hasn't told us to plow up the parks yet but when he thinks it's necessary I'm going to be right there with my plow. Don't anybody tell me we need the parks and playgrounds either.

A CITY DWELLER.

LAUDS DEFENSE GARDENS.

That plan for defense gardens as outlined by the Men's Garden Clubs of America is excellent. We should bow in thanks to men with enough foresight to protect our lawns, gardens, and parks from the hysteria that arises from people unthinking enough to believe in plowing everything under.

There is one object in having defense gardens which the Men's Garden clubs might have overlooked. If every man who thinks we might be invaded by Hitler were given a spade and a package of seeds he might sweat such nonsense out of his system. Perhaps while these men are pruning a rose bush or weeding a tomato patch they might come to know that the Hitler is coming propagandists are really the rich international bankers who would protect their foreign gains with the blood of your sons.

I don't know of any better way to become rational than to stand in a garden and see how beautiful and mysterious is a living thing.

SWIM OR SINK.

As a parent I have finally decided that my daughter will have to succeed or fail, socially, without any further interference from me. I did not always hold to this opinion. I felt that teachers, especially those given charge of school entertainments or as supervisors of parties and dances could, by a little tact, give the less forward a better chance. Now, I realize it is up to the individual and that there is little, after all, that the teachers can do about it.

In my previous resentments, I contended that teachers were inclined to form snap judgments, and that the favoritisms were intentional and cruel. But if there is no surface registering of talent or of a pleasing personality, why should a busy teacher be blamed?

All homage, just the same, to the teacher who discovers hidden talents or brings out the highest possibilities in a shy personality.

NIGHT OF MUSIC 3 WAY FETE AT MARSHALL HIGH

Three Music Groups to Offer Program.

Successful alumni, faculty members and Raymond A. White, the retiring assistant principal, will be fêted Wednesday evening at a night of music to be presented by the symphony orchestra, the intermediate band and the concert band of Marshall High school. The triple feature program will be given in the Marshall auditorium, Adams street and Kedzie avenue.

Tribute will be paid thru Beethoven overtures and Boccalari marches to Mr. White, who this semester is ending 37 years at Marshall as assistant principal, and to Mrs. Lorraine Sheridan, a Marshall music teacher, who was transferred on Feb. 24 to the bureau of curriculum of the board of education.

Alumni to be Guests.

Special guests will be the alumni of Marshall who are now playing in music organizations. They are Edward Gradman and Oscar Chausow, violinists with the Chicago Symphony orchestra; Abraham Luboff, string bass with the Indianapolis Symphony; Marjorie Ryan, cellist, and Anne Brooks, bassoon player with the Chicago Woman's Symphony; Harry Wogman, cellist with the Illinois Symphony; Robert Kite, University of Illinois band, and Mathew Ellenhorn, Northwestern university band.

Miss Anne Brooks and Albert Pranno, Marshall alumni now teaching in the Chicago public schools, have also been invited.

There will be a row of seats reserved for married couples whose romances had their beginnings in the classrooms of Marshall High. They are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tabachnick, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Greenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Shapiro, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schilling, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Krasny.

29 Win Recognition.

Twenty-nine of the members of the three Marshall music organizations won recognition in the recent instrumental solo contests held by the board of education.

The address of welcome will be given by George A. Beers, Marshall principal. Dina Blachman will play a piano solo in the first part of the program, the first movement of Grieg's Concerto in A minor. Merle J. Isaac, conductor, and Ralph C. Lewis, associate conductor, will present the symphony orchestra in four selections.

Clifford P. Lillya, conductor of the intermediate band, has selected a march, tone picture and novelty for his share in the concert. The concert band will be directed by Lillya in six selections.

22 Descendants

Eight children and 14 grandchildren attended the 9 o'clock mass at St. Hedwig's church at which Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Franzak, 1936 North Hoyne avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently. The couple have been members of this parish for the last 49 years.

HINSDALE HIGH CHOIR WILL SING 'THE GONDOLIERS'

"The Gondoliers," comedy opera in two acts, will be presented by the chorus and a cappella choir of Hinsdale High school Thursday and Friday nights under the direction of Ina Mae Sanders. J. L. Buckborough will direct the orchestra for the musical production dealing with a mythical island kingdom in the period of 1750.

According to Miss Sanders, "The Gondoliers," first heard in London in 1889, is ore difficult to produce than were the three previous light operas. Scenery providing for the Venice canal, the duke's palace, and the throne scene is being made by members of the school art department under the direction of Miss Martha Christensen.

A FLOOD OF FAN PHOTOS DELUGES TOM, DICK, HARRY

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tom, Dick, and Harry have started something. They have reversed the old radio custom of sending pictures to listeners. Instead, they have invited fans to send them their photos to W-G-N.

The result is an avalanche of photos, ranging from daguerrotypes to modern miniature negatives. While women's pictures are in the majority, there are specimens of bald headed men, and babies, too, in their ever expanding collection.

For years Tom, Dick, and Harry—who are Bud Vandover, Marlin Hurt, and Gordon Vandover, have been wondering what radio listeners look like. It is a curiosity that consumes many a man before the microphone. Tom, Dick, and Harry for years had been itching to find out. But they never did anything to solve the riddle.

It's All an Accident.

They went on year after year, carrying about their mental pictures of admirers, forever uncertain as to their accuracy. It gave them a feeling of frustration, ultimately. But they did nothing.

Then, one day they rescued themselves from the horns of this dilemma, quite accidentally. After romping thru one of their ad-libbed sessions on the air they concluded it with an offer to send pictures of themselves to all who requested them.

Strictly as a gag Tom exclaimed to Announcer Ed Allen: "Why not have them send in their pictures for a change? We certainly would like to see what they look like."

They laughed and forgot about it. The public, however, took the suggestion seriously. The following day a hundred pictures arrived. They have been rolling in ever since.

A Pleasure and a Shock.

These pictures have been a pleasure and inspiration in some instances; a shock in others. One girl sent a folder containing six pictures of herself revealing the various emotions inspired by listening to the comedians—pleasure, perplexity, pain, and so on.

There was a note of comedy in many of the letters. One chap sent a picture of a snow covered cabin. He explained:

Another letter [with a picture] which the boys treasure, states: "I have always been considered a prize dope. So, running true to form, I am asking for your photo. Having seen 'Frankenstein,' 'Dracula,' and 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' my appetite for horror pictures will not be satisfied until I see yours."

Animals Are Fans.

Still another fan sent in pictures of a dog, two ducks and a goat. All, she said, were inveterate followers of the Tom, Dick, and Harry clambakes.

A LOVE CRISIS APPROACHES IN PAINTED DREAMS

An emotional crisis is approaching in the lives of two principal characters in "Painted Dreams," dramatic serial which is heard over W-G-N Monday thru Friday at 1:15 p. m. The marriage of Joyce and Bill Riley is dangerously close to a breakup because another woman has entered Bill's life. Bill is torn between two loves—his wife's and that of Sylvia Grey, a simple, sweet schoolteacher he met by chance a few months ago. Kay Chase, the author of "Painted Dreams," plays the rôle of Joyce Riley; Constance Crowder is Mother Moynihan; Pat Murphy depicts Bill Riley, and Betty Ruth Smith does the Sylvia Grey part.

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. For a FREE 60 cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's, send your name and address to ... Monticello, Ill., by Mar. 22, 1941.

Musical Drama to Feature Chicagoland Hour.

The Chicagoland hour will give a salute to New York from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network. A special production — "Ode to New York"—will be the highlight of this program featuring the W-G-N players, concert orchestra, and chorus, and Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, as soloist.

Members of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and their friends will be guests in the W-G-N audience studio.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

By use of dramatic sequences, unique sound effects and impressionistic music by the orchestra and ensemble, the "Ode to New York" will bring the pulse beats of that mighty metropolis to a coast-to-coast radio audience.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening. Henry Weber, conducting the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, will present "Melting Pot Medley," with Attilio Baggiore as soloist.

Baggiore to Sing Aria.

Weber and the orchestra also will feature Dvorak's "Carnival Overture."

PAT ROONEY IS GUEST ON WHAT'S YOUR IDEA? HOUR

Pat Rooney, third generation member of the famous first family of vaudeville, will be the guest on What's Your Idea? at 5:30 p. m. today over WMAQ-NBC. Rooney, whose father and grandfather were troupers before him, will bring his Irish patter and his soft shoe tap dance to the program on the eve of St. Patrick's day.

Ted Fio Rito's orchestra will feature the "Kerry Dance" and "Wearin' of the Green." Vocalist Jackie Heller will sing "Kathleen Mavourneen." Candy Candido will bring his three voices into play in the new novelty song, "Alexander the Swoose." Three ideas for radio programs submitted by the radio audience will be presented in abridged form during the half hour broadcast.

BLIND TO GIVE REVUE ON HOUR OF OPPORTUNITY

A 60 minute variety revue, presented entirely by blind people, will be the feature of the Hour of Opportunity amateur program on WCFL at 8 tonight. Talented persons who have lost their sight have been gathered from all sections of Chicagoland thru the efforts of the Blind Service association and its president and founder, Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein.

Geraldine Lawhorn will offer a dramatic reading of her own composition. Miss Lawhorn is blind and deaf. William Grow, despite his handicap, has developed an unusual memory, thru which he can tell the temperature and weather of any day in the past 50 years. Buddy Horrell will play "Marie" and "I Never Knew" on the marimba.

NEW TRIER HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON CITIZENS HOUR

New Trier High school, the 3 million dollar institution serving the four North Shore communities of Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday when the school will be featured on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N.

Six hundred students led by their play-acting, mountain-climbing principal, Matthew P. Gaffney, will be on hand for the broadcast. Mr. Gaffney will speak briefly. He will be introduced by Philip Maxwell, member of the Tribune's editorial staff, who plays the rôle of the principal and is master of ceremonies.

The choir will sing four numbers, including two school songs written by teachers of New Trier. "Here's to Our Team," was written by Samuel Vernon, general science teacher, and the lyrics of the second school song, sung to the tune of "Old Crusader" were written by Frederick Kahler, dean of boys.

Mr. Maxwell will name three more Chicagoland students to the program's roll of honor. They are George William Byers of Lafayette, Ind.; John Jones of Milwaukee, Wis., and David Parson of Dubuque, Ia.

WAA-MU PREVIEW TO BE BROADCAST ON CHICAGO HOUR

Jessel to Be Master of Ceremonies.

A preview of the 13th annual "Waa-Mu" show of Northwestern university will be broadcast on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 next Thursday evening. This year's Waa-Mu show is titled "Wait a Minute." It is student written and student enacted.

Music and lyrics are by Lloyd B. Norlin, a senior, who wrote last year's show also. Joe W. Miller is the director. The show will open at Scott hall on the campus in Evanston on Tuesday, March 25, and will continue each evening thru March 29.

Jessels on Show.

Along with the presentation of hit songs from the show In Chicago Tonight will feature the comedy and songs of George Jessel, who is appearing at the State-Lake theater. Jessel, as master of ceremonies, will introduce Jack Haskell and Louise Yates, University students, who will sing songs from the campus production.

The preview will open with the show's prolog, a scene in the White House. The W-G-N chorus will sing the title tune, "Wait a Minute" and accompany the student principals in the other songs.

Songs to be heard include "Where Do We Live?," "Where Was I?," "On the Tip of My Tongue," and "Let's Call It a Day."

Alumni to Listen In.

Many faculty members, alumni, and students will be among the studio audience. Alumni will be tuned in from coast to coast.

This is the second campus production to be aired on In Chicago Tonight. Recently the University of Chicago Mirror Revue was presented.

1,000 CATHOLIC YOUTHS TO GIVE MUSIC FESTIVAL

A massed chorus of 800 voices, a concert band of 100 pieces, and a symphony orchestra of 100 pieces will take part in the second annual music festival to be presented by the Catholic Music Educators association in the Civic Opera house, Friday afternoon and next Sunday night.

Members of the orchestra have been selected from St. Mary's, St. Martin, Immaculata, Aquinas, Holy Family, Trinity, Loretto, St. Casimer, De La Salle, De Paul, St. Rita, Leo, Mt. Carmel, St. Scholastica, and Academy of Our Lady schools. Adam P. Lesinsky will direct.

David Nyvall Jr., will direct the all girls' chorus made up of singers from St. Casimir academy, Providence High, Immaculata, Immaculate Conception of Elmhurst, Academy of Our Lady, and Resurrection, Loretto, Lourdes, Siena, St. Mary's, St. Michael, and St. Scholastica schools.

Boys and girls who make up the All-Catholic High School band directed by Clifford Lillya come from De La Salle, Mt. Carmel, St. Michael, Leo, St. Rita, Holy Family, Immaculata, Academy of Our Lady, Aquinas, Fenwick, St. Mel, De Paul, St. Casimir, Loretto, and Mercy schools.

Purpose of the festival, according to the Rev. Roderick Hurley, president of the association, is to demonstrate what is being done in Catholic high schools in the study of music.

In Radio Debut

Miss Lauretta Schultz, 214 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, will sing "Let's Call It a Day," in Northwestern university's Waa-Mu show preview at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening on the W-G-N In Chicago Tonight broadcast. The Waa-Mu show, "Wait a Minute," will be presented in Scott hall on March 25, 26, 27, 28, and 29.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 17.

Mulching on perennial borders should be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Take the material that is raked off and use it as the beginning of a compost heap; keep adding to it thruout the season. This material can be used later for summer mulching, a practice that is invaluable where the summer is as hot as it is in the middle west.

When spraying for scale on the shrubs see that each scale is covered. Use a dormant or oil spray. It can be obtained ready to use, except for adding water. Spray snowballs with the same material.

Tuesday, March 18.

Be sure the garden tools are dependable and sturdy. Keep the spade bright and sharp; never let it stand over night without cleaning, and a good way is to wash it off and then wipe it with an oiled rag. Oil the lawnmower and paint all parts that should be painted.

Wednesday, March 19.

Examine cellar plants or those that are in storage to see if they are in good condition. Oleanders, century plants, poinsettias, and others will soon need attention. Apartment house gardeners will find a number of plants suitable for growing in water. Among these are the sweet potato vine. Be sure to get a potato that is not kiln dried, or the buds will be destroyed. Place a good sized potato in a jar of water and watch results.

Thursday, March 20.

In selecting annuals choose the rust-proof snapdragons and the wilt-resistant class of asters. The orange flare cosmos is a delightful flower and the rosemond larkspurs are among the best.

New varieties of marigolds furnish excellent material for the garden. These include guinea gold, yellow supreme, and Dixie sunshine. The nasturtium golden gleam is good, and the new doubles offer something different.

Friday, March 21.

Apply the commercial, complete plant food to the lawn. An early application at the rate of four pounds to each 100 square feet of area will give the grass a heavy growth. It is not necessary to water in the food if done at this time.

Saturday, March 22.

Keep pots of bulbous plants well watered. Grow a few hardy lilies in the borders. Lilies will grow most anywhere, but they do best when grown with a ground cover which keeps shade about their base. A leaf-mold soil, well drained, is suitable for all kinds.

SPACIOUS LIVING ROOM IS FOCAL POINT IN HOME

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Good houses built in the United States in the last few years have a certain distinguishing quality derived from American taste, logic, and ingenuity.

The 1940 home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale, illustrates this point. It is modern, efficient, enduring, compact, and possessed of that indefinable thing called charm. Is there much more a home owner, investing in a house to suit his family's needs, can ask?

The architects, Zook & Taylor, 140 South Dearborn street, took into consideration the various activities and habits of the family and designed the home from the standpoint of used areas as well as rooms. Special attention was given to wall and roof textures and there are many points about the home which the builder of a six room home will appreciate.

Stone and Wood Shingles.

It is an English cottage type dwelling with lannon stone and wood effectively combined on the exterior. The steep roofs are of wood shingles and the home stands on a lot which is 90 feet by 150 feet.

The house has a first floor plan which includes a very livable, attractive library. Two walls of this room are of casement windows and there is a stunning plank flooring pegged with butterflies. The paneled walls with wide horizontal boards of graduated widths which narrow toward the ceiling, are finished in a grayish white; a "driftwood" treatment of unusual charm. The ceiling is plastered.

30 Foot Living Room.

The living room, which is 30 feet long, has a most arresting stone fireplace which reaches to the ceiling. There also is a great story and a half studio bay window and a stained beam ceiling. The walls are plastered in sand finish and the floor is plank, like the library. The dining room, which is two steps down, also has plastered walls and beamed ceiling. Here there are large corner windows which open the room to an abundance of sunlight.

Again there are corner windows in the bathroom, with its wall of ceramic tile, a built-in square tub, and corner built-in dressing case.

One large bedroom on the second floor, 11x17 feet, has one wall entirely of windows, while the second bedroom, 12x13 feet, has large corner windows.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB WILL HEAR DR. F. B. SNYDER

Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will make his first appearance before the Chicago Sunday evening club at 8 o'clock this evening in Orchestra hall. His address will be "Young America Goes to College."

Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder.

For 30 years Dr. Snyder has been connected with the university as vice president and dean of the faculties and is now a teacher of English. Believing in education as one of the basic resources in our national defense, he said at the time of his inauguration that the arch foes of humanity are not Hitler and Stalin, nor Naziism nor Communism, but sin and ignorance.

A choir of 125 voices under the direction of Edgar Nelson will provide music for the service.

DRAFT APPEAL RULINGS VARY AS TO BOARDS

Similar Cases Draw Different Verdicts.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Decisions in army draft appeal cases differ widely, both because of the imperfections of the selective service act and regulations and by reason of the wide latitude given appeal board members.

William H. King Jr., administrator for the eight draft boards of appeal in Cook county, called attention last week to some of the defects and omissions in rules, and cited interesting cases that give an insight into the working of these review bodies.

One reason there is no unanimity among appeal board members in dependency cases, the administrator said, is that the draft act, passed by congress, and the draft regulations formulated by the national draft board have different definitions for dependents. Some appeal boards follow the act literally, while those more liberally inclined accept the language of the regulations.

Term Loosely Used.

It is a rule that any registrant may appeal from a Class 1 classification, but he must do so within five days after he is classified. However, there is the case of a man who accepted Class 1 without appeal, and whose father afterward died, leaving the selectee with his mother as a dependent. At any time before induction he may ask his local board to reclassify him in a dependency class. If the local board refuses because of the five day appeal provision, he is not entitled to carry his case to the appeal board.

Aim to Correct Fault.

There have been other similar cases, and efforts are now afoot to correct this fault in the regulations, the administrator indicated. Here are a few actual cases selected from the appeal board files by Mr. King to show how local and appeal boards function:

Registrant A, 25 years old, married last June and childless, asked dependency deferment, but his local board placed him in Class 1 A. He was earning $17 a week and his wife earned $21 a week. The couple paid $25 a month rent and had a few bills outstanding.

The registrant appealed. The local board, in its statement, held that if the husband were drafted it would eliminate his living expenses from the family scene, and with the contribution he could make from his service pay the home could be maintained at its existing standard. The appeal was therefore denied.

Registrant B, 22 years old and married last June, earned $25 a week and his wife $16. The couple lived with her mother. Registrant claimed dependency but his local board, holding the young people had no established home to surrender, placed him in Class 1 A, so he appealed. The appeal was denied.

Appeal Is Granted.

Registrant C, 25 years old, made $18.50 a week and his wife $16 additional. They had an apartment lease with two years to run. The local board set forth in its statement that it had directed 1 A classification, "but not without some misgivings."

The appeal board pointed out that regulations say that in dependency cases any doubt must be resolved in favor of the registrant, and granted the appellant Class 3 A deferment.

Registrant D earned $31 a week and his wife made $1,040 last year. They were paying $22 a month rent. The registrant, who had served two years in the army air corps [not enough to claim deferment], asked the appeal board to shift him from 1 A to 3 A. The board held that because the wife's parents were separated she had no home to return to if her own were dissolved, and granted the appeal.

Government Loses Case.

Registrant E, 29 years old, and his wife, 28, were married in 1935. He was earning $45 a week and his wife earned $1,200 last year. The local board gave the registrant dependency deferment, but the government appeal agent, whose function it is to look after the interests of both registrants and the government, appealed for 1 A classification. The appeal was denied and the registrant remained in Class 3 A.

Registrant F, 33 years old, and married since early 1939, was earning $45 a week and his wife made $2,075 last year, largely thru overtime work. They were paying $55 a month rent. The local board placed the registrant in 1 A, but the appeal board held the couple should be permitted to keep their home intact and granted the appeal.

Registrant G, also 33 years old, earned $27.50 a week, and his wife, to whom he was married in 1938, made $1,675 last year. Most of her money was being used to pay off a $3,000 balance on their home, in which they held an equity of about $1,000. In the winter months her parents lived with them. The appeal board granted deferment from 1 A to 3 A.

May Be Queen of Carnival

Miss Catherine Miller, 6628 South Sacramento avenue, a Mundelein college student, is a southwest side candidate for queen at the ninth annual Carnival of Champions at Loyola university on April 2. Queens will be chosen to represent Mundelein and Rosary colleges at the carnival, at which championships will be decided in intramural basketball, boxing, handball, pool, bowling, table tennis, track, and swimming competition.

DRAFTEES FIND RAIN AND COLD SHOULDERS ARE NOT LIKE HOME

Eight southwest side draftees "eat well, sleep well, and drill with pleasure" at the army's Hamilton field, near San Francisco, but have found California's much publicized weather and girls to be a disappointment. This was learned last week by Draft Board No. 102, at 4624 Emerald avenue, in a letter it received from the boys.

The letter, written by Charles Orlowski, who has been made an acting corporal, described the routine followed by the Chicago boys since their arrival in California last month, then added: "Incidentally, the girls out here are not as pretty and sociable as our own girls back home." This discovery, added to the fact that "it has been raining here almost every second day since our arrival," made California "a little disappointing."

Other signers of the letter were Clifford Norman, Casimir Karnia, Anthony Kurzydlo, George Juerke, Frank Kolmos, Julian Waskiewicz, and Henry Porgozelski.

POETRY CONTEST FIRST HONORS GO TO TWO GIRLS

First honors in a poetry contest sponsored by the Writers' club at St. Xavier college, 4928 Cottage Grove avenue, were shared recently by Lucille Gianfrancisco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gianfrancisco, 1643 West Marquette road, a freshman, and Rosemary Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ragnar C. Nelson, Park Ridge, a senior. Honorable mentions were given to Miss Gianfrancisco, to Betty Kuenster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Kuenster, 8212 Aberdeen street, a junior, and to Rita Gross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gross, 8220 Rhodes avenue, a freshman.

Twins to Preside

Miss Helen (left) and Miss Marjorie Roach, twin members of the Blue Island Junior Woman's club and co-chairmen of the Indian welfare department, will preside at the club's meeting Tuesday evening. They have arranged for Miss Marion Gridley, writer and lecturer, to speak on "Indian Legends of American Scenes."

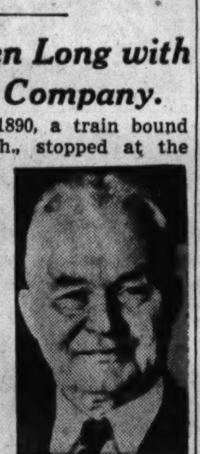
W. M'Laren Long with Pullman Company.

On March 22, 1890, a train bound for Seattle, Wash., stopped at the Kensington station on Chicago's far south side. Curiously, 17 year old Bill McLaren looked out of the dusty window at a thriving village of swept streets, neat lawns, and new brick cottages. At once he was drawn by the freshness and vigor of the place.



William McLaren.

Young Mill McLaren rose and shook hands with the friend with whom he was journeying from his home in Ontario, Canada, to Seattle. He said good-by and got off the train. Wandering thru the streets he discovered that the rapidly growing hamlet was called Pullman. The next day he got a job in the store department of the Pullman company and it was a great many years before he saw his friend again.

New Personnel Manager.

Now, after 51 years as an employé, William McLaren is personnel manager of the company, director of the Pullman Trust and Savings bank, and secretary of the pension fund. As personnel manager he heads 12,000 Pullman-Standard employés in Hammond, Michigan City, Butler, Pa.; Worcester, Mass., and Bessemer, Ala., besides Chicago.

In that time also Mr. McLaren has supplied the middle link in a family which boasts five generations of Pullman employés. His wife's grandfather, Adam Nepher, was one of the first men to work in the company's carpenter shops; her father, Harry Nepher, worked for the company for 40 years; their son, William Jr., an inspector, has been employed for 24 years, and their grandson, William III., started his term of service six months ago. Mrs. McLaren herself was working for the company when she met her future husband. Together the family totals 126 years of service.

Shakes Hands with 760.

Money collected in the drive will be used to help maintain the Chicago council's central office, where approximately 900 volunteer leaders are trained to direct the affairs of 412 Chicago Girl Scout troops.

Could Have More Troops.

The number of troops in Chicago could be greatly increased if trained leaders were available, Scout executives say. At present there are 67 troops with a membership of 1,459 Girl Scouts in the southwest area.

The finance drive follows the national Girl Scout 29th birthday week, during which all troops in the district held open house meetings. A goal of $10,000 has been set in the city-wide campaign.

OPENING GUNS TURNED LOOSE BY CANDIDATES

Villages and Cities Ballot April 15.

Municipal bond issues, efforts to share in the national defense boom, police problems, and liquor control became subjects of heated debate in a score of southwest cities and villages last week as filing closed and candidates fired opening guns in their campaigns for election on April 15.

With a few exceptions, the municipalities incorporated as cities will elect a mayor, city clerk, city treasurer, police magistrate, and aldermen, and those incorporated as villages will elect a president, clerk, and three trustees. Last Wednesday was the deadline for filing nominating petitions and caucus indorsed tickets.

Unopposed tickets were filed in several villages. In cities under the commission form of government, including Harvey, Chicago Heights, and Joliet, the next municipal elections will be held in 1943.

Three Seek Mayoralty.

In Blue Island, one of the largest southwest suburban cities, three hats had been tossed into the mayoralty ring when filing closed. The candidates are Mayor John M. Hart, a druggist who has held the office for four years; Fred A. Rice, a retired postal clerk who served as mayor from 1935 to 1937, and Thomas J. Costello, a railroad conductor who tried unsuccessfully for a seat in the state assembly in his last campaign.

Running with Mayor Hart on the Progressive ticket and standing on his "economy platform," are Richard B. Seyfarth, incumbent police magistrate; Louis F. Schwartz, incumbent and unopposed city clerk and Edward A. Kordewick, candiate for city treasurer.

With Rice on the Better Blue Island party slate are J. Sanger Beedy, candidate for police magistrate, and Robert H. Harmon, candidate for city treasurer. Costello is running as an independent. Fourteen candidates are seeking seven city council posts.

In Homewood the village president, Fred H. Borgwardt, is asking reëlection on a new ticket—that of the Progressive party. Other Progressive candidates are Arthur C. Johnson, for clerk, and Joseph D. Rapp, David G. Fraser Sr., and Elmer Norlander, for the three vacant trustee positions.

Opposing this group is a Citizens' ticket composed of Russell H. Anderson, for president, Stewart Reid, incumbent village clerk, and Henry B. Einbecker, Alfred R. Erdman, and Joseph R. Swingle. Carl R. Armitage and Charles E. Ball, both independents, are also candidates for clerk.

Lively Village Fight.

With three full tickets in the running, Evergreen Park was promised the liveliest village campaign. President William Conrad, who has held office for the last six years, is running with Edward Streit, incumbent village clerk, and Harold Guy, Ray Parker, and Charles Wood, trustee candidates, on the Progressive ticket.

Opposing candidates on the Independent Citizens' ticket are John J. Dunne, a real estate dealer running for president; George Harenderg, for clerk, and Algot Nelson, George Devries, and Leroy Howatt, for trusteeships.

The third Evergreen Park ticket, that of the United Citizens' party, is headed by Peter G. Schultz, an attorney. Running with him are Joseph C. Atherton, for clerk, and Millard H. Wessel, George T. Cook, and Robert Millard, for trustee.

New Party in Race.

In Oak Lawn the election contest will be between a veteran Citizens' Progressive ticket and a newly organized Better Government party. Heading the Citizens' Progressive slate are Albert H. Brandt, president for the last six years; Albert J. Smutney, clerk for the last seven years, and Frank A. Harnew, police magistrate for the last eight years. Harnew is unopposed. Trustee candidates on this ticket are Stephen Hickey, Walter C. Kaup, and Walter J. Reed.

Better Government party candidates are Harry Confer, a WPA foreman running for president; Lawrence Minnich, for clerk, and William Brunn, Carl W. Larson, and George Schreader, for trustee.

Another veteran candidate, Frederick R. Snyder, village president for the last nine years, is seeking reëlection in Markham. His running mates on the People's Community ticket are Paul M. Hatch, incumbent clerk; David B. Johnston, for police magistrate, and Glenn Kiner, Melvin Kernkamp, and Charles Van Wie, for trustee. Opposing candidates, on the Home Owners' ticket are Earl Johnson, for president; George Collins, for clerk; Frank Kissell, for police magistrate, and Harry Blisk, William Olsen, and Arthur North, for trustee.

Independents in the Markham contest are E. Moran Rowe, for president; Reginald Germany and James Rogers, for trustee, and Charles R. Fross, for police magistrate.

Rumor Is Spiked.

Rumors of a third party in the Summit village election were spiked, as filing closed, by William Altier, the rumored third party candidate for village president. Opposing can-

IS CHURCH A RETREAT?

Last week my wife and I, who are not regular churchgoers, wanted to go to church for a spiritual uplift and a retreat from the workaday world. The preacher at the church we went to, which I shall not name here, talked about the threat of Fascism and war. He talked more about Hitler and Mussolini and Roosevelt than he did about God. When my wife and I got home we both remarked that going to church for that kind of "sermon" was almost as bad as sitting home and listening to war commentators on the radio.

That afternoon we went riding and looked at the sermon topics advertised outside most of the churches in Englewood. Every one that we saw was talking Hitler, London bombings, the war in Africa, and the war in Europe.

If a spiritual revival is the only thing that is going to save the world, how are we going to have that revival—by talking about dictators instead of God?

QUESTIONS NEED OF BRIDGE.

As a motorist who has traveled across the Canal street bridge between 18th street and Cermak road for a number of years, I want to ask why the city has decided—at this time—to destroy the present bridge, reroute traffic for a year or more, and pour $1,275,000 into a new bridge. I suppose we are supposed to congratulate the city council for not spending $150,000 on a temporary bridge while building the new one, but personally I don't see any cause for congratulations. Why didn't they put the money into some project that will really relieve congestion. I have always been able to negotiate the present bridge successfully and have not noticed any delay that would warrant the spending of $1,250,000. The only delays have been caused by truck traffic—and now there will be more of them on Canal street.

WHO'S GOING TO FARM?

If I understand your recent story correctly, somebody is all wrong in his ideas on national defense. The story says that young Bloom township farmers are being trained as machinists—so that they can do their part in national defense. What I want to know is who is going to train young Chicago machinists to become farmers? If I remember rightly, we had a great shortage of farmers in the last war.

BLOOM FARMER.

S. WEST TOWNS PREPARING FOR APRIL ELECTION

Candidates Fire First Guns in Campaign.

didates in the two-way race are Ellis H. Wilson and William Raddatz, asking reëlection as president and clerk on the People's party ticket, and Leo F. Kennedy and Edward J. Kirk, running for the same positions on the Progressive ticket.

Candidates for the three trustee posts in Summit are Roy Jones, Frank Kromroy, and Leopold Roneykowski, People's party; and Lester Jones, John J. Vukovich, and William Szarabajka, Progressive party.

Major issue in the Summit campaign is a recent purge of the village police department, which resulted in the suspension or discharge of seven policemen, allegedly for political disloyalty. Police and liquor control problems also gave promise of becoming campaign issues in Dixmoor, scene of a speed trap scandal, Hazelcrest, and other southwest communities.

Plan to Take Credit.

In Oak Lawn, where the village population has doubled in four years; Evergreen Park, where 750 homes have been built in the last three years, and Bedford Park, which recently annexed a part of the Clearing industrial district, indications were that the incumbents would claim partial credit for their villages' growth and "defense prosperity."

Residents of most of the villages will participate in township elections on April 1 before going to the polls to elect municipal officials.

The Alumnae association of St. Louis academy will hold a day of recollection for its members, starting this morning with a mass in the chapel of the school, 11715 South State street. Miss Helen Housler is chairman. The Rev. Walter E. Croarkin will speak.

HOUSING SURVEY SHOWS 3 AREAS SUBSTANDARD

Disease and Delinquency Above City Average.

Housing conditions and their effect upon community life in three south and southwest side communities were described last week in new reports of the land use survey being made by the Chicago Plan commission. The survey reports, projected as bases for city planning, have now covered 46 out of the 75 neighborhoods into which the city was divided for purposes of the study.

In the three neighborhoods studied—Douglas, Grand boulevard, and New City—housing conditions, average rentals, and property values were found to be below all city averages. The effect of substandard conditions was reflected in infant mortality rates well above the city average and a greater prevalence of disease and juvenile delinquency in the three areas than in the city as a whole.

Boundaries of Areas.

The Douglas and Grand boulevard districts [designated by the numbers 1 and 2, respectively, in the accompanying statistical table] comprise most of the area extending east from the New York Central railroad tracks to the parallel of Cottage Grove avenue, between 26th street and Hyde Park boulevard. The Douglas neighborhood is occupied by 94.2 per cent Negroes and the Grand boulevard neighborhood by 98.2 per cent Negroes.

The New City area [designated by the number 3] is bounded roughly by Pershing road on the north, an extension of Stewart avenue on the east, Garfield boulevard on the south, and Western avenue on the west. This area, which includes the stockyards and part of the central manufacturing district, is inhabited by 98.8 per cent whites.

Of the three areas the greatest need for rehabilitation was found in the Douglas neighborhood by the plan commission survey. The median age of the buildings there was computed at 52 years, as compared to 50 years for the Grand boulevard area and 47 years for the New City area. The median age for buildings thruout the city is 35 years.

Much Repairing Needed.

Where 92.1 per cent of buildings thruout the city are in "good condition," less than half the buildings in the Douglas neighborhood—48 per cent—were given that rating. Twenty-one blocks were found in such condition that every building needed major repairs or replacement.

Other striking contrasts between the Douglas and Grand boulevard areas and the city averages were seen. Where 84.7 per cent of Chicago dwelling units have private toilet facilities, only 58.4 per cent of those in Douglas and 57.8 per cent of those in Grand boulevard are so equipped. In these areas approximately 8 per cent of the dwelling units are owner occupied, as compared to 26.2 per cent for the entire city.

In New City 31.9 per cent of the dwelling units are owner occupied and 62.6 per cent have private toilet facilities. Despite better facilities and the fact that nearly 91 per cent of the New City buildings were rated in good condition, New City was found to have the lowest average monthly rental figure, $18.70. The average monthly rental for Douglas was computed at $22.74 and for Grand boulevard at $29.81. The city average is $33.93 per month.

CENSUS PROVES EVANSTON IS A RELIGIOUS CITY

Evanston's reputation as the city of churches and church people is upheld by the first successful religious census ever taken of the population of Evanston. Figures released this week show that 73.3 per cent of the population, estimated at 68,000, claim affiliation with some religious organization. The figure for the nation is less than 50 per cent.

Dr. R. L. Logan. [Eleanor Burkart Photo.]

A summary shows that 49.3 per cent are Protestants, 19.3 per cent are Catholics, 8.4 per cent attend Negro churches, .5 per cent are Jewish, and 4.7 per cent are Christian Scientists. Evanston is not, as one might think, a children's town. There are 2.56 times as many adults as children, altho the ratio varies from five adults to one child in the 1st ward, composed largely of apartments and hotels, to 1.9 adults per child in the 6th ward, which is mainly residential.

Same in Each Group.

The proportion of children in the families of each religion group is approximately the same. The ratio of adults to children is 2.6 to one among the Protestants, 2.3 to one among the Catholics, 2.6 to one among the Negroes, and 2.9 to one among the Jews.

The majority of the Protestants are either Presbyterians, Methodists, or Episcopalians and the local churches in these groups have an equal number of members. Residents belonging to a church in Chicago or some other suburb include 1,404 Protestants and 354 Catholics.

Only .6 per cent claim interest in "miscellaneous sects." The census takers found one atheist and one Confucius follower. A small group was listed as the "Black Stockings" because the unique characteristic to be found was that all the women wear black cotton stockings.

Also among the 412 persons listed under miscellaneous sects are Jehovah's Witnessess, Latter Day Saints, Mormons, Adventists, Salvation Army members, Baha'ists, Buddhists, Plymouth Brethren, Unitarians, Swedenborgians and members of Gospel Hall, the Scripture league and the Assembly of God.

Most Willingly Answer.

Less than 1 per cent of the people refused to give information to the more than 600 volunteer workers who canvassed the city by wards. Only 9.5 per cent of the population was not interviewed, points out Dr. Robert Lee Logan of Northminster Presbyterian church, who supervised the compilation of the material.

The suggestion for a census was made last fall when several pastors wanted to canvass their own wards. It was decided finally to take a citywide census by wards and the Rev. Frederic E. Pamp of Mission Covenant church was appointed chairman.

CHURCH ORCHESTRA, CHOIR GIVE CONCERT ON THURSDAY EVENING

Music by both modern and classical composers will be featured at the annual spring concert to be given by the choir and orchestra of the First Methodist church of Chicago Heights at 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening. The choir, under the direction of Arthur Lambrecht, will sing selections ranging from a Stephen Foster medley to Gounod's "Sanctus" from St. Cecelia's mass.

Arthur Lambrecht.

Other selections on the program include an organ solo of Cesar Franck's "B Minor Chorale" by Miss Lillian Collins, church organist, and renditions of the "Grieg Suite," and Tschaikowsky's "Andante" by the orchestra, under the direction of John Paris.

Soloists on the program are Mrs. Laura Lindberg, contralto; Robert Lewis, baritone; Mrs. Esther Pahnke, soprano; Arthur Lewis, tenor, and Ruth Terranova, cellist. Proceeds of the concert will go towards the purchase of chimes for the church organ.

Plan Calumet High Frolic

Englewood Group Is to Be Heard April 28.

A new Chicago musical organization will make its debut on April 28 when the Englewood Symphony orchestra joins with the Ogden Park Choral club to present a concert version of Gounod's opera "Faust" at Ogden park fieldhouse. The orchestra, consisting of 35 pieces, was organized last June and has been practicing at the fieldhouse since, but has not yet made a public appearance.

The story of the new symphony begins in the fall of 1939, when its present personnel was brought together at the Englewood Evening school by a common interest—classical music.

Decide on Orchestra.

Under the direction of Harry Fistell, then instructor of music at the school, the group began to undertake symphonic arrangements. Last June, at the end of the school year, they decided to organize a neighborhood symphony, with Fistell as conductor.

Arrangements were made to practice every Monday evening at Ogden park fieldhouse. Some members recruited from the evening school dropped away after a few trying rehearsals, but the nucleus of 35 pieces remained. The group decided on a spring debut last week.

Officers of Group.

Officers of the orchestra are Ray Richarz, concert meister; Robert Hartman, librarian; James Mattelino, business manager, and Mari Desch, secretary. At present Ora Foster is substituting for Richarz, who was injured recently in an automobile accident.

Officers of the Ogden Park Choral club, now rehearsing with the orchestra, are Joseph May, president; Murtle Wells, secretary trasurer; Marion Ellert, librarian, and Florence Smith, vice president. The chorus is directed by J. W. Johnstone.

Dedicate South Chicago Branch Library Tomorrow

The dedication ceremony of the South Chicago branch of the Chicago Public library, 91st street and Houston avenue, will take place at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening. The library will be presented to the community in brief exercises in the assembly room.

PROPOSE TO END TRAFFIC TANGLE IN JACKSON PARK

The south area council of the Chicago Motor club last week approved a plan to solve the traffic problem in Jackson park between the Outer drive and South Shore drive. The proposition was voted on at the council's monthly meeting.

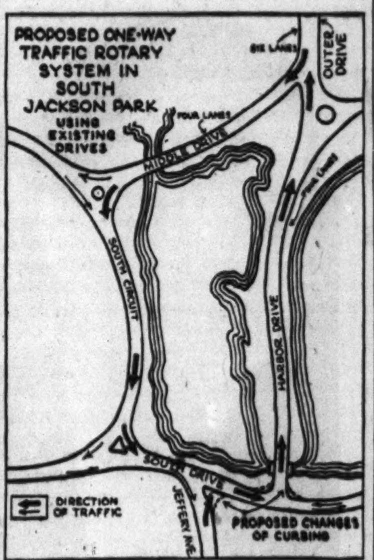
The recommendation calls for the creation of a rotary traffic regulation which would involve the use of Harbor drive, Middle drive, Circuit drive, and South drive with vehicles proceeding on all the routes in a counter clockwise movement.

At its January meeting the council suggested a plan to divide traffic at the intersection of the Outer drive with Harbor drive so that the burden would be split on Harbor drive and Middle drive, one wing of the traffic going south on Jeffery avenue and the other on South Shore drive.

Park district officials did not approve of this plan because funds were not available for the installation of traffic signals and correction in the roadway at the south end of the birdge where South drive and Harbor drive intersect.

The installation of the rotary plan would require little expenditure. No traffic signals would be needed and street construction would only be necessary at a few of the intersections, such as Jeffery and South Shore drive, plus required directional signs. The purpose of the plan is to create one way streets at the south end of the park where traffic jams are heaviest.

Park Traffic Plan



This is the new plan suggested by the Chicago Motor club to solve the traffic problem at the south end of Jackson park. The purpose is to make one way streets where traffic usually is heaviest.

A FLOOD OF FAN PHOTOS DELUGES TOM, DICK, HARRY

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tom, Dick, and Harry have started something. They have reversed the old radio custom of sending pictures to listeners. Instead, they have invited fans to send them their photos to W-G-N.

The result is an avalanche of photos, ranging from daguerrotypes to modern miniature negatives. While women's pictures are in the majority, there are specimens of bald headed men, and babies, too, in their ever expanding collection.

For years Tom, Dick, and Harry—who are Bud Vandover, Marlin Hurt, and Gordon Vandover, have been wondering what radio listeners look like. It is a curiosity that consumes many a man before the microphone. Tom, Dick, and Harry for years had been itching to find out. But they never did anything to solve the riddle.

It's All an Accident.

They went on year after year, carrying about their mental pictures of admirers, forever uncertain as to their accuracy. It gave them a feeling of frustration, ultimately. But they did nothing.

Then, one day they rescued themselves from the horns of this dilemma, quite accidentally. After romping thru one of their ad-libbed sessions on the air they concluded it with an offer to send pictures of themselves to all who requested them.

Strictly as a gag Tom exclaimed to Announcer Ed Allen: "Why not have them send in their pictures for a change? We certainly would like to see what they look like."

They laughed and forgot about it. The public, however, took the suggestion seriously. The following day a hundred pictures arrived. They have been rolling in ever since.

A Pleasure and a Shock.

These pictures have been a pleasure and inspiration in some instances; a shock in others. One girl sent a folder containing six pictures of herself revealing the various emotions inspired by listening to the comedians—pleasure, perplexity, pain, and so on.

There was a note of comedy in many of the letters. One chap sent a picture of a snow covered cabin. He explained:

Another letter [with a picture] which the boys treasure, states: "I have always been considered a prize dope. So, running true to form, I am asking for your photo. Having seen 'Frankenstein,' 'Dracula,' and 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' my appetite for horror pictures will not be satisfied until I see yours."

Animals Are Fans.

Still another fan sent in pictures of a dog, two ducks and a goat. All, she said, were inveterate followers of the Tom, Dick, and Harry clambakes.

One woman mailed a picture of herself in a swimming suit of 21 years ago.

The boys are mounting all the pictures in a giant scrapbook. This they expect to have always at hand when they go on the air. When they want to be sure of achieving the personal touch, they will slap open the big book. In a flash their fans will appear before them.

Colleen

With Symphony

Bidu Sayao, the Brazilian operatic soprano, who will make a guest appearance with the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra at 4 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS on the Design for Happiness program.

NEW TRIER HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON CITIZENS HOUR

New Trier High school, the 3 million dollar institution serving the four North Shore communities of Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday when the school will be featured on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N.

Six hundred students led by their play-acting, mountain-climbing principal, Matthew P. Gaffney, will be on hand for the broadcast. Mr. Gaffney will speak briefly. He will be introduced by Philip Maxwell, member of the Tribune's editorial staff, who plays the rôle of the principal and is master of ceremonies.

The choir will sing four numbers, including two school songs written by teachers of New Trier. "Here's to Our Team," was written by Samuel Vernon, general science teacher, and the lyrics of the second school song, sung to the tune of "Old Crusader" were written by Frederick Kahler, dean of boys.

Mr. Maxwell will name three more Chicagoland students to the program's roll of honor. They are George William Byers of Lafayette, Ind.; John Jones of Milwaukee, Wis., and David Parson of Dubuque, Ia.

CENTRAL CHURCH ON CHICAGOLAND SERVICE TODAY

Listeners to the Chicagoland Church hour will worship today at the Central Church of Chicago. Dr. Harold W. Roupp, the pastor, will preach on "The Far Horizon." The service will include hymns by the choir. The Chicagoland Church hour is aired over W-G-N at 9 a. m. each Sunday under the direction of Dr. John Evans, religious news editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The hour presents transcribed services from popular churches of Chicagoland.

Wythe Williams Writes New Book About Germany

Questions that are uppermost in the minds of listeners are discussed in a new book by Wythe Williams, famous W-G-N-Mutual news commentator. Titled "The Riddle of the Reich," the book attempts to answer: What will tomorrow bring in Germany? Williams wrote the book in collaboration with Albert Parry. W-G-N and Mutual carry Williams' news analysis at 7 p. m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and at 8:30 p. m. on Sundays.

Musical Drama to Feature Chicagoland Hour.

The Chicagoland hour will give a salute to New York from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network. A special production — "Ode to New York"—will be the highlight of this program featuring the W-G-N players, concert orchestra, and chorus, and Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, as soloist.

Members of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and their friends will be guests in the W-G-N audience studio.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

By use of dramatic sequences, unique sound effects and impressionistic music by the orchestra and ensemble, the "Ode to New York" will bring the pulse beats of that mighty metropolis to a coast-to-coast radio audience.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening. Henry Weber, conducting the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, will present "Melting Pot Medley," with Attilio Baggiore as soloist.

Baggiore to Sing Aria.

Weber and the orchestra also will feature Dvorak's "Carnival Overture." "Young Prince and Princess" from "Scheherazade," by Rimsky-Korsakov, and Saint-Saëns' "Bacchanale" from "Samson and Delilah" also will be played by the orchestra.

ROTARY-MUTUAL TO AIR SALUTE TO GUATEMALA

Another link in the chain of good will among the countries of the western hemisphere will be forged from 2 to 2:30 p. m. today when the third program of Rotary-Mutual's "The Americas Speak" series will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The broadcast will salute Guatemala.

The program will be introduced from the studios of W-G-N, and will then swing to Guatemala City for a 20 minute broadcast from the studios of TGW. Gen. Jorge Ubico, president of Guatemala, will speak, and native Indian music played by a marimba band as well as human interest highlights, will be presented.

A highlight of the program will be an interview with Mrs. Lily de Osborne, internationally known authority on textiles, who has written several books on Guatemalian customs and folk lore. Mrs. de Osborne will speak from Guatemala City.

Octavio Barrios, consul general for Guatemala in Chicago, will speak from the W-G-N studios.

'As the Twig Is Bent' Is New Serial on W-G-N

The opening episodes of "As the Twig Is Bent," new dramatic serial are being heard on W-G-N daily at 11:45 a. m. Telling the story of a young school teacher who has to fight for happiness against the forces of reaction, bigotry and frustration, the serial is scheduled Monday thru Friday.

'Who Knows?' Renewed on W-G-N for Another Year

W-G-N and Mutual's weekly spook series, "Who Knows?", based on the psychic researches of Dr. Hereward Carrington, will continue over W-G-N for 52 weeks more, starting March 24. "Who Knows?" is broadcast every Monday from 9:15 to 9:30 p. m. over W-G-N and several Mutual stations.

Mary Foster's Troubles.

Marital difficulties strike at the happiness of Mary Foster and Philip Day in the episodes which are in store for listeners this week to "Mary Foster, the Editor's Daughter," dramatic serial, broadcast by W-G-N each weekday, Monday thru Friday, at 11 a. m.

A preview of the 13th annual "Waa-Mu" show of Northwestern university will be broadcast on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 next Thursday evening. This year's Waa-Mu show is titled "Wait a Minute." It is student written and student enacted. Music and lyrics are by Lloyd B. Norlin, a senior, who wrote last year's show also. Joe W. Miller is the director. The show will open at Scott hall on the campus in Evanston on Tuesday, March 25, and will continue each evening thru March 29.

Jessels on Show.

Along with the presentation of hit songs from the show In Chicago Tonight will feature the comedy and songs of George Jessel and his pretty wife, Lois Andrews, who are appearing at the State-Lake theater. Jessel, as master of ceremonies, will introduce Jack Haskell and Louise Yates, University students, who will sing songs from the campus production.

The preview will open with the show's prolog, a scene in the White House. The W-G-N chorus will sing the title tune, "Wait a Minute" and accompany the student principals in the other songs.

Songs to be heard include "Where Do We Live?," "Where Was I?," "On the Tip of My Tongue," and "Let's Call It a Day."

Alumni to Listen In.

Many faculty members, alumni, and students will be among the studio audience. Alumni will be tuned in from coast to coast.

This is the second campus production to be aired on In Chicago Tonight. Recently the University of Chicago Mirror Revue was presented.

BLIND TO GIVE REVUE ON HOUR OF OPPORTUNITY

A 60 minute variety revue, presented entirely by blind people, will be the feature of the Hour of Opportunity amateur program on WCFL at 8 tonight. Bernstein.

Geraldine Lawhorn will offer a dramatic reading of her own composition. Miss Lawhorn is blind and deaf. William Grow, despite his handicap, has developed an unusual memory, thru which he can tell the temperature and weather of any day in the past 50 years. Buddy Horrell will play "Marie" and "I Never Knew" on the marimba.

Heinz A. Adam, student at Wilson Junior college, will give a dramatic reading, "My Last Duchess." Josephine Maisel, soprano, and Eddie Sickels, bass-baritone, will sing. Irvin J. Rich will play the ocarina.

VARIED MUSIC MARKS PROGRAM OF NORTHERNERS

Music ranging from a choral work by Bach to a gay, modern ballad will be presented by the Northerners on W-G-N at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday. The octet will play an important part in presenting next Tuesday's program of widely varied music. Their first number will be the inspirational "Invictus," by Bruno Huhn. Then they will sing Bach's "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee." The octet will strike a modern note with the popular ballad, "Morning on the Farm." For their last number they will sing Rimsky-Korsakov's "Song of India."

Irene Verner, featured lyric soprano, will be in the spotlight as she sings her solo, "The Shrine of Love," by Padilla. The ensemble will be heard in a medley of three modern songs and will close the program with Czibulka's "Among the Lilies."

Dr. Pierce on Becker Hour.

Dr. Franklin Pierce, vice president of the Western Setter and Pointer club and a breeder of English and Irish setters, will be a special guest on Bob Becker's "Chats About Dogs" over W-G-N at 1:45 p. m. today.

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. For a FREE 60 cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's, send your name and address on a penny post card to Box D, Monticello, Ill., by March 22, 1941.

SPACIOUS LIVING ROOM IS FOCAL POINT IN HOME

Stone Fireplace and Tall Bay Are Features.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Good houses built in the United States in the last few years have a certain distinguishing quality derived from American taste, logic, and ingenuity.

The 1940 home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale, illustrates this point. It is modern, efficient, enduring, compact, and possessed of that indefinable thing called charm. Is there much more a home owner, investing in a house to suit his family's needs, can ask?

The architects, Zook & Taylor, 140 South Dearborn street, took into consideration the various activities and habits of the family and designed the home from the standpoint of used areas as well as rooms. Special attention was given to wall and roof textures and there are many points about the home which the builder of a six room home will appreciate.

Stone and Wood Shingles.

It is an English cottage type dwelling with lannon stone and wood effectively combined on the exterior. The steep roofs are of wood shingles and the home stands on a lot which is 90 feet by 150 feet.

The house has a first floor plan which includes a very livable, attractive library. Two walls of this room are of casement windows and there is a stunning plank flooring pegged with butterflies. The paneled walls with wide horizontal boards of graduated widths which narrow toward the ceiling, are finished in a grayish white; a "driftwood" treatment of unusual charm. The ceiling is plastered.

30 Foot Living Room.

The living room, which is 30 feet long, has a most arresting stone fireplace which reaches to the ceiling. There also is a great story and a half studio bay window and a stained beam ceiling. The walls are plastered in sand finish and the floor is plank, like the library. The dining room, which is two steps down, also has plastered walls and beamed ceiling. Here there are large corner windows which open the room to an abundance of sunlight.

Again there are corner windows in the bathroom, with its wall of ceramic tile, a built-in square tub, and corner built-in dressing case.

The kitchen is a captivating spot with its deep blue rubber flooring, ivory walls, and cabinets and gay red linoleum counter tops and table. The walls of the breakfast alcove have attractive treatment of stained plywood, and corner windows.

Has Two Bedrooms.

One large bedroom on the second floor, 11x17 feet, has one wall entirely of windows, while the second bedroom, 12x13 feet, has large corner windows.

The home is heated by a gas fired warm air heating plant located in the basement. Here the excavation has been under the living room only with sufficient space for heater room, laundry room, and other storage facilities.

Few small homes show a fresher or more personal approach. Lighting thruout is modern, the plan simple yet sound. Design and plan, here are equal contributors to a particularly attractive suburban home.

English House in Hinsdale

Many subtleties of design as well as extreme graciousness in handling are found in this six room English type home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale.

Andrew Jackson Drama on Great Artists Series

A drama woven about the fiery personality of Andrew Jackson as a youth will be presented on the "Great Artists" program which will be broadcast by W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. today. The Andrew Jackson drama is being given to draw attention to the Art institute's showing of Mrs. James Ward Thorne's American rooms. One of these rooms is a replica of the entrance hall in Jackson's mansion, the Hermitage.

Mothers Club Dinner.

The St. Patrick's Academy Mothers' club will hold a corned beef and cabbage dinner from 5 to 7 o'clock tomorrow evening at 122 South Des Plaines street. Mrs. Alex Brown is chairman.

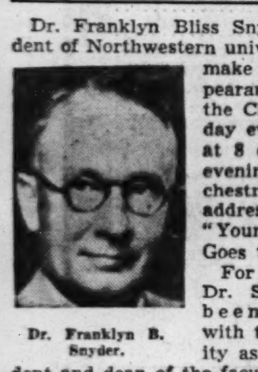
Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will make his first appearance before the Chicago Sunday evening club at 8 o'clock this evening in Orchestra hall. His address will be "Young America Goes to College."



Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder.

For 30 years Dr. Snyder has been connected with the university as vice president and dean of the faculties and is now a teacher of English. Believing in education as one of the basic resources in our national defense, he said at the time of his inauguration that the arch foes of humanity are not Hitler and Stalin, nor Nazilism nor Communism, but sin and ignorance.

Dr. Snyder expresses faith in modern youth and his address will give an evaluation of higher education in the preparation of youth to exercise the rights and duties of citizenship.

A choir of 125 voices under the direction of Edgar Nelson will provide music for the service. Mark Love, basso, and Charles Sears, tenor, will be the soloists. Stanley Martin is organist.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 17.

Mulching on perennial borders should be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Take the material that is raked off and use it as the beginning of a compost heap; keep adding to it thruout the season. This material can be used later for summer mulching, a practice that is invaluable where the summer is as hot as it is in the middle west.

When spraying for scale on the shrubs see that each scale is covered. Use a dormant or oil spray. It can be obtained ready to use, except for adding water. Spray snowballls with the same material. The common snowball is sometimes simply smothered with lice unless spraying is undertaken at regular intervals.

Tuesday, March 18.

Be sure the garden tools are dependable and sturdy. Keep the spade bright and sharp; never let it stand over night without cleaning, and a good way is to wash it off and then wipe it with an oiled rag. Oil the lawnmower and paint all parts that should be painted.

Many perennials can be divided and transplanted as soon as they show thru the ground and it is not too wet to spade. Early removal enables the newly set plants to make an early growth.

Wednesday, March 19.

Examine cellar plants or those that are in storage to see if they are in good condition. Oleanders, century plants, poinsettias, and others will soon need attention. Apartment house gardeners will find a number of plants suitable for growing in water. Among these are the sweet potato vine. Be sure to get a potato that is not kiln dried, or the buds will be destroyed. Place a good sized potato in a jar of water and watch results.

The lovely philodendron is also a good subject, and the English ivy does exceedingly well when grown in the same manner. The Chinese evergreen is very attractive and the wandering Jew is easily and quickly grown. Take a few strong cuttings of the common foliage plant or coleus and enjoy them for a long time by placing them in water.

You can have a nice display of lily-of-the-valley for Easter by planting the roots [pips] in moss. After planting, place the container in the dark for a few days or until growth has started, then bring to the light.

Thursday, March 20.

In selecting annuals choose the rust-proof snapdragons and the wilt-resistant class of asters. The orange flare cosmos is a delightful flower and the rosemond larkspurs are among the best.

New varieties of marigolds furnish excellent material for the garden. These include guinea gold, yellow supreme, and Dixie sunshine. The nasturtium golden gleam is good, and the new doubles offer something different. The beauty of Oxford verbenas, fantasy zinnias, jubilee gem cornflowers, Indian spring hollyhocks, and other recommended sorts may be developed into a most modern garden.

Friday, March 21.

Apply the commercial, complete plant food to the lawn. An early application at the rate of four pounds to each 100 square feet of area will give the grass a heavy growth. It is not necessary to water in the food if done at this time.

Roll the lawn when not too wet to reduce the elevations and compact the soil around the roots. An application should also be made to the perennial border just as soon as the plants start into growth.

Saturday, March 22.

Keep pots of bulbous plants well watered. Grow a few hardy lilies in the borders. Lilies will grow most anywhere, but they do best when grown with a ground cover which keeps shade about their base. A leaf-mold soil, well drained, is suitable for all kinds.

Some kinds may be safely planted in spring; among them are L. auratum, elegans, davuricum, Henryi, regale, speciosum, tigrinum, and unbellatum. Plant in masses or in small groups and a fine effect will be obtained. Plant base rooting varieties shallow and stem rooting kinds comparatively deep.

Lilies like a well drained soil. Clematis hybrids should be more generously planted. Among them are varieties Henryi, a white; Jackmanii, purple; Mad Edward Andre, red, and Ramona, light blue. Give a good, leaf-mold soil, well drained. The stems are slender and should be securely tied in place as they grow.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

SCHOOL PUPILS' ART WORK WILL BE DISPLAYED

Hundreds of Chicago school children will have their art work displayed at Western Arts association convention at the Stevens hotel Wednesday thru Saturday of this week. The display was arranged by Miss Elizabeth Wells Robertson director of art for the public schools. Approximately 3,500 canvases will also be on view at the convention, which is open to the public. The school exhibit will later be sent on a tour of South America in an exchange of work done by pupils on the two American continents.

There will be a question period after the talks.

PUSH SEWAGE WORK FOR CALUMET

DRAFT APPEAL RULINGS VARY AS TO BOARDS

Similar Cases Draw Different Verdicts.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Decisions in army draft appeal cases differ widely, both because of the imperfections of the selective service act and regulations and by reason of the wide latitude given appeal board members.

William H. King Jr., administrator for the eight draft boards of appeal in Cook county, called attention last week to some of the defects and omissions in rules, and cited interesting cases that give an insight into the working of these review bodies.

One reason there is no unanimity among appeal board members in dependency cases, the administrator said, is that the draft act, passed by congress, and the draft regulations formulated by the national draft board have different definitions for dependents. Some appeal boards follow the act literally, while those more liberally inclined accept the language of the regulations.

Term Loosely Used.

It is a rule that any registrant may appeal from a Class 1 classification, but he must do so within five days after he is classified. However, there is the case of a man who accepted Class 1 without appeal, and whose father afterward died, leaving the selectee with his mother as a dependent. At any time before induction he may ask his local board to reclassify him in a dependency class. If the local board refuses because of the five day appeal provision, he is not entitled to carry his case to the appeal board.

Aim to Correct Fault.

There have been other similar cases, and efforts are now afoot to correct this fault in the regulations, the administrator indicated. Here are a few actual cases selected from the appeal board files by Mr. King to show how local and appeal boards function:

Registrant A, 25 years old, married last June and childless, asked dependency deferment, but his local board placed him in Class 1 A. He was earning $17 a week and his wife earned $21 a week. The couple paid $25 a month rent and had a few bills outstanding.

The registrant appealed. The local board, in its statement, held that if the husband were drafted it would eliminate his living expenses from the family scene, and with the contribution he could make from his service pay the home could be maintained at its existing standard. The appeal was therefore denied.

Registrant B, 22 years old and married last June, earned $25 a week and his wife $16. The couple lived with her mother. Registrant claimed dependency but his local board, holding the young people had no established home to surrender, placed him in Class 1 A, so he appealed. The appeal was denied.

Appeal Is Granted.

Registrant C, 25 years old, made $18.50 a week and his wife $16 additional. They had an apartment lease with two years to run. The local board set forth in its statement that it had directed 1 A classification, "but not without some misgivings."

The appeal board pointed out that regulations say that in dependency cases any doubt must be resolved in favor of the registrant, and granted the appellant Class 3 A deferment.

Registrant D earned $31 a week and his wife made $1,040 last year. They were paying $22 a month rent. The registrant, who had served two years in the army air corps [not enough to claim deferment], asked the appeal board to shift him from 1 A to 3 A. The board held that because the wife's parents were separated she had no home to return to if her own were dissolved, and granted the appeal.

Government Loses Case.

Registrant E, 29 years old, and his wife, 28, were married in 1935. He was earning $45 a week and his wife earned $1,200 last year. The local board gave the registrant dependency deferment, but the government appeal agent, whose function it is to look after the interests of both registrants and the government, appealed for 1 A classification. The appeal was denied and the registrant remained in Class 3 A.

Registrant F, 33 years old, and married since early 1939, was earning $45 a week and his wife made $2,075 last year, largely thru overtime work. They were paying $55 a month rent. The local board placed the registrant in 1 A, but the appeal board held the couple should be permitted to keep their home intact and granted the appeal.

Registrant G, also 33 years old, earned $27.50 a week, and his wife, to whom he was married in 1938, made $1,675 last year. Most of her money was being used to pay off a $3,000 balance on their home, in which they held an equity of about $1,000. In the winter months her parents lived with them. The appeal board granted deferment from 1 A to 3 A.

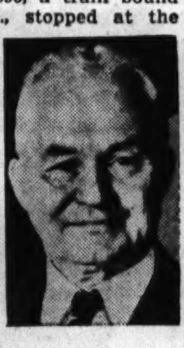
W. M'Laren Long with Pullman Company.

On March 22, 1890, a train bound for Seattle, Wash., stopped at the Kensington station on Chicago's far south side. Curiously, 17 year old Bill McLaren looked out of the dusty window at a thriving village of swept streets, neat lawns, and new brick cottages. At once he was drawn by the freshness and vigor of the place.



William McLaren.

Young Mill McLaren rose and shook hands with the friend with whom he was journeying from his home in Ontario, Canada, to Seattle. He said good-by and got off the train. Wandering thru the streets he discovered that the rapidly growing hamlet was called Pullman. The next day he got a job in the store department of the Pullman company and it was a great many years before he saw his friend again.

New Personnel Manager.

Now, after 51 years as an employé, William McLaren is personnel manager of the company, director of the Pullman Trust and Savings bank, and secretary of the pension fund. As personnel manager he heads 12,000 Pullman-Standard employés in Hammond, Michigan City, Butler, Pa.; Worcester, Mass., and Bessemer, Ala., besides Chicago.

In that time also Mr. McLaren has supplied the middle link in a family which boasts five generations of Pullman employés. His wife's grandfather, Adam Nepher, was one of the first men to work in the company's carpenter shops; her father, Harry Nepher, worked for the company for 40 years; their son, William Jr., an inspector, has been employed for 24 years, and their grandson, William III., started his term of service six months ago. Mrs. McLaren herself was working for the company when she met her future husband. Together the family totals 126 years of service.

One of the hardest tasks in his career came last year when the Twenty Year Service club staged a golden anniversary party in Mr. McLaren's honor. That evening Mr. McLaren shook hands with 760 guests.

He has worked under all of the company's presidents, beginning with George M. Pullman, who founded the company in 1864. Other heads he worked under were Robert Linden, John Reynolds, Edward F. Carry, and David Crawford.

Mr. McLaren became personnel director in 1937. From 1917 to 1937 he was superintendent of the plant, supervising 15,000 men.

ROTARY TRAFFIC PLAN URGED FOR JACKSON PARK

Motor Club Council Acts on Jam.

The south area council of the Chicago Motor club last week approved a plan to solve the traffic problem in Jackson park between the Outer drive and South Shore drive. The proposition was voted on at the council's monthly meeting.

The recommendation calls for the creation of a rotary traffic regulation which would involve the use of Harbor drive, Middle drive, Circuit drive, and South drive with vehicles proceeding on all the routes in a counter clockwise movement.

At its January meeting the council suggested a plan to divide traffic at the intersection of the Outer drive with Harbor drive so that the burden would be split on Harbor drive and Middle drive, one wing of the traffic going south on Jeffery avenue and the other on South Shore drive.

Falls of Approval.

Park district officials did not approve of this plan because funds were not available for the installation of traffic signals and correction in the roadway at the south end of the birdge where South drive and Harbor drive intersect.

The installation of the rotary plan would require little expenditure. No traffic signals would be needed and street construction would only be necessary at a few of the intersections, such as Jeffery and South Shore drive, plus required directional signs. The purpose of the plan is to create one way streets at the south end of the park where traffic jams are heaviest.

At the meeting Ald. Michael P. Hogan [13th] offered his services in attempting to get warning signs for the curve on Archer avenue and Komensky avenue. It also was decided to request improved street lighting at both ends of the viaduct near the intersection of 76th street and Normal avenue, since motor club engineers found that 80 per cent of accidents which occurred there happened after dark.

Want Constant Lighting.

Ald. John J. Duffy [19th] reported to the council that he would request the commissioner of public works to make an immediate investigation of the lighting problem of the underpass on Vincennes avenue near 83d street. It has been recommended that lights in this 600 foot subway should be on constantly because of the hazards of bicyclists and slow moving traffic.

Efforts to open 119th street across the Indiana-Illinois state line to connect with Avenue L have been abandoned. The costs of building this roadway were too great for the possible benefits to traffic, according to George Barton, chief engineer of the motor club.

EAST CHICAGO DUE TO START ON BIG PLANT

It's Third of Four Projects in Area.

The third of four projects to solve sewage disposal problems in the Calumet district will get under way this week when construction is begun on a $2,500,000 sewage disposal plant and sewer system for East Chicago. Work will be started immediately even tho WPA labor, which will be used on the job, may have to be curtailed later for purposes of national defense.

Gary's $4,500,000 disposal system has been in operation since last fall and Hammond's sewage lines already have been built and its disposal plant practically completed, the operations cannot start until the arrival of electric switches needed for the machinery. Delivery of the switches has been held up by government priorities.

Whiting Is Hopeful.

In Whiting, officials hoped to further sewage disposal plans by forming a sanitary commission soon. This is possible since the Indiana legislature recently passed a bill allowing sanitary boards to be set up in fourth class cities, Whiting's classification.

Mayor James T. McNamara has announced that the city council may adopt an ordinance for the organizing of such a commission at the meeting tomorrow evening. The next step would be the appointment of commission members who could proceed with plans already adopted. One member would be appointed by the state board of health, one, automatically, would be Whiting's city engineer, James G. Nellis, and the third would be nominated by the first two, with the consent of the mayor.

Under a special bonding power given a sanitary district, Whiting then could raise $465,000, according to Mayor McNamara. The city expects the project to cost $800,000 and to be built at 129th street and the canal, on territory to be purchased from the Standard Oil company. Work may be started this spring, the mayor said.

Loses Federal Grant.

Two years ago East Chicago lost an outright federal grant of $1,350,000 from the WPA because remonstrances blocked the sanitary board from issuing general tax bonds in the amount of $1,650,000 to cover the city's share of the plant's cost.

Now the city will use a $1,000,000 expenditure by the federal government, $200,000 of which will go for materials and the remainder for labor, it has been announced by Mayor Frank Migas. The city will pay $1,678,000 for materials and equipment. The government project was approved several weeks ago and bonds for the city's share of the expense already have been sold.

Aim to Go Ahead.

Mayor Migas and Boyd E. Phelps, vice president of the East Chicago sanitary board, have said that they are determined to go ahead with the project, despite a possible scarcity of WPA labor. Elmer T. Wenz, South Bend, WPA executive for the district, disclosed recently that national defense demands shortly will call for practically all available labor within the district.

The East Chicago plant will be constructed at 52d street and Indianapolis boulevard on a 24 acre tract which is a swamp at present. It will be a bio-chemical plant, in which chemicals will be used to get sewage and solids out of the water.

CATHOLIC YOUTH DUE TO ATTEND SPIRITUAL RALLY

Between three and four hundred students from Catholic colleges and universities in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin will attend the all-day conference on spiritual problems next Sunday at St. Xavier college, 4900 Cottage Grove avenue. The conference will be directed by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., national director of the Sodality of Our Lady.

St. Xavier students head the committees. Miss Betty Barrett is general student chairman. She is assisted by Rita Gross, Betty Connelly, Anne Piktuzis, Bernice Marciniak, Catherine Williams, Muriel Hackett, Shirley Anderson, Eleanor Meers, Patsy Lawson, and Kathleen O'Donnell.

The "day of motivation," emphasizing student discussion on spiritual problems, is one of a series held annually thruout the nation to enable college leaders, students, and faculty to discuss their common troubles, needs, and opportunities.

THOSE PARKING METERS.

Let me add my voice to the clamor in South Chicago over the parking meter question. There are those civic leaders who think the introduction of such machines would solve our traffic problem here in the community business district, because it would cause a faster turnover. I don't think it would be worth it, to the city or the motorist. As I understand the situation, it would cost a motorist 5 cents or more every time he wanted to park for any length of time. This would cost me about a dollar a day, as a salesman. Then, how would they enforce the system? Wouldn't they need more policemen to be in constant attendance? This would cost the city more money. I would rather see store owners fixing up small parking spaces behind their places.
E. J. K.

NO PLACE TO PARK.

Maybe it's a little early to talk about beaches, but if something is done about the parking situation near south side beaches now, we won't have to worry about it later. The fact is you can't drive your car to beaches on the south shore because there's no place to park them. As a south sider who has lived out here only a short time, I consider this very troublesome and backward. My husband agrees with me, for we are both formerly of the north side. The problem could be solved easily by converting several empty lots in the neighborhood into neat, orderly parking places. Local aldermen and chambers of commerce, please take heed!

WONDERS ABOUT GYM.

Funds were voted for a Hammond Technical High school more than a year ago, right after the Hammond Tech basketball team won the state tournament. Since then the city has apparently forgotten the idea, for it has never selected a site. What are they waiting for? Will the team have to win another title before they decide to actually build a new school?

NEW SYMPHONY WILL PLAY IN A JOINT CONCERT

Englewood Group Is to Be Heard April 28.

A new Chicago musical organization will make its debut on April 28 when the Englewood Symphony orchestra joins with the Ogden Park Choral club to present a concert version of Gounod's opera "Faust" at Ogden park fieldhouse. The orchestra, consisting of 35 pieces, was organized last June and has been practicing at the fieldhouse since.

The story of the new symphony begins in the fall of 1939, when its present personnel was brought together at the Englewood Evening school by a common interest—classical music.

Decide on Orchestra.

Under the direction of Harry Fistell, then instructor of music at the school, the group began to undertake symphonic arrangements. Last June, at the end of the school year, they decided to organize a neighborhood symphony, with Fistell as conductor.

Arrangements were made to practice every Monday evening at Ogden park fieldhouse. Some members recruited from the evening school dropped away after a few trying rehearsals, but the nucleus of 35 pieces remained.

Officers of Group.

Officers of the orchestra are Ray Richarz, concert meister; Robert Hartman, librarian; James Mattelino, business manager, and Mari Desch, secretary. At present Ora Foster is substituting for Richarz, who was injured recently in an automobile accident.

Officers of the Ogden Park Choral club, now rehearsing with the orchestra, are Joseph May, president; Murtle Wells, secretary trasurer; Marion Ellert, librarian, and Florence Smith, vice president. The chorus is directed by J. W. Johnstone.

Housing conditions and their effect upon community life in three south and southwest side communities were described last week in new reports of the land use survey being made by the Chicago Plan commission. The survey reports, projected as bases for city planning, have now covered 46 out of the 75 neighborhoods into which the city was divided for purposes of the study.

In the three neighborhoods studied—Douglas, Grand boulevard, and New City—housing conditions, average rentals, and property values were found to be below all city averages. The effect of substandard conditions was reflected in infant mortality rates well above the city average and a greater prevalence of disease and juvenile delinquency in the three areas than in the city as a whole.

Boundaries of Areas.

The Douglas and Grand boulevard districts [designated by the numbers 1 and 2, respectively, in the accompanying statistical table] comprise most of the area extending east from the New York Central railroad tracks to the parallel of Cottage Grove avenue, between 26th street and Hyde Park boulevard. The Douglas neighborhood is occupied by 94.2 per cent Negroes and the Grand boulevard neighborhood by 98.2 per cent Negroes.

The New City area [designated by the number 3] is bounded roughly by Pershing road on the north, an extension of Stewart avenue on the east, Garfield boulevard on the south, and Western avenue on the west. This area, which includes the stockyards and part of the central manufacturing district, is inhabited by 98.8 per cent whites.

Of the three areas the greatest need for rehabilitation was found in the Douglas neighborhood by the plan commission survey. The median age of the buildings there was computed at 52 years, as compared to 50 years for the Grand boulevard area and 47 years for the New City area. The median age for buildings thruout the city is 35 years.

Much Repairing Needed.

Where 92.1 per cent of buildings thruout the city are in "good condition," less than half the buildings in the Douglas neighborhood—48 per cent—were given that rating. Twenty-one blocks were found in such condition that every building needed major repairs or replacement.

Other striking contrasts between the Douglas and Grand boulevard areas and the city averages were seen. Where 84.7 per cent of Chicago dwelling units have private toilet facilities, only 58.4 per cent of those in Douglas and 57.8 per cent of those in Grand boulevard are so equipped. In these areas approximately 8 per cent of the dwelling units are owner occupied, as compared to 26.2 per cent for the entire city.

In New City 31.9 per cent of the dwelling units are owner occupied and 62.6 per cent have private toilet facilities. Despite better facilities and the fact that nearly 91 per cent of the New City buildings were rated in good condition, New City was found to have the lowest average monthly rental figure, $18.70. The average monthly rental for Douglas was computed at $22.74 and for Grand boulevard at $29.81. The city average is $33.93 per month.

A FLOOD OF FAN PHOTOS DELUGES TOM, DICK, HARRY

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tom, Dick, and Harry have started something. They have reversed the old radio custom of sending pictures to listeners. Instead, they have invited fans to send them their photos to W-G-N.

The result is an avalanche of photos, ranging from daguerrotypes to modern miniature negatives. While women's pictures are in the majority, there are specimens of bald headed men, and babies, too, in their ever expanding collection.

For years Tom, Dick, and Harry—who are Bud Vandover, Marlin Hurt, and Gordon Vandover, have been wondering what radio listeners look like. It is a curiosity that consumes many a man before the microphone. Tom, Dick, and Harry for years had been itching to find out. But they never did anything to solve the riddle.

It's All an Accident.

They went on year after year, carrying about their mental pictures of admirers, forever uncertain as to their accuracy. It gave them a feeling of frustration, ultimately. But they did nothing.

Then, one day they rescued themselves from the horns of this dilemma, quite accidentally. After romping thru one of their ad-libbed sessions on the air they concluded it with an offer to send pictures of themselves to all who requested them.

Strictly as a gag Tom exclaimed to Announcer Ed Allen: "Why not have them send in their pictures for a change? We certainly would like to see what they look like."

They laughed and forgot about it. The public, however, took the suggestion seriously. The following day a hundred pictures arrived. They have been rolling in ever since.

A Pleasure and a Shock.

These pictures have been a pleasure and inspiration in some instances; a shock in others. One girl sent a folder containing six pictures of herself revealing the various emotions inspired by listening to the comedians—pleasure, perplexity, pain, and so on.

There was a note of comedy in many of the letters. One chap sent a picture of a snow covered cabin. He explained:

Another letter [with a picture] which the boys treasure, states: "I have always been considered a prize dope. So, running true to form, I am asking for your photo. Having seen 'Frankenstein,' 'Dracula,' and 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' my appetite for horror pictures will not be satisfied until I see yours."

Animals Are Fans.

Still another fan sent in pictures of a dog, two ducks and a goat. All, she said, were inveterate followers of the Tom, Dick, and Harry clambakes.

One woman mailed a picture of herself in a swimming suit of 21 years ago.

The boys are mounting all the pictures in a giant scrapbook. This they expect to have always at hand when they go on the air. When they want to be sure of achieving the personal touch, they will slap open the big book. In a flash their fans will appear before them.

BLIND TO GIVE REVUE ON HOUR OF OPPORTUNITY

A 60 minute variety revue, presented entirely by blind people, will be the feature of the Hour of Opportunity amateur program on WCFL at 8 tonight. Talented persons who have lost their sight have been gathered from all sections of Chicagoland thru the efforts of the Blind Service association and its president and founder, Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein.

Geraldine Lawhorn will offer a dramatic reading of her own composition. Miss Lawhorn is blind and deaf. William Grow, despite his handicap, has developed an unusual memory, thru which he can tell the temperature and weather of any day in the past 50 years. Buddy Horrell will play "Marie" and "I Never Knew" on the marimba.

Heinz A. Adam, student at Wilson Junior college, will give a dramatic reading, "My Last Duchess." Josephine Maisel, soprano, and Eddie Sickels, bass-baritone, will sing. Irvin J. Rich will play the ocarina.

N.U. WAA-MU SHOW TO BE PREVIEWED ON CHICAGO HOUR

Jessel to Be Master of Ceremonies.

A preview of the 13th annual "Waa-Mu" show of Northwestern university will be broadcast on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 next Thursday evening. This year's Waa-Mu show is titled "Wait a Minute." It is student written and student enacted.

Music and lyrics are by Lloyd B. Norlin, a senior, who wrote last year's show also. Joe W. Miller is the director. The show will open at Scott hall on the campus in Evanston on Tuesday, March 25, and will continue each evening thru March 29.

Jessels on Show.

Along with the presentation of hit songs from the show In Chicago Tonight will feature the comedy and songs of George Jessel and his pretty wife, Lois Andrews, who are appearing at the State-Lake theater. Jessel, as master of ceremonies, will introduce Jack Haskell and Louise Yates, University students, who will sing songs from the campus production.

The preview will open with the show's prolog, a scene in the White House. The W-G-N chorus will sing the title tune, "Wait a Minute" and accompany the student principals in the other songs.

Songs to be heard include "Where Do We Live?," "Where Was I?," "On the Tip of My Tongue," and "Let's Call It a Day."

Alumni to Listen In.

Many faculty members, alumni, and students will be among the studio audience. Alumni will be tuned in from coast to coast.

This is the second campus production to be aired on In Chicago Tonight. Recently the University of Chicago Mirror Revue was presented.

ROTARY-MUTUAL TO AIR SALUTE TO GUATEMALA

Another link in the chain of good will among the countries of the western hemisphere will be forged from 2 to 2:30 p. m. today when the third program of Rotary-Mutual's "The Americas Speak" series will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The broadcast will salute Guatemala.

The program will be introduced from the studios of W-G-N, and will then swing to Guatemala City for a 20 minute broadcast from the studios of TGW. Gen. Jorge Ubico, president of Guatemala, will speak, and native Indian music played by a marimba band as well as human interest highlights, will be presented.

A highlight of the program will be an interview with Mrs. Lily de Osborne, internationally known authority on textiles, who has written several books on Guatemalian customs and folk lore. Mrs. de Osborne will speak from Guatemala City.

Octavio Barrios, consul general for Guatemala in Chicago, will speak from the W-G-N studios.

Musical Drama to Feature Chicagoland Hour.

The Chicagoland hour will give a salute to New York from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network. A special production — "Ode to New York"—will be the highlight of this program featuring the W-G-N players, concert orchestra, and chorus, and Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, as soloist.

Members of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and their friends will be guests in the W-G-N audience studio.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

By use of dramatic sequences, unique sound effects and impressionistic music by the orchestra and ensemble, the "Ode to New York" will bring the pulse beats of that mighty metropolis to a coast-to-coast radio audience.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening. Henry Weber, conducting the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, will present "Melting Pot Medley," with Attilio Baggiore as soloist.

Baggiore to Sing Aria.

Weber and the orchestra also will feature Dvorak's "Carnival Overture."

NEW TRIER HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON CITIZENS HOUR

New Trier High school, the 3 million dollar institution serving the four North Shore communities of Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday when the school will be featured on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N.

Six hundred students led by their play-acting, mountain-climbing principal, Matthew P. Gaffney, will be on hand for the broadcast. Mr. Gaffney will speak briefly. He will be introduced by Philip Maxwell, member of the Tribune's editorial staff, who plays the rôle of the principal and is master of ceremonies.

The choir will sing four numbers, including two school songs written by teachers of New Trier. "Here's to Our Team," was written by Samuel Vernon, general science teacher, and the lyrics of the second school song, sung to the tune of "Old Crusader" were written by Frederick Kahler, dean of boys.

Mr. Maxwell will name three more Chicagoland students to the program's roll of honor. They are George William Byers of Lafayette, Ind.; John Jones of Milwaukee, Wis., and David Parson of Dubuque, Ia.

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. For a FREE 60 cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's, send your name and address on a penny post card to Box E, Monticello, Ill., by March 22, 1941.

'VARSITY PRESS LOSES AN OLD TIME PRINTER

Wm. Anderson Went to Midway in 1894.

William Anderson, who was a compositor when the Midway was a windswept swamp retired recently as head of the book makeup department of the University of Chicago Press, where he worked for 43 years. Anderson had volunteered to work "away out there in the woods" in March, 1894, when the equipment was moved to the campus from the old Taylor building on Monroe street in the loop.

William Anderson.

The University Press was begun by President Harper a year after the university was founded. It was the first to offer full publishing facilities to a university faculty. After being housed on the site of what is now the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the press was moved on trucks to the Midway two years later. Only volunteer employés were taken in this transfer.

Often Brought Visitors.

"President Harper often brought visitors into the shop," says Anderson, who lives at 5537 Drexel avenue. "He was particularly interested in us, since the press was his baby. He appeared in a tall silk hat and Prince Albert coat. When we moved into the present building at 58th street and Ellis avenue and got a linotype machine, he used to stand behind the machine and watch the matrices drop into the magazine."

In those days, explains Anderson, a man set type at 40 cents per 1,000 ems and had to do his own punctuating and correcting of proofs. He demanded and received 10 cents extra, however, when he had to decipher the unique scrawl used by such men as Albion W. Small, founder of the school of sociology, and Sailer Matthews, dean of the divinity school.

Painted the Harper Cow.

In comparing the "old days" with the contemporary campus scene, he has concluded that the student body of 40 years ago was decidedly "more raucous" than the current classes. He likes to recall that President's Harper's cow, which used to graze where Rockefeller Memorial chapel is today, turned up one morning painted a vivid green.

Anderson was born in the little parish of Insch in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, in 1869, the son of a tailor. He was apprenticed to a printer in Aberdeen when he was 15 years old and came to this country seven years later. The opening of the World's Columbian Exposition drew him to Chicago.

From now on he intends to devote his time to hiking and photography.

St. Xavier Glee Club Plans St. Patrick's Day Dance

St. Xavier college glee club will hold an informal St. Patrick's day dance tomorrow evening in the new gymnasium, 4900 Cottage Grove avenue. Dance chairmen are Katherine O'Donnell, Betty Burke, and Betty Connelly.

LEO STUDENTS PLAN PROGRAM OF MUSIC, DRAMA

Students at Leo High school will commemorate St. Patrick's day with music, dramatics, and gymnastics in two evening programs to be presented in their school auditorium today and tomorrow. Two one-act Irish plays, "The Long Road to Garranbraher" and "The Lad from Donegal," will be featured.

Other features on the program are Irish songs and dances, a tumbling exhibition, and selections by the Leo student orchestra.

LIBRARY ADVISER GUIDES YOUTH TOWARD A JOB

Late one evening about a year ago a young man approached the desk of Miss Esther Belous, young adults adviser in the Woodlawn Regional library. In a discouraged voice he told her that he was hunting desperately for a job which offered opportunity.

After a discussion of his background and interests, Miss Belous gave him some books and pamphlets on welding. The young man hurried out of the library. She did not see him again until three months later when he reappeared to tell her that he had gone to a trade school, got a job at $50 a week and was about to be married. Soon, he said, he and his bride would be sailing for South America, where a promising future as a welder awaited him.

This is one of the many "success stories" Miss Belous can tell since she became young adults adviser in the New Woodlawn Regional branch, which has a collection of vocational guidance literature second only to that of the main library.

"Actually, I am not a counselor," says Miss Belous, "but I am here to help young people acquire an understanding of opportunities and requirements for trades and vocations. When I am asked a question—whether it be about a course in tool and die making, how to become a laboratory technician, nursing schools, or accredited colleges—I simply guide them to the proper reference."

IRISH TO DANCE IN GAY TRIBUTES TO PATRON SAINT

Bagpipes to Lend Voice to Festivities.

Thousands of south and southwest side Irish-Americans will don shamrocks and brush up on their Irish dancing steps tomorrow in celebration of St. Patrick's day.

The Irish Jubilee ball, to be held at the South Side auditorium, 6400 Green street, under the sponsorship of four organizations, is expected to be the largest local celebration. An all-Irish program, complete with shamrocks for the guests, folk songs and dances to the music of bagpipes [Irish], and a popularity contest for girls has been arranged.

Irish Songs by Choir.

Among the features will be a moving picture entitled "Ireland, the Melody Isle." After music and dances under the direction of Pat Roche the audience will hear the 100 voice Celteen Choral society in Irish songs. A popularity queen will be chosen from among hundreds of entrants between the ages of 17 and 26. Kerry, Clare, and Mayo county dancing steps will be demonstrated.

Another celebration will be sponsored by the Shannon Rovers club in the Temple hall, 332 South Marshfield avenue. Con Scannell, 8840 South Aberdeen street, is chairman of the south side reception committee for this party. The club, organized in 1925, boasts of the only Irish bagpipe band in the city.

Calumet K. of C. Party.

Shamrocks imported from Ireland will be a feature of a third celebration tomorrow night. They will be presented to all guests attending the party to be staged at the Casino Moderne, 63d street and Ingleside avenue, by Calumet Knights of Columbus. Michael I. Cleary is chairman of this event.

The Mercy High school sodality will hold a barn dance tomorrow night in the gymnasium. Chairmen are Loretta Molloy and Mary Alice Egan. On the gym decorating committee are Anna Marie Callaghan, Gertrude Koehl, Veronica McGrath, Mary Malone, Rosaleen Hertel, Marie Loncar, Theresa Heneghan, and Mary Alice McGrath.

The St. Laurence school children will give a St. Patrick's day play entitled "Tom Sawyer" today and tomorrow. Jackie O'Keefe, 7339 Evans avenue, will enact the leading rôle. The play is being directed by the Sisters of St. Dominic.

Evanston's reputation as the city of churches and church people is upheld by the first successful religious census ever taken of the population of Evanston. Figures released this week show that 73.3 per cent of the population, estimated at 68,000, claim affiliation with some religious organization. The figure for the nation is less than 50 per cent.

A summary shows that 49.3 per cent are Protestants, 19.3 per cent are Catholics, 8.4 per cent attend Negro churches, .5 per cent are Jewish, and 4.7 per cent are Christian Scientists. Evanston is not, as one might think, a children's town. There are 2.56 times as many adults as children, altho the ratio varies from five adults to one child in the 1st ward, composed largely of apartments and hotels, to 1.9 adults per child in the 6th ward, which is mainly residential.

Same in Each Group.

The proportion of children in the families of each religion group is approximately the same. The ratio of adults to children is 2.6 to one among the Protestants, 2.3 to one among the Catholics, 2.6 to one among the Negroes, and 2.9 to one among the Jews.

The majority of the Protestants are either Presbyterians, Methodists, or Episcopalians and the local churches in these groups have an equal number of members. Residents belonging to a church in Chicago or some other suburb include 1,404 Protestants and 354 Catholics.

Only .6 per cent claim interest in "miscellaneous sects." The census takers found one atheist and one Confucius follower. A small group was listed as the "Black Stockings" because the unique characteristic to be found was that all the women wear black cotton stockings.

Also among the 412 persons listed under miscellaneous sects are Jehovah's Witnesses, Latter Day Saints, Mormons, Adventists, Salvation Army members, Baha'ists, Buddhists, Plymouth Brethren, Unitarians, Swedenborgians and members of Gospel Hall, the Scripture league and the Assembly of God.

Most Willingly Answer.

Less than 1 per cent of the people refused to give information to the more than 600 volunteer workers who canvassed the city by wards. Only 9.5 per cent of the population was not interviewed, points out Dr. Robert Lee Logan of Northminster Presbyterian church, who supervised the compilation of the material.

The suggestion for a census was made last fall when several pastors wanted to canvass their own wards. It was decided finally to take a citywide census by wards and the Rev. Frederic E. Pamp of Mission Covenant church was appointed chairman.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Good houses built in the United States in the last few years have a certain distinguishing quality derived from American taste, logic, and ingenuity.

The 1940 home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale, illustrates this point. It is modern, efficient, enduring, compact, and possessed of that indefinable thing called charm. Is there much more a home owner, investing in a house to suit his family's needs, can ask?

The architects, Zook & Taylor, 140 South Dearborn street, took into consideration the various activities and habits of the family and designed the home from the standpoint of used areas as well as rooms. Special attention was given to wall and roof textures and there are many points about the home which the builder of a six room home will appreciate.

Stone and Wood Shingles.

It is an English cottage type dwelling with lannon stone and wood effectively combined on the exterior. The steep roofs are of wood shingles and the home stands on a lot which is 90 feet by 150 feet.

The house has a first floor plan which includes a very livable, attractive library. Two walls of this room are of casement windows and there is a stunning plank flooring pegged with butterflies. The paneled walls with wide horizontal boards of graduated widths which narrow toward the ceiling, are finished in a grayish white; a "driftwood" treatment of unusual charm. The ceiling is plastered.

30 Foot Living Room.

The living room, which is 30 feet long, has a most arresting stone fireplace which reaches to the ceiling. There also is a great story and a half studio bay window and a stained beam ceiling. The walls are plastered in sand finish and the floor is plank, like the library. The dining room, which is two steps down, also has plastered walls and beamed ceiling. Here there are large corner windows which open the room to an abundance of sunlight.

Again there are corner windows in the bathroom, with its wall of ceramic tile, a built-in square tub, and corner built-in dressing case.

The kitchen is a captivating spot with its deep blue rubber flooring, ivory walls, and cabinets and gay red linoleum counter tops and table. The walls of the breakfast alcove have attractive treatment of stained plywood, and corner windows.

Has Two Bedrooms.

One large bedroom on the second floor, 11x17 feet, has one wall entirely of windows, while the second bedroom, 12x13 feet, has large corner windows.

The home is heated by a gas fired warm air heating plant located in the basement. Here the excavation has been under the living room only with sufficient space for heater room, laundry room, and other storage facilities.

Few small homes show a fresher or more personal approach. Lighting thruout is modern, the plan simple yet sound. Design and plan, here are equal contributors to a particularly attractive suburban home.

English House in Hinsdale

Many subtleties of design as well as extreme graciousness in handling are found in this six room English type home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Golumbeck, 300 Forest road, Hinsdale.

Andrew Jackson Drama on Great Artists Series

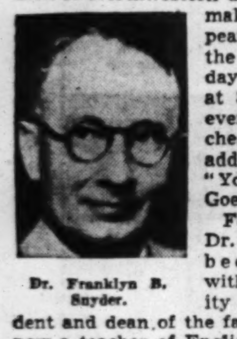
A drama woven about the fiery personality of Andrew Jackson as a youth will be presented on the "Great Artists" program which will be broadcast by W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. today. The Andrew Jackson drama is being given to draw attention to the Art institute's showing of Mrs. James Ward Thorne's American rooms. One of these rooms is a replica of the entrance hall in Jackson's mansion, the Hermitage.

Mothers Club Dinner.

The St. Patrick's Academy Mothers' club will hold a corned beef and cabbage dinner from 5 to 7 o'clock tomorrow evening at 122 South Des Plaines street. Mrs. Alex Brown is chairman.

DR. FRANKLYN SNYDER TO BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will make his first appearance before the Chicago Sunday evening club at 8 o'clock this evening in Orchestra hall. His address will be "Young America Goes to College."



Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder.

For 30 years Dr. Snyder has been connected with the university as vice president and dean of the faculties and is now a teacher of English. Believing in education as one of the basic resources in our national defense, he said at the time of his inauguration that the arch foes of humanity are not Hitler and Stalin, nor Naziism nor Communism, but sin and ignorance.

Dr. Snyder expresses faith in modern youth and his address will give an evaluation of higher education in the preparation of youth to exercise the rights and duties of citizenship.

A choir of 125 voices under the direction of Edgar Nelson will provide music for the service. Mark Love, basso, and Charles Sears, tenor, will be the soloists. Stanley Martin is organist.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 17.

Mulching on perennial borders should be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Take the material that is raked off and use it as the beginning of a compost heap; keep adding to it thruout the season. This material can be used later for summer mulching, a practice that is invaluable where the summer is as hot as it is in the middle west.

When spraying for scale on the shrubs see that each scale is covered. Use a dormant or oil spray. It can be obtained ready to use, except for adding water. Spray snowballs with the same material. The common snowball is sometimes simply smothered with lice unless spraying is undertaken at regular intervals.

Tuesday, March 18.

Be sure the garden tools are dependable and sturdy. Keep the spade bright and sharp; never let it stand over night without cleaning, and a good way is to wash it off and then wipe it with an oiled rag. Oil the lawnmower and paint all parts that should be painted.

Many perennials can be divided and transplanted as soon as they show thru the ground and it is not too wet to spade. Early removal enables the newly set plants to make an early growth.

Wednesday, March 19.

Examine cellar plants or those that are in storage to see if they are in good condition. Oleanders, century plants, poinsettias, and others will soon need attention. Apartment house gardeners will find a number of plants suitable for growing in water. Among these are the sweet potato vine. Be sure to get a potato that is not kiln dried, or the buds will be destroyed. Place a good sized potato in a jar of water and watch results.

The lovely philodendron is also a good subject, and the English ivy does exceedingly well when grown in the same manner. The Chinese evergreen is very attractive and the wandering Jew is easily and quickly grown. Take a few strong cuttings of the common foliage plant or coleus and enjoy them for a long time by placing them in water.

You can have a nice display of lily-of-the-valley for Easter by planting the roots [pips] in moss. After planting, place the container in the dark for a few days or until growth has started, then bring to the light.

Thursday, March 20.

In selecting annuals choose the rust-proof snapdragons and the wilt-resistant class of asters. The orange flare cosmos is a delightful flower and the rosemond larkspurs are among the best.

New varieties of marigolds furnish excellent material for the garden. These include guinea gold, yellow supreme, and Dixie sunshine. The nasturtium golden gleam is good, and the new doubles offer something different. The beauty of Oxford verbenas, fantasy zinnias, jubilee gem cornflowers, Indian spring hollyhocks, and other recommended sorts may be developed into a most modern garden.

Friday, March 21.

Apply the commercial, complete plant food to the lawn. An early application at the rate of four pounds to each 100 square feet of area will give the grass a heavy growth. It is not necessary to water in the food if done at this time.

Roll the lawn when not too wet to reduce the elevations and compact the soil around the roots. An application should also be made to the perennial border just as soon as the plants start into growth.

Saturday, March 22.

Keep pots of bulbous plants well watered. Grow a few hardy lilies in the borders. Lilies will grow most anywhere, but they do best when grown with a ground cover which keeps shade about their base. A leaf-mold soil, well drained, is suitable for all kinds.

Some kinds may be safely planted in spring; among them are L. auratum, elegans, davuricum, Henryi, regale, speciosum, tigrinum, and unbellatum. Plant in masses or in small groups and a fine effect will be obtained. Plant base rooting varieties shallow and stem rooting kinds comparatively deep.

Lilies like a well drained soil. Clematis hybrids should be more generously planted. Among them are varieties Henryi, a white; Jackmanii, purple; Mad Edward Andre, red, and Ramona, light blue. Give a good, leaf-mold soil, well drained. The stems are slender and should be securely tied in place as they grow.

Prof. Edmonds will talk on the points to watch in the selection of a riding horse. Mann will present motion pictures and a verbal description of the forest preserve trails. There will be a question period after the talks.

An official of the Chicago park district will describe the park bridle paths at the second meeting April 7, and a well known horse show judge will discuss the points on which show mounts are scored. At the third meeting expansion of the forest preserve system will be discussed, as will the training and handling of riding horses.

Grimes and named John William. He was born in Wheeling, home of the Steelmakers. The regular cast of the Steelmakers will be augmented today by Dominic Paolo, an expert on the accordion.

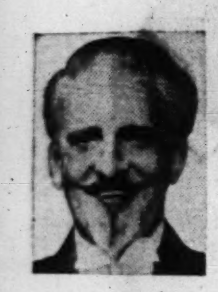
Dante Brings Magic Spectacle to Erlanger Tomorrow

'See My Lawyer' Lights Selwyn on Wednesday

By Cecil Smith.

Not since Christmas week has the forlorn Chicago stage rejoiced in two theatrical openings in a single week. But the legitimate theater at last begins to show signs of renewed vitality, and the current week's premières will be followed by three others before Easter, and still more after that festival day.

Dante, the magician, assisted by an Australian beauty known as Moi-Yo Miller and a company of 35, reopens the Erlanger theater tomorrow evening. His horrendous spectacle is known as "Sim-Sala-Bim," a title drawn from the patter accompanying a harmless little Danish children's game.



Dante.

Two days later, on Wednesday evening, the Chicago stage debut of Willie Shore, well known café entertainer, will take place at the Selwyn theater, in the first local showing of "See My Lawyer," a farce which played thru the 1939-'40 season in New York.

Dante, whose real name is Harry Jansen, began his career in Chicago. For 14 years he has toured "every country on earth" [I wonder how business was in Italian Somaliland], presenting the illusions, tricks, and mysteries he learned from the late Howard Thurston, along with a substantial répertoire of his own material.

The list of his professional accomplishments is impressive, tho not being a magic expert I am unable to separate the wheat from the chaff. I am, in point of fact, wholly dependent upon Dante's distinguished and unusually trustworthy press agent. He tells us that Dante "perfected" the trick of sawing a woman in two; what the nature of that perfection might be, I cannot guess, since I should think the trick would be perfect whenever the unfortunate woman was completely and thoroly severed. He also originated the "disappearing white horse," which Thurston borrowed from him, and also the breathtaking habit of "crushing a woman." I don't see how Miss Miller stands her job night after night.

Dante belongs in a long sequence of famous magicians and illusionists. Alexander Herrmann, who was at the top of the profession from 1880 to 1896, passed on his choicest tricks to Harry Kellar. In 1906 Thurston acquired Kellar's répertoire, which he embellished with additions of his own, until the end of his career in 1934. Dante is the inheritor of this classical portfolio of magic and illusion.

The Erlanger theater engagement is for three weeks, with the only Wednesday matinée this week. There will be regular Saturday matinées, and performances on Sunday evenings.

"See My Lawyer," opening at the Selwyn theater Wednesday evening, is a farce of about the same cultural pretensions as "Three Men on a Horse." The plot deals with the tribulations of three young lawyers, whose principal client is an unpredictable millionaire of the playboy variety.

Willie Shore, known to north side night owls as a master of ceremonies, undertakes his first assignment on the Chicago stage in "See My Lawyer," playing the rôle which was given to Milton Berle in the New York company. Jack Sheehan, who acted here in "Three Men on a Horse," appears as another of the young lawyers. From the original New York cast have been drafted Mary Rolfe, Robin Raymond, and Nat Cantor. Others in the cast are James Russo and Joe A. Callaway. The authors of the farce are Harry Clork and Richard Maibaum, and the stage director is Carroll Ashburn.

Statistics are dangerous things to quote, especially when you don't have them all. When I referred to "Du Barry Was a Lady" as the record long run, full price musical since 1927, I did not include the Auditorium theater in my investigation. This, alas, was a sad mistake, for "The Great Waltz" ran there for 15¼ weeks in 1935-'36. This record exceeds that of "Du Barry" by 4½ weeks, and the grosses in the huge Auditorium were, of course, infinitely larger.

MAKING HIS STAGE DEBUT

From the local night clubs comes comedian Willie Shore to play a leading role in the farce, "See My Lawyer," which opens at the Selwyn theater on Wednesday night.

Music Laboratory

The National Laboratory of Music was recently incorporated in this city to foster the study, learning, performance, and enjoyment of music along scientific lines, that is, as it embraces the basic sciences, such as mathematics, physics, and chemistry. The organization is located at 53 West Jackson boulevard and is headed by Adolph Bernadotte Ringstrom, Ragnhild Bernadotte, and James S. Pole.

Jane Nelson Plans Recital.

Martinis and Decoys Lure Cafe Patrons

By Will Davidson.

Clap hands, children, and rifle the coin bank, for the city's bistro bonifaces are hauling out the decoys to lure you into their jernts. And some flossy decoys they have, too.

It's quite possible you've never heard of John Buckmaster, but you're going to. He's from the playing fields of Eton, where they say England's battles are won, and he imitates things. Almost anything—like news reels, for instance. He'll be in the Drake hotel's Camellia house the 25th, and Ramon Ramos will be backing him up with his sassiety music. Don't pass the Buckmaster.

Chez Paree plays a sure thing on the 28th, bringing back Gertrude Niessen and Jack Cole's splendid dancers. Everybody knows Gertie, and if you saw Cole the last time here, nuff said. Frank Libuse and the 16 singing commanders may be held over, which would be something.

Bernie Cummins' comin' back to the Edgewater Beach the 28th, too. Bernie's band plays the music and he plays the angles, which is one reason he's one of the most popular maestros in the baton business.

The Bismarck brings in Tommy Martin, the amiable magician, this week, but wisely hangs onto Art Kassel until mid-April.

• • •

Already on hand to collect your coin are Raul and Eva Reyes, one of the smartest of Latin teams, at the Colony. With them are primitive young Blanco, who does steps Arthur Murray never thought of, Dorothy Hild's line, and the ever popular bands of Bobby Ramos and Monchito.

And then Mike Todd finally gave up Friday night and let Chicago see that "never before" show of his. It was all so secret I'll have to wait a week to gasp about it.

Bob Crosby's Dixie pixies came rushing into Chicago a week ago to prepare a place for the master in the Panther room of the Sherman, and since Ray Bauduc is still playing the hides and Bobby Haggart still hasn't learned to whistle, thank heavens, and since Gil Rodin knows music upside down but plays it right side up, all is well. The band has changed a lot, but nobody who likes jazz will complain too much.

Liz Tilton.

The Bobcats top the show, of course, and the Haggart-Bauduc version of "Big Noise from Winnetka" tops the Bobcats. Liz Tilton is as comely a lass as you'll find with any band, and her songs are pretty, too. The supporting show is average. The King Cole trio of instrumentalists suffers by comparison with the Bobcats; the Bob o'Links, who appear primarily with the band, are swell; the Mercer Brothers dance rather eccentricly; and the Bytton girls work well enough in some new routines. Eddie Chase is mastering the ceremonies until Crosby arrives, and you know how good Eddie Chase is.

• • •

I didn't think it'd ever happen, but Dolly Kay has left Harry's New Yorker, after setting some sort of record for popularity. There's a pretty solid little show there now, headed by the insanities of Billy Gray, who didn't build that Little—Home in the West, and Joanne Jordan, the young singing beauty who has come up fast and far. She still swings "Alice Blue Gown" with a gleam in her dark eyes, but she has some new material you should like.

Lynne and Marianne work hard and pretty successfully at their piano-vocals; Tony Marks is back deceiving gayly with his parlor tricks; Doris du Pont taps; and the Muriel Kretlow New Yorchids [I always want to spell that New York Kids] continue their eminently satisfactory line work. Of course, Arne Barnett continues to be the surprise of the season with his slick little band. Al Milton's rhumba band and Mary Camp keep things going in the interim.

Boswelling the Bistros: Where'll you find a smoother signature song than Teddy Wilson's "The Things That Mean So Much" at the Pump room? Teddy's hot concerts, with J. C. Heard, the handsome drummer boy, and Jimmy Hamilton on the licorice stick [O, well, clarinet, then] are among the things not to be missed. . . . Bob Curley, who tells the world for Chez Paree, is seeking a little Old Sol-itude down in N'Orleans. . . . Jean Frisk, tall, dark, and serene, has brought some exciting potentialities into the night club field in her debut in Camellia House. Incidentally, it'll be a sad but fond adios to friendly Bob Knight there Sunday. . . . Judy Clark, Ray [Stinger] Heatherton's cute singer at the Stevens Continental room, reigned as queen of as talent a filled evening as you'll ever see, at the Showmen's League ball. . . . Fred [Take Your] Joyce says Winnie Hoveler is going into the Rainbow room soon. We hope. . . . Yar is sporting a top flight singer in George Martell. . . . Monica Schick, "The Female Chevalier," is a new attraction at L'Aiglon. . . . Mike Todd's "Gay New Orleans" show can be seen at the Oriental soon. . . . That was a cute "Escape" party Le Petit Gourmet staged the other night. . . . If you've wondered where Joe Buckley and his violin have been hiding, they are in the very congenial atmosphere of the Key club, playing "When We Are Together" in the usual angelic manner. Bill Schneider, the appendix-less pianist, is still with him. . . . Another Stevens hotel baby, this one to Frank Irving, new assistant executive manager. . . . Eddie [Bob Crosby] Miller headlines Harry Lim's jam session in the Sherman today. . . . Incidentally the Maginot line now is just something on which France hangs her dirty linen.

PALMER HOUSE HEADLINERS

Eddy Duchin and Lorraine Sanchi are two of the attractive reasons the current Empire room show is one of the best in Palmer House history. Eddy's music provides the background for Lorraine's dances.

Music Calendar Includes Three Orchestras This Week

Indianapolis Group to Play Concert Here

By Edward Barry.

Three major symphony orchestras instead of the customary two find place on the city's music calendar this week. The visitor is the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra, Fabien Sevitzky, conductor, which will present a concert in Orchestra hall tomorrow evening.

The Indianapolis orchestra is 11 years old, but this is only the fourth season during which it has functioned as a fully professional outfit. It was founded in 1930 by Ferdinand Schaefer, who remained as its conductor until the season of 1936-'37, when Vladimir Bakaleinikoff and Sevitzky were engaged as guest directors. The latter took over full responsibility the following year and has succeeded in giving the orchestra national standing by means of recording work and radio broadcasts.

Fabien Sevitzky.

Sevitzky was born in Russia 47 years ago. Like his celebrated uncle, Serge Koussevitzky, now conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra, he became a string bass player. He settled in America about 1923, and was active in Philadelphia as bass player and conductor. From 1934 to 1936 he directed concerts of the People's Symphony orchestra in Boston. He found time for two European tours, also, and for a few guest appearances in the United States.

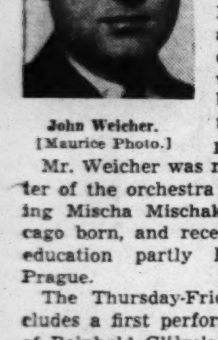
The first Chicago concert of the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra was given only last season. It made an excellent impression. The program for tomorrow evening follows:

Overture to "Russlan and Ludmilla"—Glinka
Poems on an Aramaic Theme.......McDonald
"The Sea".............................Debussy
Symphony No. 2, D Major, Op. 43...Sibelius

It is Mr. Sevitzky's policy to include at least one American work on every program he conducts. Harl McDonald, whose Poems on an Aramaic Theme stands second on tomorrow's program, is the manager of the Philadelphia orchestra.

• • •

Next Thursday night and Friday afternoon the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock, conductor, will present its own concertmaster, John Weicher, as soloist. He is to be heard in Ernest Bloch's recent and only violin concerto, a work which has yet to be presented by the Chicago Symphony orchestra.



John Weicher.

Mr. Weicher was made concertmaster of the orchestra in 1937, succeeding Mischa Mischakoff. He is Chicago born, and received his musical education partly here, partly in Prague.

The Thursday-Friday program includes a first performance anywhere of Reinhold Glière's overture, "Fête Ferganaise." This Russian composer, who is best known here for his Symphony, "Ilia Mourometz," and his Symphonic Poem, "The Sirens," wrote his new overture expressly for the Chicago Symphony orchestra's golden jubilee season and dedicated it to the orchestra and Dr. Stock.

The orchestra's assignments for this week include also a concert in Milwaukee tomorrow night, a young people's concert Wednesday afternoon with 9 year old Edwin Gordon returning to appear as piano soloist, and a popular concert Saturday night. Programs for the adult concerts in Orchestra hall, all of which Dr. Stock will conduct, follow:

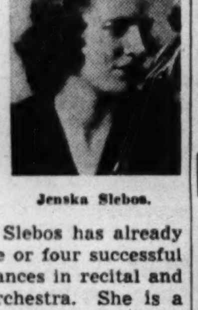
Thursday at 8:15 and Friday at 2:15.
Overture, "Fête Ferganaise"...........Glière
Concerto for violin and orchestra.........Bloch
John Weicher.
Symphony No. 2, E Minor..........Borowski
Alborado del Gracioso.......................Ravel

Saturday at 8:15.
Overture, "Roman Carnival"........Berlioz
Symphony, D Minor......................Franck
Rumanian Rhapsody No. 1...............Enesco
Symphonic Poem, "The Spinning Wheel of Omphale"......................Saint-Saëns
"In the Spinning Room"..............Dvorak
Finale from Act III, "Siegfried"....Wagner

Dr. Borowski, whose Second symphony appears on the Thursday-Friday program, is the composer, critic, and teacher who has long annotated the programs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

• • •

The Illinois Symphony orchestra, like the Chicago, is this week presenting one of its own members as soloist. In the Great Northern theater tomorrow night Jenska Siebos will abandon her familiar place at the head of the cello section to play the solo part of the Hadyn Concerto. Izler Solomon is to conduct. Miss Siebos has already to her credit three or four successful downtown appearances in recital and as soloist with orchestra. She is a member of the Woman's Symphony orchestra as well as of the Illinois.



Jenska Siebos.

Tomorrow evening's program:

Overture to "Iphigenia in Aulis"......Gluck
Symphony No. 7, A Major, Op. 92. Beethoven
Concerto for Violoncello, D Major....Haydn
Suite, "Mediterranean"..............Fuleihan

To anticipate a little, the Civic orchestra under Hans Lange's direction will present in Orchestra hall next Sunday the third concert of its season.

SLAVIC FESTIVAL DANCER

Vera Rezabek-Allen, Czech dancer, will be one of the many performers on the Slavic-American music and dance festival to be given this afternoon and evening in the Civic Opera house.

Current Music News

Robert Casadesus, eminent French pianist, will bring the current Adult Education council's Musical Arts piano series to a close on Tuesday with a recital in Orchestra hall. M. Casadesus is Parisian by birth, and the descendant of a long line of famous and scholarly French musicians. Like most of his successful compatriots in the concert field he arrived at a career by graduating from the Paris conservatory. In 1934 he succeeded Isidor Philipp as head of the piano department of the American School of Music at Fontainebleau, and a year later made his American debut with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra under Hans Lange. Two seasons ago he made his first appearance on the council's piano series.

Robert Casadesus.

Sonata, A major, opus 2, No. 2....Beethoven
Four Ballades................................Chopin
Papillons, opus 2......................Schumann
Sonatine ....Ravel
L'Isle Joyeuse..............................Debussy

The a cappella choir and chamber orchestra of Northwestern university will collaborate on an all-Mozart program this afternoon in Cahn auditorium of Scott hall on the university campus. The orchestra will be heard under David Van Vactor's direction in the overture to "The Abduction from the Seraglio," and the "Haffner" symphony in D major [Köchel 385].

The choir will then join with the orchestra to present Mozart's Requiem, giving this major work its first local performance in many years. George Howerton will conduct, and the soloists will be Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano; Edna Tyne Bowles, contralto; Eugene Dressler, tenor, and Loyal Phillips Shawe, bass.

On Tuesday morning the Russian Trio will give the next to the last of its series of programs in the Arts club, under the sponsorship of the Chicago Music society. The final concert will be played two weeks later on April 1. Members of the group are Nina Mesirow-Minchin, pianist; Hans Muenzer, violinist, and Ennio Bolognini, cellist. Tuesday's program is of special interest, for it contains both a mature work by Schubert and a rarely played early composition by Chopin. The program:

Trio, B-flat major, opus 99..........Schubert
Trio, G minor, opus 8....................Chopin
Walzer-Märchen ....Schütt

Organized to promote the performance of contemporary music locally, the New Music Group of Chicago will present its second concert on Friday night in the Lyon & Healy recital hall. It began its activities by sponsoring a lecture-recital by the composer and pianist, Ernst Krenek. On Friday it will introduce the recently formed New Music String quartet, composed of Irving Ilmer, Jerome Kasin, Juli Slakin, and Seymour Barab. The First Quartet in D minor, opus 7, by the contemporary Arnold Schönberg, will share Friday's program with Beethoven's Quartet in F major, opus 135.

Leo Sowerby's Lenten cantata, "Forsaken of Man," will be sung by the choir of St. James church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, under the composer's direction, on Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock.

Conservatory to Celebrate Its 75th Year

This afternoon in the Great Northern theater the Chicago Conservatory of Music, said to be the oldest music school in the United States, will celebrate the 75th year of its Chicago activities with a diamond jubilee concert. The conservatory was founded in New York in 1857 and then moved with its entire personnel to Chicago in 1865, adopting its present name. Its first local home was in the famous old Crosby Opera house. Now it is located in Kimball hall. It counts among its best known alumni Gladys Swarthout, Alec Templeton and Jan Garber.

Today's concert will be played by the conservatory's symphony orchestra under Ludwig Becker. The soloists have been selected from the student body and include Kenneth Ward and Richard Gordon, tenors; Mary Katz, violinist; Frankie Fambro and Shirley Dickinson, sopranos; Beulah Lund, pianist; Bettylou Scandling, contralto, and William Tabbert, baritone.

Vittorio Rieti, an Italian composer born in Alexandria, Egypt, and a pupil of Respighi, will lecture on "Bad Music" before the Arts club on Wednesday morning. Rieti has composed several large scale works—operas, symphonies, and concertos—but he is best known for his ballet scores, commissioned by Diaghileff and his successors. Of these Chicago has heard [and seen the ballet too] "Le Bal."

This afternoon in Orchestra hall the Lithuanian Culture society will sponsor the first Chicago appearance of Vytautas Bacevicius, Lithuanian composer-organist. Mr. Bacevicius was graduated from the Paris conservatory in 1928 with high honors both as a composer and pianist. Since then he has toured all of Europe's principal cities, appearing in recital and with many famous orchestras. Three years ago he was invited by the Belgian government to act as a jury member in the international piano contest in Brussels. While there he received the title of Cavalier and the Order of the Crown of Leopold III. He has represented Lithuania in recent meetings of the International Society for Contemporary Music. A lengthy tour of South America preceded his current visit to the United States.

As a composer Mr. Bacevicius has to his credit two symphonies, a symphonic poem [scored for 188 instruments], an opera, two ballets, two piano concertos, and several shorter pieces. On today's program he will offer his first piano sonata and three of his short works. The rest of his pianistic efforts will be devoted to works by Franck, Chopin, Tcherepnin, Rachmaninoff and others.

The Lithuanian K. M. chorus, J. Kenston, director, will contribute a group of songs to the concert.

A program of allied arts will be presented by the Chicago Artists' association in Curtiss hall on Tuesday evening. On the musical portion of the concert Ruth Heizer, contralto; Paula Zwane, soprano, and Robert Volk, pianist, will appear. In addition William D. Luger will dance, the Verse Speaking choir will perform, and F. Fairweather Babcock will draw a portrait of a selected model.

New Operetta

The composer of "Countess Maritza," Emmerich Kalman, has finished the music for "Malibran," an operetta based on the life of the famous 19th century soprano. The book has been prepared by Paul Knepler and Albert Willemetz, and the show expects to reach New York next fall. The same singer also was the subject of an opera written a few years ago by Robert Russell Bennett and called "Maria Malibran."

End of Winter Marked by Big Ice Spectacles

Chicago is plentifully supplied with big ice spectacles this month. "It Happens on Ice," in which Joe Cook adds his special comic contributions to a lavish show which is otherwise entirely on skates continues at the Chicago Stadium thru next Sunday, skipping performances today and Thursday, but adding matinées Saturday and next Sunday. On Monday, March 24, "Ice Follies of 1941" comes back to the Chicago Arena for a return engagement. In its previous engagement this expert entertainment, starring among others the great champion skater, Bess Ehrhardt, turned away thousands of customers who could not be accommodated during its limited engagement. This time "Ice Follies of 1941" will remain at the Arena for 14 days, closing on April 6.

Five hundred boys and girls will see their first legitimate play when they attend "Life with Father" at the Blackstone theater on March 31. This remarkable and valuable enterprise was conceived by Mrs. M. Lee Alberts, president of the Chicago Drama league, and has the coöperation of school officials, of members of the league, and of Oscar Serlin, producer of the famous comedy. Funds for the purchase of tickets were raised by subscription among league members and friends. "Life with Father," incidentally, has now passed the 56 week record of "The Student Prince," and only two more run records remain for it to surpass.

With Barbara Scully, the 17 year old Kathie from Detroit, now happily in charge of the chief heart interest part, "The Student Prince" remains at the Grand Opera house a week longer than had been anticipated, closing on Saturday evening. Until last autumn Barbara Scully had never appeared on the professional stage. When J. J. Shubert was organizing an operetta season in Detroit last fall, he ran across the young singer, and gave her the part of Mitzi in "Blossom Time." Kathie is her second professional part.

The cast of "Arsenic and Old Lace," opening at the Grand Opera house on March 31, has been announced, and the Chicago company is now rehearsing in New York under the direction of Bretaigne Windust, who also staged "Life with Father." The principal players are Eric von Stroheim, Laura Hope Crews, Effie Shannon, Herbert Vorthell, Clinton Sundberg, and Helen Twelvetrees. The producers are Russel Crouse and Howard Lindsay, the adapters and authors of "Life with Father."

Maurice Evans, noted Shakespearean actor, appears in lecture-recital at the Studebaker theater this afternoon at 2:30, for the benefit of the British War Relief society. He is flying here from the east, where "Twelfth Night," in which he is costarred with Helen Hayes, is now touring. In his lecture, "Shakespeare in the News," he will read excerpts from "Hamlet" and "King Richard II." The committee in charge emphasizes the fact that prices are extremely low, and not at the usual benefit scale.

Burton Holmes, the genial world traveler, concludes his series of five lectures in Orchestra hall this week with new color motion pictures of the United States. The lectures are presented on Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon.

Alexander Woollcott's appearance as Sheridan Whiteside in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" has been moved forward a week. The opening will now occur at the Erlanger theater on Monday, April 7. The cast includes Edith Atwater, Doris Nolan, Erick Rhodes, and Teddy Hart.

An interesting bit of life history may be uncovered about each of the players in "New Pins and Needles," the Labor Stage revue at the Studebaker theater. Take the case of Harry Clark, who functions in versatile fashion as Mussolini, as the singing waiter in the sketch called "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl," and as the lord high executioner in "The Red Mikado." Clark started out as a truck driver for a garment firm. While attending school on a part time basis at New York university he tried out for "Pins and Needles," was accepted, left school, settled up the back tuition he owed, and became an actor. While at New York university he won the New York hammer throwing championship.

New Plan of Student Aid Assures Jobs

By the Rev. John Evans.

An unusual form of student aid for those who wish to work their way thru college has been announced by Kathryn Judkins, coördinator of the business and management coöperative courses at Lewis division [formerly Lewis institute] of Illinois Institute of Technology.

In a statement which outlined plans for the matriculation of the second section of the recently installed coöperative courses at Lewis on March 31, Miss Judkins explained that 18 students who have spent eight weeks since Feb. 3 in studies at the institute will begin working in business and industry. Wages sufficient to cover tuition costs and incidental expenses will be paid the student.

"Students enrolling March 31 at Lewis for the coöperative course will be following those we are sending out to guaranteed jobs at good wages," Miss Judkins explained. "In effect, we provide scholarships for many persons we accept in the industrial management courses by finding them jobs at which they alternate with periods at school thru five years.

"At the end of five years the students graduate with the degree of bachelor of science in business administration and industrial management and a training in the business world that puts them well on the way toward junior executives."

Miss Judkins explained that the school year is divided into six alternating periods of eight weeks each. During the first period, she added, the student studies fundamental courses in science, economics, advertising, humanities, salesmanship, office management, and other related subjects. She said that business enterprises are requesting workers from the coöperative setup.

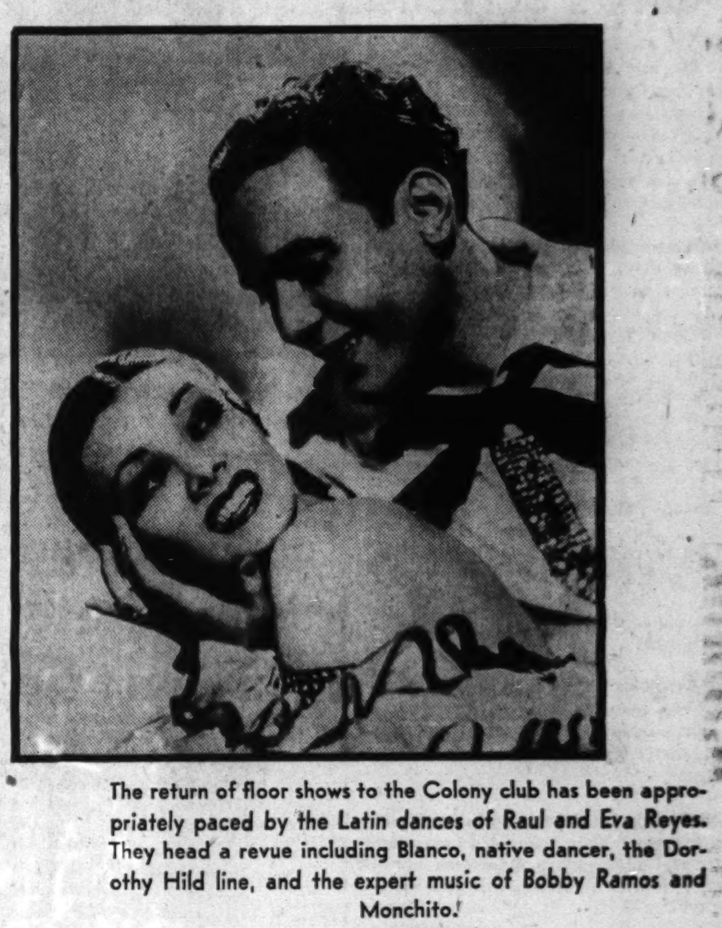
Carthage college, Carthage, Ill., has launched a drive for $50,000 for a new library building to house the 30,000 volumes accumulated by the college since its founding 70 years ago. Rudolph G. Schulz, president, announced that altho the institution is a recognized Lutheran college, enrolled students are from the following faiths: Methodist, Presbyterian, Disciples, Catholics, Baptists, Congregationalists, Episcopal, Evangelical, Jewish, Christian Scientist, United Brethren, and Assembly of God.

'Clash by Night'

Having started off the season with a failure, Irwin Shaw's "Retreat to Pleasure," the Group theater will next produce a new work from the pen of Clifford Odets. Temporarily known as "Clash by Night," it will serve as a vehicle for Luther Adler and his wife, Sylvia Sidney. Lee Strasberg will direct.

HEAD COLONY CLUB SHOW



The return of floor shows to the Colony club has been appropriately paced by the Latin dances of Raul and Eva Reyes. They head a revue including Blanco, native dancer, the Dorothy Hild line, and the expert music of Bobby Ramos and Monchito.

Notes of Music and Musicians

The second annual music festival of the Catholic Music Educators association will be held on Friday afternoon and repeated next Sunday evening in the Civic Opera house. A massed chorus of 800 girls' voices, a 100 piece symphony orchestra, and a concert band of similar proportions are scheduled to appear on the program. These groups have been formed from instrumentalists and singers in the several parochial schools in and about Chicago. The festival orchestra will be led by Adam P. Levinsky, director of instrumental music in the public schools of Whiting, Ind. David Nyvall Jr., director of choral music at the Chicago Teachers' college and a faculty member with De Paul university, will conduct the chorus; Clifford P. Lillya, director of instrumental music at Marshall High school, will lead the large band. According to the Rev. Roderick Hurley, O. Carm., president of the association, the festival will "demonstrate publicly what is being done in the Catholic high schools in the study of music." It is hoped that such an event will encourage a stronger music program in the school system.

Clifford P. Lillya.

Altho the Musicians Club of Women has been presenting numerous important and distinguished musicians from outside of Chicago on its Artist recitals, it will inaugurate this week a policy of presenting members of its own group on this series. On Monday night in the Arts club its 203d Artist recital will offer Rose Lyon du Moulin, pianist, and Agatha Lewis, soprano. Each will perform a group of modern works. In addition the pianist will play Shostakovitch's Concerto, with Franz Pfau at the second piano, and Miss Lewis will sing an aria by Mozart and a group of Schubert songs. Florence Henline is the accompanist.

The Chicago Dance council will present a group of young Chicago dancers in a program of ballet, character, Spanish and modern dances in Kimball hall on Friday evening. The performers were selected from auditions conducted by the council among local dancers.

Something called "The Purim Mikado," employing Sullivan's music in a "Purim version," by Ben Aronin, will be presented tonight at the Anshe Emet synagogue, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street.

Good morning!

All of God's chillun haven't got shoes and some of 'em don't particularly care, which makes you not particularly care either.

It's an emasculated version of the play—which I read but didn't see—that is having a record breaking run. Minus most of the original's barnyard stench and profanity, it portrays the life of a "poor white trash" family, the Lesters, a down at the heel, hungry, lazy, destructive, unmoral clan.

Charley Grapewin turns in a great performance as "Jeeter," Pa of the tribe. Elizabeth Patterson is dirty, desolate, and vaguely appealing as Ada, the Ma. William Tracy is thoroly revolting as Dude, the moronic, vicious, overgrown Lester younger son. Ward Bond as the grown up crybaby husband of Pearl Lester, the golden haired daughter—who never appears—and who refuses to live with him, gives an excellent account of himself. Gene Tierney isn't so good as the pitiful, oversexed Ellie, and Marjorie Rambeau I thought entirely unconvincing as Sister Bessie.

• • •

Tell you one you'll be writing in about: Dana Andrews, who plays Dr. Tim. Quiet, forceful, magnetic, this fine looking young man with his sympathetic face and his gift of getting over much without doing anything.

Sets, scenery, and photography are good. But the film as a whole completely missed fire with me.

See you tomorrow.

Chicago Premiere.

The first Chicago performances of "Who Ride on White Horses," a chronicle play about Edmund Campion, by Richard Breen and Harry Schnibbe, will be given by the Loyola Community theater, 1320 Loyola avenue on Monday and Tuesday, March 24 and 25. It was written and prepared for production at the Fordham university playshop and was first staged in New York a year ago in commemoration of the fourth centenary of the Society of Jesus.

New Hayes Play

In a recent interview Helen Hayes referred to her future plans without being specific about them. She was speaking of Maurice Evans, with whom she is co-starred in a production of "Twelfth Night," and she remarked that "it's wonderful to play with some one who can give you so much, and I'm so happy to think that while 'Twelfth Night' is the first play we've been in together it won't be the last. Yes, we have some definite plans for the future, one play in particular which we will do after 'Twelfth Night.' No, it's not Shakespeare. Is it a classic? Well, we think it is."

Once or twice Fleming caught sight of Paw or Bop driving the rickety horses and rickety wagon full of children to the little far-off schoolhouse. Theby was among them.

uring out the best route for the new highway, sketching various center lines at various levels and on different sides of the valley. One route was short, but it would be costly to keep to a grade of no more than 6 per cent. Another would require the building of many bridges to cross and re-cross the stream and keep the road above high water. Another offered few difficulties, but would be circuitous and merely shift the saving into an expense for the public.

Careful censuses were taken of the number of motorists using the inland route and the coast route, the numbers of trucks and of pleasure cars, the probable number that would use the highway. The gasoline cost was estimated with scientific care, and when Gallatin finally made his choice, he had estimated that the economy to the public in mileage would pay for the whole construction in two years.

On his maps he drew in three different routes, tho he strongly favored one. Then he invited his superiors to look over the field itself. The district engineer was there and the engineer of surveys and plans himself came down from the capital at Sacramento. It made their hearts young again, if not their muscles, to clamber about the steeps and inhale the lofty air. Gallatin pointed out just where he planned to lay the highway, had stakes in many places, a flag here and there. They could visualize the road with ease, and they had few suggestions to make, and made those mainly to justify their existences.

Fleming Praised by Superiors for Initiative

Fleming had noticed that when he first saw the newcomers they had stared at him, muttered about him, and then plainly laughed at him.

For underlings to be noticed at all by the higherups is always terrifying, but to be discussed and ridiculed was devastating. Fleming could not imagine what he had done to deserve their ridicule and he supposed that he was in for an ousting.

But finally Gallatin relented and introduced him to the great men, and he learned the cause of their smiles. His name had been better known in the highway division than he had dreamed.

In self-evidence from the fun poked at him for being so easily deceived by Fleming, Kimberlane had confessed, or boasted, how easily he had unloaded his idea on Spetts. Then everybody began to laugh at Spetts, and he prepared to pass the fool's cap on to Swingle, but Swingle beat him to it by telling the story as a joke on himself. Who laughs first laughs best and is surest of his laugh.

The only thing left to do now with the highway idea was to unload it all on young Fleming. His superiors had not been laughing at him, but at the higher-ups. They were very handsome in the praise they heaped on him for his initiative and energy.

To prove that they were not merely passing the buck they urged his promotion at the first opportunity. The chance came soon, for one day the ground on a promontory gave way beneath Sven Bring and he was precipitated down a cliff. His neck and back were broken, but he was nearly unkillable. Word came that he would live, but in plaster for many a long month. Ole's departure made an opening for Fleming and he was promoted to field boss of his party.

As soon as the head men had given the preliminary survey the once-over, there was no delay in approving the whole project, up to this point and authorizing the next step, a location survey for the actual road.

Then the party marched back into the Valley of the Eagles to begin the new survey at the beginning of the preliminary survey. Fleming returned as field boss and tried to bear his honors meekly. But one can strut by exaggerating meekness as well as by exaggerating haughtiness.

The best of it was that the party instead of being shot at as before, was welcomed now by the cheering Kimbos. They had grown used to the men and especially to their money. It had not been enough—money is never just enough, but when it ceased to come in at all, the Kimbos' mourning had been sincere.

Then suddenly the engineers returned, set up new tents, brought back their old appetites, had still more money to spend. Once more the Kimbos marched in a daily procession with the fruits of their hens, their orchards, their herd, and their garden.

Best of all came Theby lugging the milk once more. When Fleming hurried toward her, she could not have fled without spilling the milk. But she did not seem to want to run.

Theby's wrath had always been instant, public, and devastating to herself as well as to the one who woke it. Fleming had not known that her remorse was sure, but slow and secret. During the long absence of the engineers she had had time and leisure enough to repent her violence toward them.

Seeing how she almost smiled at him—at least she did not glare—Fleming wondered if the little shrew had tamed herself. She could not have startled him more if she had thrown a full milk pail at him than she did when her first look at him changed into a sweetness he had not thought her tight little features could manage.

She set down the pails and said: "Right glad to see y'all back again, Mistoo Flem'n'. Hit's been right lonedsome 'thout y'all, Mistoo Flem'n'."

Of course the "all" meant that the greeting was intended for the whole party. But her eyes focused it on him.

"Mighty glad to be back, Miss Theby," he said. That "Miss" seemed to set her up in pride again. She carried her pails of milk to Snowball, who greeted her with unsuspecting cordiality.

"How's you, Miss Kimbo? Ain't seen you sence I burned down my old tent."

"You didn't burn down no tent," Theby gasped.

"No man, I p'intedly did not; but I got the full credit for it."

He had not heard anything strange in Theby's words, but Fleming had, and he wondered how long this new and better Theby would last. She came to him at once to say:

"That book you sent me—I been broodin' over that. I hadn't ought 'a' burned it. It was might' nice of you to send for it, and might' nice of Miss Soo What's-her-name to fetch it. And then I had to go and burn it! Seems like I'll never forgive myself; let alone askin' you to."

"I'll forgive you without the asking. Would you like to try the book again? I have it here."

Craig Explains Pictures in Book to Theby

Without waiting for her consent, he hurried to his field chest and brought back the partially incinerated volume. She looked at it ruefully. She shook her head in shame over what she had written on the inside of the front cover.

"Powerful bad writin'," she said. "I been studyin' in school. I can write better writin' and I wouldn't write such words no more now."

"What does that say? I'm like Paw, I don't read so good without glasses."

"Who's he? King to her queen?"

"No, Fersen was a Swede and the king was French, of course. Marie was an Austrian."

"An ostrich? Marie was an ostrich! She don't look it."

"No, no. She came from Austria."

"O!"

Plainly the word meant absolutely nothing to her. If she had ever heard it mentioned, she had taken no notice of it. That "O!" of hers indicated a faint suspicion that there was something as improper about the word as there apparently was about the behavior of the beautiful Autrichienne. She was as embarrased as Mr. Boffen was when Mr. Wegg rebuked him for asking the difference between "Downfall of the Rooshian empire" and the name of the Roman—in the presence of Mrs. Boffin. Like Mr. Boffin she dropped the subject. But Fleming, in the hope of interesting her in the melodramatic plot, went on to tell her more.

"You see Marie's mother made her marry King Louis of France. Fersen was her lover. He loved her madly. He grieved bitterly when the people cut off her head; and years later his own people stoned him to death."

"They had lively times them days, didn't they. Was they feudin', too?"

"Feudin' the worst way."

"Did that Fersen feller used to sneak round to Mary Antoinette when the king was out choppin' wood or something?"

"I wouldn't be surprised."

"They was very bad folks, wasn't they?"

"I suppose they were, but I don't know who's bad and who isn't—or was or wasn't."

This note of tolerance confused her. She returned to the book.

"Tell me more about 'em."

He pressed the volume on her.

"Read it for yourself."

She flinched from it.

"I just cain' do it. I know the letters by sight, but the words—they make funny faces at me. And even when I git the words to fall in line, they don't make sense. In school, when I git to go to school, they put me daown among such babies, it makes me mad. I wisht I could git teached like I was growed up."

"I'd love to teach you."

She stared at him in startled unbelief. He must be making fun of her. Yet his eyes were earnest. If he had offered her love, or an apple, or a nice dress, she could have been properly indignant. But his gift was education. She could hardly hit him with a rock for that. All she could say was:

"Ah, you're too busy to waste time on me."

"Evenings I could come up to your house. I spent several days there when you were nursing me. I'd like to pay that old debt."

This was overwhelming. He was in debt to her! In repayment he offered her salvation from strangling ignorance; he would teach eyes their way thru the jungles of printed pages. If he had brought to Sue Tipton a diamond dog collar she would have been stunned speechless. But he was tempting Theby with far more than jewels.

Her eyes gleamed wet; her head fell. She scuffed the ground with her old shoes. The best she could say was:

"We-ull—should you happen to drop up to the house, I cer'ny won't shoot you."

The first day there was too much to do establishing the camp and beginning the final location, survey of the new center line that Gallatin had selected for the actual road. In this survey the character of the ground must be noted constantly, the spots where every cut must be made and every gap filled up, the slopes to be sliced, the position and size of every culvert, the place for every bridge large and small, as the locating engineer selected them.

Wherever the road would cross private property a notation must be made of that so that the condemnation proceedings and the purchase price could be settled when the time came.

The new center line did not follow the floor of the valley, but kept above flood water mark. This compelled constant climbing, the chopping away of trees as well as brush to permit the use of the tape and the marking of the line with stakes.

It was not till the night of the third day that Fleming found time to visit the Kimbo home. It was a crowded hive and the children swarmed about with questions, the lamplight was poor and a lesson in reading was out of the question.

The children asked nothing but questions, many of them acutely confusing, such as "Air you Theby's feller?" "Theby, is he a-sparkin' you?" "What you wear them funny clo'es fer?" "Will you give me a pinny? Well, iffen you won't gimme a pinny will you give me a dime?" They also made up taunting rhymes: "Theby's got the heeby jeeby." "Theby's stuck on Mistoo Tuckon." "Mistoo Flemin' he's a lemin." There was no more stopping them than persuading a swarm of gnats to keep its distance and hush its song.

To Theby this was stark tragedy, but the next day was Saturday and Fleming promised to come up while the afternoon light was bright. When he arrived the house was still so infested with family nuisances, that he and Theby took the book out to a ledge under the trees. The camp was far below them and they could see without being seen.

But where to begin the education? It took only a few hopeless failures to convince Fleming that a biography of a French queen was beyond Theby's utmost grasp as yet. Her ignorance of the world, its cities, nations, wars, dynasties, was abysmal. And yet, as she sat by his side, looking down at the book, she terrified him by the many things she knew, the things she could be.

In his perplexity he turned the pages idly, and strange things leapt out at him, things he had not noted when he had skimmed the book.

Marie Antoinette had married the dauphin of France when she was younger than Theby. The little Austrian was only 14 when she was married by proxy and sent into a realm as strange almost to her as it would have been to Theby. At the border she had had to strip stark naked and dress all over in French clothes and French jewels in order to leave behind her every Austrian property and begin life all anew.

Fleming Finds Delight in Tutoring Theby

What startled Fleming more was to read that, a year before she was married—the book said it!—"she could write neither French nor German correctly, and was lacking in the most elementary knowledge of history. . . . There was no time lose . . . the self-willed and idle Toinette must be transformed into a cultured lady."

It delighted him to tell this to Theby and to offer to be her tutor as the Abbe Vermond attempted to rush Marie from ignorance to learning. But this did not cheer Theby as it did him.

"It makes me feel disencourageder 'n' ever," she said. "I'm 'way older than what she was and just only startin'."

"But you don't have to get ready to be a queen in a year."

There was deep pathos in her reply to this, a brooding reply:

"Just what would I be gettin' ready to be, was I to learn all this learnin'?"

What indeed? Her future gave Fleming pause. If Marie Antoinette had been left as the lazy and frivolous little princess she would have escaped infernal sufferings and shames and sins, as well as that beautiful immortality which she could hardly have imagined in prison under foul accusations ending with the long last ride in the tumbril to the steps of the guillotine.

Comparing this little hill-girl with that great queen was fantastic, yet suffering is suffering and failure failure however petty the sufferer. In teaching Theby to know books he might be merely decoying her from obscure discontent into public disaster.

FOUR WHO MET

By

Paul Deresco Augsburg

(Copyright: 1941: By Paul Deresco Augsburg.)

Then his own hand leaped and its bloody knuckles crashed full force against Hansen's head.

THEY call it the crossroads of the world. There the jungle halts at the edge of a lake which was made by army engineers. Up from the sea thru gigantic locks come ships for Asia, ships for Europe, for the ports of both the American coasts. Just 50 miles from ocean to ocean; and at each of the gates a rendezvous city where merchants from India vend their wares and Japanese barbers are colonels at home, where Chinamen mingle with native Latins and blue eyes peer, assured but alert, from under the brims of Panama hats; while everywhere one presence is felt, seen in the skies and on men-of-war, in tropical uniforms, strolling the streets—the lean, tall figure of Uncle Sam.

On this Tuesday afternoon in November four persons converged upon the canal by sea and by air.

Lieutenant Commander Luce was one. The reconnoissance plane had banked for a turn, and his glasses were pointed down at a boat which rolled on the swells as it labored toward home.

A gray Panamanian fishing craft with dirty red canvas spread to the wind. The Santa Marta. Luce recognized it, for twice in one week he had ordered the seaplane to go alongside while he searched it in vain.

To the pilot he shouted, "Take 'er away," and the ship straightened out for the roofs of Colon. Luce frowned overside. He was utterly stumped. The signals seemed to come from the water; directional angles placed them so; lines drawn on the chart always met offshore—one day here, the next day there, with the hour of sending varied as well.

Decoded Messages Tell of Ships' Movements

These radioed signals, when they were decoded, each time told one kind of tale: Torquay, British, 4200, 11, 18:30, Bristol—and a list of every other ship which had cleared the bay after crossing the isthmus. What more need a submarine skipper know than the name and tonnage, the speed of a vessel, the hour of her leaving, and where she was bound?

Luce had been detailed to stop these reports. For the New World republics, great and small, having solemnly met in Panama City, had ruled that no war across the seas must disturb the serenity of their shores. The Caribbean lay out of bounds. The old Spanish Main was to be a pond!

His plane seemed to hover, a hawk in the sky, and yet already its wings were over the breakwater sheltering Limon bay. Luce stared glumly at a destroyer which had just emerged from the Gatun locks and was steaming out past the old French ditch.

"Soft for that skipper," he spoke aloud. "No needle in haystack for him to find. Tonight"—he considered the matter and nodded—"I'll look in the bottom of a glass and see what I see. Tried everywhere else."

In the Santa Marta's dingy cabin a man wiped the anxious sweat from his face and expelled a deep-drawn sigh of relief. The navy plane was a speck in the west; the danger had passed; he could now relax.

The swarthy native who sat at the tiller grinned at him, and the man grinned back. He had thin blond hair and sharp blue eyes, as blue almost as the diver's helmet which he had been ready to don in a trice—blue because that would blend with the sea and prevent discovery of him down there.

He unstrapped the compressed-air tank from his shoulders. To go overside without being observed, using the dirty red sail as a screen, was a very uncertain matter at best, and the law of averages made it less likely that, twice successful, the third time would work.

"Our friend is sick of the smell of fish, as I am too," he said in Spanish.

"Fortunately," the blond man nodded. His face was well known in Colon, where he lived, and across the Zone in Panama City. He had come from Brazil 10 months ago to handle affairs for a coffee house in the export trade at Sao Paulo. His name, Kurt Hansen; a Danish subject; at least his passport claimed him as such.

From forward, where two other natives lay sprawled, came the shouted warning, "A plane, señor!" Hansen raised his glasses and peered to eastward. Smiling, he lowered them. It was nothing—nothing more menacing to his game than the transport clipper from Venezuela.

In the clipper's cabin Mary Linden sat as tho spellbound, powerless to move, only the curving brush of her lashes blinking on thoughts too distressful for words. Her eyes, hazel brown with flecks of gold, were fixed afar on a scene as remote as a sycamore tree in Illinois from royal palms marking coral coasts. She saw that tree. Its leaves were falling. They whispered dryly, stirred by a breeze whose chill breath moved across the prairie.

After a moment she opened her bag and her dry lips moved like a feeble pulse as she counted each hand-worn bill and coin. "Six dollars and thirty-two cents," she announced while the motors which drowned her whisper jeered. With home 3,000 miles away! Home? Well, what had been her home.

She had left it after her mother's death and gone to New York. She would be a singer. But so would countless other young girls with voices, too. She had found no work. None, that is, till a contract was offered to start her career in Venezuela. They liked music there. They also liked blondes, and Mary had soft reddish-golden hair. Admiration by men could be pleasant enough, but not when you had to sit with them—and strangers at that—after singing your songs.

So in fright she had fled aboard at Guanta, altho the fare was beyond her means. For this plane was her country, a bit of the homeland; an American Clipper with American pilots guiding her swiftly over the sea to a narrow strip on the map of the world where American flags would protect her again.

There at the portal of the canal guarded by khaki-clad soldiers from home, there she would surely find something to do. She would be among people who spoke her language without any accent. Without glowing eyes. Without—well, if she were what she was not.

Suddenly Mary noticed the coast, a dim gray line in the distance ahead. She stared at it hard while her heartbeat quickened. A city was there. Now she saw its roofs. Soon, very soon, the plane would alight, and then she would have to leave this cabin—friendless, alone once more in a port both strange and new, if not so alien.

Looking down, she could see a toy steamer, a freighter, snoring leisurely toward the canal. Dark smoke trailed astern from the single stack, and the bow waves were like spun threads of white glass thrust back from the hull to port and starboard.

An American ship. Mary envied the sailors, so small yet secure on that tapering deck. For those men had a home—not just for one night, but for weeks on end, maybe even for months.

On the freighter's bridge Capt. James MacDougal blinked up at the clipper roaring shoreward. He was young for a skipper, barely turned 30, but half of his life had been spent on the sea. In his tropical whites just his face and his hands and the gold on his sleeves offered any color. He had quiet gray eyes. Little lines like a wake rippled from them as he leveled his glasses.

The harbor breakwater opened before him. He could see the clustered tops of palms. There lay a tropical seaport city, with life and laughter and, like gay music, the lilting voices of pretty women.

Pretty women, yes, but not for him—not for a lonely man of the sea. The ones he could care for were always taken by men who stayed rooted fast to the land.

Yet his dream persisted. Somewhere, some time, Capt. MacDougal would find a girl meant just for him. Not any girl. A special girl—one who would wait with fortitude while he was out on the trackless sea; who would welcome him home at voyage's end; who would send him off bravely without reproach when the hour of sailing had come again.

Each Trip Ashore Raises Captain's Hopes

The second officer paused beside him.

"Well, we're practically in," he said.

"As good as docked," MacDougal conceded. "Tonight I aim to raise hell in Colon. One, two beers. Might even take three!"

His teeth flashed white in the bronze of his face. But then the grin died. It was always the same. Each time always the hope rose again, that this trip ashore he would meet her at last. And always, lonely at heart, he returned.

After all, it was only a sailor's dream.

MacDougal entered the Crossroads café. As he moved thru a shimmer of heat and music, the chatter of voices in four or five tongues, he heard one order, "Just plain lemonade," and, turning, saw her. His pulse ticked faster. Reddish-golden hair and large hazel eyes——! It was almost as tho his dream had come true and was there in the flesh, at that table alone. Not merely the physical features of her; something more subtle and more important impressed itself on his inner mind.

The young captain sat down at the first empty table. For a moment, then, his eyes met hers across the haze of voices and smoke. Troubled eyes. Eyes haunted by—was it fear? They saw him and then, as a girl started singing on a sort of low stage, turned quickly away.

The song was suggestive, a tropical number in theme as well as sultry rhythm. MacDougal resented it. This was no place nor were those any words for a person like HER. A tourist, of course. She had come here with some one—a breezy fellow, likely as not. In just a moment he would rejoin her and that troubled look would give way to a smile.

MacDougal was envying this fellow, as yet unseen, when a voice addressed him, "I can tell a sailor a mile away. What's your ship?"

"The Mandalaya."

"My name's Luce. Lieutenant commander. Did you see any periscopes out yonder?"

In a way he was glad for this intrusion, diverting his mind from its futile desires. Luce wanted some one to drink with? Good. MacDougal would relish companionship, too.

The girl who had sung came sauntering by, swinging her hips, her eyes inviting. No, thanks. Every port had women like her, but he would hold out for the one of his dreams.

With this thought he glanced at that other table and saw that no longer was she alone. Now a man was with her. She was rising to dance.

MacDougal felt better, seeing his face. Not a breezy young fellow, after all, but comfortably older with thinning blond hair. Off a cruise ship, doubtless, and finding it racy to squire a young girl to the night spots ashore.

Luce followed the captain's gaze and said, "Hm!" He was frowning slightly. "That kid," he went on—"I was noticing her before I came over. So much like my sister, she makes me uneasy. You think of such things when you're far from home. Kid sister—just about that one's age."

MacDougal warmed to the other man's smile, the fondness he saw there. Abruptly he blurted:

"I like her looks."

"What's that?" said Luce.

"I never had a sister myself. But that girl you speak of, she's all right."

It was just as if Luce could see thru his dream. MacDougal's cheeks began to get hot as the navy officer stared at his face. He was glad for the sudden diversion offered when a wrinkled old woman with lottery tickets paused at their table.

Half an hour ticked by. The girl and the man with thinning hair had returned to her table, but now they got up. Again Luce frowned as he saw them leave.

"Don't like that," he said.

"How so?" asked MacDougal.

"I know too much about that fellow. Name's Hansen. He's got a way with women."

"But he could practically be her father."

"That's what they think. Exactly his way."

"You mean he's—? I thought they were off the same ship." MacDougal had risen, and Luce said quickly:

"If that's how you feel, I'm with you, skipper. In fact, I was thinking the same myself."

But the matter of settling the bill delayed them; and when they had finally reached the street, where armed M. P.'s were walking patrol, the couple had vanished. They had left in a carriage. An artillery sergeant, questioned by Luce, had seen them start off in that direction—headed, he guessed, for the Georgie Wash.

Taxi Deposits Friends in Front of Hotel

The Washington hotel, owned by Uncle Sam, occupies an extensive park of its own confronting the sea at the tip of Colon. In just a few minutes the taxi conveying Luce and MacDougal rolled under the palms and came to a halt.

"We'd have beaten a hack here," the former observed. "Let's wait for—Ah!" For the clop-clop-clop of a horse's hoofs now approached on the drive.

But when the carriage drew up at the steps an elderly man, not a couple, got down. They followed him in to cross the lobby and paused on the broad veranda beyond.

MacDougal could see him inside at the desk. He stared out again at the Caribbean, at a night with the texture of dark velour, only the lights at the harbor gateway blinking at him from the breakwater ends. Habit impelled him to count their flashes. The west light, red, winked rapidly twice, paused, then winked the sequence again. But the east one, white, was more complex; wink one, pause three, wink one, pause three, wink six, pause nine.

His dream returned. To be taking this count with the blissful knowledge that, once he had made the Panama transit, his ship would be heading up-coast toward home and the welcoming arms of a girl like her!

Luce looked troubled when he came back.

"Name's Mary Linden. Traveling alone. Flew in today from Venezuela. Look here, I know where Hansen lives."

"Let's get going," MacDougal said promptly.

Kurt Hansen's home was not far off. It faced the Avenida del Frente below the point where Fort de Lesseps commands the bay and the sweep of the sea. The street level housed his warehouse and office. The apartment was on the floor above, where shutters revealed a glimmer of light.

MacDougal halted to study the house as tho he were gauging the set of white sails. Then his eyes moved down to the high cement wall which hid a garden from the public gaze.

"This goes with the rest of it?"

"Yes," said Luce.

"How about me climbing over?" he wondered. "In case he tries any fancy tricks."

"Go ahead," nodded Luce. "If I bring the kid out I'll whistle something—Yankee Doodle. Then you can join us at the hotel."

"If you don't?"

"I'll whistle Dixie instead. And wait for you." Luce glanced around him. "The coast looks clear. I'll give you—"

He stopped abruptly and chuckled. He had meant to say he would give him a boost, but already MacDougal was up on the wall. He saw the young skipper slide over and vanish, and a minute later Luce rang the front bell.

Inside the garden MacDougal heard it, a medium ring and, after a pause, a longer one—like those harbor lights. He felt his way cautiously past a shrub. Darkness. The fragrance of tropical plants. Faint stirrings of growth, even tho the sun now shone on lands half around the world.

The captain stopped suddenly, seeing a glow in the earth at his feet. He smelled burning tobacco. A cigar still alight! It had just been dropped, perhaps when he scaled the top of that wall.

MacDougal turned quickly. But he was too late. Before he could see who was there in the dark, something crashed hard on his head and he fell . . .

It was black where he lay in a mingled stench of fish and of bilge. A fragment of sky with a few still stars was all he could see thru a break overhead. But he knew from the gentle rocking motion, the lapping of water against the bends, that his lying place was the hold of a boat.

To MacDougal this seemed like some torturous dream. His wrists and his ankles were tightly bound. His head was afire. His throat felt parched.

But more discomforting even than these was the thought of a girl to whom, in truth, he had never so much as spoken a word. What had happened to Mary? To judge by his own predicament now, and he a sailor accustomed to nights in the far-flung ports of a vicious world, she might well be in serious danger.

Feet pattered upon the deck above him. MacDougal called out, but no one answered. He heard the creaking of halyards in blocks, the slatting sound of restless sails. Then the boat heeled a bit as it got under way, and he groaned when its bows began bucking the waves.

Time passed. It seemed hours—it was only minutes—before the hatch was opened wider and a flashlight shone on his upturned face.

"What the hell—?" he began, and a voice rasped:

"Silence."

"I want some water," MacDougal demanded.

The light moved down to shine on his ankles, inspecting the cord with which they were bound, and again the voice spoke its careful English:

"You will not be troubled by thirst for long."

Then some one else began talking in Spanish, and the man turned his head away from the hatch while words passed back and forth between them.

But his hand still dangled the lighted torch. Its beam started aimlessly here and there as the boat pitched along thru resisting seas. MacDougal kept following it with his eyes. For an instant it shone on something bright, a jagged tin patch newly cut from a can—metal nailed on canvas to stop a small leak.

The light swung away and then blinked out, and MacDougal was left in the dark with his thoughts. They were far from assuring. Nine words stood out: "You will not be troubled by thirst for long." Meaning what? That MacDougal would soon be dead, his body weighted down by an anchor as it sank overside to its grave in the sea?

This conviction grew as the minutes dragged and the boat labored under its straining canvas. He tried once more to loosen his bonds, but they were too well secured for that.

Then a light—the memory of it—returned, and he saw once again the crude tin patch reflecting the beam from a pocket torch. A lubberly job. The rough jagged edge had been turned up slightly along one end.

MacDougal kept shifting his position until he had found the patch in the dark. Then began a painfully awkward maneuver to brace himself by means of his feet while he brought his wrists, which were tied behind him, against the biting edge of the tin.

Thus he strained and struggled to saw thru the cord. One wrist became raw. Both his hands were cut deep. Each time a wave jolted the boat he was jabbed.

But at last the cord slackened as a coil of it parted. Heartened by this, he worked harder than ever. Vaguely he knew that a gasoline engine had joined its power with that of the wind to push the boat faster toward where it was bound.

His hands fell free and MacDougal lay back, so exhausted that he could only breathe. The tropical dawn burst over the sea. As its light came thru to the stinking hold he remembered to put his hands behind him, so that eyes might not see they were no longer tied.

He heard running feet on the deck overhead. They were taking in sail, but the engine still chugged. Some one called in Spanish from way up forward. This hail was succeeded by flurried action. Shouted orders. The crew going into reverse. And then came the sound of heavy cable rubbing against the hull farther aft.

MacDougal sat up and untied the cord which was binding his ankle. He took off his shoes. He still did not know just what he would do. Wait—that was best—till those men quit running all over the deck like a pack of mad apes.

Gradually the flurry subsided. A strange sort of quiet possessed the vessel. Its engines went dead, the shouting now ceased, and all that MacDougal was able to hear were the waves slapping briskly against the bows.

He gripped the hatch combing and, heart beating fast, raised his head to venture a glance. All clear. He forgot the pain in his wrists as he drew himself out of the hold to the deck. There he lay flat while he looked about him. A rowboat was pulling away to leeward, two men on its thwarts. They were setting a net. He crawled aft toward the vessel's cabin projecting a scant foot over the deck.

Using this as a screen, he peered toward the stern. One man only, a native, was there, his back to MacDougal as, squatting lightly, he kept searching the sky thru powerful lenses.

Open Porthole Provides a Glimpse of Cabin

MacDougal resumed his cautious advance. In a moment he came to an open porthole which gave him a glimpse of the cabin below. The early sun, slanting in, shone on Hansen hunched over a table, busy at—what?

Just a glimpse, then MacDougal withdrew from the port. Strapped upon Hansen's hip was a gun. Whatever it was the fellow was doing, his preoccupation appeared complete.

In that instant, lying alert in the scupper, MacDougal saw some one else before him; the girl whose name was Mary Linden. Not actually but in his mind—reddish-golden hair and large troubled eyes—a vision which came like a potent spell to quicken his heart and rally his strength.

He rose to his feet and strode silently aft. He had reached the cockpit before the native on guard at the stern was aware of him there. Startled, the latter shouted a warning, but MacDougal was already in the companion, taking its three narrow steps at a bound.

He saw the surprise on Hansen's face, saw his right hand reaching to draw the gun. Then his own hand leaped and its bleeding knuckles crashed full force against Hansen's head.

Almost at once he heard an explosion. He was hit. He could feel the sting in his thigh, yet the pain seemed unimportant, remote. All that actually mattered now was that Hansen, stunned by MacDougal's blow, could still be stopped if—

Again he let go with all the strength he was able to give. It would serve. He felt Hansen fade from his fist, then saw him go limp and sag down on the boards.

MacDougal hastened to pick up the pistol. He limped to the foot of the companionway, but the native dived into the sea when he saw him. Then MacDougal turned back and stood there blinking at the wireless key on its small square table.

Wireless! In a fishing tub like this! Wireless meant S-O-S to him, and MacDougal knew how to send it too. He tapped the key slowly—an amateur's fist—and added his guess of the boat's position.

One thing still remained; to tie up Hansen before the man should begin to come to. He bound him with wire. Then MacDougal lay down. He was growing weak. He feared he would faint.

From far away, presently, came a sound like the droning of bees. The sound grew louder. It passed overhead. Not bees at all, but the roar of a plane.

Then the sound faded out and MacDougal knew nothing. He was lying senseless when Luce stooped down to feel the pulse on his raw, bleeding wrist.

There are dreams and dreams, and his dream of a girl had become a nightmare and now, with that past, a fantastic story which Luce was telling:

"The wireless transmitter lay 10 fathoms down, dry as you please in a waterproof case. With a tricky buoy to mark the cable. No kidding, a timing device in the buoy which kept it submerged till the zero hour. Then up it would pop and be waiting for him when along he would come the following day. All he had to do was haul up his wires and his key in a bag and then start sending. I don't need to tell you his name's not Hansen."

Even more fantastic, that story Luce told as MacDougal lay propped in a hospital bed with bandages scattered from thigh up to scalp:

"I guess I'm to blame for your shanghai ride. You see, I arrested the kid as a spy! . . . I know she's not, but the main idea was to snatch her out of his hands. That scared him. He thought I was getting wise to him, too. And the guy in the garden who knocked you cold—he thought you were there as a counterspy!"

"Yes, but—"

"Hansen had seen you with me. In that dive, I mean. So, two plus two—dead men tell no troublesome tales."

Thru his words, as Luce talked, MacDougal kept seeing Mary's face.

"What was she doing alone in that place?"

"The kid was almost broke," Luce told him. "She went there hoping to get a job. But when she saw it, the way the singers—"

No, the place for her was at home, with a man to protect her and cherish her, love her. He clung to his dream. It was definite now—not just Miss X, a girl unknown, but a very specific girl named Mary.

MacDougal's chief officer took command while the Mandalaya made her transit thru the canal to Balboa bay. There her bandaged skipper returned aboard, and as darkness descended she dropped her pilot and headed out toward the deep Pacific.

Quitting the bridge, MacDougal limped aft. In his pocket was Luce's note of good-by, concluding thus: "Best of luck, old fellow, and don't you forget—faint heart never won a red-headed lady." His feelings had been as transparent as that!

"All right?" he asked her.

"O, yes!" she answered. "Captain, I never can thank you enough for offering me this chance to get home."

On the final word he heard her falter. MacDougal put out his hand, withdrew it. Ashore there had always been Luce and others, officials of government, nurses, a doctor. For the first time he was with her alone.

"Home," he repeated. A light kept flashing to mark the loom of Flamenco's rocks. To steady himself, he counted its sequence, as once he had done while other lights kept blinking at him and his wistful thoughts were all of this girl who now stood at his side. "A very special word, that—home."

"You've got one?"

"No."

"Nor I," she told him.

"You could—if you—" No, that was going too far. Not fair. She was here as MacDougal's guest, 12 long sea days before reaching harbor.

"If I what?" she demanded.

He would have to go on!

"It's just a sort of dream, that's all. A fellow at sea gets to thinking thoughts. I'd hate to offend you right from the start."

"I won't be offended." She sounded breathless.

She kept silent beside him. He could feel her tenseness. Ashamed and repentant, he finally blurted:

"Look here, I won't say another word the rest of this voyage. Wouldn't want you to think—"

"Don't you suppose I've ever dreamed?"

"Sure, but—"

"I saw you the other night. When you first came in and sat at that table. I wished—I won't tell you what I wished. You might change your mind about me then."

"I couldn't, ever," MacDougal protested.

"You mean you—?"

"And brave," Mary interrupted. "O, when I heard how you might have been murdered, I—I felt suddenly weak all over."

MacDougal stood dazed, struck dumb by her words. It was surely a dream. Yet his arms were around her! And now she was lifting her lips to his! Aye, and his fingers were touching the magic of soft fragrant hair which, come the sunlight, would shine like a halo about her head.

Over its tresses he saw Flamenco winking at him. Then it must be true! And when next he passed this way again, with that light growing smaller and fainter astern, he would know he was starting up the coast to the welcoming kiss of Mary—at home!

THE ROAD BUILDER

By RUPERT HUGHES

(Copyright: 1941: By Rupert Hughes.)

He had no proof that she was the culprit . . . yet in his heart of hearts he knew she was guilty.

INSTALMENT IX.

WHEN Sue was out of sight Fleming turned back to his tent to escape remarks of his colleagues. His eye caught sight of Theby alone on the cliff-top staring down the valley at the cloud of dust that was Sue. Theby looked so forlorn that his heart ached for her, imagining her dismay and shame under the blow Sue had dealt her.

Glancing at the book Sue had brought for Theby, Fleming fell to reading it. He had known Marie Antoinette's story only fragmentarily, and it startled him to learn how sad and mad her life had been, what a coquette and gambler she was, how she danced away from her dull husband while the volcano rumbled, how contemptuous she was of the mobs and their sufferings, and yet how magnificently she faced shame and a ghastly death. Perhaps Sue Tipton would be as brave in a crisis. But how can one be great when no great trials test the metal?

In Theby he saw one of the fierce revolutionaries who were more cruel when power fell into their hands than the artistocrats. He wondered what Theby would make of the pictures of Marie Antoinette in her royal headdresses and splendors. He planned to give her the book the next morning when she brought the milk.

But Theby brought the milk no more. Two of her young brothers brought it.

For a few days Fleming carried the book with him in one of the great pockets of his coat, hoping to meet Theby; but whenever he saw her she vanished. If he pursued she outran him. Once or twice when she was nearly overtaken, she turned to hurl a rock and some barbed language at him, like a fleeing Parthian. She certainly spared no pains to convince him that she was not inviting him to tea.

Theby Throws Craig's Book Into the Stove

He spoke to Paw at last and asked him to take Marie Antoinette to her since she would not come for the queen. Paw accepted the commission with dubious enthusiasm and the next day brought back the book—or what was left of it. He explained:

"Mistoo Flem'n, I done like you told me. I held out this here book at her and give her your messitch. She wouldn't take it for a whal, then she snatch it outen my hand and make lak she's readin' the pitchers and ev'ything. Then all on a suddens she ups and flings it in the kitchen stove. It burns kind of slow and she jabs it with the poker. Then she ups and pulls it aout of the far and stomps on the flames. She hands it to me and it's red hot and I leave it lay.

"She says, 'You take it back to him and tell him, Was I wantin' a book I'd buy me one.' That's whut she says, but says I, 'Who you orderin' around, young 'oman? You deeliver your own messitches. Or why don't you use all that edgication I got you, and put it in writin'.' Well, that's just whut she done. And year's your book and year's her messitch. I ain't read it m'self. I don't do much readin' since I broke my glasses comin' out from M'zoura."

He held the charred cover of the volume open and Fleming studied the huge and rambling scrawl.

I doan Want no dam Book from no Soo Watsername nor From You neethre I Wisht youde al go to Hel and leave Us aloan tHeBy kiMBo.

While he pondered this with mixed feelings of pity for her ignorance and homage for her proud little soul, Paw was beaming.

"She writes nice don't she?"

"She does, indeed."

"A good idea."

"The fall term begins any day naow and I reck'n I better take her and the rest of the brats over ev'y naow and then. My folks used to say it was a sin and a shame to teach womenfolks readin' and writin'—only learns 'em more deviltry. But seems like they can't hold their own nowadays without it. Theby's got the makin's of a lady and one day she run off and tried to get her a p'sition at Pop Tevey's, cookin', making beds and waitin' on table; but Pop allowed she didn't know enough readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic to make out checks for vittle and drink and read cook books and orders and things like that. So she come on home again plumb discouritched. But maybe iffen y'all run this here road thoo aour valley, I might open a eatin' shack o' my own. A edgication for Theby would come in right handy then. She could help suppote her Paw and Maw like children oughter."

Paw strolled away as importantly as a plutocrat pondering the endowment of a woman's college, but Fleming sighed for the future that lay ahead of poor Theby. As an animal in the valley the sky was high above her, but her life as a "lady" would have the low ceiling of a subcellar.

He put "Marie Antoinette" away in his tent. It seemed to him the crime of crimes to burn a book and the blind rage that could make it possible appalled him. Afterwards he wondered if Theby's brief resort to the flames for the expression of her wrath might not have suggested to her the purging of the valley by fire.

It was a Saturday afternoon and the whole crowd was celebrating the half holiday by playing a game of baseball. The wives of two of the engineers had come in on the supply wagon to visit their husbands and they were recruited to eke out the nine on a side. They were experts at the soft ball game and were better batters and catchers than some of the men.

Even Snowball, Screwball, and Eightball were engaged in the play, and the tents were deserted.

Most of the Kimbo children and Paw and Bop sat on the ground watching the sport, but Theby was not visible. From habit, Fleming looked for her in the forest she was always roving. His woodman's eye was growing keen from searching for her and she was usually as vivid among the trees as a scarlet tanager or a golden oriole.

He was playing left fielder and the post was a sinecure with such weak batters as confronted the weak pitchers. He could let his eyes wander. They happened to pass along the rows of tents and rise to the wooded hills above them.

Something moving caught his attention. It was Theby flashing up the slope on a swift run and hardly visible in the thick timbers.

Just then a long fly came out his way in a long, rainbow arch, but he did not even run for it, since he saw a red flame leap skyward from the cook's tent.

Fleming Saves Records from Blazing Tent

The blazes spread with the rippling speed of a burning canvas, and he yelled to the crowd.

"Fire! Fire!"

He pointed and ran. It was a desperate foot race. Fleming rushed to the drafting tent to save the precious maps and records there. Arthur came up panting to the same rescue and the two men carried the long rolls out by the double armload, dropping them at a safe distance and returning for more. They had just toted out the tables with their maps fastened to them when the whole tent vanished in a roaring billow.

The other men saved first their instruments and then their personal belongings. They fought the flames with coats, blankets, feet. While some were tearing down canvas walls, and shovelling sand, others ran to the creek with pails and pans, usually stumbling and emptying them in their haste.

The wind carried the fire away from Fleming's tent and when the last blaze was quenched he found his belongings unharmed. Even the scorched "Marie Antoinette" was no worse than when it had left Theby's hands.

The engineers stared glumly at the ravaged camp and the mourning borders among the burned edge of what canvas still stood. Sheely began at once an investigation of the cause of the fire. For once, nobody suspected the Kimbos of starting it. Thruout the ball game the two men and most of the children had been squatting in full sight of the engineers.

It never occured to any one that Theby might have stolen down behind the tents and found in the kitchen materials enough for the conflagration. Fleming had not the heart to accuse her. He had no proof that she was the culprit. The fact that she was running among the trees meant nothing strange. She might have been the first to see the fire and have been afraid that she would be suspected, or that it would sweep thru the whole forest in one of those vast furnaces that had turned many a foothill into a graveyard of dead gray trees.

Yet in his heart of hearts he knew that she was guilty and he gave her up for an untamable savage. Still, he could not voice his suspicions—not even to save the cook from the blame that fell on him. Snowball admitted that maybe the fire might have started there, because he had left a fire going under his oven where he was baking a huge turkey from the Kimbo flock. But punishing the cook would be punishing all the victims. If he were sent away they would starve till a substitute arrived. So Sheely fell back again on a Scotch verdict of not proven:

"You're acquitted Snowball; but the next time you set the camp on fire I'll throw you into it and stew you in your own juice."

One reason for not pursuing the inquest further was that the expedition had finished its preliminary work in the valley and was moving Monday morning into the rough rolling country outside where it would push on southeastward toward the other party advancing northwestward from its beginning at the inland route.

Regretfully all the engineers left their pleasant shelter for discomforts emphasized by a heavy rain that drenched them and the roads as they straggled thru sopping bushes to a wet camp.

Survey Work Outside Valley Grows Harsher

Once or twice Fleming caught sight of Paw or Bop driving the rickety horses and the rickety wagon full of children to the little far-off schoolhouse. Theby was among them.

Once on an errand he passed the schoolhouse and looked in to see Theby at the blackboard suffering the teacher's sarcasms about her bad writing and her worse arithmetic. Fearing to humiliate her further or be humiliated by having her hurl something at him, he left without making his visit known.

The survey work outside the valley was tough going under harsh conditions; but it took less time than had been expected, since the other party, working largely in country that had been partially surveyed, had found bench marks, contour maps, and even geological data at their disposal for a good part of their distance, and so covered far more than their half of the territory.

All this while the locating engineer had been intensely busy. As the contour maps grew in length, he was carrying them into the field and fig-

What Has Gone Before

Craig Fleming, young engineer, engaged to socially prominent Sue Tipton, goes exploring in the uncharted regions of southern California and stumbles upon an uncharted valley in which he sees great possibilities for a highway. He encounters the squatter Kimbos, who run him off their land with shotguns, but he returns later to make sketches of the region and is bitten by a rattler. Theby Kimbo sucks the poison out, and she and her family take Craig to their home, where they care for him until he is able to leave. Then Theby tears up his notes and sketches and she and her family order him never to return if he intends to build a highway thru their valley. Theby, who is beautiful tho wild, creates in Craig a desire to see her tamed and he wonders what culture would do for her. Craig, with an airplane photographer, flies over the valley and takes pictures of it, which Craig takes to his boss, persuading him that it is an ideal place for a highway. Craig goes to Los Angeles to tell Sue of his dreams about the highway, but instead of her being enthusiastic she becomes jealous of Theby. Craig is sent with the engineering crew to survey the valley and start building the highway. They run into trouble with the Kimbos again. The Kimbos, pretending to be friends of the engineers, move their stakes during the night to upset the surveying. Pa Kimbo confesses to Craig that Theby is "hongry for book learning," and Craig offers to teach her. At first she refuses, but he intrigues her with the story of Marie Antoinette. Writing Sue for a copy of the book, Sue decides to bring it to Craig herself. Arriving at camp, she sees Theby there in rags and starts teasing the camp crew about their chambermaid. Theby overhears her and flees in fury.

Service Caters to the Shopper's Monogramania

Puts Personal Touch on Linen in Record Time

By Rea Seeger.

Monogramania is a most contagious hunger rather defiantly to prove ownership. Housewives succumb easily, especially with important household items such as towels and other linens needed to assure a well run establishment. One effective service is obtainable right in the departments where such necessary towels and linens are sold. You select your needs, decide upon the initial or initials, and almost while you wait the decorative monograms are made on the purchases. In color or white, in small, medium, or large designs these monograms appear surprisingly handworked, even tho they are stitched in place by a clever gadget attached to a sewing machine.

These are the coiffures rated first, second, and third in a hair style competition at the recent Midwest Beauty Trade show in Chicago. Left, a modern adaptation of the soft Grecian styling which is creeping into fashion generally. Center, an evening hairdress which emphasizes the front upsweep and a modified pompadour. Right, a piquant fashion with a pronounced forehead fringe and plump curls in the back. All are in the "silhouette" trend, with outlines to define the shape of the head.

Mrs. Thorne Has Caught Beauty of Old Mansion

By Edith Weigle.

The new American series of rooms in miniature by Mrs. James Ward Thorne, now on view at the Art institute, are of invaluable aid to all of us who are interested in the subject of interior decoration, for they are perfect replicas of the periods they represent. More than that, they are accurate steps in the history of interior furnishings in this country.

This collection of 37 rooms may be divided into three groups for the sake of geographical sequence. The first consists of interiors from the early settlements on Massachusetts bay to the later brown stone fronts; the second of rooms from famous mansions of the old south, and the third, taking the observer up to the present day, includes both interiors from the 19th century middle west, from the antebellum deep south, from the southwest and from California, ending with a modern penthouse scene in San Francisco.

One of the most fascinating of all the miniatures is the spacious entrance hall of Carter's Grove, in James county, Va., for about this mansion cluster many romantic legends. Some say it was built in 1690 by a man known as "King" Carter because he owned thousands of acres of rich plantation land and hundreds of slaves.

According to one authority, it was given as a wedding gift to his daughter, Elizabeth, when she married Nathaniel Burwell. The center section, from which two wings extend, was designed by David Minitree, an English architect who made the long voyage to Virginia for this especial purpose.

It was Minitree who planned the magnificent paneling and carving in the mansion which, to this day, is considered among the finest pine paneling in the world. Workers under him carved in the manner of Grinling Gibbons and their beautiful garlands of fruits and flowers, overmantel decorations, are some of the superb pieces of the décor of the house.

Mrs. Thorne has reproduced in miniature the wide floor boards of the handsome entrance hall, so characteristic of old southern homes. She has also created on a small scale the paneling that adds so greatly to the architectural beauty of this room. Draperies of green damask are at the recessed windows, and window seats are upholstered in the same fabric.

One armchair is covered in rose velvet and this touch of rose is repeated in a full length portrait glimpsed thru a wide doorway leading into an adjoining room and in the rug, a bit of which is also seen.

In "So You're Going South" the late Clara Laughlin said: "There's a tradition that in the drawing room of Carter's Grove young Col. Washington proposed to Mary Cary of Williamsburg, and Thomas Jefferson to his "fair Belinda," who was Rebecca Burwell. Both ladies said No."

Mrs. Thorne has also re-created a drawing room from this beautiful mansion.

Among other interiors from famous old southern houses included in her new series are: The dining rooms of Gunston Hall and Kenmore, the west parlor of Mount Vernon, the entrance hall of the Hermitage, and the drawing room of Wilton.

"What's Wrong with Your Rooms," a booklet by Edith Weigle, discusses the best methods of furniture arrangement and answers many puzzles concerning decoration. Price, 5 cents by mail. 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

MINIATURE OF A WILLIAMSBURG HALL

Among the most beautiful in the new series of American rooms in miniature by Mrs. James Ward Thorne is this reproduction of the entrance hall of Carter's Grove, a famous plantation house near Williamsburg, Va. The rooms are on view at the Art institute.

Federation Will Pay Tribute to Mrs. J. M. Fowler

The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will pay tribute to Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, who introduced Indian welfare work into the organization in 1921 at a meeting of the Indian welfare department Wednesday morning at Federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street. Mrs. Fowler, a former Federation president, served as Indian welfare chairman of both the state and general federations. Since its founding, the department has aided Indians with scholarships and other practical forms of assistance, and has fostered public interest in Indian arts, crafts, and traditions. Three Indian girls now are studying nursing at local hospitals because of Federation awards. District and club presidents and Indian welfare department members have been invited by Mrs. C. J. Albrecht of Homewood, present chairman, to the meeting Wednesday.

Diva Suggests Emphasizing Some Rare Facial Feature

By Antoinette Donnelly.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

It is thrilling to view any group of active women today and to study the uniformly high appearance. Whether it is a club group, a professional turnout, a gathering of debs or of just plain noonday lunchers, the standard of grooming, for one thing, is remarkably high.

These women are not uniformly beautiful in the old accepted sense of the word. Some of them aren't good looking at all, judged by the old time pattern, but they're wonderful, nevertheless, no small percentage of them managing the major part of their beauty problems themselves.

We mention this because of a recent meeting with a woman who began our conversation with just such observations. The French, she said, have always paid tribute to "la belle laide," literally, the beautiful ugly one, the woman who somehow is fascinatingly attractive without claim to the generally accepted standards of beauty. In fact, said she, the elasticity of today's beauty standard embraces every kind of woman, provided she subscribes to a few essentials, such as health, good grooming, individuality, charm, and intelligence. The latter trait looms large in today's standard. The more talent, the more ability; the more of a sense of accomplishment, the more fascinating the personality.

The woman who spoke is the lovely lyric soprano, Jarmila Novotna, known as one of the glamorous opera singers. She talked of irregularity of features, asking:

"Is it easy to draw a caricature of one? Has she some irregularity of features, a pair of enormous eyes, a wide model's mouth, a retroussé nose? Or has she a mass of bronzed hair to add individuality to her appearance and make artists like to sketch her?

"A beautiful face, like a beautiful room, depends for its interest on a focal point of attention," Mme. Novotna continues. "A formally balanced room with a couch, two chairs, an end table and a lamp on each side of it might excel in design, but lack in interest, while a room which uses a fireplace or musical instrument to give it a center of attention captures the fancy and holds the eye. So it is with features. A perfect face is so evenly balanced that it emerges only under careful scrutiny. It is the woman with an irregular feature, which she uses as a core of attention for her whole face, who stands out from the crowd." Novotna is such a woman.

Suits Are Much in Evidence Where Women Gather

Mother Must Give Time to a Young Child

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have had the full coöperation of my husband in caring for our boy. We now are proud of his 10 years of achievement and it has been worth every minute we have taken of our time to answer all his questions frankly and honestly. Ever since his school career began he has held first honors in his class, altho he has had a great deal of absence.

"I am a mother who believes that if a child has a bad cold his place is home in bed. My boy made out better, losing a few days, going back healthy and catching up immediately with his class without any undue strain on him. Two years in succession he was out more than any one else, a severe case of whooping cough, then an emergency appendectomy; yet when he got back he caught up with his class and soon led. I admit he could not do this without a keen brain, as teachers have told me he is attentive and never misses anything.

"However, I give credit to my belief in never pushing a child aside when he inquires about something. My hope for our boy is that he never will outgrow his keenness for seeking and learning. Then his father and I will feel we have helped him to acquire something no one can take away from him."

Those are three points, yet really they are all one. If your paramount concern is with your own "life interests," your own friends, your house, your church work, your club work, your social life, cocktail parties, and, perhaps, your career, the other two aspects of your motherhood just fade away.

To be able to answer your children's questions, to satisfy the seeking and probing and wondering that lie back of them, you have to be pretty much on the scene. These questions come at odd times. They're scattered thru the day, and to answer them you have to be there a large part of the time. Not just your body has to be there, but your sympathetic interest. You can't respond in this way to your son or daughter if your own personal adult affairs come first. If they are paramount, you haven't the time or what I call the "freshness" to give yourself to your child.

Clotilde Children's Fashions

One of today's patterns is designed especially for toddlers and small girls, while the other is styled for youngsters up to 8. There's a party air to both patterns, altho they're tailored enough to meet with the approval of mothers who must launder and press them. Pretty printed cottons and silks, as well as plain colors, will make up handsomely, and ruffling and bias binding are the simple trimming media employed.

Style No. 2875 is designed for sizes 6 months, 1, 2, and 3 years. Size 2 requires 1½ yards of 35 inch material for dress with collar; 2 yards for dress with cap sleeves and panties, and 2½ yards of ruffling.

Style No. 2716 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch fabric, with 3 yards of binding and 2 yards of ruffling; ¾ yard of fabric for panties.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde Children's Fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Every One Who Looks Well in a Smart Tailored Outfit Will Be Wearing One Soon

By Judith Cass.

Every woman who looks well in a suit will be wearing one this spring. At least, so it would seem from the quantities of suits appearing in all the spring fashion shows. The indications are, however, that more women than ever before will be able to enjoy this useful form of dress. The strictly tailored suit is not meant for every one, but there are dozens and dozens of soft dressmaker suits, cape suits, shirtwaist type suits, and knit suits that would be becoming to almost any figure and to any age.

Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw appeared in one of the neatest and most practical of the new suits at the opening of three exhibitions in the Arts club recently. It is of a gray plaid material, well tailored with a plaited skirt, and it lends itself to the use of a variety of accessories. Mrs. Shaw, who is president of the club, was wearing that day a rust colored hat made of strips of felt twisted into a bow over one eye.

Mrs. Afred P. Shaw.

Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman has a suit on the same type that is perfect now under her mink coat, and which will be a standby until warm weather comes. It is of gray, too, with a large overplaid in muted tones, and Mrs. Boardman livens it up with a bright little hat tilted over her forehead.

• • •

Different and distinctive was the suit Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer was wearing at the Arts club. It was of lipstick red and black wool, trimmed with Persian lamb, and warm enough to appear on the avenue without a topcoat.

There's a little black suit in Jane Stude's wardrobe that would be equally at home at a concert, an afternoon tea, or a dressier evening party. Skilfully cut of black silk faille, it consists of a flared skirt and semitailored jacket edged in an inch wide band of faille ruching. At each side of the jacket the ruching forms a scroll work pattern. A fragile blouse of white embroidered organdy and a large brimmed hat of black faille complete the simple and smart ensemble.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham has a cape suit. It is made of green plaid, so dark it seems black. With it she wears a turban of the same plaid, draped to show her forehead, and finished with rosettes of the same material.

Miss Mary Seymour Adams, who lists the job of being vice president of the Cercle des Jeunes of the Alliance Française among her many activities, attended a recent meeting of the group in a severely tailored, gray flannel suit. A bright yellow and red paisley blouse added a dash of color, and Miss Adams topped the outfit off with a black, "sugar scoop" felt hat bound in brown.

Miss Anne Stuart, who heads the group, is a devotee of matching hats and gowns. Her soft aqua wool frock was echoed in a matching wool skull cap laden with fluffy white flowers and a soft veil.

Forecasts of flower shows and of the first spring crocuses are the cheery nosegays appearing on little straw toques, on the lapels of suits and fur jackets, and at the necklines of dark dresses. Spicing a costume with flowers, real or artificial, is a fashion trick guaranteed to lift one's wardrobe out of the winter doldrums.

At luncheon recently at the Key club, Mrs. William Fergus was wearing a becoming black bonnet, the under side of its Mary Stuart brim clustered with bright red geranium petals. Her necklace of china petals was of black and red. One of the favorite evening gowns in the fashion show Mrs. Fergus was watching had a black lace bodice and a tiny ruffled black lace apron tied over a white organza skirt. Pinned to the waistline was a cluster of Parma violets.

Mrs. Paul Butler's salute to spring is a straw saucer of palest pink straw. A feather bluebird and a pink silk rose are perched on the crown, and the whole confection is swathed in French blue veiling. Pink asters are massed at the crown of Mrs. George A. Kelly's pink chapeau of downy fur felt.

Mrs. Paul Butler.

Huge white ranunculus blossoms bloom on Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr.'s black visor, which is crownless except for a narrow black strap which holds it to her head. These are just a few examples of the "flowers that bloom in the spring" vogue, which has inspired a hat designer romantically to dub one creation "trailing arbutus."

• • •

Silky little feathers and great splashy bird wings are appearing on many of the smartest chapeaux. Mrs. Orville J. Taylor has a refreshing hat made of snowy white feather birds and tied with black veiling. One of those indispensable little hats that virtually "goes with anything" is Mrs. Edward Byron Smith's trim sailor, entirely covered with speckled beige partridge feathers. Two Chinese red quills soar upward, one from each side of the crown, and cross above her forehead.

On the House

It is not too early to check on the screens for your home; to coat your copper or bronze screens as insurance against any possible staining; to protect your iron wire screening with screen enamel or varnish and to paint frames for another season's wear. And there are methods, too, for giving your awnings a fresh coat of paint, by way of changing their face; or removing mildew if you discover this fungus is feeding on your awnings. Getting this work done ahead of time leaves your time free when garden duties come to the front.

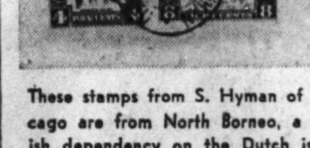
The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



These stamps from S. Hyman of Chicago are from North Borneo, a British dependency on the Dutch island of Borneo. North Borneo stamps are favorites with the younger collectors on account of the many pictorial issues.

The question of the arrangement of stamps on blank album pages was discussed in last Sunday's Stamp Collector. This article had particular reference to general and specialized collections of stamps and recommended simple checkerboard patterns for the stamps with plenty of space between rows.

There are certain collections which may have more stamps on the page. An example is a set of the numeral obliterators used by several foreign countries during the early years. In those cases a different number was assigned to each postoffice to provide an identification of the place of use even tho the town mark was not legible. These numbers may run thru several hundreds and in a few cases into several thousands. Were the collector to mount these stamps 12 to each page it would require an unreasonable amount of space to accommodate the set and it might be tiresome thumbing over the many pages. In such cases it is customary to fill the page with the evenly spaced rows allowing only sufficient space for writing in the various town names below each stamp. Sidewise spacing can be reduced to one-quarter inch or a little less.

Postal markings collections are sometimes mounted with reference to the cancellation rather than to the stamp. In such cases all stamps showing some particular mark are assigned to a single page or to several pages and the cancellation device is carefully drawn as a part of the explanatory material at the top of the page. Masonic cancellations or star shaped devices, or "Paid" marks are examples which are often given this special treatment.

There is considerable enthusiasm at present time for topical collections. That word includes all those subject collections such as ships on stamps, or animals, bridges, etc. While such collections are on the border line of philately there is no question but that they have a great visual appeal for they include all the pictorial stamps. Such a collection should require considerable space to mount for each stamp has a story to tell and there should be enough explanatory text to justify the inclusion of the stamp in the collection. Now and then a collector with plenty of time and a quantity of album pages fills several albums with one such topical collection and places but one stamp on each page with the remainder of the space filled with related pictures and historial data.

Years ago there was exhibited in this country a small collection of scenic stamps in which a famous artist had painted on each page in water colors, the view shown on the stamp mounted on that page. This collection was very beautiful, but perhaps exaggerated, for the paintings represented a value several hundred times as great as that of the stamps themselves.

Beginners should be cautioned against attempting to decorate their album pages unless they are skilled in this work. Nothing detracts from a collection in an exhibition so much as poorly executed drawings. When finely executed such decorations are still subject to criticism on the ground that they detract from the stamps themselves. The better album pages have simple frame lines or no frame lines at all. There is a tendency to place a frame line around each stamp after its location has been settled. This sets off the stamp to a certain extent, but it must be very carefully drawn and should be at the proper distance from the edges of the stamp.

This framing or setting off of the individual stamps can be accomplished by having mounts of black or white under each stamp. The utility of these little pieces of cardboard will be discussed in a future article.

In connection with National Coin week, March 23-29, coin collectors are celebrating the 75th anniversary of the coinage of the nickel five-cent piece. The first five-cent coin in nickel was minted in 1866. As early as 1837 Dr. Lewis Feuchtwanger, a New York pharmacist who manufactured tableware of German silver as a sideline, petitioned congress to consider his alloy for coinage purposes. No action was taken at this time, but in 1855 flying eagle cents were coined in an alloy consisting of 12½ parts of nickel and 87½ parts of copper. This alloy was used for cents until 1864.

In 1865 the Philadelphia mint began to coin three-cent pieces in an alloy containing 25 parts of nickel and 75 parts of copper. In the following year the coinage of nickel five-cent pieces was started. This first nickel had a shield on one side and the numeral "5" surrounded by rays and 13 stars on the other side. During 1867 the rays on the reverse were removed. This type was coined until 1883 when a new type showing the head of Liberty on the obverse and a Roman numeral "V" on the reverse was introduced during the year. This design thru an oversight omitted the word "Cents" and many of the coins were gilded and passed for $5. Minting of this type was suspended and an altered design made for the reverse which moved the motto "E Pluribus Unum" to a less prominent location and substituted the word "Cents" at the bottom of the design.

News items in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for various days in September, 1883, indicated that the 1883 coins without the word "Cents" were selling as high as 50 cents each, but actually they are more common today than those of that year with the altered design. This Liberty head nickel was coined until 1912 and in the last year was minted for the first time at the branch mints of San Francisco and Denver.

In 1913 the Indian head, buffalo [bison] nickel was introduced and this was continued with a minor variation until 1938 when it was replaced with the current design showing the bust of Jefferson and the facade of Monticello.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

The player who attempts to memorize a long list of "situations" and solve a given problem by applying technique that was successful in a similar case, will never become an expert. "Similarity" is not good enough for this game. The only way to master it is to know and understand the reasons for doing this or for not doing that. John C. Stablein, writing in The Bridge World magazine, makes this point abundantly clear, as follows:

"One may know a certain play and yet not understand the principle which controls it. One may know how to play a suit and become so familiar with the correct way to handle various suit combinations that it is difficult for him to recognize situations which demand the abandonment of the routine method. The ability to execute a certain difficult play does not necessarily mark the player as an expert. Perhaps he just has a good memory. It is in the treatment of those every day deals, the kind which pop up all the time that the expert shines. With no deal, no matter how simple, does he become careless. Consequently, over a period of a year, he succeeds in transferring many thousands of points from the loss to the profit column. It should prove interesting as well as illuminating to consider a few relatively simple deals, on which experts or near experts have been thrown for a loss.

"In most cases where a certain suit is vital to the declarer's scheme of things, a careful consideration of the factors involved will usually supply the correct answer. In many cases where he alibis with, 'I just made a bad guess,' good analysis will reveal that instead, it was just bad play.

"The declarer became so absorbed in getting 'a count' on the following deal that he entirely overlooked the correct play.

East-West, vulnerable.

♥ 6
♦ A Q 8 6 4 3
♣ A K 6

WEST

♣ 10 8 5 4 3 2

SOUTH
♠ K 5
♥ A J 10 5 2
♦ K 10 2
♣ J 9 7

"North bid a diamond and South responded with a heart. West overcalled with a spade and North bid two diamonds. South then bid two no trump which North raised to three no trump. West led the ace of spades, and followed with the queen of spades, which declarer captured with the king. That West had a six card spade suit was clearly indicated on account of the bidding, together with East's play of the eight of spades followed by the two of that suit. Declarer then led a low diamond toward the dummy and after that play it was impossible to make the hand. His reasoning was: West held six cards in spades, which left him holding seven cards in the other three suits. East had 11 cards in these suits. Therefore, if four diamonds were bunched in either hand, East was the likely possessor. If this proved to be the case, a finesse would be established against the diamond jack. Ordinarily, this may be sound reasoning, but in this case it was fallacious. While it seemed improbable for West to hold four diamonds, it was not impossible. Declarer could have insured victory by laying down the king of diamonds. Then, if the outstanding diamonds happened to be bunched with West, they could be picked up; and if they were with East, let him make a diamond trick. No return by him could be dangerous.

• • •

"One of the great assets of an expert is his ability to mark carefully the fall of the cards, read the ending and, when he has it double-dummy, to violate any principle of play if it becomes necessary. In contrast to the foregoing blunder, we take pleasure in presenting a beautifully played deal.

North, dealer.

SOUTH

"South reached a contract of six spades.

"West led the nine of diamonds and South won with the ace. There are several ways to play the hand but the declarer finally decided to assume that the trumps were 3-2. In that case he could take two rounds of trumps, then crossruff and play high cards, permitting the high trump to make any time its owner saw fit to take it. He led the three of spades and won the trick with the king. The fall of the jack from West was cause for some reflection. It could be a doubleton, a singleton, or West might be attempting to confuse the issue by making the play from a Q-J-9 spade holding. He finally decided to win another round of trumps with the ace of spades. If West originally held the doubleton Q-J of spades, it was all over and inasmuch as a crossruff was still possible if the spade jack were a singleton, this seemed to be the best play. He followed with the ace and king of hearts and then led a diamond to the king. A club from the dummy was discarded on the queen of diamonds and then the ace of clubs was played. The cards were now in this unusual position:

NORTH
♥ 9 6 3

WEST

EAST
♠ Q 9

♦ 10
♣ K J

SOUTH
♠ 10 8
♦ J
♣ 8 4

"The declarer could now mark East with the queen and nine of spades, the 10 of diamonds, and two unknown clubs. It is evident that the necessary tricks must be won by a crossruff. In most cases, before starting a crossruff, the high cards must be taken. And it may seem that the proper play is to cash the jack of diamonds at once before East gets rid of his losing diamond on the heart return from dummy. But such is not the case, for when a club is ruffed in dummy and a heart returned, East will discard his last club and cannot be prevented from making his two spades. Declarer steered clear of all obstacles by ruffing a club in the dummy and returning a heart which he ruffed with the eight of spades. East discarded the 10 of diamonds on the heart return. Another club was ruffed in dummy and on the heart return, South could not be prevented from making his 10 of spades. The reason for holding the jack of diamonds was that if East on the heart return discarded a club instead of the 10 of diamonds, the declarer would have then ruffed his good jack of diamonds in order to enter dummy for the heart return thru East."

Bridge Problem.

There are no trumps, and South leads. North and South are to win five tricks against any defense.

Solution: South leads a heart, and North lets the jack hold. If West leads the seven of spades North plays the king and returns a spade, discarding the king of hearts when West has to lead a diamond; South discarding two diamonds in any case.

If West leads the jack of spades instead of the seven, North lets it ride, and makes all the spades if West leads another; or discards the heart king if West shifts to the diamonds.

Breadmaking Is Easy with Simple Rules

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Home breadmaking almost has become a lost art. Women nowadays bake bread, not twice a week to keep their hungry families fed [bakers take care of that problem] but once in a while, for the fun of it.

A good loaf of homemade bread, brown-crusted and newly out of the oven, is irresistible. What man, woman, or child who loves to eat can resist snatching a knife, sawing off a warm crust, spreading it with melting butter, and making a feast on the spot?

Breadmaking isn't difficult if you know the rules. Success depends mostly upon the temperature and time of rising and the effectiveness of the kneading.

• • •

Yeast works best at a temperature of from 80 to 84 degrees. Below that temperature, the rising process is too slow, and the texture of the finished bread probably will be coarse, possibly even "doughy." Too high a temperature, one over 90 degrees, for example, will produce markedly inferior bread, too.

While the dough is rising, it should be covered and kept away from drafts. If the dough is in a greased bowl which will hold three times its freshly mixed volume, there will be plenty of room for expansion.

Good bread may be made with one rising in the bowl and one in the pan, altho better texture is achieved if there are two risings in the bowl plus one in the pan.

The yeast used should be fresh, and ingredients should be at room temperature before the mixing is started.

GRAHAM BREAD
[Two loaves]

- 1 cake yeast
- 4 tablespoons brown sugar or molasses
- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 2 tablespoons melted fat
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 cups graham or whole wheat flour
- 1 cup sifted white flour

Soften yeast and sugar or molasses in lukewarm water. Add milk [which has been cooled to lukewarm], fat and salt. Add flour gradually, using enough to make a soft dough which can be handled. Knead thoroly, pushing the dough away from you with the palms of the hands, giving it a quarter turn and repeating the process until the dough stiffens enough to become elastic. When it has been kneaded sufficiently it will not stick to the board. Avoid working in excess flour during the kneading process. Round the dough up, place it in a greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place [about 82 degrees F.] for about two hours, or until doubled in bulk. Punch down, divide dough into two parts, and shape into loaves. Place in well greased loaf pans, cover, and let rise again for about an hour, or until light. Bake at 400 degrees for an hour.

If there is time, a second rising in the bowl is advisable. Punch down the dough, round it up again, and let it rise until doubled a second time before shaping the loaves.

WHITE BREAD
[Two loaves]

- 1 cake yeast
- 1½ tablespoons sugar
- 1⅞ cups scalded milk or milk and water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 tablespoon melted fat
- About 5 cups flour

Crumble yeast into a bowl, add sugar, and let stand until liquefied. Add lukewarm milk, salt and fat. Add flour and work in thoroly with the hands. Knead in the bowl or on a lightly floured board until dough is smooth and elastic. Round it up, grease the surface, and let rise in a covered bowl until double in bulk. Knead down, round up, and let rise a second time until double. Divide into two parts and let stand 10 minutes on a lightly floured board, covered to prevent cooling and crusting. Shape into loaves and place in greased pans. Let rise until pans are well filled, and bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat and bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes longer.

For all kinds of other homemade breads, including rolls and coffee cakes, the quickbreads [made with baking powder] and biscuits as well, see "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls," a booklet which sells for 23 cents, by mail. Orders should be addressed to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Lady of the House

St. Patrick.

As nearly as a bit of research can establish, this apostle and patron saint of old Ireland was born about 373 in the British Roman province of Valentia, probably at a spot on the Clyde where Dumbarton now stands. [The existence of two other Irish apostles, Patrick of Palladius, and Senn Patrick, about the same time, seems to have caused some confusion in the history of the early Irish church.]

His father, a decurion [leader of a division of 10] in the Roman army, retired to a farm in Solway, whence, at the age of 16, Patrick was carried off by a band of marauders and sold as a slave to the Irish Celts of County Antrim. After six years he made his escape, and resolving to devote himself to the conversion of Ireland, prepared himself for the priesthood, probably at a monastic institution in Galloway.

Having been ordained by a bishop and received the papal benediction from Celestine I., he went over to Ireland about the year 405. Here he is said to have founded over 360 churches, baptized more than 12,000 persons, and ordained a great number of priests. St. Patrick lived to a good old age; the date of his death being given as about 463.

So tomorrow I'll be havin' a bit of American shamrock somewhere about in memory of old St. Patrick and all his good works, and I'm not Irish either.

How Bluejay scolded that morning because his breakfast wasn't ready when he was! I was a bit late in getting it out. And just the day before, Mrs. Squirrel—looking very moth-eaten from having plucked great tufts of her fur for lining the nest that is to cradle her offspring—had hung from a nearby twig by her hind legs and taken every last kernel of corn from his special ear; biting out only the tiny hearts and dropping the rest of the kernels to the ground. This added insult to injury, and thus sacrificing his vitamins to this ratty-looking intruder contributed not one whit to Mr. Jay's good temper, as he promptly told the world.

His lordship always announces his coming from afar, and any sparrows that might be breakfasting at the tray promptly make their exit and wait patiently in the nearby lilac until Mr. and Mrs. Jay have had their fill. Usually "the missus" will wait until her lord and master has finished, but that morning, being in a hurry to get to her household tasks, she gave him a shove that unmistakably told him his time was up, or she would sit at table with him.

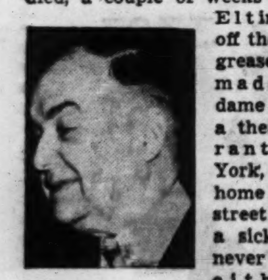
Critic Recalls the Career of Julian Eltinge

Death End to 40 Years as Impersonator

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—Before he died, a couple of weeks ago, Julian Eltinge rubbed off the rouge and grease paint that made a grande dame of him at a theater restaurant in New York, and went home to his 57th street apartment a sick man. He never came back, either to the stage of the restaurant or to Broadway.



Julian Eltinge.

Professionally, life had come full circle with Julian in 40 years. He had won success on Broadway; had a theater named for him; disappeared into the west, lost three fortunes, and returned to Broadway to take a salary from Showman Billy Rose, virtually for the use of his name and nothing more.

"You never would think, to look at him, that Julian Eltinge, the once celebrated impersonator, is a day less than his real age, which is 57." Ben Crisler, one of the last of his interviewers, wrote of him: "The women he impersonates nowadays necessarily have a double chin and crow's feet, like the impersonator himself, traipsing about a night club stage in a hoop skirt and a Louis Quinze wig."

His passing was not an ignominious exit for Julian Eltinge, altho I suspect playgoers whose memories go back as far as 30 years may think so. He was deliberately doing something he was willing to do to make a living. He was saving a little toward the support of a ranch he owns near San Diego, Cal., and for the mother who still is the mistress of that ranch, and to please whom, in all probability, he bought it.

• • •

Nothing will ever completely lift the slur from female impersonation, but Julian Eltinge came as close to lifting it as any man ever had succeeded in doing. So close, in fact, that he suffered very little during his lifetime from the taunts of either the rough or the simpering and light-minded play followers of his time.

I had been in New York a year when the Eltinge theater in 42d street was opened. I recall being greatly surprised. It was difficult, at first, to think of a female impersonator, of a profession that had been generally looked down upon in my earlier days, being able to command sufficient popularity to justify this use of his name. Also, to think that even so successful a sample of the type as Eltinge could raise the money, or any substantial part of it, that the building of a New York theater represented in 1912. Afterward I learned that Julian was only a third owner. Sol Bloom, now a prominent United States representative, and A. H. Woods, at that time on his way to fame as a play producer, were his partners.

• • •

The Eltinge began its career with Jane Cowl and Bayard Veiller's "Within the Law," the success of which virtually paid for the theater within a year of its building. That record, in those days of moderate runs and relatively modest profits, was sensational.

The Eltinge now is a burlesque house, the cheap and flaring façade of which helps to give Coney Island appearance to a section of the New York theater district that once held its head high with pride. Across the street are two other burlesque theaters, the Selwyn and the Apollo, which were built by the Selwyns and their associates with a part of the money the Eltinge earned with that same first run of "Within The Law." Also across the street is a third burlesque house, the Republic, that Al Woods once bought with his part of the Eltinge profits; the same Republic that, years before, served as the home of the David Belasco productions while that producer was building his own theater in 44th street. Belasco is dead. The Selwyns are in pictures.

It is all a part of American theater history, so much of which has sprung from these local bases.

• • •

Eltinge's career in skirts was something of an accident. His ambition as a boy was to be a soft shoe dancer. In Boston, where he was attending a private school, a company of First Corps cadets gave annual shows for the benefit of an armory fund. The promoters had heard of Eltinge's success as a 15 year old dancer in school theatricals, and got him to impersonate a girl in their show. His success was immediate. The next year he repeated and then professional offers began coming in. He used to tell of being tempted finally by an offer of $100 a week in a piece called "Mr. Wick of Wickham." The play failed and the manager still owed Eltinge $77 the day he died.

Eltinge in rôle of "Crinoline Girl." [Strauss Peyton Photo.]

He went into vaudeville after that, his salary soon jumping to $200 a week. And from vaudeville to shows such as "The Fascinating Widow" and "The Crinoline Girl," with which he made a lot of money for himself and Mr. Woods.

Julian's real name was William Dalton. I never heard where the Eltinge came from, or even the Julian, for that matter.

Diversity Is the Keynote of Three Current Art Exhibits

By Edith Weigle.

There are current three large shows by Chicago artists, all having opened within a few days of each other. At the Art institute is the annual exhibition by artists of Chicago and vicinity [prize winners were reviewed in THE TRIBUNE of March 11]; at 37 South Wabash avenue is the spring showing of the work of the Chicago Society of Artists, and at 154 East Erie street is the 16th annual exhibition of the Chicago No-Jury Society of Artists.

It is apparent simply by the scope of these shows that our native painters are highly industrious. Also, that they travel all the highways and byways of their craft. You'll find exponents of every "ism" and also of conventional painting as our grandparents knew it on the walls of these three exhibitions. Abstract, cubist, and surrealist canvases are cheek by jowl with traditional oils done in the manner of the great landscape and portrait painters.

Diversity is the keynote of all three shows. Among the most interesting of the 229 canvases at the Art institute are Charles W. Dahlgreen's study of a dilapidated old Victorian house, complete with cupola, called "From the Gay Nineties"; Frederic Tellander's "Arch of Titus," in which delicate color is combined with a fine architectural quality; Karl Priebe's amusing study of a Negro woman and child, "The Pink Gloves"; Charles P. Killgore's "Storm Clouds," a California landscape in which the massive bare hills lead the eye upward to the sky; Ralph von Lehmden's landscape, a facile study in light and shade, "Five o'Clock," and Winifred Pleimling's delightful, richly toned portrait of a lush beauty, "Rendezvous."

The sculpture at the Art institute exhibition is unusually fine. John David Brcin has a classic plaster figure, "Reverie," as graceful and serene as a sonata; Freeman L. Schoolcraft has a stunning black plaster head, "John Carlis"; Arno Hempel is represented by a poetic figure study in wood, "Girl with Fawn," and Russell McKee by the green bronze, arching figure of a young girl, "Wallflower," to mention only a few examples.

The Chicago Society of Artists' show merits more than one visit. While not a great number of canvases are on exhibit those that there are have been carefully chosen and well hung. Our notes starred the following: Tressa Benson's "Girl in the Pink Sweater," a large oil notable for skillful handling and the use of subtle color; Frances Strain's exceedingly original water color, "Cornstalks," a study in greens, blues, and yellows that imparts something of the airy, unworldly beauty of a fairy tale and that this observer will long remember; Ethel Spears' "Michigan Farm," a delightful, modernized "primitive" with a typical rural scene as the subject, pleasing in its contrast of colors; Donald Mundt's "Congress Street Barber Shop," a water color lively with action and spirit; Orval Caidwell's expertly painted "Winter Road," also a water color; Rowena Fry's amusing "Studio Cat," which injects a note of humor into a brilliantly brushed little painting; Flora Schofield's "Corner of the Studio," a still life of great vigor keyed in grays and white, and Frances Badger's "Fortin," a street scene in the tropics, notable for its fine composition and its fresh, clean color.

Two terra cotta figures by Nancy Edwards were outstanding in the pieces of small sculpture which complete this interesting exhibition.

Tomorrow paintings by the leaders of Cubism: Braque, Picasso, Juan Gris, and La Fresnaye go on view at the Katharine Kuh gallery. The closing date is April 6.

The first one man show in this country by Harald Schade, young Danish painter, is being held under the auspices of the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago in Goodspeed hall. Included in the 17 canvases are five Hyde Park scenes.

The Oak Park, Austin, and River Forest Art league is holding its winter exhibition of water colors and drawings. The following members of this group also have paintings at the current Art institute show: Verne Mullen, Charles Dahlgreen, Holger Jensen, and Averill Conwell.

Harold J. Rome Composes with Easy Fluency

By Cecil Smith.

Harold J. Rome, the young composer and author of the music and lyrics for "New Pins and Needles," the Labor Stage revue at the Studebaker theater, looked at me as tho he thought me completely daft when I asked to be allowed to examine printed copies of a large number of his songs. "I can't imagine why any one should want to study my music," he said in a perplexed tone. "I just think of it as show music, and if it works with an audience, it is good. There is nothing to analyze or to take particularly seriously in any of it."

This modest and practical minded young man became a composer more or less by accident. At the Yale school of Fine Arts architecture, and not music, had been his field of study. But tunes and lyrics kept running thru his head, and he gave up his first job in an architect's office, out of the nebulous hope that he might be able to peddle his songs to some musical comedy producer.

• • •

He had very little success in selling his wares until he ran across Louis Schaffer, the head of Labor Stage. At precisely the psychological moment Mr. Schaffer was shaping up his ideas for the first edition of "Pins and Needles," and Harold Rome's vivacious songs, shot thru and thru with "social significance," looked like the right bet.

So began an association between Mr. Rome and Labor Stage which continued thru the present second edition of "Pins and Needles," and which will be perpetuated in the projected third edition, slated for fall production, on which the young composer is now at work. His only defections from Labor Stage occurred in the instances of "Sing Out the News," a topical revue produced by Max Gordon, and "The Little Dog Laughed," an experimental musical produced and tried out last fall by Eddie Dowling, but discarded as impractical before it ever reached Broadway.

• • •

Harold J. Rome is uncommonly interesting because his songs typify so much that is both best and most usual about American musical comedy music. While he is obviously exceptionally talented and facile, he is not really original. He does not possess Cole Porter's imaginative gift of harmonic color or of the contrapuntal elaboration of an accompaniment. His melodies never have the free freshness of phraseology and melodic contour that sometimes lift Richard Rodgers' tunes far out of the ordinary level. Nor does he compose with the unique, untutored simplicity and directness which make Irving Berlin's tunes universally popular among millions of people, regardless of their frequent banality.

If a visitor from another country were interested in discovering the typical nature of good American show music, I should send him to Harold Rome—not to any of the exceptional composers I have just mentioned, nor to such clever European importations as Kurt Weill and Vernon Duke.

Mr. Rome has grown up with a native feeling for the musical idiom of the American theater. He composes entirely within familiar molds of structure, harmony, rhythm, and melody. He accepts the four-measure musical sentence, the 16 or 32 bar chorus as an inevitable necessity of popular musical form. With no sense of shame he employs a harmonic idiom which has not much suggestion of innovation or novel color. His rhythmic patterns are borrowed from ragtime, Charleston, rumba, Gilbert and Sullivan—wherever an appropriate model comes to hand. He has never been tempted to sacrifice effectiveness for experimentalism; even in "The Little Dog Laughed," it is safe to guess that his songs constituted the least experimental element.

But all this sounds rather too negative. Of Mr. Rome's positive musical assets, his best is a sense of easy rhythmic fluency. He accepts, as I have said, the stereotyped repetition of four measure phrases as a basis for his rhythmic form, but within each four measure unit he achieves enviably smooth continuity and complete naturalness. Think of "Sunday in the Park," in "New Pins and Needles." How graciously and spontaneously the music flows along to the end of the fourth measure, and how easily and simply the content of the whole chorus seems to grow out of the opening musical idea!

In one regard Mr. Rome possesses an advantage over most of his colleagues in the song writing business. He writes his own lyrics. Consequently in nearly all of his songs the tune and the text give a happy impression of having been conceived together. A good example of this is the famous theme song of "Pins and Needles," called "Sing Me a Song with Social Significance." Here the captivating lilt of the music is intimately associated with the bouncy, alliterative words. "Mene, Mene, Tekel," with its exhilarating repetitions of "tekel," "tekel," evidently employed for the fun of repeating that explosive word, is another song in which the lyric contributes at least half the interest.

As a social satirist, Mr. Rome finds his natural flair for musical parody quite helpful. He is willing to turn to any appropriate style to make an effect. In a sardonic composition called "Death in the Afternoon," dealing with the Spanish civil war, the local color is heightened by an insistent Habanera rhythm and a reiterative melody clearly patterned upon Ravel's "Bolero." "Sing Ho! for Private Enterprise," in "Sing Out the News," satirized the big business man in a pompous march that evokes memories of the "March of the Peers" in Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Iolanthe."

Mr. Rome's music is so breezy and natural and easy that it has no great need to be profoundly original. He is an agreeable ornament to the musical theater, and when, on April 5, "New Pins and Needles" leaves the Studebaker theater, it will be pleasant to look forward to his new score for the third edition. It is bound to be blithe and pointed and witty, and that is a great deal in these days.

The Week's Vaudeville

"Champagne Music," in the person of Lawrence Welk and his orchestra, is featured in the stage revue, "Melody Parade of 1941," now at the Chicago theater. Artists featured with the band are Jayne Walton, Parnell Grina, Jerry Burke and "Pee Wee" Lewis. In addition the show offers Eunice Healey, Cookie Bowers, and Paul Nolan. "Tobacco Road" is the film.

At the Oriental theater the stage offering is "Palm Springs Scandals," a revue featuring Dagmar in her dance revelation known as "Desert Madness." Johnny Coy, Tenner and Swift, Ballantine, Three Olympic Boys, and Fred Sanborn are also performing. On the screen is "Road Show."

George Jessel and youthful, singing bride, Lois Andrew, are to be seen and heard on the State-Lake theater's stage along with Joe Reichman and his orchestra, Marion Shaw, Pat Henning and company, the Maxine Brothers and Bobby, and Walter Davidson's audience glee club. The film is "Dr. Kildare's Crisis."

"Immortal Greece."

Peter S. Lambros, editor of the Greek Star, has written a spectacle, called "Immortal Greece," which will be produced and staged by Jean Fardoulis in the Civic Opera house on April 6 under the sponsorship of the United Greek Orthodox Churches of Chicago for the benefit of the Greek war relief fund.

Jan Paderewski to Be Guest of Honor at Party

By Cousin Eve.

Countess Helene Chlapowska, who arrived in town yesterday from Palm Beach, is the widow of Alfred Chlapowski, late Polish ambassador to France. The ambassador died a year ago in Poland, six months after the German invasion and Mme. Chlapowska remained abroad until the early winter. She has been visiting Consuelo Balsan in her beautiful island house in Lake Worth. Mme. Balsan is the former duchess of Marlborough, a daughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt, and owner of more beautiful houses at Compiegne, in Paris, and near Cannes.

Countess Chlapowska is an elegant and distinguished woman, with that subtle Polish charm and individuality which sets the Poles apart in a class by themselves. For 15 years she reigned gloriously over the handsomest embassy in Paris, an establishment that was literally a museum of magnificent historic possessions. Just now she is traveling over the United States in the interest of relief for her country. Mme. Chlapowska was born in Poznan, a part of the country now held by the third Reich. The newly formed American Friends of Poland will give a luncheon to meet this fair lady toward the end of her stay in Chicago.

And apropos of luncheons, one of the grandest parties possible will be given in honor of Ignace Jan Paderewski in the merry month of May—flowers, music, dignitaries, vast crowd, all arranged by a purely American group!

It was upsetting, to say the least, to hear that the exquisite Mrs. Arthur Acton had been in jail in Italy. She was out, to be sure, when the news reached Chicago from Switzerland, where the former Hortense Mitchell of Chicago now is. The Actons have lived in Florence many, many years, in the finest villa in north Italy, La Pietra. It isn't as if the Italians didn't know all about Mrs. Acton, who has kept her American citizenship. Because they do. She has been a leader in Florentine society for a score of years, is lovely, very chic, and maintains a large way of life.

Arthur Acton is British, which may account for the arrest, which came about thru an error in birth dates upon Mrs. Acton's passport. In her frequent trips to Paris in applying for the "permesso" at the constabulary she was inaccurate perhaps in her birth date, or in the names of her grandparents which the Italians dote upon and insist on having.

The beautiful American, perfect as an 18th century marquise with blue eyes, ash blonde hair and slim, exquisite figure, was at a party when the police came. She was in semi-dress with magnificent bracelets to the elbow as the mode is in Italy, where they still wear diamonds, and was able to seize a sweater to cover up the blaze of jewels. Fortunately, she had a coat and furs, as it was desperately cold in prison. Here she was locked up with a female law breaker for 48 hours. There was an unspeakable bed and a wooden chair in the room which Mrs. Acton clung to until she was freed. In the meantime her family and friends were searching madly for her, afraid she had been kidnaped. Finally Arthur Acton got news of his wife's whereabouts and she was released, put on a train and rushed to Vevey. There at the hotel is a large contingent of British who have lived all their lives in Italy and are fairly miserable outside of their charming Italian homes.

Mrs. Acton's La Pietra is a papal villa dating from the 14th century behind high walls on a steep hill. From the great stone gates, a straight road is bordered by tall, pointed cypresses with gardens and orchards on either side. The great yellow, time stained house was built in 1425 by a cardinal and is indescribably grand, with windows wide, high and grilled against enemies and sieges. The barrel vaulted dining room is famous for its period furnishings, and the gardens are quite divine, terraced and draped with ancient wisterias.

These gardens are peopled by stone statues of Venetian belles and gallants of long ago who seem to prance and pirouette in their leafy niches. A deeply shaded path leads to an old garden of the cardinal's time, whose walls are lined with big yellow urns of pink geraniums, and lemon trees. There are orange, apricot, and fig trees, too. In one of the small villas on the estate members of the Greek royal family lived for some years.

Mrs. Acton is a young half sister of the late John J. Mitchell. Guy Mitchell is her own brother, and Chicago has many of her cousins.

"Opera for Opera's Sake" is the alluring slogan of the new Opera Theater which has been hovering over Chicago these many months.

Giovanni Cardelli is Opera Theater's general director and Giacomo Rimini its artistic director. The latter is a long time favorite of our operatic stage, and Count Cardelli is the son of Mrs. Ruth Lamson Cardelli and was assistant to Walter R. Kirk in last season's Chicago opera.

Giovanni Cardelli might be called our local Deems Taylor. Opera has been his specialty and he has studied its history in the great capitals of Europe. He not only is familiar with an enormous répertoire of operatic music, but knows how the music should be sung and the play produced. He has delved into the practical management of opera, the box office side as well as the artistic, and believes in the painstaking European way of giving music drama.

Giovanni Cardelli.

The Opera Theater proposes to give its performances at the Goodman theater, and its repertory includes composers of the long ago and moderns like Stravinsky. His opera "Maura" will be sung in English. Mozart, Verdi, Berlioz, Pergolesi, Cattozo, Rossini, and Cimarosa will all be represented and the meastro says they are "busy as little beavers."

Count Cardelli is a tall, handsome young man, black haired and eyed who was born in Rome. His mother is a chic American and so is his wife, the former Jacqueline Stewart of New York, who was brought up in Paris. The Cardellis are a picturesque couple in our society and give charming parties in their North State street apartment.

One of the most exciting of our late winter visitors is Miss Sigrid Schultz, Berlin correspondent of The Chicago Tribune, who is staying at the Drake. Two thousand members and guests crowded into the Stevens hotel ballroom at luncheon to hear the intrepid woman writer, and many fondly hoped she would spill a bean or two. But nary a bean did she spill, and most of her hearers were thrilled with her adroit handling of an interesting topic, "Germany in Wartime."

Miss Schultz has a thought of red in her smooth hair and Norwegian blue in her eye, and with all her implied alertness has the background of a charming home. Her apartment facing the Tiergarten in Berlin is a rendezvous for writers, and not long ago in Berlin we lunched there. As we left the house with a group of foreign correspondents a little country cart was driven to the front door. It was full up with cherries, plums, peaches and berries, and the hausfrau came sprinting out to oversee the dumping of the cargo, while Miss Schultz explained that the fruit preserving season was on—and there indeed were a row of shining copper kettles all polished and ready.

One of the important things said by the writer in her address to the Foreign Relations luncheon was a plea for balanced thought in place of hysteria. "In Europe where there is war, people think calmly," she said. "In America over the bridge tables there is a definite tendency to emotionalism, which is dangerous, even at bridge."

Two of our distinguished literary clubs, the Fortnightly and the Friday club, have had similar programs this month. Each organization has featured a lady pschoanalyst who discoursed on the science of the hidden "we," and members were in each case highly diverted to be listening to something besides rumors of war. The Friday club, at one of its closed meetings for members only, had one of the most entertaining mornings of the season when Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson and Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson spoke on recent trips around South America. The Magnusons had gone by air and the Ryersons traveled on the sea. Both speakers spoke without notes, and each fascinated her hearers with the gay spontaneity of her thoughts.

Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence is president of the Friday club and Mrs. Allyn Warren presides over meetings of the Fortnightly.

All the parties in the world are not being given in Palm Beach. But letters from that popular resort would have one think so. One thousand guests went to the Tombola at the Everglades last Wednesday rustling their food from the buffet. And $1,000 was distributed later in prizes of lucky numbers from the whirling birdcage.

Mrs. William Wood. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

However, here in Chicago Mr. and Mrs. William Wood of Wheaton brightened up their corner by a beautiful party in the House on the Roof at the Sherman. There were 42 guests at table, mostly from the younger set, and the dinner was as full of surprises as a grab bag. The long table was laid on the terrace with its wide view over the lighted city, with the hostess at one end and his charming wife at the other. A telephone line was installed so they could consult at appropriate intervals, when little telephone bells rang and the hosts had amusing chat.

Muriel Stafford, handwriting expert, had passed among the guests as they were imbibing the apertif before dinner, and later on clever analyses of character were read to the guests. Besides these each guest found a favor at his place. Whatever the gift was, one was expected to use it at table. If one got a horn one tootled it. If a song, then you sang it. In short, there wasn't a boring moment at the Wood party. Among the girls were Anne Bryant and Pauline Palmer, and the John Shaws, Frank Gordons, Col. and Mrs. Thomas Gowenlock, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wetmore, and so on.

William Wood is a great nephew of that rugged but dashing character, the late Frederick Prince of Boston, for long years M. F. H. at Pau in the Pyrenees.

The Association for Family Living is sponsoring several programs for the public this spring at its headquarters, 220 South State street. Palm Beach Is Busy at Many Social Duties

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

What with ides of March, odes to spring, and aids to Britain Palm Beach finds itself still in a mad rush. Shops are showing spring clothes that are poems in silks, cottons, and synthetic materials. Poets and peasants in Palm Beach are writing synthetic verse along with the genuine variety. A huge auction sale early this week brought in thousands of dollars for British war relief.

The auction was held in the Embassy club, a beautiful Spanish building on Royal Palm way. This club has been closed for several seasons, but is always kept in apple pie condition. It is the property of Col. E. R. Bradley, noted turfman, who also owns the Beach club.

Mme. Georges de Grippenberg, attractive wife of the Finnish ambassador to London, was fêted in Palm Beach last week. Mme. de Grippenberg was sent to this country by the Red Cross of Finland to express appreciation of that nation for aid given it by America. On Wednesday Mme. de Grippenberg was honor guest and speaker at the Everglades club tombola luncheon. Later that afternoon she was honored at a large tea given by Mrs. Henry Rea of Pittsburgh at her ocean front villa, Lagomar. Many of the Chicago colony were present.

The patio at Lagomar overlooks a green slope to the lake. To the south a picturesque waterfall feeds a rectangular pool—it must be 30 or 40 feet long—which is banked with colorful blossoms. The sunlight plays in rainbow tints on a double row of tiny fountains which send up sprays to form an archway of liquid crystal to frame the beauty of the flowers.

Mrs. Rea and Mme. de Grippenberg have known each other for many years, their friendship having had its beginning in London in happier days. On Tuesday the distinguished visitor from Finland was entertained at a luncheon by Mrs. Frank C. Henderson at Land's End.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, guest of Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, was entertained at the Everglades tombola Wednesday by Mrs. William Yager, also of Chicago. Others in the party included Mrs. Berdeau, Mrs. Charles S. Davis and her guests, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever of Chicago, Miss Pearl Johnson of Cleveland, Mrs. Edmund Hall, and Mrs. George Spencer of Muncie, Ind., also Mrs. John T. H. Mitchell, Miss Ann Mitchell, Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff and her guests, Mrs. Julius P. Meyers, Mrs. Frederick Ley, and Mrs. Thomas Gilroy; Mrs. Alexander Hadden and Mrs. William Dunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller entertained at tea on the Breakers terrace Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Baur.

On Monday afternoon about 50 tables of bridge were in play at Mar-A-Lamo, the Joseph E. Davies estate. The Animal Rescue league was giving its annual benefit party there. The conversation buzz was just what you would imagine it to be. The Davies house is the last word in subdued magnificence, with gold embossed ceilings, priceless hangings, and art objects everywhere. The collection of icons which Mr. Davies brought back from Moscow proved of great interest. How any woman could really get her mind on bridge in such sumptuous surroundings is past understanding, but the awards for top score were handsome and desirable.

Following the games, tea was served in the vast dining room. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Ralph Hubbard Norton and Mrs. O. Nelson Tevander of Chicago, and Mme. Frieda Hempel, all three in light, summery outfits.

The Animal Rescue league maintains an ambulance, operates a pound, finds homes for stray animals, and takes care of cats and dogs left homeless when the Palm Beach season is over.

Over west of West Palm Beach the league has an animal cemetery, where, for a small sum, pets may be decently interred. Graves are marked with an oblong of concrete carved with the name of the pet and its bereaved owner.

Tickets to this party sold for $5 each.

More than 500 attended the Orange Blossom ball Wednesday night at the Whitehall, given for the benefit of St. Mary's hospital in West Palm Beach. Potted orange trees in full bloom sent out a nocturnal symphony of perfume, while a system of indirect lighting in tall white columns on the terrace suffused the scene with a soft orange glow. There was a floor show and, as a climax, fireworks were sent up on the lake front. The display of pyrotechnics concluded with a spectacular rocket's red glare, which burst to form a huge American flag.

Proceeds from a concert by Samuel Sorin, pianist, at the Norton Art Gallery Monday night, swelled the fund which this state is giving to the national memorial to Stephen Collins Foster. This memorial, in the form of a huge marble amphitheater, will be erected at White Springs, Fla., in the northern part of the state. White Springs is a natural beauty spot along the Suwanee river. It has that "way down upon" atmosphere immortalized in the song.

Already 2,000 tons of marble have been purchased for the amphitheater. The marble came from the old post-office in Jacksonville which has been razed to make way for a new building. Mrs. Albert C. Fordham, a former Chicagoan, has charge of the Foster activities on the east coast.

The final exhibition of the Four Arts for this season opened on Friday with a preview and tea. This exhibition is three sided, being a display of Chinese art arranged by Mrs. Lorenzo Woodhouse; a collection of sculpture and wood carving by Agnes Yarnell [Mrs. W. Lawrence Lepage] of Philadelphia; and a showing of 100 pictures by the Florida Water Color society.

When it comes to sports clothes, Palm Beach is on a color jag. At the Seminole Golf club recently the gallery watching the play was a fashion forecast of what the well dressed woman will wear next summer at the country club. The day was bright and sunny, and parasols were seen, bringing back memories of when "bombashoots," both rain and sun, were the only convertible tops known.

The occasion of this particular gathering was the amateur-pro golf tournament. A few of those seen, and what they wore: Mrs. Margaret Emerson, slack suit of chola rose; her daughter, Mrs. Henry J. Topping [Gloria Baker], yellow slacks and blue blouse; Mrs. Ritchey Farrell, navy blue slack ensemble; Miss Grace Amory, red and white print sports fock; Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien, all white ensemble with white hat of rough straw; Mrs. James A. Donahue, in white with bright red parasol; Mrs. Edgar W. Garbisch [Bernice Chrysler], powder blue linen and white accessories, white parasol.

The society baseball game which was rained out last Saturday took place Thursday afternoon at Poinchiana Field. Former Mayor John Shepard pitched the first ball, which was caught by James M. Owens Jr., mayor. Major Barclay Warburton, chairman of the society ball game committee, was on the plate.

Harold Stirling Vanderbilt, national chairman of the Greek War relief, heads the sponsors for the première of "That Woman Hamilton," starring Vivian Leigh and Laurence Olivier, to be held Monday night at the Everglades club.

Reporter Says Au Revoir to Florida Beauty

By India Moffett.

Au revoir, Florida. We hate saying it, for we really love the state, altho there are times when we think that if we ever see it again it will be too soon.

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

We hate the new-rich, overdressed, bumptious people one meets in Miami Beach; we love the charming, delightful people in Miami Beach who live there in the same quiet, pleasant way in which they live in northern cities; we hate the snooty, provincial easterners in Palm Beach who look pityingly at us when they hear that we are from Chicago; we love the nice, agreeable people in Palm Beach who have retained their sense of humor and can laugh even at themselves; we hate cafeterias, even when they are in swank places such as the Surf and Bath clubs in Miami Beach, the Bath and Tennis and the Everglades in Palm Beach; we love stone crabs, pompano, kingfish, mackerel, and all the other good seafood that is served everywhere in Florida.

We could go on for pages, for there is so much to like, and so much to dislike, in Florida. As a matter of fact, we cannot leave out our two chief loves, the sunshine and the water, for they are the two attractions that make Florida the heavenly place that it is. The sunsets on the Gulf of Mexico are unsurpassed; the Atlantic probably has sunrises that are magnificent, but we've never seen one. We love the ocean, however, in all its moods. Give us a beach on the Atlantic and a shining sun and we know Florida is the nicest place in the world. Don't trust us, however, for if we were in the desert in Arizona, on a horse's back under the same bright sun, we'd love it just as much.

• • •

We remember pleasantly the little mocking bird we saw in Orlando that was so tame that she would come when Mrs. Theodore P. Bates called to her and sit in Mrs. Bates' hand while she ate the raisins that had become her daily fare; the dining room on the 10th or 11th floor of the Fort Harrison hotel in Clearwater [the only hotel we've ever seen in Florida that had a dining roof]; the courtesy of the Negro bell boys at the Belleview Biltmore in Belleair [the only resort hotel in which we stayed that had Negro boys]; the glory of the setting sun at Naples; the snook we had for luncheon at Everglades [we never saw it on another menu]; the efficiency of the telephone operators at the Patrician in Miami Beach; the comfort of the radiators at the Palm Beach Biltmore; and the old-fashioned carriages with silk-hatted Negro drivers in St. Augustine.

We remember unpleasantly pushing the jostling crowds at the beautiful Hialeah track; the too-too grandeur of Miami Beach's smartest beach clubs [Palm Beach the center of wealth and fashion, has a really simple, unpretentious beach club, the Bath and Tennis]; the prevalence of British flags at Palm Beach [even one who is sympathetic toward Great Britain and a great admirer of England's courage feels that pro-British activity and feeling in Palm Beach are overdone to the point of nausea]; the headlines in a Miami daily paper, "Beach Garbage Breaks Record," and "February Vice Fine Collections Increase," and beneath them words to the effect that February was a big month for winter visitors, because 4,337 tons of garbage had been collected during the month, and the vice fines showed an increase of $3,031 over the same month last year; and the sign, "Take a Swig at Swag's," that is repeated many times on highway One in northern Florida. The main road north from Palm Beach is so beautiful now, because much of it lies alongside the ocean, that it is a disgrace to allow such an advertisment for a roadside bar to offend a motorist's gaze.

• • •

We also remember with delight the graciousness and beauty of Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury as she greeted her guests and said goodnight to them on the occasion of Ignace Jan Paderewski's only appearance in Palm Beach, a concert for the Polish Relief Fund. Each guest who paid $10 to attend was made to feel that he was an honored guest at El Mirasol, Mrs. Stotesbury's beautiful home. Such courteous hospitality is old-fashioned and rare in these days of casual social intercourse. If there was a dry eye and a throat that wasn't choking when the aged and feeble pianist and statesman slowly walked into the great drawing room that served as a concert hall, they must have belonged to a man of stone.

Arizona Dons Easter Dress Prematurely

By Lolita Linn.

Arizona has put on its Easter dress early this year. The rose tree of Tombstone, Ariz., largest in the world, was in full bud a week ago. Now word comes that it unfolded its thousands of white blossoms in fine disregard for the calendar.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Picacho peak, grim sentinel of the highway from Tucson to Phoenix, is aflame with orange poppies. Up at mile-high Bisbee, Ariz., the cherry trees are in blossom, their delicacy in curious contrast to the rugged country around them.

Outside my window, beyond a rainbow of sweet peas, a tapestry of bright yellows, purples, and dark greens unfolds itself from the cream colored home of Mrs. William Wrigley to the rock-walled drive of the Arizona Biltmore. The gently nurtured African daisies on the hill and their gamin cousins, the Picacho peak poppies, both have moved their blooming dates forward, thanks to the unprecedented moisture which has fallen on Arizona this winter.

• • •

Incidentally, any one who doubts that vegetables "is beautiful" should see Mrs. Wrigley's terrace done in arrangements of beets and spinach, lettuce and radishes, carrots and tomatoes.

Latecomers to Arizona this year have a rare treat in store for them. Even the memories of the pioneers are taxed to recollect when the desert was so green or the cacti so far ahead of themselves. The brilliance and profusion of the wild flowers is only the beginning. When the palo verde puts on its radiant yellow dresses; when the ocotillos burst forth in scarlet; when the sahuaros put on their white, waxy bonnets; when all the desert plants, well watered for once in their underprivileged lives, break into blossoms of every shade and shape, the desert will indeed be adorned in wondrous style for Easter day.

• • •

John T. Llewellyn II. and his bride of a month, the former Alice Blair of Winnetka, spent part of their western honeymoon at the Arizona Biltmore with his grandfather, John T. Llewellyn. They left this week for Chicago, where they will occupy Mr. Llewellyn's residence. Young Mr. Llewellyn is a commissioned officer in the R. O. T. C. and is expecting a call to active duty soon.

Apparently the Benjamin R. Coopers of Chicago, who come to the Biltmore each winter, have been doing a little missionary work for Arizona. This year they brought with them their neighbors, the Fred J. Sauters of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Parsons of Evanston, who are likewise annual visitors at the Biltmore, arrived just a day or two ahead of their friends. They all went over to Chandler this week to have dinner with the Frank R. Elliotts, who are staying at the San Marcos hotel. Other guests from the Biltmore at the dinner party were the A. H. Mellingers of Evanston and Mrs. August von Glahn of Chicago.

• • •

Mrs. Sauter gave a bridge luncheon last week for Mrs. James Snitzler of Chicago and her mother, Mrs. E. M. McLaren of Pasadena, Cal., who are guests at Jokake Inn. Mrs. Snitzler's son, James Jr., also is at Jokake this winter.

James R. Offield of Chicago arrived at the Biltmore on March 3. Mrs. Offield was expected to join him the last of the week.

Recent arrivals at the Biltmore include the George Henneberrys of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. John N. Ott of Winnetka, and Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis of Chicago.

Castle Hot Springs, unlike the rest of southern Arizona, never has known the meaning of drouth. Four hundred thousand gallons of hot mineral water flow from the granite rocks every 24 hours, more than enough to furnish heat and hot water for the hotel, fill the three swimming pools, and water lavishly the tropical and desert plants which dwell together in this oasis. The Indians recognized the healing powers of the springs and regarded them with awe and veneration.

• • •

There always is a goodly group of Chicagoans at Castle Hot Springs hotel. Recent additions are Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II. of Lake Forest, and Mr. and Mrs. G. William Thatcher of Chicago. Miss Rowena Day of Clarksville, Tenn., is visiting her uncle, Harry Williams of Chicago.

The grounds of Camelback Inn are a study in desert contrast. From the main building to the pool is a cactus garden presided over by a gnarled old sahuaro looking, for all the world, like the bear who walked like a man. Virtually every Arizona species is represented in the garden, except the cholla, which was banished after several brushes with the guests' silk stockings. Back among the guest houses are colorful flower gardens and terraced lawns.

• • •

The Frederick D. Corleys of Lake Forest are spending their third season at the Camelback. Last year Mr. Corley presented the inn with a large silver cup on which are engraved the names of the winners of the annual putting tournament which opens next week. Miss Mary Louise Corley and her friend, Miss Jane Zimmerman of Chicago, have gone very "Arizonan" in blue jeans, cowboy boots and highly colored skirts.

The W. E. MacFarlanes of Chicago were early March arrivals at the Camelback. Mr. and Mrs. Britton I. Budd have been at the inn since the middle of February. The Orville J. Taylors of Chicago stopped for dinner last week en route from Tucson to Los Angeles. They expect to return to Phoenix shortly. Roy C. Ingersoll of Winnetka arrived recently to join Mrs. Ingersoll and their daughter, Mrs. John Coffin of Evanston, who have been vacationing in Arizona for some time.

Sea Island Is Rich in Lore of Early Days

By India Moffett.

"Literary by taste and culture, he became a soldier from sense of duty," and "an artist by profession and a poet in nature, bright and gentle hearted, he shared manfully in the hardships and perils of the common cause, and sacrificed a life full of promise" are the words inscribed on twin headstones in Christ church cemetery on St. Simons Island, Ga. They might describe any two young men of any time, of any place, who fell in battle, but they were written as epitaphs for Hamilton and John Lord Couper, sons of James Hamilton and Caroline Couper of Cannons Point, St. Simons. Hamilton, the elder and captain of the Oglethorpe light infantry company, 8th Georgia regiment, fell in 1861 at Manassas in Virginia, and his brother, a sergeant major of the 60th Georgia regiment, was killed in 1862 at Gordonsville, Va.

SEA ISLAND, GA.

Near the graves of the soldier-brothers are those of their mother, who was born in 1811 and died in 1897, and of their father, who was born in 1794 and died in 1866. The ruins of the great plantation upon which the Coupers lived now is the favorite picnic ground of the guests of the Cloister hotel on Sea Island, a long, narrow island lying so close to St. Simons that it is considered part of the larger one. On the map Sea Island seems to be in St. Simons lap. The islands are connected with the mainland by a long causeway, the west end of which is in Brunswick, Ga.

• • •

Nothing is left of the great fields of cotton, olives, and dates which made the colonial plantation of John Couper [grandfather of the soldiers] one of the famous ones of that time. There are more live oaks there now, however, than when John Couper had timbers cut to build the frigate Old Ironsides, for then there were vast fields under cultivation and now there is none. Before the civil war almost all of the 19,000 acres on St. Simons were in cultivation, but now not one is tilled to bear crops.

There is a golf course, an airport, two small towns [Frederica and St. Simons], many houses, and the Cloister, but gone are all of the seven plantations that made Sea Island cotton known thruout the civilized world of that day. Hampton Point, Hamilton, West Point, Harrington, Retreat, and St. Clair were the other plantations.

• • •

Cloister guests see nothing of the big house at Cannons Point except a few tabby [ground oyster shells, sand, and water] walls as they watch a hotel cook roast oysters in the old fireplace and chimney of the kitchen. St. Simons was a barren waste after the war between the states, and the old families were reduced to dire poverty. Some of the descendants still live on the island or in Brunswick, but there are no Coupers. None, that is, except in the old graveyard at Christ church, which has the distinction of having had Charles and John Wesley as rectors.

Charles, the first Methodist, was the first rector of the little church which stands in complete peace and deep quiet in an oak woods, surrounded by many graves, some new but many so old that it is hard to decipher the inscriptions. The Wesleys, who were among the founders of the Holy club at Oxford college, England, which grew into the Methodist Episcopal church, came to Georgia in 1736 with Gen. James E. Oglethorpe. Charles Wesley was the organizer of the club. The little white frame church of today is only about 50 years old, but it is the fourth to stand in the same location.

• • •

The Sea Island Golf club is laid out on what was King's Retreat plantation, whose owners, the Thomas Butler Kings, were noted for their culture, hospitality, and kindness to their slaves. The central portion of the clubhouse formerly was one of the barns, and near the entrance stand tabby ruins of the slave hospital. The long avenue of oaks that stretches alongside the modern road was the magnificent approach to the plantation house in the days when Retreat was a luxurious home and was visited by many Americans and foreigners of note. Near the ninth hole is the slave "burying ground," in which descendants of the Retreat slaves still find their final rest.

The big event of the week-end of March 7 to Sea Islanders was the annual seniors' golf tournament, but it faded into insignificance beside a funeral that was held on that Saturday in the graveyard near the ninth hole. Even the tournament players stopped to watch the child of a Retreat slave being laid to rest. A southern Negro funeral is "sumpin."

• • •

We could go on for columns describing the places of historical interest on St. Simons and Sea Island but, after all, those who spend winter or summer vacations in this delightful spot do not spend all their time delving into the past, fascinating as history is. They swim in the Atlantic or in the big pool at the Cloister; they play tennis or golf; they ride on gaited horses or on bicycles; they shoot skeet; they fish; they dance; they go to Mrs. Maxfield Parrish's estate overlooking Bloody Marsh, to hear the Negroes sing spirituals and they do something that, as far as we know, they can do nowhere else in the world: They sail boats on Sea Island's broad, hard beach.

Sand sailboats were designed by Gilbert Readdick, a 19 year old Brunswick resident, and the first one made its appearance on the Sea Island beach just last summer. Now there are eight, and it is a sight worth coming a distance to see, to watch those graceful little craft go skimming over the five mile beach at 40 miles an hour. They have bright colored sails and each has three wheels and double seats. Nowadays, since Jekyll Island's privacy has become less limited than it used to be, guests at the Cloister sometimes are invited to golf tournaments on the neighboring island. The Jekyll Island club was founded in 1886 by 100 of the country's wealthiest men. Until recently is was so exclusive that no one except the members and their families and a few of their friends ever had seen it from the inside looking out. Any one who passed in a boat could look in, but they did not see much except the dock. A handsome dock it is, too, for it is fairly new.

The clubhouse adjoining, and the 10 or 12 private homes on the island, all are in the Rococco style of architecture and decoration that was fashionable in the late 80s. The children and grandchildren of the original members probably do not care as much for complete isolation and "gay 90s" surroundings and entertainment as their elders, so this year Jekyll is perking up and even sending news releases to the daily newspapers in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, and the few other cities in which its members live, to awaken new interest in the club. Vanderbilts, Bakers, Morgans, Rockefellers, Goulds, Astors, and Hills were included in the charter membership, and so were the Armours and Cranes of Chicago. Robert A. Gardner of Chicago is one of the most active members now.

Jekyll and St. Simons are two of the six large, off shore islands on the Georgia coast known as "the golden isles of Guale." For nearly four centuries these islands have been making history and romance. It was the Spanish who named them, but long before they came the Creek Indians lived on the isles. The French and the English flags have flown over them, too, and also the flag of the confederate states of America, so residents are right when they claim that the flags of five nations have waved in the sea breezes that sweep the island. For many years after the civil war the islands were mainly hunting grounds, as they were in Indian days.

• • •

Shortly before Jekyll was purchased as a club, Thomas Carnegie bought the greater part of Cumberland Island, and his family still has several homes and a great game preserve there. Sapeloe was acquired by the late Howard E. Coffin of Detroit in 1911, and now is the property of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Ossabaw is a great game preserve and winter home of Dr. H. N. Torrey of Detroit, and St. Catherine's is the property of Mr. and Mrs. Clement M. Keys of New York. St. Simons, consequently, is the only one open to the public.

There is a large cottage colony on Sea Island and all of its members spend a great deal of time at the Cloister, which is the center of social life on the island. The Charles Tilts of Chicago, who several years ago built one of the most attractive houses here, have sold it, so now there are no Chicagoans in the colony. There are many who come to the Cloister often, however, and some who have been here every spring since the hotel opened in 1928.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley is arriving next Tuesday to be here until the middle of April. Her daughters, Miss Eleanor McClurg and Subdeb Barbara McClurg, will be with her for part of the month. The Henry P. Ishams arrived yesterday and the Kenneth Templetons will come on the 21st.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Cabbage Palm Is Attraction in Sarasota

By Marian Hobson.

Long before Florida became a winter oasis, a place to be treated with a certain romantic nicety, some one named one of the state's most beautiful native trees the cabbage palm. That's because the tree's heart may be eaten much like cabbage.

SARASOTA, FLA.

There are thousands of cabbage palms in the Sarasota area, but only one set of twin cabbage palms, as far as horticulturists hereabouts know. The twin palms are at the entrance to the John M. Tuttles' garden, one of the 10 visited during the garden club's fifth annual motorcade on Wednesday. The rare plant has two cabbage palms growing from a single base.

Carrying their interest in gardening from their Chicago home to Sarasota Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle have a number of unusual flowers and shrubs in the gardens of their Bay Island home. One is a Japanese yew of unusual dimensions, quite tall, and fascinating with its lighter new foliage against its dark green older foliage.

Long known to Chicago friends of the Potter Palmers are the gardens of the Oaks, another of the beautiful places visited. Motorcading garden lovers also saw the homes and gardens of the Misses Everts and Whitney on Siesta Key, of the C. A. Woods in McClellan Park, of the Charles N. Edges on Starmand's Key; the Dr. Fred Albee garden at Nokomis, the Powell Crosley, the John Ringling, and the E. H. McLeod gardens in Indian Beach, and that of Mrs. Alexander Eastman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Caples, longtime residents of Sarasota, formerly of Chicago, entertained at their attractive water front home in Indian Beach Tuesday evening for Peter Arno, the New York caricaturist. Among the guests were Edward W. Beattie Jr., who left Wednesday night to return to war correspondence in England; Mr. and Mrs. John Ringling North, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ringling North, Mrs. John J. Pelley of Chicago and of Washington, D. C., Mrs. George Cullen, formerly of Chicago, now residing at Glendale, Cal., Dr. E. W. Pinkham, Helen and Dorothy Andrus, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. Lawrence, formerly of Flossmoor.

Miss Edith Peter, dark eyed brunette daughter of the E. E. Peters of Chicago, doubled for Hernando de Soto's legendary daughter in one of the events of last week's pageant of Sara de Sota, the six day Sarasota fiesta. As "Sara" she, with Jack "Zip" Halton, who became Hernando, landed at the Sarasota city pier in a seaplane to launch officially the beginning of the pageant celebration.

Mrs. Frank Binz Jr., the former Miss Helen Barry, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Barry and a sister of Mrs. Harold Burnham of Flossmoor, will continue as president of the woman's club of Sarasota for another year. She was reelected the other day. Mrs. Athol Marcus of Hammond, Ind., will be one of her directors.

Mrs. May Jenner Mathias of Chicago is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chellus, Sarasota winter residents from Chicago, and of Mrs. Ira Jones of Sarasota. The Sherman Tracys dropped into the city this week for a visit with their Chicago friends, and are staying at the Orange Blossom hotel.

The engagement of Miss Patricia Bate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montague Bate of Montreal, Canada, to Lieut. Robert Dynely Prince of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dynely Prince of Sarasota, has been announced. Miss Bate is a granddaughter of Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, former lieutenant governor of Quebec. Lieut. Prince, grandson of Prof. John Dynely Prince of Columbia university, former American minister to Denmark and Jugo-Slavia, and Mrs. Prince of Ringwood Manor, N. J., attended the Fay and Groton schools, Montclair High school and Columbia university. He is a nephew by marriage of James Speyer and a cousin of Representative James J. Wadsworth, Mrs. Landon K. Thorne, and Alfred L. Loomis of New York. The wedding is to take place in April in Montreal.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

[What does the word Chicago mean? We are usually told that it means "strong" or "wild onion." Col. H. A. Musham, student of Chicago history, has another and much prettier explanation. We are printing this today.]

* *

The Meaning of Chicago.

Anybody at all familiar with Indian names knows the difficulty of tracking down their real meaning. Anybody who has carried out a reconnaissance of a wilderness knows how difficult it is to extract accurate information concerning the country from native sons, even tho he and they both know something of each other's language.

When the first Frenchman arrived at the mouth of our river, there were no signboards to tell them where they were nor Chamber of Commerce committees to greet them. The first question asked of the first native son encountered was: "What place is this?" To which, mystified by these strange pale faces, he responded with a succession of guttural, gargling grunts, sounding like "Tsjchigong." This being too much, even for Frenchmen, they shortened and softened it into "Checagou."

Now explorers are prone to identify a place with what they see there. Wild onions and wild garlic grew in profusion along the river banks and in the woods. A skunk may have been seen, or one of the party may have had an unpleasant experience with one. Further, the lake shore may have smelled strongly from the fish decaying there. Checagou, to these men, therefore, became "the place of the wild onion," or "the place of the big smell" or "the place of the skunk," regardless of what the real name of the place may have been.

As the years passed, Checagou was spelled in many ways, in fact, as many as its recorders. During the last century, students of Indian lore, noting the similarity of the first two syllables, Chi and ca, to the Chippewa word, jigag or shekaug, meaning skunk, or to other words that meant wild onion or wild garlic, announced dogmatically that Chicago did mean skunk, wild onion or wild garlic, which some interpreted to mean "strong," "powerful." Others contended that this was not so and produced almost as many origins as there were spellings. As the old timers crossed the last portage, the wild onion, garlic or skunk theory was left in possession of the field. A new generation of writers, not so careful in using its source material, pounced upon it and used it with telling effect in casting scorn and derision on the city.

If this theory is correct, why are there not more Chicagos scattered thruout the country of the Algonquin family of Indianas? Wild onions and garlic grew and skunks thrived in other places than around the head of Lake Michigan. Further, if Chicago means "place of a big smell," why was not Green Bay known to the Indians as Chicago Bay? According to Marquette, that place had a most offensive odor. Examine the map and you will find only one place named Chicago, and few that approach it in spelling. The nearest to it is Chisago, a lake and county in eastern Minnesota which also comes from the Chippewa tongue. Its aboriginal form was Kichisaga, kichi meaning large, and saga, meaning lovely. Could not Chicago have been the shortened form of Kichisaga and have meant large and lovely, just as well as Chisago? Both places have beautiful lakes.

It is further held that Chicago came from the name of a powerful chief of the Michigamea Illinois, Chicagou by name. There was a chief of this name and there were others with names very similar. Now all chiefs consider themselves powerful, but it is rather difficult to imagine a great warrior going about with the name, Chief Wild Onion, Chief Skunk, or Chief with a Big Smell. Even the papooses would snicker on beholding him. It would be a serious affront to his dignity and Indian chiefs were nothing if not dignified. Chief Checagou went on a mission to the court of France with Father Beaubois, S. J., in 1724, and the ladies made much of him. It is not likely that these beauties would have been much interested in an Indian chief with an unpleasantly significant name.

Chicago, in its many variations, is the name applied on the early maps to a wide belt of territory around the head of Lake Michigan. It is also found on the Mississippi, Ohio, Illinois, and Des Plaines rivers. The outstanding features of this Checagou land are Lake Michigan and the portages. The Indians liked to travel, as all Americans do. Is it not reasonable to assume that they identified Chicago with the big lake and the portages?

The case is strengthened when we compare Checagou with Chequamegon, the name of a Lake Superior bay. This is said, in its early recordings, to mean a long, narrow strip of land running into a body of water. Note the jagaw in the word.

An examination of the great central lowland shows several names beginning with Missi, Michi or Meche, all of which have some connection with water as Michigan, big lake; Michipicoton, big cape; Mississippi, big water, or Father of Waters; Missouri, big muddy. Preface Chicago with Me or Mi and you have Mechicago or Michicago. It would have been an easy matter for the early French to miss the Me or Mi. Very few of them tarried here long and the name Chicago was accepted without question. This idea is suported by the fact that there was a Chief Mechekegie here during the war of independence. Drop the Me and you have Chekegie, almost Checagou.

These suggested origins for the word Chicago are speculative, but the speculations are based on actual physical features of the region and not on a supposed similarity of sound heard under unknown conditions. It is hardly possible that Chicago means wild onion, or skunk. It is more likely that it is a corruption of a longer name that had a meaning connected with water, such as "The Place of the Big Lake" or even "The Place Where the Waters Meet." Or it may be of pre-Indian origin. Look at the maps. See how many places, from Labrador to Cape Horn, have names beginning with Chi or Cha. It is worth further investigation. H. A. MUSHAM.

Tourist Sees Sugar and More Sugar in Peru

By Mason Warner.

CALLAO, PERU.

There is a nine foot tide at Guayaquil and we sailed at high tide, 5 p. m. Result: The ship's speed down the river was 25 miles an hour, aided by the ebbing tide and the river current, and with our Diesel engines pushing along.

We arrived at Pimental, in northern Peru, at 6 p. m. the following day, where we added sugar to our mixed cargo, tons of it, in big bags. Then we sailed for Eten, another small port, where we took on more sugar, tons of it, in big bags. The next morning we cast anchor at Chicanta, another port not shown on an ordinary map. There we took on still more sugar, tons of it, in big bags.

Our short stay at Eten was brightened by the visit of a score of Peruvian girls who came aboard to look over the ship and purchase chocolates, candy bars, chewing gum, cigarets, etc. They were a lively, chattering group, well acquainted with the use of modern cosmetics.

The cold Humboldt current flowing from the Antarctic tempered the heat of the sun in equatorial latitudes, and the three day voyage [with stops] from Guayaquil to Callao, down South America's west coast, was a pleasant one.

The high Andes mountains were too far inland to be seen from the ship, but the continent's edge was made up of chains of barren, bleak, forbidding hills, with not a tree, shrub, nor blade of grass to relieve their bald monotony, except where a mountain stream meandered thru a valley between the hills to reach the sea. There were weary miles of sand and rocks between these streams.

The river borders were fertile, and every inch of productive soil was intensely cultivated. Native huts clustered adjacent to the rivers, as far upstream as the flowing waters filtered their moisture to the thirsty land. A sharp line defined the boundary of land capable of growing anything. Beyond that line was only lifeless sand. So frugal of the green ground were the natives that their huts and pathways were built on the sand, thus saving all possible area for gardens and fields. These Indian villages are isolated, for there are no roads, only a few trails, in this country, and travel and transport are limited to canoes and small boats along the coast.

Sailing down the Pacific coast of South America affords so many interesting sights, scenes, and incidents that one is disinclined to leave the deck and go below, even to dine. One noon we sighted three whales spouting in the cold current at a distance of three or four miles from the ship. The jets of water were not thrown so high as some passengers had expected them to be. Pictures they had seen, evidently by artists with tendencies to exaggerate, had led them to expect a more spectacular exhibition.

Flocks of stumpy, heavy bodied gulls with raucous cries accompanied the ship, graceful in the air but clumsy on the water's surface.

Some islands were resting places for guano birds, so numerous at a distance that they looked like thick, black vegetable growths covering the rocks, and in flight many thousands of birds flying close together resembled compact, dark clouds.

While the ship took on cargo at the sugar ports, cormorants diving for fish afforded diversion from watching the Indian freight handlers. The handlers worked silently in a dull, routine manner, with no singing nor chattering to lighten the heavy labor.

The cormorants soared in large circles 100 feet above the water. Suddenly one would point downward with a change in direction from horizontal to perpendicular as sudden as if the winging bird had been stopped by a death-dealing bullet. So swift was the swoop, so perfect the dive, that scarcely a ripple was caused on the surface of the water. In an instant up would come the cormorant—and the fish.

We arrived at Callao, chief port of Peru and the gateway to Lima, early in the evening but too late to go ashore, for the immigration and customs officials had closed their offices and gone home. After 13 nights aboard ship since sailing from New York, an added night was not welcome, but there was nothing to do except make the best of the situation.

The harbor looked businesslike and inviting. Eight steamships and four fine big sailing vessels were at anchor; one with four masts, the others three each. So again I took pleasure in noting that sailing ships have not been forced off the seas.

The sole topic of discussion among passengers that evening was the Peruvian passport regulations and customs. Everybody going ashore checked passport visas, health and vaccination certificate, police certificate of good character, and statement of financial resources indicating sufficient funds to leave the country.

"Good night" admonitions from the purser: "Be prepared to open all your trunks and handbags for customs inspection. Examination will be complete and thoro. And don't attempt to take in any matches—not one. Throw away any you have. Matches are a government monopoly. If you are caught striking a foreign made match, the penalty is 25 sols [approximately $5, United States]. Cigar lighters are taxed $5 a year. If you carry a lighter go to the police and procure a license to use it."

Nipigon Promises Five Pound Trout

Thousands of "five pound plus" speckled trout will be awaiting anglers in the streams of the Nipigon forest reserve of northern Ontario this spring. The biggest speckled trout ever caught in Nipigon waters—north of Long Lac—weighed 14½ pounds.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

TRUE OR FALSE?

Chicago, March 1.—To the Travel Editor: The other day I read this item in the Polish Daily News:

"About six miles from Moncton, New Brunswick, Canada, there is a queer and intriguing phenomenon known as 'The Magnetic Hill.' For years it was referred to as 'the place where the water runs uphill.' Otherwise, little attention was paid to it. Then somebody discovered a strange game to play on it.

"Here is the procedure: Drive to a point now marked by a white post. Stop there, shift gears to neutral, and turn off the ignition. In no time at all you're off. Up the hill you go, gathering momentum as you climb. When your car finally comes to a stop on the crest, look down at the post from which you started. Then try to coast back to it. You'll find it can't be done. Plenty of gasoline is needed to get you there.

"The more inquisitive, casting about for a suitable explanation, believe that the deposits of iron that lie under the hill exert force on an auto and draw it up by magnetism. Hence the name. But everybody likes to advance his own theory as to the true explanation. There are many such theories, but so far no official and authentic explanation has been offered."

Can you verify the story? If not, can any of your readers? If so, what is the real cause of the phenomenon?

ALEXANDER TRYBA,
3819 South Winchester avenue.

[Editor's Note: There is a similar tourist attraction near Los Angeles, and, as we recall it, nearby is a sign telling how old-time Indians ascribed it to magnetism. Scientists scoff at the idea. They say California's so-called Magnetic hill is merely an optical illusion. Perhaps some of our readers would care to send in their theories regarding the one in New Brunswick.]

Belleair, Fla., Busy at Golf and Swimming

BELLEAIR, FLA.

Golf, skeet, and swimming will hold the spotlight on the sports calendar for the coming week at Belleair. Following the Belleair Open golf championship, and the annual women's championship, which has been making news on all the sports pages, the annual Belleview men's amateur golf championship will get under way here tomorrow.

A swimming meet will be held in the Belleview Biltmore outdoor swimming pool today and, starting tomorrow and Tuesday, the annual Belleair skeet tournament will be held.

Chicagoans continue to come to Belleair, where the arrival of spring marks it the height of the season. Registering at the Belleview Biltmore this week were Mr. and Mrs. Stuart J. Templeton of Lake Forest, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Grace, Mrs. E. H. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore, and Charles Daniel Frey, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cunliff of Glenview, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Burton Smith of Winnetka, Mrs. Robert Macdonald, and Mrs. John P. Bent of Lake Forest, and W. M. Dandy and Donald Dixon of Chicago.

• • •

Mrs. C. Robert O. Boyle and her daughter, Nancy Boyle, of Evanston, Ill., will visit her grandmother, Mrs. Robert O. Law, at her Belleair winter residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Schlotman entertained at dinner this week at Bigonia cottage in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wilson of Chicago. Mr. Wilson was the former ambassador to Belgium.

The George McLaughlins of Chicago, with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Whipple and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Winters of New York, formerly of Chicago, are virtually inseparable, and wherever they go, whether it be the Belleair Surf club or the west lounge in the hotel, their backgammon board always is there.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Simmons and her parents, the Benjamin H. Marshalls, have departed in their de luxe trailer for parts north.

• • •

Another winter visitor was Walter Hagen, who was here brushing up on his golf in preparation for a trip to Nassau, where he will put on an exhibition match with Bobby Jones, Tommy Armour, and Gene Sarazen for the benefit of the Bahamas Red Cross. The duke of Windsor, who cordially invited Hagen to play there with his three cronies, will referee the golf match. It was the duke who presented Hagen with the British Open golf championship trophy 20 years ago, and we can bet the cameras will be clicking in Nassau this week-end.

Great Smokies Set New Travel Record for National Parks

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—The Great Smoky Mountains National park which in 1929 set a record for the number of visitors entering any national park in the country last year surpassed that figure by almost 100,000 persons.

The park, which runs along the ridges of the lofty southern Appalachians, chalked up a total of 267,789 vehicles carrying an estimated 860,960 persons. Tennessee came first with the largest number of visitors, 283,613; Ohio, second, with 95,992; North Carolina, third, with 89,866. Next in line was Illinois, with Indiana and Georgia following closely. Every state in the Union was represented.

Completion of the Blue Ridge parkway, which will connect the Shenandoah National park with the Smokies, is expected to bring a great increase of visitors to what is already America's favorite park.

"DOES A PIANO COST A LOT, DADDY?"

THE answer to this question is virtually whatever you want to pay if you take advantage of the opportunities described in the Musical Instruments column of the Tribune want ad section.

If you are thinking of starting your children in music, here is your chance to get a good used instrument at a price well below its original cost. And since age and playing often improve tonal quality, many of these instruments are remarkably fine values. Review the Musical Instruments column now and see for yourself how little a truly fine piano, violin, accordion, or other musical instrument costs.

"NO MORE FOUR-THIRTY FATIGUE"

"I can do much more work on this machine."

Have you ever stopped to figure how much time is lost by correcting and retyping work done on a rattle-trap machine? Or how many steps are wasted tending poorly lighted, poorly placed, inadequate files?

Look over your office now with a view to increasing its efficiency. Then watch the Typewriters and Supplies and the Office Equipment and Devices columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Modern light fixtures, desks, file cabinets, calculating and bookkeeping machines and many other items to step up the working efficiency of the office are offered at special prices in these columns. It will pay you to review them now.

"KEEP YOUR SHIRT ON, SON!"

"Those orders will go out today if we have to use bicycles."

When rush orders come in, it is well to know where you can pick up extra trucks in a hurry.

One of the best places in town is the Tribune want ad section. In the Motor Trucks column you will find a variety of offers of used trucks ranging from light delivery up to heavy duty types at special prices.

If you prefer to rent delivery vehicles, you will be interested in the Autos, Trucks to Rent column. Let these listings help you solve your emergency delivery problems.

"TELL HIM WE'RE SENDING REILLY"

"He has specialized on those jobs."

Today's expanding industrial activity is creating new opportunities for trained men. Are you preparing yourself to advance into the bigger jobs?

You can get the preparation you need by selecting one of the regular or short courses of specialized training for men and women which you will find described in the Instruction, Trade Schools, Musical and Dramatic and Dressmaking and Millinery Schools columns of the Tribune want ad section.

IS REAL ESTATE A BUY?

Real estate has founded many great fortunes. If you are looking for sound opportunities to invest in real estate, follow the real estate columns in the Tribune want ad section. Because the Tribune prints more real estate want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined, it is your most comprehensive guide to market values and trends.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

Surf Club at Miami Holds a Fiesta Party

By Clarissa Greene.

End of the season's elaborate entertaining was marked last night when the Surf club went "south of the border" with a fiesta of Mexico. The Herman Friestedts, Mrs. James Macalear and Mrs. Dorothy Walsh of Chicago were among the 50 guests at a dinner the Harry L. Vaughans gave Thursday night at the club.

MIAMI, FLA.

Wednesday will see the last of the regular fashion show luncheons at the club, and Thursday night will witness the passing of the informal Thursday night dinners. The annual Easter dinner will be held on March 22 instead of at Easter time, due to the lateness of that religious holiday. The pools and cabanas at all of the membership clubs will remain open in April and May.

The Christian A. Hansens of Chicago, aboard their yacht Entre Nous, will be among the welcoming flotilla which will greet the Janirve II., new yacht of the Irving J. Reuters of Detroit, recently launched in the Potomac. The Reuters' friends, aboard their own craft, will cruise up the inland waterway, probably to Palm Beach, to extend greeting to the new yacht, in accordance with one of Miami's happy customs. The Reuters went to Washington during the last week to take possession of the new member of Miami's yacht colony.

The Miami Civic Music association will close its most successful and brilliant season tomorrow night with the appearance of Erica Morini, Viennese violinist. All seats for the 1941-'42 season are sold, the association has announced. All but 5 per cent of the membership renewed subscriptions immediately the books were opened on March 1. A long and disappointed waiting list noted the new record in renewals.

Next year's parade of artists will include Kirsten Flagstad, Ezio Pinza, the Don Cossacks, Dalies Frantz in joint recital with the Salzedo concert ensemble, and last on the list is the two piano team, Bartlett and Robertson, in joint recital with Kerstin Thorberg, Metropolitan contralto. The series is open to members only, and widespread regret is expressed that Miami lacks adequate music hall capacity.

Many Miami friends will greet Mrs. Francesca Falk Miller, second national vice president, who will be among arrivals from Chicago for the national conclave of the League of American Pen Women, meeting in Coral Gables March 16 to 22. A celebrity breakfast, art luncheon, radio dinner and program, an evening of one act plays by University of Miami students, a poetry session, awards and sightseeing trips are planned for the league's entertainment.

The Hewett Browns and the Theodor S. Garys were among guests of Mrs. James Atwater, here with her daughter, Mrs. George F. Getz Jr., in her Flamingo cottage, when she entertained yesterday at Tropical Park at luncheon in the club house and later to watch the races. Mrs. James C. Cox of Chicago also was in the party. Mrs. Atwater makes her home in Chicago's Drake hotel.

The Garys and Browns were guests on the Alberto Santos' yacht Wednesday for luncheon and a cruise down the bay and among the Keys. Mrs. Gary's sister, Mrs. Herbert Jenkins of Louisville, entertained for the group at the Everglades club in Palm Beach and to inspect the new beach house which the Jenkinses have just completed. Their "other house" will be started during the coming week.

• • •

Mrs. Philip Mayer of Chicago and her sister, Mrs. John Bitter, wife of the director of the University of Miami symphony orchestra, are spending their days in a study of the Seminole Indian, of whose life, religion and ideals there is but little authentic information available. Illustrating and photography are being combined with their writings. Interspersed with their research they have found time for swimming, concerts and parties. An al fresco "backyard barbecue" Wednesday night at the Bitter home on beautiful Alhambra Circle in Coral Gables brought together a large group of friends. Mrs. Gardner Cox of Boston, who visited Chicago many times as Phyllis Byrne, will arrive this week to visit at the Bitter home.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney of New York and Mrs. Barron Collier, wife of the man who was outstanding among developers of west Florida, will arrive shortly at the Everglades hotel on the Bay front.

Bermuda Prepares for Spring Harvest

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—Millions of Easter lily plants are rising thru the rich Bermuda soil these days, giving answer to the query of the snowbound lands, "If winter comes can spring be far behind?"

As Americans "dig in" for a season of frost and snow, farmers thruout the coral isles are preparing for their "white harvest" at Eastertide.

There is more than usual activity among Bermuda lily bulb growers this year, because the European and Asiatic conflicts have curtailed shipments of bulbs from these areas to the United States. Eugene Outerbridge, who produces more lilies than any other Bermudian, has enlarged his fields by planting Cooper's Island.

Known in legend as the home of buried treasure, this picturesque island has lain fallow for more than 30 years. It will now produce millions of cut flowers and bulbs for the American trade.

Havana Carnival Reaches Climax Early in April

HAVANA, Cuba.—Highlight of Havana's carnival, now in full swing, is the Sunday celebration of the "comparsas." These promenaders and dancers in native dress are followed by team groups, chanting folklore songs and waving maracas. In the early evening Havana's fun loving populace and the tourists gravitate to the Prado to witness the spectacle.

The usual Lenten rigor is not observed on Sundays. So carnival participants spend the day arranging their brightly lighted exhibits. Carloads of women and children in costume form a cordon that stretches the length of the Prado. Bands play while automobiles filled with masked señoritas toss confetti to the crowd.

Climax of the weekly "comparsas" will be held April 5, when special lighting arrangements are featured thruout the city. On that evening fireworks of Cuban origin will be displayed from the roof of the Hotel Nacional de Cuba.

Garden Pilgrimage in North Carolina

RALEIGH, N. C.—North Carolina will usher in spring with its fourth state-wide garden pilgrimage, beginning on the coast on March 28, and moving westward with the advancing season to the finale in the mountains on May 29.

Azaleas in the lower Cape Fear country will be the opening attraction. The Wilmington Garden club will be host to garden lovers March 26 to 29 and estates will be open to visitors.

In driving thru Birmingham, Ala., this winter I noticed, atop a mountain overlooking the city, a huge statue, apparently made of iron. Can you tell me what is its significance?—W. Y.

One of the world's largest metal statues, it is a likeness of Vulcan and symbolizes Birmingham's iron and steel industry. From its stone base it rises 180 feet above a little park on the mountain top. An inside stairway leads to an observation platform from which the whole countryside may be viewed.
